Alcohol a Factor in 85 Percent of CYA Sentences

TEEN-AGE DRINKING A GRAVE PERIL

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON

(Last in a series)

Terri, like many alcoholics, started tipping the bottle in her early teens.

She doesn't remember just when. Things were pretty hazy in those days. Maybe she was 14, maybe 15.

At any rate, she was young—young enough, in fact, so that when she entered college, Terri was well on the road to alcoholism.

* * * *

THE DAUGHTER of middle-class, midwestern parents — both alcoholics — Terri believes her "really serious drinking" began when she was 16.

That was when her mother, who had just celebrated her first birthday with Alcoholics Anonymous (one year of sobriety), decided it wouldn't hurt to take "just one more drink" . . .

But it did.

She died the next day in an alcoholic convulsion.

* * * *

TERRI'S college days were a blur of books, booze and bennies.

At the dorm, she hid bottles in the wastebasket, under the mattress, in her bureau drawers. Nips kept her going; the right pills, she found, brought school books into focus when they were too blurry.

With bennies and brains, persistence and personality, she managed to win her teaching credential. But she had lost friends, reputation and self-respect.

* * * *

TO GET away from fading friends and fretting family (who had marked her off as "no good"), she headed for California, subsequently Long Beach.

Like most alcoholics, she thought a change of place would change the pace.

It didn't.

Attractive and possessing superintelligence, she did manage to land a teaching job. But her progressive disease — alcoholism — kept her from making the grade.

The pills helped. But her thirst for liquor became so overpowering that, to use her own words, "by the end of the day, all the children's heads began to take on the shape of half-gallon bottles."

* * * *

She recalls: "I found some of my kind of people in Belmont Shore — the kind who make a career of bars, drink around the clock, then sober up, only to start drinking again.

"Months staggered by. Before long, I'd been thrown out of every bar in the area. They said I didn't act ladylike—that it wasn't ladylike to fall off bar stools, to be given sobriety tests by policemen on street corners, to end up in strange places with strange people."

Then came the inevitable: drawn window shades . . . telephone calls that went unanswered . . . nightmares of hangovers, blackouts and broken promises . . . food that went untouched . . . the uncontrollable craving for a drink, another drink and another, then . . .

Oblivion.

* * * *

LUCKILY for Terri, she found one road back. It was long, tortuous, fraught with despair. But she made it.

She hasn't had a drink in two years.

TORRANCE PAIR OFF DUTY

Women's $1,700 Grabbed

Two off-duty Torrance police officers who allegedly grabbed a moneybag containing $1,700 from two women store clerks were caught after a wild, shot-punctuated chase through South Los Angeles Saturday night.

While one of the suspects was being handcuffed he unsuccessfully tried to shoot one of his captors with a gun concealed in a hip pocket.

* * * *

THE ACTION began when the clerks, Nancy Sananiego, 17, and Eileen Thibodeau, 39, both of Los Angeles and employes of a dress shop at 8310 S. Vermont Ave., were about to place the bag in a night depository at the Security First National Bank branch at 84th Street and Vermont Avenue.

A slowly moving car pulled up to the women, they told officers, "and a blond man jumped out and grabbed the (canvas) bag."

As the holdup men sped away, a Los Angeles prowl car assigned to another mission drove by and the women were able to point at the escaping car and say, "That car right there just robbed us!"

* * * *

LOS ANGELES Officers R. L. Funk and L. E. Tietgen gave chase south on Vermont, pulling up to the getaway car near 106th Street. Tietgen said he fired several times before the civilian car's left rear tire was flattened.

One suspect jumped from the car and dashed into a sidestreet, only to be captured by other pursuers. He later was identified as Robert W. Keith, 26, of 2179 Sepulveda Blvd., a

UNHAPPY ABOUT HOME LOAN BANK'S CURBS

L.B. Federal Savings Investors Vote Merger With Equitable

By ROBERT HEARD

Few seemed to be happy with it, but more than 1,000 shareholders of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association Saturday approved a controversially restrictive plan to merge with Equitable Savings.

The merger could give Long Beach Federal shareholders a $9.4-million bonus, but the restrictions placed on the distribution of the bonus by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board were endorsed only because there was no other way to get the board's approval of the merger.

The merger would place L.B.F.S.&L. under Equitable's state charter and beyond the jurisdiction of the federal board which twice has seized Long Beach Federal.

THE SEIZURES WERE characterized by congressional investigating committees as "arbitrary, capricious and reprehensible," and each time spurred depositors to withdraw tens of millions of dollars.

Thomas A. Gregory, president of Long Beach Federal, Saturday explained to the shareholders the federal board's sweeping authority to approve or veto a merger, and he outlined the board's announced restrictions:

The board insists that no shareholder should participate in excess of $10,000 above the value of his account on April 22, 1960 (the date of the board's second seizure of the firm).

The federal board had charged that some depositors had come into Long Beach Federal with large sums, often borrowed, after the seizure in anticipation of the merger and bonus.

MANY OF THE late depositors came in because they were personal friends of Gregory and they wanted to help him build his firm back up from the low point it reached after, and because of, the board's seizure.

Gregory told the shareholders the bank board demanded the restrictions before it would approve the merger even though, by admission of board officials in testimony before congressional committees, it does not have authority to discriminate in any manner among shareholders.

Approval of the merger plan by the shareholders does not prevent them from individually contesting in court the federal board's restrictions, Gregory said.

The $9.4-million bonus includes $6.4 million in Long Beach Federal reserves and a $3-million payment by Equitable for Long Beach Federal's goodwill.

The bonus will be distributed in the form of stock and is equivalent to about 13 percent of Long Beach Federal's total savings accounts. Equitable stock is valued on the open market at about $12 a share.

MARINES WILL TRAIN COAST GUARD UNITS

By BILL BROOM
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Camp Pendleton Marines soon will begin training Coast Guardsmen in guerrilla warfare as part of a new program aimed at strengthening the nation's defenses against spies and saboteurs.

The Independent, Press-Telegram learned exclusively Saturday that the first such class will start a 30-day course at Pendleton sometime this summer.

* * * *

A SPOKESMAN at Coast Guard headquarters here said only volunteers will be accepted because the course will be "extremely strenuous —physically and mentally."

Graduates will be assigned to special "Coastal Force" units. These are reserve outfits whose mission is to augment port-security units the Coast Guard now has organized. The units would be activated only in event of mobilization.

The Coastal Force program is an outgrowth of last year's Cuban crisis. It was determined then that the nation's coastlines could be infiltrated with relative ease by foreign agents.

Organization of units and training still is in the pilot and planning stage. The first class of specialists is in training at Camp Lejeune, N.C. Pendleton will be the training base for all West Coast units.

The first two Coastal Force units in California are being organized at Santa Barbara and Bakersfield. They will be manned by Coast Guard reservists who have completed six months of active duty and who must now serve in stand-by status for eight years.

After completing basic training, volunteers for the Marine Corps training course will be put through a special physical toughening. After 30 days of individual training at Pendleton in hand-to-hand combat, night fighting, guerrilla tactics and similar skills, they will go into the Coastal Force units.

Not all members of the units will be so trained, but it is expected that a "substantial percentage" of them will be.

The Coastal Force units would be activated only in the event of mobilization, Coast Guard headquarters said. Their main purpose would be to prevent agents from coming in along deserted shorelines. Eventually, "quite a number" of the units will be formed in California.

Crabs Flaunt Flag at Fidel

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hundreds of crabs with United States flags painted on their shells invaded a Cuban city recently, an exile organization reported Saturday.

The incident occurred in Cardenas, Matanzas Province, said Dr. Luis Conte Aguero, president in exile of Sentinels of Liberty, an underground group.

He said it was the people's response to a speech there in which Fidel Castro announced elimination of 14 rebel groups.

NAACP BRANCH REPORT:

School Meets Make Progress

Eight areas in which there is need for exchange of views and development of mutually acceptable policy and practices have been identified by the Education Committee of the Long Beach branch of the Association for the Advancement of Colored People and representatives of the Long Beach Unified School District.

"We have been meeting for the past six months and are making progress," according to Aaron Harrington, chairman of the Education Committee of the NAACP. "Some problems are being solved almost immediately, but others will require long-range planning and effort."

"We are definitely convinced, however, that there exists genuine sincerity on the part of both NAACP and school representatives in this cooperative effort," Harrington said.

THE EIGHT AREAS under current study are:

1. Personnel hiring, assignments and transfer procedures.
2. In-service training of teachers.
3. Publicizing of school district job opportunities.
4. Counseling services.
5. Motivation of youth toward better academic achievement and toward the development of marketable skills.
6. School district plans for education of culturally disadvantaged youth.
7. Youth canteen programs and policies.
8. Building student body unity in racially mixed schools.

School officials said that meetings will continue to be held with the NAACP education committee in the months ahead and that progress reports will be made from time to time.

Glenn May Seek Senate as Demo

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) —Astronaut John H. Glenn may resign from the space program to run as a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate from his native Ohio next year, informed Democratic sources said Saturday.

The plan to put Glenn into the race was seen as a move to strengthen President Kennedy's hand in Ohio, which he lost in 1960, and to give the party a strong candidate against the Republican nominee expected to be U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr.

Informed sources said the plan depends in part upon whether Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young, a surprise winner in 1958, decides to run for re-election.

Party leaders would be reluctant to put a candidate into the field against Young, who is in his 70s. Young has kept silent about his plans.

Word that Democratic national party leaders were checking quietly in Ohio on Glenn's eligibility as a candidate caught leaders of both parties by surprise. The Marine colonel's civil-

Fire on Train Destroys Mail

L.A.C. Says: Watching the Pennies

Some of the wealthiest men in the nation are often charged with being the greatest penny watchers. Some of these men have given hundreds of millions of dollars to charities. But they are almost penurious when it comes to their personal expenditures. This is because they know the importance of planning and watching the pennies or nickels. It is a trait millions of families would be wise to emulate in their own financial problems.

It brings to mind some of the old sayings which I believe in. One is: "A capitalist can afford to be a philanthropist—but capital never can." This means that a person with substantial surplus capital is a capitalist. He can afford to spend or distribute this money as he desires. But capital represents investments which should only be used for sound investments. It is a cold thing that must be watched with the greatest care. It must make a profit if there is to be surplus for charity and gifts to others. It cannot afford to be careless as concerns its use.

This applies equally to the home budget. The young people who take on unnecessary expenditures beyond the capital they have accumulated are destroying that capital. When they assume debts that eat up their weekly paychecks they are destroying the chance of saving money and accumulating capital. But, if they prepare and live within a budget they can afford, including some savings, they are on the road to accumulating capital.

Another old saying is: "Watch out for the nickels and the dollars will take care of themselves." This means that every individual should take a look at the many small expenditures they make. They will probably find many of them could be saved. Such a habit will be followed when substantial savings are accumulated. But, far too many of us dribble away small sums that produce little satisfaction to us. But they do keep us from accumulating a surplus capital for our old-age protection—medical bills and other emergencies that may arise.

A lot of us keep ourselves in financial distress because we try to keep up with the Joneses. We live beyond our means because we think this keeps up our prestige. Each time we get a pay raise we increase our standard of living. The result is, 10 years later we may have doubled our income. But in many cases we have more than doubled our living standards—a more expensive car—a more expensive home and a more expensive social life.

It is only after we have reached the later years of middle age that we look back and wish we had done a little saving along the way. As we approach retirement we think of how much we would have had had we saved $500 or $1,000 a year. As we look back we see many places we could have saved this amount on pleasures that were short lived. But when we look forward to years of retirement, it is depressing to realize how much more it would mean to us in our remaining years.

Thousands of business enterprises go into bankruptcy each year. Many are inevitable because they served no useful purpose. But many more go broke because the operator ignored the wastefulness that prevailed. Had they looked after the seemingly unimportant small expenditures, they would have operated a more sound operation. But their eyes were on bigger things and they overextended their resources. This applies to the individual family just as it does to the small business. If the same attention had been given to watching the many small expenditures, many of them would find they would be financially solvent, rather than being close to bankruptcy.—L.A.C.

Cabazon Fire Still Uncurbed

CABAZON, Calif. (UPI) — Fast-breaking hot spots whipped by strong winds raged out of control late Saturday in rugged and steep mountain country.

Hand crews were unable to man the east fire line because of the steep terrain. Six planes hit the hot spot with borate solution but it had little effect.

The west fire line of Cabazon Peak was reported holding back the blaze, but the east line and the northern half toward the peak were "still very hot."

By 4:30 p.m. PDT, the blaze had blackened more than 220 acres and was about 70-percent controlled, the State Division of Forestry said.

BARRING unforseen problems, the division said it hoped to have the fire subdued by this morning.

However, the threat of 20-30-mile-an-hour winds hampered fire-fighting operations and prevented airplanes from dropping borate solution effectively.

The fire broke out late Friday on Cabazon Peak near this Riverside County community. The area, heavily covered with brush, had not been burned for many years.

BILLIE JEAN HAILED

Mayor Sends Hope Cable to Net Star

Mayor Edwin W. Wade just dispatched a telegram to "Billie Jean Moffitt, England." He expects it to be delivered, even with that scant address.

"Billie Jean's name must be on the lips of every Englishman by this time," the mayor remarked Saturday.

The 19-year-old Long Beach girl has established herself as the upset queen of tennis. She defeated three seeded players in winning her way to the women's singles finals at Wimbledon against Margaret Smith of Australia.

The telegram said:

"Congratulations on an outstanding performance. Our hopes are with you for success in the finals"—which, weather permitting, will be played Monday.

Boys on Bicycle Hit Truck, One Killed, Other Injured

A Los Alamitos boy, carrying a younger brother on his bicycle, was crushed to death Saturday beneath the wheels of a hay truck.

Officers said that Gerald Lopez, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Lopez, of 10751 Chestnut St., ran into the side of the truck at the intersection of Katella Avenue and Los Alamitos boulevard and fell beneath a rear wheel.

The younger brother, Randall, 8, was reported in good condition in Katella Community Hospital. He suffered a concussion and mangled right hand.

Ben Ormonde, 34, of 12254 E. 213th St., Artesia, driver of the unloaded truck, told investigators he did not see the boys but stopped immediately when he felt a bump. Officers said he was traveling at 10 miles per hour when the accident occurred.

Laguna Arts Fiesta Opens

LAGUNA BEACH (AP) — More than 30,000 people crowded into Laguna Beach Saturday to help the little art colony open the annual festival of arts.

The 38-night presentation of living pictures in the city's outdoor bowl is expected to draw a record crowd this year, because an extra week has been added to the pageant in order to pay for a $25,000 facade added to the entrance of the festival grounds. About 200,000 are expected.

Ready New Session of Legislature

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State lawmakers were gathering in the capital Saturday for a special session of the 1963 legislature that could last a few days or a few months.

It all depended on how Gov. Brown, who ordered the session when his tax program was crushed in the general session, planned to raise new financing for the state.

* * * *

BROWN WAS expected to ask lawmakers to restore $40 million in cuts from education programs and $30 million in pay raises for state employes. But education was the number one problem.

Brown held last minute meetings with advisors to hammer out his proposals for presentation to the reconvened lawmakers at noon Monday, just two weeks after they ended their six-month general session by refusing new finances and adopting a $3.1 billion "skeleton" budget.

In the hours before the lawmakers met, the battle appeared to be between Brown on one side and the GOP strengthened by rebel Democrats on the other. It was the rebels that cast the deciding votes against the Brown "no new tax" plan.

* * * *

THE SLASHES, which came in the Senate at the hands of tightly-knit minority Republicans joined by some key Democrats, eliminated about $104 million in state expenditures.

The Democrats have been for the most part silent the past two weeks while Brown issued statements that his $147 million tax program was defeated by the big business lobby and the Republicans.

Republicans have blamed the defeat on the unpopularity of Brown's plan to accelerate collection of taxes to balance his record $3.2 billion budget proposal. They have been vocal, but the problem of how to raise money for education has tempered their victory cries.

* * * *

THE GOP hurled charges of arm twisting, and later "blackmail," when Brown cut another $9 million, chiefly in aid to higher education, when he signed the budget bill.

Brown promised during the week this would be the number one consideration of the special session.

Brown said he would not ask for an increase in taxes, even with the defeat of his "no new tax" program. But he said he would "take a look at" any new tax bills that passed the session.

Brown Bid for Money Supported

* * * *

SEVERAL important programs, Anderson said, including mental health, education, libraries and crippled children "went down the drain when the legislature . . . failed to enact Gov. Brown's proposed tax reform program."

Gov. Brown has called a special session of the legislature on Monday to work on an augmented budget.

Singling out the $300,000 that Gov. Brown recommended for the new youth conservation program, Anderson said "this program, designed to aid jobless boys who have dropped out of school, would be money well spent."

* * * *

"IT WOULD provide the boys with a small amount of pay while doing much-needed conservation work in forestry camps," he went on. "Their education would be continued at the same time, and certainly some potential local and state government costs resulting from juvenile delinquency would have been averted."

'MORE LAWS NOT ANSWER'

Goldwater Clarifies Stand on Racism in Newport Talk

Sen. Barry Goldwater Saturday called upon President Kennedy to use "moral persuasion" to help solve racial problems.

The Arizona Republican, speaking before a press conference at Newport Beach, said "more laws are not the answer to racial issues and man must realize it is his problem and he must solve it."

He said President Kennedy should "use his powers in morally persuading business, civic and social leaders in the racially strife-torn South to get them to talk over their problems and realize how silly they are."

Goldwater said, however, that "if there is racial violence in the next few months, it will come not in the South but in the Northern cities. The racial problems in the North are ignored, but are much more prevalent than in the South."

Goldwater, the leading potential candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, refused to acknowledge that he will be in the running and described his position as "sitting around, waiting and watching."

He did say that he is not in favor of candidates running in primary elections, and that the nomination "should be fought out during the convention."

"My research indicates very few Presidents have been successful in both the primaries and the presidential election," he said.

SEN. AND MRS. Barry Goldwater cast appraising eyes Saturday upon a 7-pound, 13-ounce girl born Friday to their daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ross, in a Torrance hospital. At left is the baby's father, a surgeon. Dr. and Mrs. Ross have three other children, two girls and a boy.

Goldwater is in Southern California to visit his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ross, who gave birth to her fourth child, a 7-pound, 13-ounce girl, Friday at Little Company of Mary Hospital in Torrance.

Mrs. Ross' husband is a resident surgeon at Harbor General Hospital.

Goldwater said he will return twice more during the summer to Newport Beach, where his wife is vacationing. He leaves Monday for Washington, D. C.

KENNEDY CLAN'S FLEET DEPLOYED

JFK No Kite Flier but He Regains Aplomb as Sailor

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — President Kennedy tired to fly a kite from the stern of his yacht Saturday. He failed.

The kite, bird-shaped and bright yellow, red and black, was soaring about 50 feet above the vessel on lofted by Kennedy's friend, K. Lemoyne Billings. When Billings handed the fishing pole to Kennedy, the kite nosedived into the water.

The Kennedy and Billings apparently were flying the kite for the entertainment of the President's five-year-old daughter, Caroline. She was sitting in the stern of the White House yacht Honey Fitz beside her father.

* * * *

ALSO present were Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, the President's brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, and the First Lady's pet German shepherd, Clipper.

All, including Clipper, watched attentively.

Kennedy had some success later when the Honey Fitz docked and he gave Caroline another display of the seagoing capability of her two-year-old brother's new toy sailboat. The President had commandeered the three-foot vessel, a gift from Italian President Antonio Segni, from his son Friday to watch it from the beach outside his family's "compound" of homes.

White House newsmen and cameramen covering the presidential cruise in chartered boats of their own were unable to watch the latter event. Coast Guardsmen had been ordered to keep the press vessels a half mile from the Kennedy pier, while dozens of other small boats and a sightseeing vessel were allowed in close, and other spectators stood on the beach.

The 92-foot Honey Fitz was one of eight vessels in the Kennedy fleet Saturday. Others were the family-owned Marlin, a 53-foot motor cruiser; Kennedy's 22-foot racing sloop, Victura; the family's speedboat, the "Restovus;" a Coast Guard escort boat, two Secret Service waterjet speedboats and a local police launch.

* * * *

The President's other brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, sailed to the island on the Victura with their sister, Mrs. Eunice Shriver, and a batch of children, there were more than a dozen presidential nephews and nieces here.

The group on the Victura grounded the sailboat and picknicked on the beach. Part of the time, Caroline and Clipper were with them.

Thomas Schippers Scores in Italy

SPOLETO, Italy (AP)—American conductor Thomas Schippers scored a handsome success Saturday night conducting the Orchestra Sicilian of Palermo in Handle's "Messiah" at the Festival of Two Worlds.

The open-air performance in this Umbrian hill town attracted 5,000 persons. They filled the cathedral square to overflowing and many had to be content with hearing the masterpiece in side-streets by means of loudspeakers.

Hosmer Urges U.S. School-Prayer Vote

Congressman Craig Hosmer, R-Long Beach, has introduced a joiint resolution calling for a constitutional amendment that would permit Bible-reading and prayers in public schools on a noncompulsory basis.

Hosmer said Supreme Court rulings on the subject "seem to prohibit Bible-reading and prayers in the schools even though they may be on a voluntary basis. Consequently, a constitutional amendment is required."

Key provision of Hosmer's proposal, introduced in the House, reads:

"The right to voluntarily offer, receive and to participate in the saying of nonsectarian prayers or the right to voluntarily read from and listen to the reading of the Holy Scriptures in the public schools and other public places shall not be denied or abridged."

Gor Blimey! It's Lord, Lady

ST. LEONARDS, England (UPI)—Car salesman Peter Robertson, 42, and his German-born wife Ingelborg, said Saturday they were changing their names to Lord and Lady Robertson because they were so disgusted by the actions of some British higher ups they decided to show what the working class people could do."

It is legal to adopt a false title in Britain if it is not used for unfair financial gain.

Manx Mascot

CASTLETOWN, Isle of Man (UPI)—Queen Mother Elizabeth of Britain was presented with a six-weeks-old tailless manx kitten Saturday by the local town council during a half hour visit she made here. The queen mother, who is touring the island, accepted the kitten as mascot for the royal yacht Brittania.

2 Children Die, 8 Hurt in Intersection Collision

FONTANA (AP)—Two children were killed and eight other persons injured Saturday in a two-car collision two miles west of Fontana.

The dead were Rosie Galbraith, 11, of Mira Loma, and her sister, Carol Ann, 16, passengers in a car driven by their sister, Mrs. Lilly Mae Berfield, 21, also of Mira Loma.

Mrs. Berfield was injured along with another sister, Kathy Galbraith, 8, and Mrs. Berfield's sons, Joe, 5, and Mike, 3.

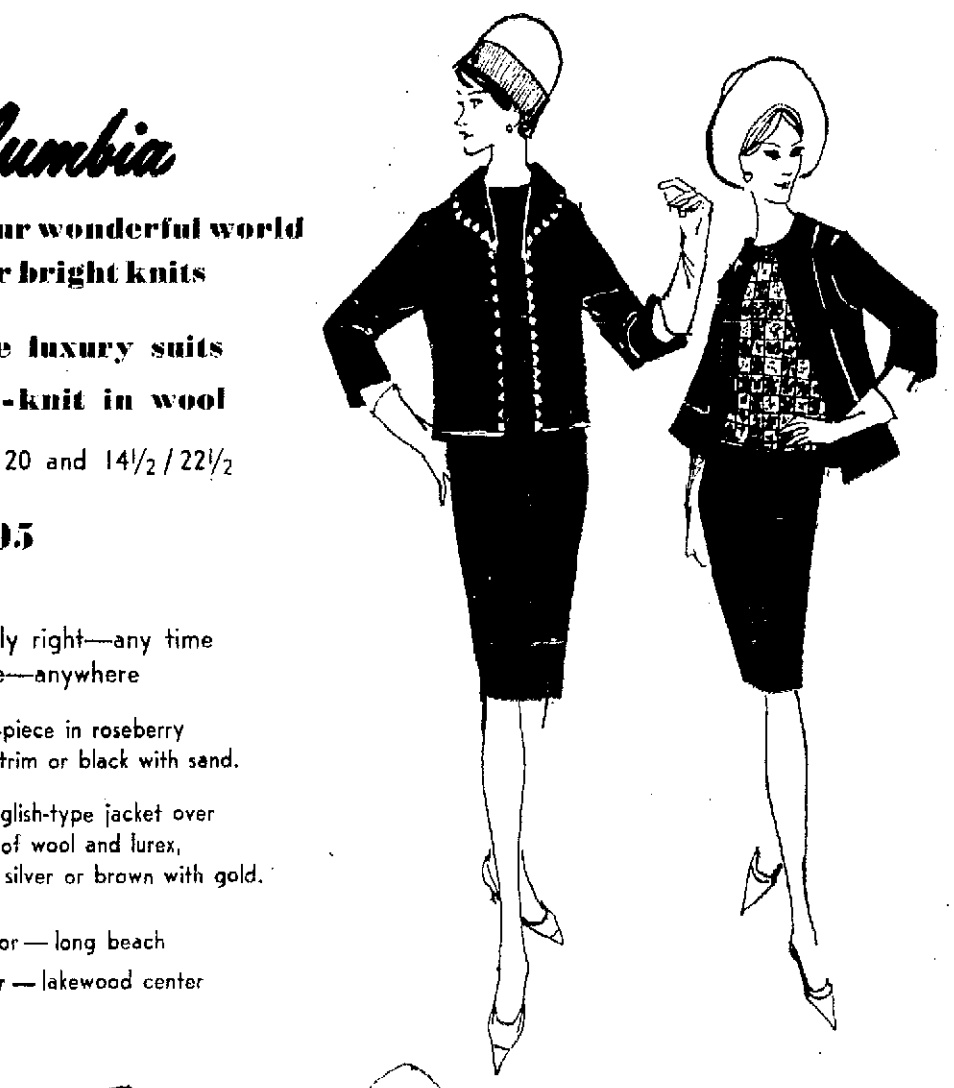

Driver of the other car, Lawrence Loomis, 53, of Montclair, and his passenger, John M. Gideon, 64, of Ontario, also were hurt.

The injured were treated at Ontario Community Hospital.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Soviet, Chinese Parley Is Secret

MOSCOW (AP)—With attacks on Premier Khrushchev still coming from Peking, Red Chinese and Soviet Communist party officials conducted Saturday their first full day of talks in the clash over communism's way to world supremacy.

Everything was in secret and the Soviet press avoided any direct plunge into the argument that has split the world's two largest Communist powers.

Leading the Chinese is Teng Hsaio Ping, short, broad-faced general secretary of the Chinese Communist party. He has six Chinese experts with him. Mikhail Suslov, a member of the Soviet Communist party presidium, is the chief Kremlin negotiator.

TV Award-Winner Air Victim

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Four Southern California men, including a prize-winning television producer, have been killed in a small-plane crash in Mexico, U.S. Customs officials reported Saturday.

THYSSEN

Customs officers identified the dead as: George (Ty) Thyssen, 42, Woodland Hills, pilot of the plane and winner of the 1963 Grand Prix of the Cannes Film Festival for the best television commercial; Charles Harold Vallance, 42, Canoga Park, a design engineer for Douglas Aircraft Co.; Allen Charles Darrow, 32, Canoga Park, a computing engineer for Douglas, and Harold F. Blom, 49, Monrovia, a World War II veteran of the Swedish Air Force.

Body Found as Lost Ship Hunted

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A search craft reported it found a body and a variety of debris Saturday in a Caribbean Sea area being combed for the missing fishing boat Sno' Boy and 40 Jamaicans aboard it.

Coast Guard search and rescue headquarters at Miami got no immediate details from the search craft which radioed the report. The Coast Guard said the report came from the aircraft carrier Wasp, which had search planes in the area.

Ike Not for Rocky, Goldwater

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Former President Eisenhower is prepared to support any one of four prospective contenders for the Republican presidential nomination next year, the Philadelphia Inquirer reported Saturday, but they do not include New York Gov. Rockefeller or Sen. Goldwater, R-Ariz.

The Inquirer identified the four prospective contenders as Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania; Gov. George Romney of Michigan; Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky; and Gen. Lucius Clay, President Kennedy's personal representative in Berlin.

Yank Deserter Kills Border Guard

PASSAU, Germany (AP)—An American Army deserter Saturday shot and killed a West German border patrolman while fleeing into Austria, West German police reported.

Police said Edward Mannis, of Baltimore, Md., a 19-year-old soldier stationed with the 11th U.S. Cavalry in Straubing, Germany, killed border patrolman Franz Gruber, 34, with two shots from a revolver before he fled across the Danube River to Austria.

Killer Shaky, Remorseful

LINDEN, N.J. (AP)—Police took Richard (Teddy) Coleman, shaking and remorseful, to a funeral home Saturday to identify the bodies of his wife and sister-in-law, who authorities say were slain by him in a berserk shooting spree.

The burly, 36-year-old father of four also faced Mary Kaminski, the pretty 18-year-old blonde police said he abducted Friday night after slaying the women and shooting three other persons, including his brother. He was captured in Newark Saturday.

25 MILLION MEMBERS

Church of Christ Backing Merger

DENVER (AP) — The United Church of Christ authorized Saturday development of a plan to merge six Protestant denominations into a single church, possibly with as many as 25 million members.

The action came in a resolution passed by acclamation during the fourth general synod of the church, a two-million-member body created by a merger of Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Churches.

Other churches involved in preliminary discussions of the union are the Methodist, United Presbyterian, Protestant Episcopal, Disciples of Christ and Evangelical United Brethren.

The resolution is the first approved by any of the denominations to call for actual development of a merger plan.

* * * *

ITS PASSAGE came after one of the United Church of Christ representatives in the unity discussions said that progress in two years "has gone far faster than any of us would have dreamed at the start."

The spokesman, the Rev. David C. Coldwell of Washington, D.C., said he personally believes it will be possible to determine within four or five years whether a union of the churches will be possible or not.

Preliminary meetings were held in Washington last year and in Oberlin, Ohio, earlier this year.

A round of spontaneous applause followed passage of the resolution.

The resolution in no way committed the United Church of Christ to final approval of a merger.

EIGHT PERSONS, two of them Negroes, were appointed by the United Church of Christ president, Dr. Ben M. Herbster of New York City, to conduct the new race-relations program voted Friday by the synod.

They are Mrs. Alfred C. Barthelomew, Lancaster, Pa., retiring assistant moderator of the general synod; Ashby E. Bladen of Glen Ridge, N.J., chairman of the church's executive board; the Rev. Sterling Carey, New York City, pastor of Grace United Church of Christ; the Rev. Nicholas Hood, Detroit, Mich., pastor of Plymouth United Church of Christ; the Rev. Dr. A. William Loos, New York City, president of the Council on Religion and International Affairs; the Rev. William C. Nelson, Akron, O., president of the United Church Board for World Ministries; the Rev. Dr. Roger Shinn, New York City, president of the church's Board for Homeland Ministries and professor of applied Christianity at Union Theological Seminary, and the Rev. Arnold Slater, Chattanooga, Tenn., pastor of Pilgrim Church.

Red Poland Liberalism May Tighten

WARSAW (UPI)—The Polish Communist Party's Central Committee ended an important meeting on ideology Saturday night and indicated a tightening of the nation's relatively liberal policies would take place.

The Polish news agency PAP reported the three-day session concluded after Communist Party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka called for the establishment of an "idcological commission" to supervise "intellectual activities."

The meeting's opening session Thursday featured an angry attack by Gomulka on the Polish Roman Catholic hierarchy.

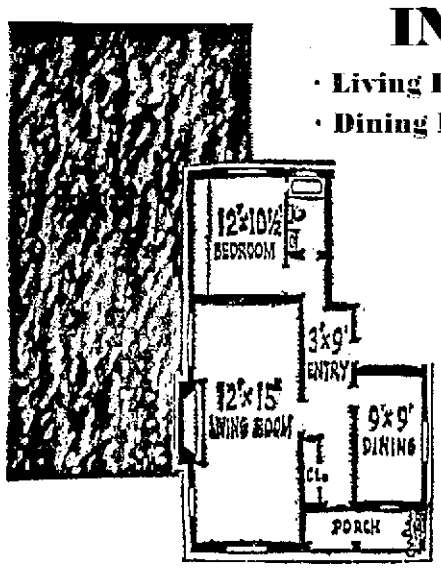

Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, primate of Poland and archbishop of Warsaw, is arriving back here by train from Rome today. There was speculation he may reply in a sermon tonight to some of Gomulka's criticisms.

Pickets Parade for Integration in Eastern Cities

By Associated Press

Integrationists picketed Saturday in Detroit, Danville, Va., and New York City while civil-rights leaders in Baltimore laid plans for another assault on the segregated Gwynn Oak Amusement Park.

In Chicago, the annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People concerned itself with reports of friction among youthful leaders of the organization.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, discounted reports of the friction between James Meredith, the first known Negro to attend the University of Mississippi, and other young leaders in the group.

Wilkins told a news conference that impatience and dissatisfaction of younger members was a vital force in the civil-rights movement.

Meredith had complained about "very low quality leadership present among our young Negroes and the childish nature of their activities."

* * * *

About 280 persons, including some nationally known clergymen, were arrested in a demonstration at the park last Thursday.

Some were released on bail soon afterward and the balance left prison Friday night without having to post bail.

Although modest steps toward settlement of racial problems were being taken in Cambridge, Md., racial problems there appeared far from settled. The Cambridge Housing Authority said it had been directed by the city's mayor to go ahead with plans for a $1-million, 100-unit Negro housing project, one of the Negro demands.

But there still was a threat of a referendum to upset a city charter amendment which would require eating places and public accommodations to serve Negroes starting Aug. 19.

In Detroit, about 25 white youths jeered some 200 white and Negro paraders who were protesting what they termed racial housing discrimination.

* * * *

THE ALBEMARLE County school board in Charlottesville, Va., was dismissed after it refused to alter its stand to discontinue extracurricular sports activities when the county schools open in September with their first Negro students.

More than 500 persons attended a rally in New York's Harlem at which speakers called for increased employment opportunities and other rights for Negroes. The rally was sponsored by the Greater New York Coordinating Committee for Equal Opportunity.

He was among the clergymen arrested in the Baltimore amusement park demonstration.

Negro Girl Slapped; White Man Jailed

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI)—A white man convicted of slapping a Negro girl who refused to move to the rear of a bus Saturday began 30 days on the county work gang.

Albert Samuel Boozer, 36, was ordered by City Judge T. Pou Taylor to pay a $100 fine or spend 30 days at hard labor. Boozer could not pay the fine.

The girl, 15, told the court she sat toward the front of the bus when she found the rear seats filled. She said Boozer ordered her to move to the rear and slapped her when she refused.

Soviet-Cuba Missiles Said Aimed at U.S. Guantanamo Naval Base

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban exile report said Saturday that Soviet missiles are pointed toward the U.S. Guantanamo Naval Base in Cuba from a nearby camp for use in case of an invasion.

The report, by Sentinels of Liberty, said: "It is urgent to investigate the zone of Yerba de Guinea, near Guantanamo, since there is a strange movement there of Russians dressed as civilians. No one is permitted to pass on the highway where they enter and leave.

"At this place, there has been installed a base of medium range directed missiles to be set off against the Guantanamo base in case an invasion is started there."

Sentinels of Liberty also reported 15 Castro soldiers were killed June 22 by guerrillas who ambushed them in the Escambray Mountains.

"Among the dead was Horacio Rodriguez, commander of the platoon," said the report, released by Luis Conte Aguero, president in exile of the Sentinels. "The bodies were buried at La Moza."

The report added that a new Castro batallion composed of bachelors was being formed to combat guerrillas in the Escambrays.

The anti-Castro organization said 104 Castro men who fought rebels in west-central Matanzas Province were hospitalized with a rare disease which doctors called "fungus of the caves."

The stricken, the report said, had pursued rebels hidden in caves near Jaguey Grande.

The refugee radio "Voice of the People" said Russians had taken over a base near the Managua-Mantilla highway southeast of Havana.

Analyze Studies on Tots' Deaths

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—In the last two weeks of June, 30 apparently healthy babies were put to bed here for the night and died—adding a new puzzle for medical researchers to unravel in their long study of so-called "crib deaths."

In reporting the rash of deaths Saturday, City Medical Examiner Joseph Spelman said he couldn't explain them.

ASKED about a report that the recent high incidence of deaths might have resulted from a severe heat wave and dehydration of the victims, Dr. Spelman commented:

"It's true, more or less, that the deaths coincided with the heat wave . . . but . . . we had a couple more yesterday and there certainly was no heat wave."

And a pathologist who studied many of the crib death cases for Dr. Spelman's office, Dr. Marie Valdes Dapena, says some objective studies support the dehydration theory. But, she adds, "This is just one little brick in the wall."

Dr. Dapena, on the staff of St. Christopher's Hospital for children, said that in about 85 percent of the cases she lists the death cause as undetermined.

SPELMAN said that Philadelphia annually averages about 150 crib death reports, with the highest incidence in the cooler months. Normally, the summer month average is about 5 — compared with 15 a week for the last two weeks of June. It was in this period that Philadelphia experienced eight straight days of 90-plus temperatures.

The victims in this surge ranged in age from 2 weeks to 15 months.

Dr. Dapena's years-long research and that of others investigating this world-wide problem is underwritten in part by the Mark Addison Roe Foundation of New York City. It was established by a New York stock broker whose infant was among the victims of crib deaths.

She said that beyond many-faceted medical studies of the victims, exhaustive case histories are made to find clues. There are, she said, some significant figures, although they still don't provide the answer to the question "What caused death?"

Dr. Dapena reports that in 38 percent of the cases, the child victims were born prematurely.

Dr. Frederic Rieders, the city's chief toxicologist, said that among the 150 "crib deaths" in the city last year, he found an unknown red substance in the brains of 88 percent of the victims.

Rieders said the red substance also shows up in the brains of children who die of well established causes—but only about 20 percent of the time.

Haiti Bars Former U.S. Envoy as Visitor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Saturday night that Haiti has refused to let former Ambassador Raymond L. Thurston or his wife return to the Caribbean Island.

The State Department said the same action will be taken in the case of Dr. Louis Mars, the former Haitian envoy to the United States.

Thurston was in Washington for consultation when Haitian President Francois Duvalier asked that he be removed June 14. The United States bowed to the request. Haiti at the same time recalled Dr. Mars from Washington.

SINCE THEN, the strained diplomatic relations between the two nations have been carried on at the charge d'affaires level.

However, Thurston and his wife had planned to return to Port-au-Prince to pick up their household goods and personal belongings and to say the formal good-byes to other diplomats required by protocol.

A State Department spokesman said there would be no problem for the Thurstons concerning their furnishings and personal goods because U. S. Embassy personnel in Port-au-Prince would see that they are returned to the United States.

THE UNITED STATES has been increasingly cool toward Duvalier since it became apparent he intended to continue in office past the expiration of his term last May 15. Many American civilians in Haiti were removed from the tense island in May, and U. S. policy still opposes their return.

Haiti earlier had ordered some—but not all—U. S. military training and advisory groups out of the country.

Wallace Urges More Industry Near Farms

SOUTH SALEM, N. Y. (AP) — Former Vice President Henry A. Wallace said Saturday night the nation could reduce unemployment and gain security by putting more jobs within driving distance of the farm.

More small farmers, Wallace said, might be able to keep their farms if some member of the family could hold an industrial job while living on the farm.

"It might not make for the greatest efficiency, from one point of view," Wallace added, "but it would make for the greatest security of the country and greater stability of employment."

Wallace, former secretary of Agriculture and later secretary of Commerce, who in 1946 urged a plan for 60 million jobs by 1950, was commenting on the recent announcement that employment passed the 70-million mark last month.

HE SAID the country should aim for 80 million jobs by 1970, but said we may fall short of this goal as we did his 60-million goal in 1950.

Wallace said that decentralization of industry, so that 80 percent of "the folks living in open country would be in driving distance of a job," would not solve the unemployment problem but would help to do so.

He said it also would help to keep the small farmer from being pushed off his land.

A study made in the area around Austin, Minn., he said, showed that the large farmer had a big advantage over the small farmer in proportionate income, but that this advantage lessened when some member of the small-farm family worked in a local packing plant.

"FARM FOLKS are used to working," Wallace said, "and there's something to be said for having both types of experience.

"I shudder at the fact that only about eight percent of our children have the kind of background where you have to get the hay in if it's going to rain—to meet a problem, no matter what."

Wallace, the 74-year-old who retired to his farm here after his campaign for the presidency in 1948 under the Progressive Party banner, said he is too busy cross-breeding strawberries, gladiolus, and egg-laying chickens to talk about politics, the nation's economy or world events.

Machine in Store Advises on Gifts

TOKYO (UPI)—The Odakyu Department Store here has taken the indecision out of gift buying with an electronic computer that comes up with gift suggestions in the desired price, age and sex range.

Sample question: "What can I buy for 2,000 yen (about $6) for a girl friend of 18?"

Sample suggestion: "Imported perfume!"

The machine is proving popular with shoppers who merely have to press four buttons specifying the "conditions" of their gift buying.

Big Stock of Official Records

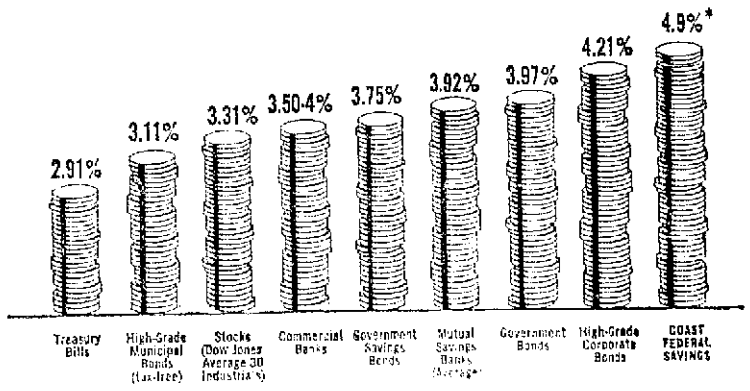

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Government has stowed away 6.9 million cubic feet of records which costs more than $560,000 annually to store.

The General Services Administration said in a report that of this total, more than 2 million cubic feet were classified as permanent or had not been assigned a date for its disposal.

Army Counsel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Cyrus R. Vance has named Joseph A. Califano Jr., 32, of New York, as Army General Counsel. He succeeds Powell Pierpoint who has resigned.

Navy to 'Sink' Trio in Two-Week Test

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A Navy physician disclosed Saturday that the Navy plans to put three men into a high-pressure tank in mid-August to see if they can live and work for two weeks in surroundings equivalent to those 200 feet under the sea.

Capt. George F. Bond, director of the Submarine Medical Research Laboratory in New London, Conn., made the disclosure in an address to the Underwater Society of America. The test chamber is in Washington.

Bond said the experiment will exceed considerably any previous efforts to expose men to great pressures for long periods.

The Navy men will be unable to get out any time they want to. In other outer space chamber experiments, subjects could get out when they desired.

Bond explained: "It takes at least 46 hours to decompress them, and even if one of them should die, the rest would have to sit with the corpse for that time. This is just an example of the kinds of stresses the men will face."

Human Factor Bogs Atomic Queen of the Seas

By JOSEPH D. HUTNYAN

Four years ago proud and jubilant speechmakers hailed the dawn of atomic sea travel and then watched the sleek nose of the nuclear ship Savannah splash into the Delaware River.

Today, memories of the launching cause embarrassment for some and others get fighting mad.

The $82 million Savannah—the world's first nuclear-powered merchant ship—was financed by the Federal Government as a shiny symbol of U. S. ingenuity in using the atom for peace.

At this moment the queen of sea-going commerce should be cruising to ports of the world. Instead, she lies silently in her Galveston, Texas, berth, her graceful bow nudged against a pier, the waves gently lapping at her gleaming white paint.

* * * *

SECRETARY of Commerce Luther H. Hodges is among those who have strong convictions on the subject. He claims the ship would really be the queen of the seas today if it weren't for the "defiant attitude" of the vessel's 29 reactor engineers who are embroiled in a labor dispute.

The Savannah was unable to sail in May because of the conflict. This so incensed Hodges that he canceled the government's contract with States Marine Line— the private carrier hired by the Commerce Department to operate the Savannah.

Critics of the Savannah project claim the labor dispute was merely the culmination of a series of blunders that started shortly after the ship's keel was laid.

* * * *

IT IS REGARDED as ironic that when the big breakdown came it was a human failure rather than mechanical.

Even the cause of this is a subject of bitter wrangling.

The Savannah had been plagued with labor problems for some time but the situation became serious only after an arbitration award which tied the wage scale of the engineers to those of the deck officers.

The engineers refused to accept this. The government was sympathetic to their arguments but wanted them to continue operating the Savannah while the award was being appealed.

* * * *

THEY REFUSED and, just before the vessel was due to sail last May 7, the engineers began shutting down her reactors.

Hodges charged that this was unjustified. A short time later, he canceled the contract with States Marine Line.

He suggested that the engineers should have been happy to comply with the government request to stay on their jobs, and even hinted it was their patriotic duty. He also noted that the engineers had been trained by the government and that a majority were under 30 years of age and were receiving from $14,000 to $22,000 a year.

In their own defense, some of the engineers claimed their salaries seemed high but actually reflected long hours of overtime work, and many seven-day weeks.

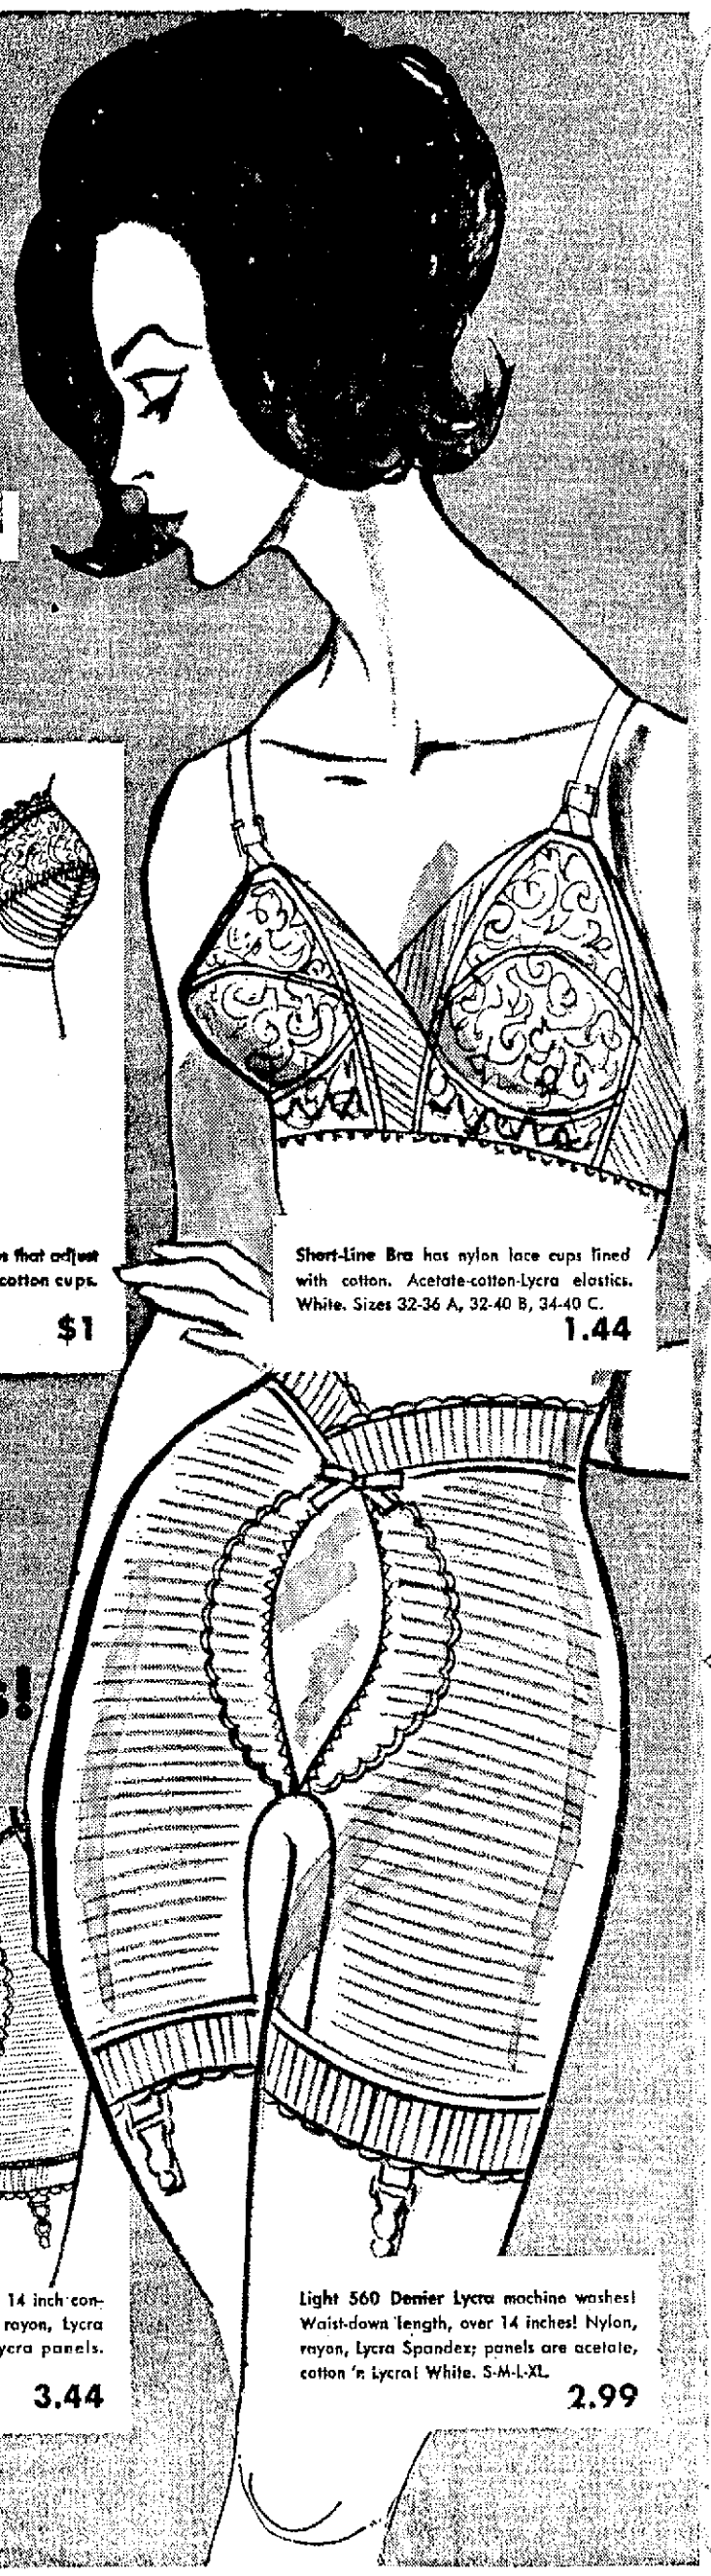

* * * *

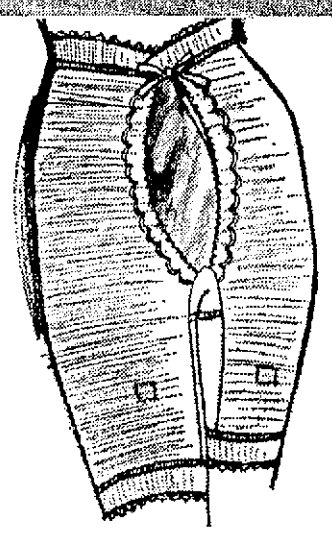

THE GOVERNMENT has just contracted with the designer of the ship's power plant, Babcock & Wilcox Co., Lynchburg, Va., to train a new crew. The same firm trained the original crew.

ALCOHOL PERILS YOUTHS

Now 26, now an expectant mother and wife of a prominent local physician, Terri—along with several others in the group—told her dramatic story to a roomful of reformed alcoholics at a Long Beach AA meeting the other evening.

She couldn't have had a more sympathetic, more understanding audience. All had traveled the same road, experiencing their own tailor-made tragedies, ignoring the danger signals, ending in the same place. . . .

Trapped at the bottom of a bottle.

* * * *

LIKE TERRI, most of those present were attractive, vibrant articulate people. Many hold responsible positions in the community (only 3 percent of the nation's 8 million alcoholics are skid row type).

Most had staggered through the Valley of the Shadow, had found, in AA, the spiritual spark and strength to live again. And, with the spark, a vibrant, joyous life that is fuller, more compassionate than ever before.

There were these parallels among those who told their stories: In their drinking days, most thought they were too intelligent to become a drunk. When it happened, they blamed situations, people, things. Never themselves. Life had dealt them a bitter blow. . . .

And most admitted they'd started drinking when they were teenagers!

* * * *

WHAT WILL Terri tell her own child if the problem of alcohol arises?

"Of course, I'm a walking-talking example of why my child — any child — shouldn't drink. My husband and I have agreed that the answer is to build a strong foundation, a wholesome home life, a solid means of communication — so that if the problem of alcohol should arise, we can cope with it in the same manner as other problems."

Another AA's theory: "According to statistics, 13 out of 100 who drink socially, become addicted, become powerless over the disease of alcoholism. I'll point out to my son that the person who never takes the first drink cannot become an alcoholic."

* * * *

Here are some of the statistics:

California attorney general Stanley Mosk reports that 85 percent of the 17,000 teen-agers in custody of the California Youth Authority got their start from drunkenness, either their own or that of friends and relatives.

A survey of 1,000 youths between the ages of 15 and 17 by Gilbert Youth Research Co. Inc. indicated that 79 percent had had one or more alcholic drinks in their lives. Fifty-six percent of the boys and 39 percent of the girls said they drank beer often; while 35 percent of the boys, 20 percent of the girls conceded they frequently downed cocktails or soft drinks spiked with hard liquor.

Capt. Paul Landsdowne of the Long Beach Juvenile Division reports that, last year, 281 youths (between the ages of 14 and 17) were taken into custody because of drinking). Most of the cases in the 16-17 age group in some way involved a car. (Seriousness of this is reflected in statistics from the Standard Report of Alcohol Involvement in Fatal Motor Vehicle Traffic Accidents, in which a study of five California counties shows that 254 of 488 drivers killed in accidents last year had been drinking).

Captain Landsdowne believes that for every teen-age drinker who has been picked up, there are 10 others who have not. "We have more than 600 running miles of street in Long Beach and it's physically impossible to patrol all places at all times."

* * * *

WHERE DOES the problem start?

Some say in the home.

Others say it develops from individual personality problems.

Still others blame our modern-way of life in which, on the one hand, alcohol is glorified, on the other scorned.

The diehard Women's Christian Temperance Union charges that all alcohol problems are now rooted in the home, where children learn to indulge by watching their parents get potted—regularly.

Surveys by the Yale Center of Alcoholic Studies have shown that college students who drink most come from heavy-drinking families.

And Dr. Herman D. Goldberg, head of the Hofstra College psychology department, who has made studies of teen-age drinkers, says teen-agers copy the drinking habits of their parents, and greater freedom in mother's drinkings is likely to be reflected in the daughter's. Currently, more boys than girls drink, reflecting the pattern of their elders.

Another theory, this one expressed by a local judge: if there is any drinking among a group of teen-agers, it is difficult for would-be nondrinkers to abstain. It's a normal psychological pattern for teenagers to follow the herd."

* * * *

Captain Landsdowne of the Juvenile Division says yes.

"There is a time in life for everything," says he. "The teen-age period is no time to experiment with alcohol, any more than it is a time to experiment with sex.

"Teen-agers are not emotionally equipped to cope with the effects of alcohol and its resulting problems," he emphasized.

Dr. I. D. Litwack, city health officer, believes that, as in other diseases, prevention is the most realistic approach to the problem of alcoholism.

He points out that in Long Beach, as in the nation, alcoholism is a major public-health problem, surpassed only by heart disease, cancer and tuberculosis.

He sees the need for more education at the teen-age level to acquaint that age group with alcoholism; what it is, how it affects the body, its sociological and psychological affects.

* * * *

TODAY, in the problem of alcoholism, psychiatry is working with AA. The churches are working with psychiatry. Medicine is working with all. Business, labor, the schools, law enforcement, clubs, lawyers and the public are looking for "the key". . .

Most important of all, public education has not only increased the attention of all to this expensive, heartbreaking problem, but also has tended to lessen the moral stigma from the issue.

With this, the alcoholic can face his problem sooner and more squarely —and all of us can help him do so.

BANTERING BELLE BALKS BAR BENDER

Strain though he will, moviehouse doorman Trevor Smallman cannot unbend the half-inch steel bar he bent around the neck of 10-year-old Laurian Healy. Hacksaw used by firemen in Worcester, England, finally did the trick. Embarrassing moment came for the strongman, who was bending bars in front of theater to publicize a movie, when Laurian piped up with the challenge: "My Dad's stronger than you."

Audacious Duels for Race Lead

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The 74-foot ketch Ticonderoga and the 72-foot yawl Audacious waged a close duel Saturday for the front-running position in the 2,225-mile transpacific yacht race to Honolulu.

* * * *

THE AUDACIOUS, owned by Baldwin M. Baldwin, Newport Harbor, was only 5 miles behind and on the same parallel in the biennial yachting classic which decides its winners on a handicap basis.

The Australian schooner Astor was reported third, about 8 miles behind the Audacious. She was some 35 miles south of the two yachts leading her.

The 75-foot ketch Kamalii, which set the pace Friday, still was holding a good position, some 346 miles out of Los Angeles Harbor.

* * * *

BEHIND the Kamalii, in the following order, were: Tenderfoot II, 339 miles; Orient, 324 miles; John P. Scripps' scratch boat, Novia del Mar, 323 miles; Ichiban, 322 miles; Legend, 321 miles, and Queen Mab, Rascal and Copper Head, all 317 miles.

The yacht making the best corrected time over the course will win the over-all honors.

Class leaders on a handicap basis were:

Class A—Audacious, Ticonderoga and Astor.

Class B—Tenderfoot II, Ichiban and Legand.

Class C — Starlight, Rascal and Patronilla.

Class D—Tiare, Tyboon and Islander.

Lennox Man Slain; Knifer Turns Self In

EL MONTE (CNS)—A 25-year-old man walked into El Monte police station Saturday and reportedly confessed to the stabbing of a Lennox electronics engineer.

Kenneth Calvin Cole, El Monte, reportedly told police he didn't know why he killed Edward Marable, 40, whom he met in a bar on the night of July 4 and then stabbed with a paring knife in the engineer's home.

Marable's body was discovered Friday. Cole said he surrendered after hearing reports of the slaying on the radio.

Sheriff's Det. Sgt. Robert Chapman said the suspect is employed by a Pasadena exterminator company.

Marable, an employe of Hughes Aircraft and a member of the Inglewood Symphony Orchestra, was found sitting on a stool propped against an organ in his home.

Tri-State Inquiry Into Babies' Deaths

OZARK, Ark. (AP)—Authorities in Arkansas, New Mexico and California worked Saturday to tie the threads of a bizarre case involving the deaths of two infant girls whose decomposed bodies were found yesterday in a shallow mountainside grave.

Police at Albuquerque, N.M., said the father of the children contends one died of natural causes and the other smothered accidentaly while sleeping with an older sister in a station wagon.

A map sent to Arkansas state police from Albuquerque led to the bodies which were wrapped in a yellow blanket under a thin cover of earth. A huge rock and some brush were piled on the grave.

* * * *

CAPT. PAUL McDonald of the state police said both infants were about three months old.

McDonald said that the children apparently died March 18 in a roadside park at Russellville, 37 miles east of the gravesite, and charges, if any, probably would be filed there.

Prosecutor Jeff Mobley of Russellville said a group of at least three adults and several children camped out in the park when they ran out of money.

McDonald said the story of the burial came out when the parents of the mother of one of the girls, a Santa Ana, Calif., woman, asked her where her baby was. She provided the name of the Albuquerque man who is being held, police said, on a charge of robbing a motel.

* * * *

ALBUQUERQUE police got the location of the grave. They said the man offered to take a lie-detector test to prove his story about the deaths. He said the baby who died of natural causes was "always sick."

Police withheld names of the principals pending further investigation.

State Leads in Auto Toll

Compiled from Wire Reports

California again led the nation in traffic deaths Saturday night as the long Fourth of July holiday weekend entered its final 30 hours.

As of 9:30 p.m. PDT, the latest United Press International survey showed that 40 persons had lost their lives in traffic accidents since the 102-hour holiday period began at 6 p.m. Wednesday. Southern California accounted for 23 fatalities, northern California 17.

In addition, 15 persons lost their lives in other holiday mishaps, bringing the total to 55. Seven persons drowned, two were killed in a boating accident and six others were killed in miscellaneous accidents.

* * * *

TRAFFIC deaths on the nation's highways reversed an earlier trend and took an upturn in the long Independence Day weekend Saturday and the heavy traffic of homeward bound motorists was yet to come.

Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, said Saturday night the trend indicated highway deaths might exceed the record high of 509 set in 1961, the most recent four-day July 4 observance.

An Associated Press tabulation at midnight Saturday reported 383 deaths in traffic accidents, 33 in boating accidents and 101 by drowning.

DEMOCRATIC STATE Chairman William L. Coleman and former Gov. Michael V. Di Salle, a recent dinner guest at the White House, said the reports were news to them. Republican State Chairman Ray C. Bliss, who has masterminded some major GOP victories, said he had heard nothing of any move to put Glenn into the race.

* * * *

THERE WAS no word from Glenn but reports have filtered out from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) in Texas that Glenn might soon put aside his actual space work to become a public-relations man for the agency.

2 Policemen Arrested in Bandit Chase

two-year veteran of the Torrance force.

The car, still bumping southward, was rammed by the Los Angeles cruiser. Jumping a curb, it hit a house at 1044 W. 130th St.

The driver, identified as Roger L. Jacobson, 25, of 3610 St., surrendered a .38-caliber service revolver to Funk and Tietgen. Then, they said, he tried to reach into a trouser pocket for a .25-caliber automatic pistol.

Both men were taken to Los Angeles' 77th Street police sub-station where, under questioning, Jacobsons reportedly admitted the robbery to Det. Sgt. Robert Sluder. He was booked on suspicion of grand theft, personal.

* * * *

KEITH WAS interrogated by Torrance officers who said similar charges would be brought against him.

During the questioning, the blond Jacobsen said that he and Keith flipped a coin to decide which would actually grab the money. He said the dark-haired Keith "lost" the toss and accosted the women.

The women, however, said the actual stickup was committed by a blond.

Jacobsen was quoted by Sgt. Sluder as saying the pair had planned the robbery for several months.

U.S. Scrutinizes Atomic-Test-Ban Offer for Bugs

By
HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev opened the door to a nuclear test ban treaty this week—but with strings attached.

He said Russia was ready to talk about a pact covering all tests except those underground, conditioned on the signing of a nonaggression agreement between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and its Communist counterpart, the Warsaw Alliance.

Was he dead serious? Are there prospects that West and East will finally get together on the major obstacle to disarmament? Or was he dangling propaganda bait to take the heat off President Kennedy's European tour achievements?

The President went into long sessions with his top advisers to sift the offer for bugs. Khrushchev made his proposal in Red East Berlin in the wake of Mr. Kennedy's triumphant visit to free West Berlin. But it was regarded as of some significance.

The United States, Russia and Britain open new test-ban talks in Moscow July 15 with Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman representing the President. However, Khrushchev's conditions raised questions whether he was sincere.

He reiterated his nonsurrender policy to U. S. demands for on-site inspection against secret underground tests, asserting this would amount to "espionage" on Soviet territory.

* * * *

KHRUSHCHEV'S use of the word espionage has an ironic echo. The Federal Bureau of Investigation seized a Soviet United Nations employe and his wife in New York and a Washington alien couple on charges of conspiring over the past six years to steal U. S. military secrets for the Kremlin.

Only a few days earlier the State Department had ordered Soviet Embassy Attache Gennadiy G. Sevastyanov to leave the country at once for attempting to recruit for espionage an alien employe of the hush-hush Central Intelligence Agency. The department said the diplomat tried to coerce the alien, a Russian, by threatening measures against his family in the Soviet Union.

Arrested by the FBI were Ivan D. Egorov, $10,000-a-year personnel officer attached to the U. N. secretary general's office, his wife, Alexsandria, and the Washington couple known as Robert K. and Joy Ann Baltch, names borrowed illegally from an Amsterdam, N. Y., Catholic priest and a Connecticut housewife.

The Soviet embassy protested the Egorov arrests, asserting the pair was entitled to diplomatic immunity. It warned that Soviet-American relations could be damaged. The State Department replied curtly that they did not have immunity and thus were subject to prosecution and imprisonment if found guilty.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy cautioned that the Communists were stepping up their espionage activities all over the world. He called the Baltch couple "illegals." These are persons who come to the U. S. as members of diplomatic missions and adopt American identities.

Britain also was having espionage troubles with American angles. The London government disclosed that British newsman Harold Philby, former British counter-intelligence chief in Washington, had gone behind the Iron Curtain. Philby vanished last January from Beirut, Lebanon, where he represented the London Sunday Observer.

IN HIS EAST Berlin speeches, Khrushchev again called for conclusion of a German peace treaty because "the Damocles sword of war hangs over the world." But he was not as didactic as usual except to declare the Oder-Neisse border between East Germany and Poland can never be altered.

He riterated his policy of peaceful coexistence in the face of serious ideological difficulties with Red China which favors destroying capitalism through war. A Red Chinese delegation arrived in Moscow Friday to discuss the split and got a cold reception. No Russians of note were in the welcoming party.

Khrushchev declared that "only lunatics" would try to overthrow capitalism by going to war. He also defended the Communist-built Berlin wall as "the legal frontier" of the East German Republic which "serves the cause of peace." President Kennedy, while in Berlin, had branded it a pen to keep freedom-loving people from leaving.

Mr. Kennedy returned from abroad convinced that his trip had forged a more powerful NATO alliance in dealing with Russia. In Naples, Italy, he again called for greater allied trust and an end to "self-sufficient nationalism." This was an obvious jibe at French President Charles de Gaulle who has weakened the alliance with his go-it-alone nuclear and economic course for "an independent Europe."

In remarks broadcast over Voice of America, the President said every American has every reason to be proud of this nation's reputation and standing in Europe. "In every country," he said, "I found a deep conviction in our common goals, the unity of the West, the freedom of man, the necessity for peace." He did not visit France.

THE CHIEF executive was received in audience by Pope Paul VI who praised his efforts to attain world peace and toward racial equality in the United States. It was reported the pontiff would visit the U. S. later but not before the 1964 presidential election for fear it would be miscontrued politically.

The President's brother, the attorney general, wound up three days of testimony before Congress in defense of Mr. Kennedy's far-ranging racial rights legislation. Crux of the bill is a public accommodations proviso to give Negroes the right to be served in all business establishments. Kennedy denied Republican and conservative Democratic charges that this "would shackle business" but he added that the President does not want to apply a yardstick to small establishments which have no appreciable effect on interstate commerce.

Republicans said the administration's appeal for their help in passing the bill was a confession that the White House had lost control of its Democratic majority. Most Southern Democrats are pledged to try to kill the program. The GOP said the Democrats would have to take the lead in working out any compromise on public accommodations.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., will open hearings on the legislation July 16.

IN OTHER racial front developments the AFL-CIO's building trades unions ordered its locals to halt all forms of racial discrimination; a special three-judge court in Alexandria, Va., ruled that Virginia's law requiring segregated seating in theaters was unconstitutional; North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford pledged an end to discrimination in hiring for state jobs and urged private employers to follow suit; the National Education Association urged an end to segregation in its local affiliates and decided to look into the possibility of merging with the predominantly Negro American Teachers Association; hecklers prevented Democratic Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago from making a speech at a NAACP audience after he had led a Negro-white parade in a freedom rally; the Catholic archbishop of Omaha, Neb., ordered all parishoners in his diocese to help end "indigities perpetrated against minority groups"; Negroe leaders held a "summit" meeting in New York to organize a campaign of "unprecedented magnitude" on behalf of the President's bill; NAACP decided among other things to work for the defeat of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and other members of Congress next year who fail to support the civil rights legislation.

Reassign Salvation Army Man

Capt. and Mrs. Robert J. Stillwell, commanding officers for the Long Beach Citadel Corps, Salvation Army, for the past three years, have been reassigned.

They will report to the Salvation Army School in San Francisco after July 1.

Major and Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, corps officers in Sacramento, will take command of the Long Beach corps.

During his term here Capt. Stillwell conducted a campaign which provided the funds for the new Citadel to be constructed at Spring Street and Elm Avenue. He also was in charge of the annual Salvation Army summer conference and camp meetings in Municipal Auditorium.

Mrs. Capt. Stillwell was an active member of Soroptimist, Church Women, Ministers' Wives and other groups.

South Rhodesia Riot Insurance Rate High

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — Insurance rates on riot damage are so high in Southern Rhodesia these days that the City Council of Bulawayo—this British Colony's second biggest town — has refused to renew protection on its buildings.

The council decided not to take out riot insurance when it was told it would have to pay 5,000 pounds ($14,000) premium for coverage of 100,000 pounds ($280,000). On top of this the council would have had to pay the first 1,000 pounds ($2,800) of each loss.

Racial conflict in the drive for independence has stirred frequent rioting over the past several months.

By SYDNEY OMARR

FORECAST FOR TODAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19). Excellent day for catching up on reading and resting. Break from routine of past week. Pleasure can be had by being with family. Try to gain spiritual understanding.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Good lunar aspect today emphasizes adherence to principles. Also good for sharing of knowledge and love. Display real understanding. Offer sympathy instead of "preaching."

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Spiritual guidance offers much. If you will absorb lessons. Better time for finishing projects than for starting new ones. Be practical, and don't neglect ideals. Combine effort with humor.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Be quiet within. Answers you seek are there, if you permit them to "come through." Self-analysis holds sway. Understand yourself before criticizing others. Avoid quarrels.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Wonderful day to "bank creative fires." Get something on paper. Follow through on hobbies, projects. New mental horizons open up. Perspective due to enlarge.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Favorable lunar aspects highlights travel, dealings with members of opposite sex. Obtain joy through children, amusements, change of routine. Plan for future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Have strength of convictions. Stand up for what is right. Seek harmony within family circles. Encourage creative efforts of others by example of appreciation, understanding.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You are active, you get around, and impress others. Be sure you are also realistic. Means don't do things merely to make impressions. Be true to your own principles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Key is harmony. Means on time for squabbles. Don't spread efforts too thin. Instead—concentrate. Finish what you start. Don't allow impulse to rule decisions concerning money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Seeking perfection could cause frayed nerves. Cycle remains high. You gain most by hardy, selfless attitude. In plain words, be a good "sport." Then you earn greater respect.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Tremendous chance to display ability, talents. Shake off fear of unknown. Read Taurus message for good hint. Give your all. Whatever you do, do it with enthusiasm.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Wonderful day for socializing, being with friends, articulating hopes, wishes. Don't be afraid to express unusual ideas. Others respond favorably to your suggestions.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are loyal, basically conservative and extremely sensitive where rights of others are concerned.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Accept responsibilities which go with friendship, fulfilling of wishes. Means take mature attitude. Do for others what you would like them to do for you. Prove yourself worthy!

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Spread influence through advertising, personal appearances. Assert your position and stick to it. Make sure you are not "shuffled" into sudden chance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Take long-range view and attitude. Don't be petty. Total your score so you can see picture as a whole. Exercise originality of thought, action. Lead rather than follow.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Some want you to move too quickly. Instead, heed your own counsel. Take your time, especially where spending, investigating are concerned. Be sure you have your partner "on your side."

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Fight for beliefs. But also be aware that constructive criticism can work in your favor. Means be practical. Push a little, retreat a bit. Apply strategy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Cooperation is key. You may require help from fellow workers, friends. Moderation is a necessity. Avoid extremes. Check things personally. Make this a day when your steps are slow but sure.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Lunar position emphasizes adventure, vacation, romance. Exciting day! Be active mentally as well as physically. Read newspapers to obtain new knowledge and insights.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Your need for harmony, appreciation much in evidence. But don't fall for false flattery. Keep feet on ground. Evaluate statements, promises. Better trust those who were loyal in past.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Good lunar aspect highlights relations with relatives, short journeys, communications. Write, read, express yourself. Fine evening for attending theater or neighborhood playhouse.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Be true to your own ideals. This does not mean you have to be extravagant. Instead, you can gain inner satisfaction through simplicity of approach. Show loved one your "best side."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Cycle high. You make tremendous impression if you display faith in your own abilities. Clue obtained from Libra message. Stress creative aspects. Show that you can "perform" as well as criticize.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't neglect those who may be confined. Be sympathetic. Permit sensitivity to flow; express love. Many favorable signs begin to manifest themselves today!

Two Named to Top Ad Posts

Appointment of Warren Mitchell as retail advertising manager and Stanley Schafer as national advertising manager of the Independent, Press-Telegram has been announced by Don Nutter, advertising director of the newspapers.

Mitchell replaces James Duncan, former retail advertising manager, who becomes assistant to the publisher in charge of advertising on the News in Garden Grove. Schafer comes to the Long Beach newspapers from the Pasadena Independent, Star-News.

Mitchell has been national advertising manager of the Independent, Press-Telegram since 1955. He had previously been an advertising account executive in the New York office of Ridder-Johns, Inc., then national advertising representatives of the newspapers. From 1948 to 1952, he was employed in retail advertising departments of the St. Paul, Minn. Dispatch, Pioneer-Press. Mitchell has been president of the Long Beach Sales Executives Club, a member of the Food Sales Club, the National Sales Development Committee of the Newspaper Advertising Executives Assoc. and has been engaged in local Chamber of Commerce activities.

After graduation from the University of Southern California in 1951, Schafer joined the Los Angeles office of Maloney, Regan & Schmidt, newspaper advertising representatives, remaining with the firm until 1958 when he joined the Pasadena Independent, Star-News national advertising department, subsequently becoming its manager in 1960. He has been active in Pasadena food industries associations.

From now until Aug. 18, when the contest closes, camera fans will have an opportunity to try their luck for prizes ranging up to $1,000.

In addition, weekly winners will be able to share $200 in savings bonds. The weekly winners — 48 in all — will be announced every Sunday in Southland Magazine starting July 14.

From the 48 winners, the top eight will be chosen for entry in the Eastman National Snapshort Contest in Washington, D.C., where their photographs will compete for $31,000 in cash awards.

The eight winners in the national competition will receive $1,000 cash and an all-expense-paid trip to the capital for themselves and one member of their family. Second place winners in the Eastman contest will receive $500 each, third place winners, $250. Beyond that, there are numerous $50 and $25 awards for runners-up.

* * * *

CONTESTANTS are reminded that they needn't have special equipment to take their photos. Cameras that cost less than $10 have just as much chance of snapping a prize-winning photo as some of the more expensive jobs.

"What matters is not what a photographer uses—but how he uses it."

* * * *

JUDGES will accept both black-and-white and color photos. In each case, the entries will be judged in four classifications: babies and children, activities, scenes and tabletops, and animal life.

Thus eight winners—one from each category in black-and-white, and one from each category in color—will be chosen weekly.

* * * *

CONTESTANTS are reminded that they can enter as many as four pictures each week. Moreover, any snapshot taken after July 1, 1962, is eligible.

Entries should be addressed to the Snapshot Contest Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram.

The rules will be printed every Sunday, starting today, in Southland Magazine.

ICC to Probe Ogden-L.A. Rail Switch Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) has ordered an investigation of the Union Pacific Railroad's plans to discontinue and reschedule its passenger service between Ogden, Utah and Los Angeles.

The railroad had filed notice June 12 that it planned to discontinue its trains 9 and 10 between Ogden and Los Angeles and schedule train 103 and 104, effective July 15.

In ordering the investigation the ICC ordered the trains continued under present schedule for four months from the date the Union Pacific had planned to alter service.

Litterbug to Clean Highway

JACKSON, Mo. (AP) — Thomas Heyde threw a beer can onto U.S. 61 the other day. Magistrate Roland Busch gave him a choice: spend 60 days in jail or two Sundays picking up litter along the highway. Heyde, who is in his 20s, chose to policing the road.

A pretty space psychologist at North American Aviation's Downey plant thinks the world has formed the wrong sleep habits.

Carol Couchman, tanned, attractive Poly High and Long Beach State College graduate, approves of the standard eight hours of shut-eye a night.

However, she believes it should be broken into two four-hour periods. This, she contends, would increase efficiency, permit more effective round-the-clock utilization of workers and ease the peak-hours traffic problem.

* * * *

CAROL AND HER MOTHER, Mrs. Elsie Cole, also a research psychologist for the aerospace firm's Space and Information Systems Division, occasionally form a mother-daughter team at NAA.

The pair, plus Carol's sister, Virginia, all attended Long Beach State at the same time several years ago. Virginia now teaches speech at Buena Park High School.

One project on which Carol and her mother worked together was a recent experiment to test the ability of men to work effectivly in a simulated space station environment.

Four men entered the imitation station and remained for seven days. They were given various tasks to perform similar to those which would be required by a space station crew while their behavior was monitored through closed-circuit television.

THE 24-YEAR-OLD psychologist noted then that the men on the split-sleep regimen displayed more efficiency than those who slept a full eight hours.

She had previously tested her theory to her own satisfaction a year previously while combining work with a course of studies at Long Beach State.

"I never felt better—or accomplished so much—in my life," she says.

Carol, because of her youth and attractiveness, is often mistaken for a secretary by other NAA scientists, who, in this belief, occasionally ask her to type letters for them.

She has a simple answer to their request.

"I can't type," she tells them truthfully.

EIGHT HOURS OF SLEEP is good—but two four-hour naps are better, say Carol Couchman and her mother, Mrs. Elsie Cole, both psychologists.

Wade and Kealer Main Prospects for Mayor

Observers Uncertain of Winner

By GEORGE WEEKS

Two days in advance of the election by the nine city councilmen, Mayor Edwin W. Wade and former Mayor Raymond C. Kealer are the main prospects for a new three-year team as Long Beach's chief officer.

Most councilmen professed to be uncertain of the result. And none was revealing how he will vote.

Following the expiration of the old council's term at midnight tonight, the city will get along without a mayor until the triennial election shortly after 9 a.m. Tuesday.

City Clerk Margaret E. Heartwell will be the acting mayor and will preside over the balloting.

If precedent is followed, the voting will be done secretly on small slips of paper distributed to councilmen by the clerk.

* * * *

The change in councilmanic terms will take place quietly, the new or re-elected members assuming office Monday without ceremony. Most of them have already been sworn in individually.

This year's re-election of seven incumbent councilmen is a contrast with the 1960 outcome, when five new members were chosen and were able to control the election of a mayor and vice mayor. They did so at an informal caucus prior to the official vote.

Unlike many cities, Long Beach pays its mayor exactly the same salary as other councilmen — $200 monthly. He does get perquisites such as a private office, a staff and a $600 annual expense allowance (seldom enough to cover his costs).

The mayor is also a member of five county sanitation district boards which pay $25 fees each for attendance at semi-monthly meetings. Wade, however, has not attended such meetings, delegating that duty to Vice Mayor Bond.

* * * *

MISSING from the council table Tuesday will be two former members of strikingly contrasting types.

Virgil H. Spongberg, quiet but active, has served 14 years in all and nine years continuously. He has been generally regarded as the stabilizing influence during periods of councilmanic stress.

Councilman Andrew Baird, defeated by Hayes, triggered many of those hectic moments. His flamboyant dissents and frequent verbal assaults on other officials produced uproars at nearly every session. He is the only councilman ever to be fined by his colleagues.

At the last meeting of the term on Tuesday, however, they apparently forgave him, adopting a motion wishing him well. It was an afterthought to a formal resolution of praise and a standing ovation for Spongberg.

SHE'LL INVITE ATLANTIC CITY

Puff Derby Champion Envoy of World Fair

Fran Bera, seven-time winner of the Powder Puff Derby, officially will represent the California World's Fair at Long Beach in this year's race from Bakersfield to Atlantic City, N.J., starting July 13.

As good-will ambassador for the fair, she will carry a plaque for presentation to Atlantic City's mayor, inviting him and other residents of the city to the 1967-68 Long Beach event.

Mrs. Bera, chief pilot for Belmont Aviation at Long Beach Municipal Airport, has won the derby—formally known as the All-Woman Transcontinental Air Race—six times as pilot and once as copilot. No other entrant has won more than twice.

* * * *

FLYING a new Beechcraft Bonanza, she will compete without a copilot in the 47-plane field.

Also flying alone will be Mrs. Judy Wagner of 2516 Via La Selva, Palos Verdes Estates, likewise in a Bonanza. Mrs. Wagner, who holds a commercial license with 800 hours flying time, flew in the derby last year for the first time.

Others in the race from this area include Doris Eddy, 3927 Cerritos Ave., and Treasure Zimmerman, 7151 Atlantic Ave., in a Piper Comanche.

Mrs. Eddy, also an 800-hour commercial licensed pilot, will be flying in her second derby. Her copilot, Mrs. Zimmerman, holds a private pilot's license with 54 hours logged.

* * * *

BETTY HICKS, former Long Beach resident and nationally known woman golfer, will be among participants. She will act as copilot for Dee Thurmond of Santa Clara who, with an airline transport rating and 17,000 hours, will be the most experienced pilot in the race.

The derby is flown only in daylight hours and aircraft are carefully handicapped to give all entrants an equal chance. Take-off time from Bakersfield's Meadows Field will be 8 a.m., with entertainer Danny Kaye as honorary starter.

Following take-off of the racers will be an air show featuring the Navy's aerobatic team, the Blue Angels and Army parachutists.

AF Reserve Gets Orders to Oxnard

Long Beach's 8646th Air Force Reserve Recovery Group will head for the Oxnard Air Force Base Aug. 4 for its annual two-week tour of active duty.

The 8646th, composed of men from the Long Beach-Orange County metropolitan area, is commanded by Col. Claude J. Norton, in civilian life resident engineer for the Orange County Flood Control District.

Oxnard Air Force Base is headquarters for the 414th Fighter Group, an integral part of the Air Defense Command, charged with the defense of the Los Angeles area.

* * * *

The 8646th's subordinate unit, the 9624th Air Force Reserve Recovery Squadron, commanded by Lt. Col. Lee Clingan, Downey, also will be at the Oxnard fighter base Aug. 4-17.

Personnel of the two recovery units will be intergrated with regular personnel at the Oxnard Air Force Base for "on-the-job" training.

* * * *

ADMINISTRATIVE and personnel facilities at the Long Beach Base, Spring St. and Redondo Ave., will remain open while the units are in Oxnard.

There are some openings for airmen with prior service in the Long Beach units. Men are on pay status and drill one weekend monthly. Information may be obtained from the personnel office which is open Tuesday through Saturday from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

RONALD REAGAN
Speaks Wednesday

Reagan Will Address Rally Here

Actor Ronald Reagan will speak on 'A Time for Choosing" at a free public meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Long Beach Arena.

The meeting is sponsored by the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, headed by Mel Mould.

Mould said Reagan's address would be a "patriotic message at a time when all Americans should reaffirm their faith in America."

STATE AID COMMENDS CITY

L.B. Is 'Outstanding' in Shelter Program

Long Beach has been cited as an "outstanding example" for the state in developing a fallout shelter program for protection of the public.

Charles Manfred, administrator of the California Disaster Office, presented Mayor Edwin W. Wade with a certificate of commendation "in acknowledgment of your city's considerable contribution to our nation's preparedness program."

The city has signed license agreements for 114 fallout shelters with a capacity of almost 119,000 persons. The shelters have been stocked with survival supplies for 59,000.

In charge of the continuing program is the Long Beach Civil Defense Office, headed by City Manager John R. Mansell and Evar P. Peterson, assistant director.

WESLEY BOLLIGER
Appointed

Pick Bolliger to 'Y' Post

Wesley Bolliger has been appointed assistant general secretary of the Long Beach YMCA, serving in the area of program development and leadership training. He also will serve as executive secretary of the Camp Oakes branch.

Bolliger came from the YMCA of San Francisco where he served for eight years as program secretary. Previous "Y" duties included assignments in Richmond and San Jose.

Sheriff Restricts Badges to Genuine Officers Only

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Sheriff's badges no longer will be issued to any person who is not "directly concerned with executing the policing functions" of the department, Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess announced Friday.

Pitchess said his order is based upon "numerous court decisions and the legal advice of the Los Angeles County Counsel."

Pitchess said the policy of issuing sheriff's badges to persons not engaged in police work is "inconsistent with the requirements of professional law enforcement."

On Vacation

Red Cross Sets Canoe Safety Class

Instruction to the general public in handling a canoe with skill and safety will be offered for the first time by Long Beach Chapter, American Red Cross, from 9 a. m. to noon Saturday at the lifeguard workshop on Santiago Street off Colorado at the Marine Stadium.

Entrance requirements, outlined by Jerry Carver, director of Red Cross safety services, are ability to jump into deep water, fully clothed, swim 100 yards to safety, also self maintenance in water 10 minutes. Pre-registration by telephone to Red Cross Chapter, GE 7-2921, is required.

Mrs. Mickey Dyer, instructor, holds a Red Cross instructor's certificate in canoeing.

Illinois, Michigan Picnic July 21

Illinois and Michigan State Societies of Long Beach will have their annual picnic at Bixby Park, Cherry Avenue and Broadway, on July 21.

The picnic will last from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Stars of Tomorrow will entertain at 12:30 p.m. A Municipal Band concert will be presented at 2:30 p.m.

James B. Baker, 1962-63 vice president of the Norwalk-La Mirada City School District Board of Education has been named president for the coming year.

Baker first was elected to the Board in 1958 and was re-elected for a four-year term last April. He succeeds Leonard Delk who retired from the board on July 1.

Warren Escobar, a member of the board since 1958 also, was elected vice president for the 1963-64 term.

Asks Brown to Restore College Cuts

I. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—Gov. Brown Saturday was asked by a Long Beach State College spokesman for the Association of California State College professors to resubmit all budget cuts affecting state colleges.

The request came in a telegram from Howard E. Kimball of LBSC, president of the association. Kimball said:

"The Association of California State College Professors requests that your budget for the special session include all state college items contained in your previous budget . . . especially crucial are salary increases and funds for research libraries and student health services."

In final legislative action on the budget last June 21, $1.2 million for state college program expansion was slashed. Other cuts: $589,814 in capital outlay, $418,000 in student health services, $500,000 in state college research funds and all recommended salary increases.

CC Forum on Freeway Set

The first of a series of town-hall forums to be sponsored by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce will be held next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Jefferson Junior High School Auditorium, Seventh Street and Euclid Avenue, according to Dr. Orville Cole, chamber president.

Topic of the July meeting will be the Pacific Coast Freeway, stated Charles Evett and Dr. John Harris, cochairmen.

The first program's speakers will present various viewpoints regarding the "cross town freeway" including those of the State Division of Highways, municipal government, businessmen, and property owners.

Other subjects to be covered in a series of free forums in the coming months include socialized medicine, abolishment of capital punishment, banning of books in public schools, and legalized lotteries.

MISS MODEL AVIATION

Miss Irma Rahwyler, 18, of Anaheim, is Miss Model Aviation of 1963 who will reign over the National Model Airplane Meet at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station July 29 through Aug. 4. A graduate of Magnolia High School, Anaheim, her hobbies are snow and water skiing and sailing. She is 5 feet, 5 inches high, weighs 115, and tapes at 35-22-35.

Brown Signs Ban on False Petitioners

I. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—Gov. Brown has signed into law a bill by Assemblyman John Moreno, D-Santa Fe Springs, on false statements by petition circulators.

The Moreno bill makes it a misdemeanor to make false statements to obtain signatures on an initiative, referendum or recall petition.

The governor also signed a bill which makes persons who teach adult classes for 10 hours or less a week ineligible for permanent classification and tenure rights by Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves, D-Artesia.

Mangled Skier 'Satisfactory'

Condition of Dan P. Lewis, 14-year-old water skier whose left hand was severed in an accident in Marine Stadium, was reported as "satisfactory" by Community Hospital Saturday.

The boy, slashed by the propeller of a hydroplane after he fell in the water, also suffered deep gashes to body and legs.

The hydroplane, driven by Leslie John Watson, 20, of 1602 Orangewood Ave., Anaheim, rammed a motorboat operated by the boy's father, Thomas, as young Lewis was trying to climb aboard.

New Styling for Long Beach Beauty Pageant

THE WAYS of the world change. What was considered high fashion yesterday appears rather quaint today.

Yesterday's beauty show, essentially the parading of a flock of good-looking girls back and forth across a platform was fine for its time, but the style is changing; the "beauty contest" has to put some flowers in its hair and learn a song—or go out of business.

SO LONG BEACH'S International Beauty Pageant has added the word "Spectacular" to its name. There'll be as much beauty as there has ever been, but much more pageantry, a new style. Under the expert guidance of its new director, Wayne Dailard, it will be a spectacular event with an entertaining show interwoven with the beauty contest itself.

Heretofore, the entertainment features have been inserted as interludes between contest activities. Dailard plans a logical integration of the two, giving the event unity, balance, and a satisfying harmony such as is achieved in a musical show produced around a central theme.

The best dramatic use will be made of the beauty talent; there will be music suitable to the international theme, professional dancing, ballet. The show each night will be different. Judging of contestants will be merged with the show to save time.

TIME, IN DAILARD'S view, is an important consideration in sustaining public interest. In the past, nightly contest events have run for as long as three and one-half hours. After two and one-half hours interest begins to diminish in almost any show. Dailard hopes to hold this year's pageant to the two-and-one-half-hour length, giving the audience more for its money than ever before—but not too much.

TO SOME persons accustomed to the old format these ideas may seem too drastic and revolutionary. We don't think so. They promise new dimensions of interest just at a time when the traditional "beauty contest" is fading as a serious promotional event for a modern community.

The new format can make Long Beach's annual beauty pageant a bigger and more successful event.

Reform Likely if A.R.A. Is Approved

By the I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The House may possibly approve expansion of the Area Redevelopment program the second time around, but the program's administrator, William L. Batt, seems to be on the way out.

While the vote was cast largely on party lines—with the exception of Southern votes which were cast against the program at its inception—many Democrats fell into line with some reluctance.

It seems to be a generally bipartisan opinion here that the ARA has been administered badly. Liberal Democrats admit that GOP criticism of the program were well justified and that reform is needed.

And some Capitol Hill sources say that the reform is going to start at the top, with Batt. In situations such as this, with an expensive program in disarray, the blame has to be pinpointed somewhere, and there is no likelier candidate.

Actually, the blame should be shared by Congress. Batt evidently has been too accommodating in some instances, for example, providing projects for politicians to take home and show the folks. But the agency itself helped create demands by drumming up business.

In any case, the list of nonsensical horrendous or doubtful projects is long and varied, and is recognized by Democrats as well as Republicans.

SEN. HUBERT HUMPHREY, running five minutes behind schedule as usual, breezed into the Senate television studio last week to make a 15-minute television broadcast. Such senatorial performances are usually given on an immaculate set. The senator sits at a walnut table with a set of leather-bound volumes lending a proper and sober touch to the surroundings. While waiting for Hubert to arrive, however, the camera crew succumbed to a devilish urge. They swept aside the weighty tomes and replaced them with a slovenly display of empty whisky bottles filled with colored water and ashtrays heaped with cigarette butts. Bursting with energy, Humphrey sprinted into the room, seated himself behind the table, smiled into the camera and said, "Let's roll, boys!" The smile slowly froze as he noted for the first time that bottles had replaced books and then Humphrey roared with laughter.

IF YOU ARE interested in statistics, we can tell you that there now reside in Washington some 27,000 diplomats from foreign countries. Don't ask us what they all do, but here they are. We can believe the figures. Sometimes it seems as if all 27,000 are using their diplomatic immunity to park illegally during the afternoon rush hour, thus splendidly slowing traffic.

Russ Infer JFK Cuba Deal on NATO-Warsaw Pact

WASHINGTON—The American people don't always read the fine print in the contracts that their chosen representatives make with foreign governments. Then, a few months later, the clarifying truth sometimes emerges.

Despite the denials last October that any "deal" was made by President Kennedy with the Soviet Union to secure the withdrawal of Soviet missiles from Cuba, it turns out that the Moscow government at least construes it that way now and announces that it intends to hold the American government to its promises—allegedly a recognition of the Communist-bloc countries, including East Germany, as a military alliance confronting NATO.

LAWRENCE

The chain of events has all the earmarks of a carefully planned maneuver in diplomacy. First, Premier Khrushchev made a speech at East Berlin on Tuesday of last week in which he said that a test-ban agreement by itself couldn't lessen the danger of a thermonuclear war, and then added:

"That is why the Soviet government believes that already, at the conclusion of a test-ban agreement, it is necessary to take also another big step toward easing international tension and strengthening confidence between states: to sign a non-aggression pact between the two main military groups of states—the NATO countries and the Warsaw treaty states. . .

* * * *

"A TEST-BAN agreement, combined with the simultaneous signing of a non-aggression pact between the two groups of states, will create a fresh international climate more favorable for a solution of major problems of our time, including disarmament."

American officials were at first said to be "puzzled" by this linking of the two things—the test-ban treaty and the pact with the Communist-bloc countries, including the formal recognition thereby of the puppet regime of East Germany. But it wasn't until First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan made a statement during a Fourth of July reception at the U. S. Embassy in Moscow that the Russian game was disclosed. He said that all conditions for the signing of a partial nuclear-test ban—that is, one not covering underground tests but prohibiting other tests and bypassing inspections—have been met and that it is now up to the West.

News dispatches from Moscow stressed that Mr. Khrushchev had demanded a "simultaneous" signing of the two agreements, and Deputy Premier Mikoyan pointed out that Mr. Kennedy had, in effect, agreed to this concept in a letter which the President wrote to the Soviet Premier last October during the Cuban missile crisis. It read as follows:

"I would like to say again that the United States is very much interested in reducing tensions and halting the arms race; and if your letter signifies that you are prepared to discuss a detente affecting NATO and the Warsaw Pact, we are quite prepared to consider with our allies any useful proposals."

The foregoing was sent by the President on Oct. 27, 1962, and the very next day Mr. Khrushchev announced that he would withdraw Soviet missiles and troops from Cuba.

* * * *

TAKEN literally, Mr. Kennedy's note agreed only to "consider" any useful proposals. He spoke of a "detente," which the dictionaries of diplomacy define, not as meaning any formal agreement; but "a relaxing, as of strained relations between nations."

Mr. Khrushchev says he wants the same thing, but American officials called the ambassadors of Britain, France and West Germany to the State Department in Washington on Wednesday evening to tell them that the United States does not intend to sign a test-ban agreement at the price of recognizing the Warsaw Pact.

* * * *

IT COULD be, of course, that Mr. Khrushchev is stating his highest price now—just before the big conference between East and West on the subject of a test ban opens on July 15 in Moscow—and that he will be willing to accept some variation of the whole plan later on. But it is evident that he construes Mr. Kennedy's letter of Oct. 27, 1962, as a concession and that, if the "deal" isn't lived up to as he wants it—a recognition of the Soviet conquest of the countries of Eastern Europe—then perhaps there will be a slowing down, if not an abandonment, of the promised withdrawal of the 10,000 or more Soviet troops still stationed in Cuba.

All this could mean a choice between two evils—the continued defiance of the Monroe Doctrine, or American acceptance of an unreliable agreement to ban nuclear tests, together with formal American approval of the Soviet occupation of Hungary and the other Communist-bloc countries that once were independent.

'Ornery' Sen. Ellender Could Short-Circuit Electric Line

WASHINGTON—Sen. Allen Ellender, gnarled and sallow, from the bayous of Louisiana, was sitting in a meeting of the Senate Appropriations Committee. Suddenly he blurted:

"I am not for it. I tell you I am going to stop it."

The Louisiana Democrat was protesting against a government inter-tie electric line extending over a thousand miles from Oregon to Southern California to carry surplus power when melted snows give more power than the Northwest can use.

PEARSON

Ellender's blunt objection illustrates two handicaps from which the people of the United States suffer when it comes to making democracy work:

1. One senator, if he is persistent and ornery enough, can stop a project of benefit to great sections of the nation.

2. The Soviet government, which pioneered the inter-tie system, has pushed ahead of us with long range planning and in hooking up its power plants. The United States, handicapped by the Ellenders in the Senate and lack of long range planning, has not yet built one single inter-tie.

* * * *

THE PEOPLE of New York City are now protesting the building of an atomic power reactor by Consolidated Edison within a mile of downtown Manhattan. Over 8 million people in the radius of this reactor would be vulnerable to radioactive poison in case of an accident.

Construction of the reactor is proposed in order to prevent extensive transportation of coal from Pennsylvania and West Virginia to New York. However, an inter-tie high-power transmission line, if built from West Virginia and Pennsylvania to New York City, could save the risk and expense of the Con Ed nuclear plant, and at the same time would give new prosperity to the depressed coal areas which could burn bituminous coal at the mine mouth and transport the power over the inter-tie to the heart of Manhattan.

* * * *

THIS IS the same principle which Secretary of the Interior Udall proposed with the inter-tie line from Oregon to California.

Senator Ellender came to Washington under the wing of the late Sen. Huey Long, who battled against the big utilities. Since Huey's death, his protege has drifted more and more to the side of the big companies which once opposed him, and they have not been unkind to him.

During the battle over sugar, Ellender purchased four acres of extremely valuable residential-oil land on the edge of Houma, La., his hometown, for only $2,500 an acre from the South Downs Sugar Company. The company had refused to sell the land to others at that price. The South Downs Sugar Company was actively engaged in lobbying for a new sugar bill at that time, and its president, Wallace Kemper, had testified before the Senate Agriculture Committee of which Ellender is chairman.

GOP Rx: Mix Necessity and Strategy—Instant Heroes

QUICK, IF NOT INSTANT, heroes are needed by the Republican Party in California if it's going to score in '64. This is the view of some GOP professionals chatting here off the record within the past few days.

Here are some of their opinions on the party today:

HOUSER

The GOP will be at a disadvantage next year. They have fewer seats in Congress as a base of power, no president to lead their ticket and we are a divided party. We should start rebuilding now.

The party in California is without leaders (heroes) and no party works without heroes. The giants of our party have disappeared through one process of self-mutilation or another. There's no one to follow so the troops fight among themselves. We need to do a temporary job of building up quick heroes.

Where does the GOP turn? Obviously to its office holders who have some built-in prominence. In Los Angeles County we have five congressmen since Del Clawson's election in the 23rd District to replace Clyde Doyle. The others are H. Allen Smith, Glenard P. Lipscomb, Alphonzo Bell and Craig Hosmer of Long Beach.

ADVANTAGES of Democrats in a greater power base of elected officials and an incumbent president will make it easier for them to do a rerun of 1962 unless the GOP builds now. One way would be a minimum strategic effort to prepare a war chest for next year.

What about former Sen. Bill Knowland? "I think his main—perhaps only—objective is to lead an uninstructed delegation to the 1964 GOP Convention."

Ronald Reagan, film and TV personality and now a high-demand ultra conservative speaker? "I think Reagan is the 'sleeper' in the whole GOP potential in this state. I'm speaking of the governorship in 1966."

Who will challenge Demo Sen. Clair Engle in 1964? "I see no one at the moment ready to jump in against Engle. Study the history of California U. S. Senators and you have to go a long way to find where an incumbent was beaten by a challenger. They're in either by appointment, as with Knowland and Tom Kuchel, or elected when no incumbent is running, as with Richard Nixon and Engle."

WOULDN'T former governor candidate Joe Shell go for Senate? "He exposed himself as a poor sport after his loss in the primary to Nixon. And that's one quality a hero can't have."

Hosmer's name is getting a lot of play currently. "I think Hosmer might very well go for Senate or for Governor in '66 if circumstances build toward him in the natural chain of events but I don't think you'll find him pushing for these offices without very favorable party rebuilding. He has a good equity in his national position on the Joint Atomic Energy Committee.

"In fact, if Goldwater won the 1964 presidency or even ran a strong enough race to give Republicans control of the House, Hosmer would wind up as chairman of the Joint Committee in 1964."

KUCHEL, "He has prestige in the East, is big nationally but apparently is a prophet without honor in his own state—many people in his own party at his heels here."

Don't think for a minute, said the GOP chatters, that the Democrats don't have their problems in the state. Remember Speaker Jesse Unruh's remark about people leaning to the right after the Clawson victory over Assemblyman Carley Porter?

"And where was Unruh in that contest? Did he want to keep Carley in the Assembly or did he want him to become a congressman for JFK? Unruh, and Democrats generally, apparently did not seriously undertake victory in that race. Oh no, we're not the only ones in trouble!

Andy's Challenge to Marshall Court

EDITOR:

In a recent article written by Mr. William H. Harris that concerned the Supreme Court's second decision on the abolishment of the Lord's Prayer in public schools, Mr. Harris quoted correctly the statement that President Kennedy remarked after the Supreme Court's first decision.

However, I would like to know the primary source where Mr. Harris found his second quoted statement when he remarked that had President Kennedy been the Abraham Lincoln type of American, he would have said to the court: "You made the decision, now let's see you enforce it." As far as my history background is concerned, the person who came nearest to saying such a statement was President Andrew Jackson who is reported to have said: "John Marshall has made his decision; now let him enforce it."

Incidentally, I might add that Andrew Jackson became President in 1828, some 32 years before Abraham Lincoln was to become President.

Inequality By Accident

EDITOR:

I am an American, a little better off than my father, who is somewhat better off than his grandfather, which all takes us back around 100 years, and so goes the history of my family.

I do not now and perhaps never will live in the kind of house I admire in a certain area. For all of that I may never even live in a house like those routinely offered in the newspaper real estate pages. I may never be capable of holding down a job like my smarter older cousin, and I'll bet I won't find a mate among the elite, take a world cruise, have tailor made clothes, own a prestige car or dozens of other coveted things.

But Henry Ford's grandchildren can have all of those things and most anything their hearts desire, including welcomes from Presidents, Princes and Popes. Now what's equal about such inequality?

"By accident of birth" is as good a reason as any to retard my entry into many realms. This, and the logic that we haven't all advanced at the same rate, and to the same stage, I accept as fact.

My color? I am white, lower middle class, but I'm not looking for a Champion to plunge Society into a whirlpool. Most of us still need water-wings to stay afloat even in a placid pond.

A Third Way to Be 'Buried'

EDITOR:

One would think from your editorial, "The Aims Are the Same," that there were only two ways that communism can "bury" capitalism: 1) militarily and 2) by something you call "coexistence" which was undefined in your editorial but which was presumably very bad.

But there is a third way: the Russians can "bury" us by out-producing us—and they fully intend to do so. Communism's main claim to superiority over Capitalism is the claim that it can outproduce Capitalism and will therefore win in a peaceful world by the sheer example of its greater efficiency in production. Unfortunately for the Russians, this is not working out in practice.

It is the U. S.—not Russia—which is producing enough to keep its people living in Olympian luxury while having enough to send overseas to succour the less fortunate.

But the American nation has been brainwashed into forgetting that Capitalism has not always enjoyed such high production. Especially the younger citizens have been victimized into thinking the Great Depression of the 1930s never happened. There was starvation in this land, then; and production was—well, inconspicuous.

If we ever return to the "Let Business alone" days of the pre-Roosevelt era; if the many laws passed to regulate cut-throat business practices are ever repealed; and if laws protecting the working man and his job are ever repudiated—and these are the announced aim of the Goldwater-Rightist forces today—then we can count on the same result as before: Depression . . . and the Battle of Production will have been won by Russia.

Information from a reader:

"Based on your column about the meaning of Arab names, I should like to submit that the two California senators have their names from Engel (angel) and Kuchen (cake); so, if you put them together, it means "angel cake." S. Musafia, Long Beach, Calif.

A good observation, although we are of the opinion that Mr. Kuchel's name is the Bavarian word for "kitchen." Therefore, the combination would be "angel's kitchen" (where, undoubtedly, angel cake would be made).

Question from a reader:

"Why are the French-speaking people in Louisiana called 'Cajuns'? P. Gomez, Baton Rouge, La.

"Cajun" is a corruption of Acadien or, in English, Acadian. The ancestors of many French-speaking Louisianans were transported, or driven, by the British away from Acadie, a section of Canada which they had named and which was subsequently settled by Scots and renamed Nova Scotia. The majority of the refugees found haven along and near our Gulf Coast. A peculiarity of the Canadian French accent is to make the d sound somewhat like a "zh", comparable to the sound of "s" is "pleasure." Hence, "Cajun."

Credit Card Loser Liable for Charges

NEW YORK (AP) — If you don't report losing your credit card and the finder uses it, you're liable for the charges, a State Appeals Court has ruled.

The case involved a Bronx real estate man who lost his gasoline credit card. The finder bought $595 worth of gasoline, tires and oil.

ROYAL BALLET SCHOOL FOR COLLEEN

Mother's War-Ruined Dream Brought to Life

By MARK CLUTTER

A young Irish ballet dancer was on wartime nursing duty in London when the Nazis bombed her hospital.

A rescue squad dug Anne Roche out of the rubble. She lived, but part of her died. Injuries had terminated her career as a dancer. The Nazis had killed her dream.

But dreams have a way of coming to life again.

Starting in September, the dancer of long ago will spend two years very close to ballet.

* * * *

WITH HER then in the British Isles will be her red-haired 16-year-old daughter, a Long Beach ballet student who has auditioned and been accepted by the Royal Ballet School in London.

The mother, also red-haired, now is the wife of Col. Paul Cool, Air Force chief of configuration and control in the Minuteman missile program. The daughter, appropriately named Colleen, is a student of the Audrey Share School of Dance, 1122 E. Wardlow Road.

The Royal Ballet is on tour of the United States and has auditioned between 50 and 60 would-be ballerinas. Colleen is the third to be accepted.

The Cools have a home at 27628 Warrior Road, Palos Verdes, but after the fashion of service personnel, they get to spend little time in it. They now are stationed in San Bernardino.

ELFIN COLLEEN COOL PRACTICES BALLET

THE WORD "home" means something else to Mrs. Cool. "I hope we can leave by August," she said. "I want to go home. That's Dublin, of course."

Until the transfer, Colleen was a student at Marymount School on the Palos Verdes Peninsula. She attended Ramona Convent School in Alhambra more recently. But changing schools is old stuff to Colleen. She was born in Kansas, but has lived in China, Japan, various parts of the United States and Europe.

"I guess you're rather proud of your daughter," someone said to Mrs. Cool.

"I guess so," she said. She likes understatements.

Covenant on Homes Set Today

An "inclusive housing covenant" recently adopted by directors of the Long Beach Council of Churches will be read at a mass meeting today of the United Civil Rights Committee.

The meeting, second of its kind to be held here, is set for 3 p.m. in St. John Baptist Church, 10th Street at Olive Avenue.

* * * *

COUNCIL members instructed that the covenant be sent to member churches as start of a campaign to eliminate discrimination in housing. An accompanying letter recommends presentation of the document to congregations beginning the weekend of July 26.

The directors emphasized that they are "commending the statement and recommending implementation, realizing that the decision on such action must be made at the local church level." It was stated that methods of soliciting signatures will be decided by individual congregations.

* * * *

THE PLEDGE:

"We, the undersigned homeowners and or renters believe in an open and inclusive community and would be happy to welcome into our neighborhood with personal interest our fellow citizens regardless of their race or creed."

The directors said the covenant statement "will offer opportunity for individuals to register their willingness to welcome into their neighborhoods all persons on an individual basis, regardless of their race, their color or their creed."

William Lambie Last Rite Set for Tuesday

Service for William Lambie, 76, founder and owner of the Lambie Propeller Co., will be Tuesday at 10 a.m. in Calvary Presbyterian Church, Wilmington.

Lambie, of 306 E. M St., Wilmington, died Thursday. He had been a resident of the Harbor area 47 years, and was widely known as a naval architect and marine engineer.

He was a member of the Bilge Club and of A.F.&A.M. Lodge 198. He was a native of Scotland.

Lambie is survived by his wife, Marion; son, Robert; daughters, Marion Burleson, Mary Margaret Lambie, and four grandchildren.

Burial will be in Green Hills Memorial Park. McNerney's Mortuary, Wilmington, is in charge.

NAVY PROMOTES HARRY FRISHMAN

Raised to Captain in Reserve

Promotion of Harry B. Frishman from commander to captain in the United States Naval Reserve has been announced by the Secretary of the Navy.

The promotion is dated back to Nov. 1, 1962.

The unit (NROS 11-4) is one of the largest in the nation and is ranked No. 1 in the 11th Naval District. A total of 546 reserve officers completed courses offered by the unit in the past school year.

CAPT. HARRY FRISHMAN
Promotion Announced

Although approximately 90 per cent of the student officers are in the Naval Reserve, the unit also serves offices in the Marine, Coast Guard, Air Force and Army Reserves. Twenty-two courses ranging from guided missiles and space technology to oceanography and nuclear power are taught in the school, whose object is to keep reserve officers combat-ready and update training by providing instruction in areas that have undergone rapid advancement in the postwar period.

Prior to taking command of NROS 11-4, Capt. Frishman was chief of staff and commanding officer of Naval Reserve Surface Battalion 11-1, which trained reserve recruits for active duty assignments with the Navy, and is located at the Long Beach Naval Reserve Training Center.

Frishman is director of publications for the Long Beach Unified School District.

Bandit Robs Buena Park S&L Firm

A well-dressed bandit held up the Home Savings & Loan Association branch office in Buena Park Saturday afternoon, police reported.

Officials at the firm were unable to say exactly how much money was taken at the Beach Boulevard and La Palma Avenue office, but police said the loot may have run as high as $1,000.

Zoo Giraffe Kills 80-Year-Old Man

CINCINNATI (AP)—The second victim of Champ the giraffe, 80-year-old Fred Liermann, died Saturday in Christ Hospital.

Liermann suffered a skull fracture Friday when he stepped over a chain fence in the Cincinnati zoo and tried to pat the animal. The giraffe swung his head, knocking Liermann into an eight-foot deep dry moat. Zoo officials said Champ killed his mate shortly after he was brought here years ago.

ST. MARY'S HOSPITAL

Keeps Pace With Modern Medicine

By BEN ZINSER
I, P-T Medical Editor

St. Mary's Hospital, long a bellwether of medical progress in Long Beach, looks forward to keeping pace with the march of modern medicine.

First in Long Beach with a heart-lung machine, first with the artificial kidney, St. Mary's now is either shaping or already conducting programs involving data processing, nuclear medicine, electronic diagnosis and research.

This scientific medical mix does not neglect the emphasis on personal patient care. It merely enhances it, hospital officials says.

NEWEST ADDITION to the personal touch is an extension of patient care known as bibliotherapy. Reading aids are to be given to patients.

New invasions of surgery's last frontier—repair of the heart—are envisaged in St. Mary's plans. Soon to be scheduled: placement of two artificial valves in a single human heart.

Also upcoming: new-type studies of the coronary arteries, with the hope they will lead to additional salvage of heart-attack victims through surgery. More than $100,000 is being sought to implement this one program.

THE ARTIFICIAL KIDNEY, now used to save lives of those afflicted with acute kidney shutdown, may be called into use soon to treat persons with chronic kidney failure.

The hospital's heart-lung machine, which enriches oxygen-poor blood and then pumps it through the body while surgeons repair the natural heart, will continue to be used in conjunction with protective "deep freeze" procedures in the operating room. Even now, three to four heart operations are performed monthly at St. Mary's.

Starting Oct. 1 all medical records will be coded and fed into modern data-processing machines. Speedy retrieval of medical information under this system will provide new diagnostic aids and strengthen medical research programs.

A FULL-TIME physicst, Clayton Douglas, is now on the hospital staff, to augment the hospital's nuclear medicine program. Douglas says 18 diagnostic tests involving the use of radioactive materials now can be performed at St. Mary's.

One of the newer tests—the T3—makes it possible for a patient to be tested for thyroid abnormality without the necessity of swallowing radioactive material. A sample of blood is drawn, and the test is performed outside the patient's body.

ST. MARY'S LABORATORY continues to add electronic gear to provide rapid, precise test determinations. These instruments, says biochemist H. O. Carne, are enabling the hospital to hold down the cost of laboratory tests.

Expansion of research activities is foreseen by Dr. H. Richard Casdorph, director of medical education. A research lab is in the early planning stage, he says.

Medical education continues to be a big item on the hospital's agenda. St. Mary's has expanded its intern program and also is continuing to train X-ray and laboratory technicians. There also are training programs for student nurses from Long Beach State College, surgical clerks from California College of Medicine and radiology students from UCLA. The pathology department trains physicians.

Outstanding authorities in various fields of medicine are guest lecturers once a month at St. Mary's.

ST. MARY'S, now a 355-bed facility, last year served 16,984 inpatients and 41,000 outpatients—biggest patient load in the hospital's 40-year history.

In the works are a new and larger laboratory, an expansion of the X-ray department, enlargement of physical therapy facilities, new quarters for the pharmacy.

Under the direction of Sister Mary Laura, administrator, the hospital is operated by 28 Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word. The work force totals nearly 800 full-time employes.

Tremendous strides have been made in the expansion of St. Mary's medical library. This facility has doubled the scope of its operation in a year's time.

HEADED BY Mrs. Pauline Kelvin, former chief of the cataloging department for the Mayo Clinic medical library, the St. Mary's library receives 250 scientific journals each month. Bound volumes—books and journals—now are approaching the 4,000 mark.

PAULINE KELVIN
Medical Librarian

A new study room, with 12 individual reading lamps and locked bookcases, is being readied for doctors working on special research projects. It's located off the main reading room.

A permanent exhibit case, containing books and journal articles by upcoming guest lecturers, is located just outside the library's main entrance.

Mrs. Kelvin's enthusiasm is unbounded. She likes to quote the famous physician Sir William Osler: "It is hard for me to speak of the value of libraries in terms which would not seem exaggerated."

In her opinion a medical library is not just for doctors. As a consequence a special section has been set up for nurses. And now a new role for a medical library is being explored: bibliotherapy for patients.

PHASE 1, for children, already has been put into operation. Selected books are sent to young patients—"to take their minds off pain."

These include "books they can tear up."

Soon to be initiated is a reading program involving adult patients and parents of young patients. Special publications will be provided to doctors for distribution to these persons.

They will include pamphlets telling what to do for the preschool child who is blind, or for children afflicted with cleft palate, epilepsy, hearing impairment, rheumatic fever, mental retardation.

For the adult patients there will be publications to aid the amputee, the cancer victim, the new coronary patient.

St. Mary's aim: better patient care, whether it be achieved through bibliotherapy, computer, radioactive medicine or a better-trained nurse.

IN TEXAS, LOUISIANA

Mosquitos Plague Bathers, Kill Stock

HOUSTON (UPI)—Growing swarms of pesky mosquitoes ranged across Texas and Louisiana Saturday, attacking anything that moved.

Farmers in Louisiana claimed the hordes of bugs had killed millions of dollars worth of livestock. The holiday weekend in both states was ruined for thousands.

* * * *

RECENT heavy rain was blamed for the suddenly huge mosquito population in most areas. Wet weather produced ideal conditions for both fresh water mosquitoes and their larger salt-marsh cousins. Both varities are considered simply pests. Neither is a disease carrier.

"Our subdivision has been established two years," said a resident of Houston's Dumbarton Village neighborhood. "This is the first time we've ever had our backyard barbecue broken up by clouds of mosquitoes."

The mosquito nuisance was spotty around Houston. The county health department has received many complaints from some areas. But the city sanitation office said the total number of complaints it has received is about normal for this time of the year

Mosquitoes were pesky in the Amarillo and Lubbock areas of the Panhandle and plains, but a survey showed they were losing out to a combination of spraying and receding water.

* * * *

THERE WERE four suspected cases of encephalitis (sleeping sickness) in the Lubbock area, but Dr. David Cowgill of the county health department said three were determined to have been caused by other carriers than mosquitoes. There was no report on the cause of the fourth case.

At Port Arthur, it was a dry spring rather than a wet early summer that produced the biggest mosquito hatch.

"Because of the dry spring, lots of farmers irrigated their pastures as well as their rice fields," an official of the Jefferson County Mosquito Control District explained.

This increased the breeding area for rice-field mosquitoes.

2 Lobbying Firms Set for Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate investigators will hold public hearings next week on the lobbying activities of two New York public relations firms on behalf of foreign interests.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which is looking into lobbying by Americans for foreign governments and business, has tentatively planned two days of hearings.

In addition, the group also expects to make public testimony by officials of both firms taken at closed-door sessions earlier this year.

The firms are Hamilton Wright Organization, Inc., and Selvage and Lee.

* * * *

THE COMMITTEE has been digging into activities of the Wright firm in representing the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa and the Union of South Africa.

Several officials of Selvage and Lee have been questioned in closed sessions about their firm's lobbying for an organization known as the Overseas Companies of Portugal.

The committee, headed by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., is tentatively planning to question Hamilton Wright, Sr., founder and head of the Wright firm, and his son, Hamilton, Jr.

James Cope, chairman of the board of Selvage and Lee, and Morris Lee, president of the firm, probably will be called to testify publicy on their agency's activities.

$65,488 for Plowing Under Billboard Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first bonus payment to a state for prohibiting billboard advertising along interstate highways will be presented Monday to Kentucky.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges will make the presentation of the $65,488 check to Gov. Bert C. Combs.

Kentucky is the first state to comply with the provisions of the law which allows a bonus of one-half of 1 per cent of the Federal grant on interstate highways to any state which prohibits billboard advertising along interstate highways.

Nineteen states have indicated that they intend to comply with the bonus provisions, and have signed agreements with the Bureau of Public Roads.

Chinese Reds Exterminating, Eating Dogs

ROME (UPI) — Communist Chinese authorities who launched a war of extermination against sparrows a few years ago, are now killing dogs to save food for the people, the Italian news agency Continentale reported.

Dogs which are not killed are being raised in cages and will be eaten, it said.

The idea, it said, was that all animals which are not useful should be wiped out because they consume precious food.

Youngster Admits Setting $35,000 Blaze

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—An eight-year-old boy admitted setting two multiple-alarm fires that inflicted $35,000 damage to a complex of warehouses and wharves along the Buffalo River Friday night, police said Saturday.

The boy, not identifled, was picked up as he gazed at the second fire, a three-alarm blaze, which broke out about three hours after the first, a five-alarm fire, police said.

50 to Seek Valuation Reduction

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Fifty Los Angeles County property owners are scheduled to appear Monday before the Board of Supervisors when it opens its annual hearings as a board of equalization.

Proceedings will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the hearing room of the Hall of Administration, 500 W. Temple St., Los Angeles.

Property owners who object to the valuation placed on their property by County Assessor Philip E. Watson may appear before the board and seek an adjustment.

* * * *

GORDON NESVIG, clerk of the board, emphasized that the hearings are not for the purpose of protesting high taxes.

Only basis for changing an assessment is that it is not comparable to that placed on similar property in the county, Nesvig pointed out.

Petitions for assessment hearings this year have been running somewhat less than in 1962. Slightly over 100 petitions had been received by closing time Friday. About 120 were received during the same period last year.

Total of petitions heard last year by the board of equalization was 1,026. The number is expected to be under that this year.

* * * *

ONE OF the major equalization petitions will be that of Walter O'Malley and the Los Angeles Dodgers baseball club. O'Malley has objected to the $8.3-million assessment placed by Watson on Dodger holdings in Chavez Ravine.

Supervisors set July 24 for hearing on this petition. The whole day has been allocated for the arguments.

Most petitioners, however, are expected to be handled on an average of about 10 an hour.

Petitions for equalization will be accepted until 5 p.m. Monday, July 15. Date and time of an individual's hearing is set when his petition is filed.

Hearing Just Can't Be Heard

A hearing scheduled for Monday before the City Bureau of Franchises on a proposed taxicab rate increase won't be held at least on that day.

Reason: no bureau.

Because the terms of city councilmen expire at midnight tonight, the council-appointed agency will be dormat if not actually out of existence until new members are named, possibly Tuesday. Four of the members are councilmen, among them Virgil H. Spongberg, whose term is expiring.

* * * *

ACTING ON advice from the city attorney's office, City Manager John R. Mansell, bureau chairman, announced that the hearing has been called off. Most likely new date is Aug. 12.

The original hearing date was set two months ago before bureau members had consulted the calendar for the change in councilmanic terms.

Diamond and Yellow Cab companies are seeking to boost rates for longer rides by charging 10 cents for each additional quarter-mile instead of one-third mile. They are asking for no change in the 50-cent charge for the first quarter-mile.

Purse Thief's Victim Sought

Have you been robbed?

Somebody was, and Long Beach police wish they knew who. They've got a couple of suspects in custody but no victim.

Two Torrance men, Roy L. Presley, 20, of 22715 Nicolle Ave., and Frank M. Brace, 18, of 21008 New Hampshire St., reportedly have admitted grabbing a woman's purse.

But officers were unable to find the owner when they were summoned to the 1400-block of Long Beach Boulevard Thursday morning. The suspects still were there, though.

Their car had stalled. Police arrested them, and the purse was recovered from a nearby yard.

The case is ready to be closed, except for the missing victim, who may have thought the whole business wasn't worth the bother.

Her purse, police said, contained only a single penny.

Cancer Claims Veteran Pilot Edmond Kelly

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Veteran pilot Edmond (Ted) Kelly, 54, died of cancer Friday at his home in Playa del Rey.

He was a barnstormer in the days before World War II and was a pilot for T. Claude Ryan, founder of Ryan Aeronautical, San Diego, and for Vultee Aircraft Corp. He entered the Air Force when the war came and rose to major.

In recent years he was an executive of the Flying Tiger Line, Los Angeles, and developed the Kelly aerial tow target used by the Air Force and Navy in areial gunnery practice.

Bookies Say No, But Moffitt Confident of Victory Monday

WIMBLEDON, Eng., (UPI)—Heavy rains Saturday postponed until Monday the Wimbledon women's tennis final between American "upset queen" Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., and heavily-favored Australian Margaret Smith, but Miss Moffitt refused to let the delay get on her nerves.

It was the first time in 27 years and only the third time in the 77-year history of the famed tournament that play has not been completed within the scheduled two weeks.

The officials tried their best to get in at least the Moffitt-Smith match as a crowd of 17,000 waited despite the downpour at the courts of the All-England Club. As hour after hour passed with no letup in the rain, many in the crowd became convinced there would be no action Saturday and went home. The rain finally ceased at 5:55 p.m.

But at 6:07 p.m. All-England Club secretary Mike Gibson announced to the waiting thousands: "Owing to the fading light and unsafe conditions of the court, and the weather forecast, there will be no play today."

There were a few ironic cheers, and the crowd began to leave.

Miss Moffitt, 19-year-old bespectacled student at Los Angeles State College, refused to become upset either by the delay or by the fact that English bookies consider the top-seeded Miss Smith such an overwhelming favorite that they won't even quote a price on her. Miss Moffitt is rated at 5 to 2.

But Billie Jean, who has become the darling of the galleries as a result of three straight wins over star players, was calm and cool as she posed for photographs. She said the weather didn't bother her "in the least."

Asked if she was nervous, she said, "No—should I be?"

Will she win? "I'll have a good try."

Whatever the result of Monday's match, it will be a "first" for this historic tournament. If Miss Moffitt can confound Miss Smith, the seedings committee, and the bookies all in one swoop by scoring what would be a stunning upset, she will be the first unseeded women's champion.

If Miss Smith wins, she will be the first Australian to win a Wimbledon singles crown — although Aussie men have been dominating their division in recent years.

Miss Smith has a score to settle with Miss Moffitt in this tournament. Last year, Billie Jean made Margaret a victim of one of her patented surprises, beating the Aussie star in an early round.

Miss Smith also has her eye on a "hat trick" of championships. She also is in the final round of two doubles competitions — with Robyn Ebbern of Australia against Darlene Hard of Los Angeles and Maria Bueno of Brazil in women's doubles, and with Ken Fletcher of Australia against Miss Hard and Bob Hewitt of Australia in mixed doubles.

Y Flash Nips Get Around in Derby

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

A Nevada-bred colt was as hot Saturday as the dice tables in his home state—and that's why Y Flash is the undisputed three-year-old champion of the West today.

The 11-1 shot bided his time like any good gambler, then poured on the coals when he found running room in the stretch and got up in the last second to bag the $124,100 Hollywood Derby before 49,426 witnesses.

The colt from one of the hottest stables in the country—the J. K. Houssels string—inched his nostrils barely ahead of the sport's travelling salesman (and race favorite), Get Around, who previously had rubbed manes with such social figures as Candy Spots and Chateaugay.

Olympiad King was third, with Three Links next in the dramatic four-horse blanket finish. The margin between the first and fourth colt was a half-length.

Y Flash supporters were rewarded with a $25.20 win payoff.

Going off at less than 2-1, Get Around seemed to have the rich classic wrapped up until his gas tank sprung a leak a few dozen yards from the wire. Considering that the colt has raced on seven different tracks in his eight lifetime outings, one would have to think seriously his transmission needs rest.

Three Links and Viking Spirit set all the pace for the first mile of the mile and one-quarter chase before encountering any serious challenges.

At this point, Y Flash was running fourth—after being way back in the No. 8 slot a furlong earlier—and then the pit boss in the saddle, Eddie Burns, made the move that won the race. Eddie moved his colt to the outside of the other three animals, found the necessary running room and dug in with his spurs.

The chase to the wire was a ding-dong affair with Olympiad King moving almost with Y Flash and Viking Spirit giving up the ghost. Maybe Get Around moved too early . . . maybe Y Flash was too strong . . . but in the final strides, the Nevada colt caught the traveller and lunged to his narrow triumph.

Y Flash had won only one race this year—in his last outing, a division of the stepping-stone Cinema Handicap. His last previous triumph was a year ago at this same track—when he won a division of the $100,000 Juvenile Championship and his stablemate, now-deceased Noti, sacked the other.

Both Burns and Manuel Ycaza (astride Get Around) thought Y Flash had a big chance, even though the betting public let the colt get away at a fat price.

"I was happy to get the mount because I really like the colt," commented Burns. "He's got guts—and every jockey likes that."

"It's a funny thing," declared Ycaza, "talking with the trainer this morning we settled on Y Flash as the horse to beat, since we thought he was the only tough one at the distance."

Burns expounded further:

"I've never seen a horse sharper than this one. He has speed, but when you use it early he hangs in the stretch. So I laid back and waited. There were four of us going about head-and-head and I started around the others along the curve. But a horse was going out, so I headed back to the inside. Once we swing to the outside for running room in the stretch he was flying and I knew at the eighth pole we had them. But, boy, when he did get to the front a few jumps from the wire he started pricking his ears and pulling up, and I had to get after him to get the job done."

YCAZA OFFERED NO EXCUSES:

"Everything went perfect for us early. I was moving up slowly, saving every ounce of energy I could for the drive. When we got head-and-head with the leaders, I got into my colt and he moved a neck clear. Then he began to tire and I knew if something was running from behind, we'd be in trouble. He kept trying when Y Flash came to us, but he couldn't hold him."

The win was noted as "the greatest thrill of my career" by owner Houssels, who has been racing horses for 30 years. Outside of the old favorite, Bymeabond, Houssels has boasted few class horses until this year. Now, he's captured five stakes at Hollypark alone and his stable of stars is young enough to keep winning for the next three years.

Disaster almost struck a few yards from the wire when the longest-priced entrant, Lak Nak (82-1), stumbled. Jockey Bud Giacomelli was unseated, but managed somehow to hold on under his colt's neck before falling off 80 yards further. The rider's pride was the only thing injured.

Dodgers' Goofs Cost Big D Again

By GEORGE LEDERER

When they handed out luck, Don Drysdale must have thought they said "duck," because he did and thereby forgot to get in line.

Saturday was another one of those days when Drysdale couldn't have won at solitaire with a marked deck of cards. As a matter of fact, the deck was stacked against him as Cincinnati ended a five-game Dodger winning streak, 3-1.

Not even 3,000 nuns, guests of the management, could keep the Dodgers in the winning habit.

* * * *

THE CINCY runs were cheaper than Roman candles three days after the Fourth of July and, were it not for misplays afield, Drysdale would have pocketed his second successive shutout victory.

Instead, Drysdale receipted for his 10th loss and the Dodgers saw their National League lead shaved to two games over the Giants.

Of small consolation was that Drysdale managed to reduce his earned run average three decimal points to 2.74 in eight innings during which he dispensed but three legitimate hits.

Three other hits in the fourth inning had all the authority of being stroked with a wet Sporting News, yet these cost Drysdale two runs and the ball game.

With one out in the fourth, Bob Skinner blooped a handle hit to center and Vada Pinson followed with a broken-bat single to left. Both runners advanced as Frank Robinson grounded out and when Gordy Coleman popped up near second base, Drysdale could hold his head high for a remarkable job of clutch pitching.

DODGER OF DAY

MAURY WILLS Singled three times as Dodgers lost to Cincinnati, 3-1.

The trouble was, however, that Jim Gilliam couldn't follow suit, although he tried. When Gilliam looked skyward, he saw only the bright sun and lost the ball, which dropped behind him. Both runners scored and Coleman was credited with a double that would be considered short even by Joe E. Lewis.

* * * *

GILLIAM had no excuses. He had his sunglasses on and simply admitted, "I lost it in the sun."

The second defensive mishap occurred in the eighth inning with the Reds leading 2-1. With two out and Pete Rose on first base, catcher John Roseboro was guilty of a passed ball, allowing Rose to move into scoring position for Skinner's second single. It was the 13th unearned run of the season at Drysdale's expense.

The Dodgers were guilty, also, of a gross offensive blunder after Maury Wills drag-bunted for a base hit to start the sixth inning.

Gilliam, out to make amends, followed with a double to the right field corner, but Wills, trying to score from first with none out, was tagged out by catcher John Edwards, who had the plate well blocked.

* * * *

MANAGER Walter Alston did not explain why coach Pete Reiser waved Wills home, but did admit "we should have won it 2-0."

HOWARD SCORES A HIT

FRANK HOWARD, 6-7 Dodger outfielder, finds himself popular with some of several thousand nuns attending Saturday's game against Cincinnati. However, Frank couldn't get to first base against Reds. As far as basehits were concerned, he got "none."

Greta Andersen Set Again

The 32-year-old housewife, who may outlast Warren Spahn or Ben Agajanian, is getting ready for 125 miles of competitive swimming over a three-week period.

The gal who has conquered the English Channel, Catalina Channel and a few thousand other bodies of water leaves Long Beach in 10 days for Atlantic City, N. J., where she will compete in a 25-mile grind July 23.

Her second appearance is set for Aug. 4 at Lake St. John, Quebec, a 25-mile route. If she isn't water-logged, she'll then compete in the Canadian National Exhibition (15 miles) Aug. 16, while four days later comes the gruelling 60-mile Lake Michigan swim.

No rest for the wicked. Even though the above swims constitute her planned itinerary, Greta has more action in mind, i.e., the Strait of Messina between Sicily and the Italian mainland, the Mackinac Straits in Michigan, the Bosporus (Istanbul) and the Dardanelles (off Turkey).

"A person who claims to be a marathon swimmer has recently completed a number of short, well-known channel swims over a period of one year. They were all first-time swims and therefore claimed as records. My ambition is to better all of them—and to accomplish this within a FEW DAYS."

This should serve as a warning to other would-be pretenders: Never challenge the world's greatest long-distance woman swimmer!

ON EACH OF HER four planned journeys, Greta has these comments:

Atlantic City—"The best I ever did there was second to the Dutchman, Herman Willemsie. Last year I was hit against the rocks, cutting myself badly and bleeding for most of the swim. But this year I'm determined to stay up with the Dutchman—and, if I miss the rocks, to beat him."

Lake St. John—"The water in this Canadian lake is very cold and dark brown. It gives you a strange feeling when pulling through this water and being unable to see your hands or arms. Few people in this town speak English, but everyone is very friendly."

Canadian National Exhibition—"This race is held on a triangular course of one mile, so that 200,000 people—which they reported watched the swim last year—will have a perfect view of the whole thing."

Lake Michigan—"This 60-miles from Chicago to Benton Harbor will be the biggest challenge of my life. Yes, even bigger than the English Channel or swimming Catalina both ways non-stop. As I found out last year, this could be a very treacherous swim as I'll be in the water BETWEEN 30 AND 50 HOURS, and in that long period of time conditions cannot be predicted. But the $15,000 first prize (Note: Which Greta won last year) makes it worthwhile."

GRETA IS MORE CONFIDENT this year than she has been at any other stage of her 15-year career. She credits the confidence to the help of three men—Frank Sullivan, athletic director at the Pacific Coast Club; Dr. Wilfred Slater, himself still a noted marathon swimmer at the age of 55, and her timer, Bill Beggs.

"Coach Sullivan helped me increase my strength and speed by lifting weights and doing sprints in the Coast Club pool.

"Dr. Slater plans to accompany me on my swims. He has been checking me out regularly since October to see that my diet and physical condition is at its best all the time."

The Danish-born mermaid always has been strict in her training routines—10 hours sleep per night, and absolutely NO smoking, drinking or parties—but this year she has regimented herself even more.

"I learned a lot from that Lake Michigan swim last year," explains Greta. "When I completed the 50 miles I was completely exhausted and had to stay in a hospital for two days to recover from the effects of exhaustion. I was in good shape then, but am even better now."

"They probably feel the same loneliness I experience on my long swims," she believes. "The only difference is that they gamble their life, but usually walk out in good condition . . . and I walk out 20 pounds lighter, my fingers and hands shrivelled, and my face so swollen that my eyes are almost shut."

Greta admits to only one obsession—hatred of people who claim female swimmers aren't glamorous . . . and if you'd desire a swollen face yourself, mention this to Greta sometime!

REDLEGS' FINAL TALLY UNEARNED

Cincinnati's Pete Rose slides under Dodger catcher Johnny Roseboro for final run in eighth inning Saturday as umpire Ken Burkhart looks on. Rose had gone to second on a passed ball and scored on single.

Although restricted to seven hits by Jim Maloney (13-3), the Dodgers seldom hit the ball harder. Maloney's best pitch obviously was the at-'em ball because practically every line drive was hit directly at a Red.

* * * *

ROBINSON speared sinking liners by Ron Fairly (in the fourth) and Roseboro (in the fifth) and shortstop Leo Cardenas must have been surprised to see Drysdale's liner stick in his glove to end the fifth.

The Cincinnati outfield probably hasn't worked harder since spring training. There were 13 putouts in the outfield, eight by Robinson in right.

Maury Wills, picking up eight points to .319, led the Dodgers with three singles. Gilliam had two hits. The bottom five men in the order were blanked, however, as Maloney achieved his second victory over the Dodgers in six career decisions.

* * * *

THE LOSS was only the second for Drysdale during the month of July in the past five seasons.

The series and Dodger home stand conclude with a doubleheader today, matching Sandy Koufax (13-3) and Bob Purkey (3-4) in the opener, followed by Nick Willhite (1-2) vs. John Tsitouris (4-2).

Rig Talks in Vain, Angels Lose Again

By ROSS NEWHAN
L. P-T Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Ken McBride proved his elbow is again healthy Saturday but the Angels remained in critical condition.

Not even a pre-game clubhouse lecture during which manager Bill Rigney pleaded for greater hustle on the field and conformity to curfew and club regulations off the field could stir the Angels out of the lethargy which has produced six consecutive defeats—the longest wrong way streak since 1961.

McBride wiped away the question mark behind his All-Star Game nomination by toiling a brilliant eight and one-third innings. He deserved to win his seventh straight, but considering the way the Angels are hitting he was fortunate to come away with no decision.

Art Fowler sustained his first defeat of the year as the Senators sent 6,411 faithful away happy with a 3-2 decision in 10 tense innings.

* * * *

FOR THE "streaking" Senators, it was their fifth victory in a row, matching the longest such streak of the last nine years. The capitol crew's capers crashed the Angels 11 games out of the league lead and left them with only two victories in nine contests on this trip.

Leon Wagner reappeared to slug his 20th homer, but the Angels collected only three other hits off a quartet of Senator pitchers who reduced the Cherubs' runs-per-game average during this losing streak to 2.6.

Ex-Angel Ronnie Kline picked up his first victory against three defeats as he retired his former mates in the 10th inning. Felix Torres rapped Kline's first pitch for a single, but Charlie Dees, with only one hit in his last 19 at-bats, then bounced into a double play after first missing the sacrifice sign and then missing on a bunt attempt.

* * * *

FOWLER (3-1) opened the fateful frame by walking Jim King, Chuck Hinton forced King at second, but All-Star Game catcher Don Leppert sliced a drive which dropped just inside the rightfield line. The fleet Hinton wheeled around third and just nosed out Joe Koppe's relay from Lee Thomas.

The extra-inning defeat was only the Angels' third in 10 overtime contests.

The Senators drew first blood two batters into the game when Dick Phillips cracked his first major league home run. The Angels finally tied it in the fifth which Thomas opened with a double off Steve Ridzik, who came on to pitch in the second when starter Dave Stenhouse developed elbow trouble of his own.

Ridzik's wild pitch advanced Thomas to third from where he scored on Koppe's sacrifice fly to deep left. The tie lasted only into the bottom of the frame as Don Blasingame, Phillips and King laced back-to-back singles to give the Senators a 2-1 advantage. King's single was to be the last Washington hit until Leppert's payoff blow.

* * * *

WITH TWO away in the Angels' sixth, Ridzik hurled a hummer into Wagner's wheelhouse and Daddy Wags belted it off the rightfield scoreboard to again tie the game. Ridzik and Claude Osteen then retired 10 Cherubs in order until Torres' wasted single in the 10th.

McBride tired and gave way in the ninth with two on, one out and a 3-1 count on Blasingame. Jack Spring took over and two pitches later Jim Fregosi erred on a double play grounder, leaving the bases full. Spring induced Phillips to hit to Torres who this time got the double play, keeping the Angels momentarily alive.

While McBride displayed a sound elbow, distraught Rigney indicated his elbow may get a test of its own later in the evening.

ANGEL ANGLES, Dean Chance (6-6) and Paul Foytack (1-2) will oppose Bennie Daniels (2-3) and Jim Duckworth (2-2) in this afternoon's road tip finale. McBride, Albie Pearson, Wagner, Fred Haney, travelling secretary Tommie Ferguson and three Angel writers leave immediately following the double exposure for Cleveland and Tuesday's All-Star game. The rest of the team returns home to enjoy the three-day break and prepare for a 12-game home stand which opens next Thursday against the Yankees.

GIANTS TAKE OVER SECOND

McCovey Continues Homer Binge; Cards Still Sliding

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie McCovey crashed his fourth home run in four games, breaking a seventh-inning tie Saturday and leading San Francisco past St. Louis 5-3.

The blast off Ray Sadecki with Billy Pierce aboard plunged the Cardinals to their seventh straight defeat and pulled the Giants into second place behind Los Angeles in the see-saw National League race.

Until McCovey smashed his 22nd homer of the year, the game had been almost a personal battle between Willie Mays, who scored two Giant runs and drove in one, and Charlie James, who homered twice for St. Louis.

Mays walked and scored in the second. His two-out single to left drove home Harvey Kuenn in the third. St. Louis tied the game on James' fifth inning 2 run homer.

Braves Sweep Colts With Shaw's Shutout

HOUSTON (UPI) — Lee Maye drove in both runs and Bob Shaw fired a six-hit shutout to give the Milwaukee Braves a 2-0 victory Saturday night over the Houston Colts to complete a sweep of a twi-night doubleheader. The Braves won the opener, 7-1.

Maye doubled home Dennis Menke in the sixth and singled across Del Crandall in the eighth for the only runs off Hal Brown, who suffered his fourth loss against two wins while allowing six hits.

Shaw, now 4-6, walked three and fanned six, leaving eight Colts on base. For the day, the Colts left 16 on base compared to only five for the Braves.

The Phils sent Bob Buhl down to his sixth setback of the season in a hurry, scoring all six runs off the seasoned righthander in the first three innings. Demeter drove in five runs.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates paraded seven runs across in the eighth inning and pushed the New York Mets to the ninth straight loss Saturday night, 11-3.

Bill Virdon's three-run homer was the deciding blow in Pittsburgh's big splurge against loser Al Jackson and rookie Larry Bearnarth. Nine Pirates batted before the first out was made, and 13 went to the plate over-all.

HOAK SPIKES HUBBS; AVERT RIOT

CHICAGO (UPI) — Don Hoak, peppery third baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies, admitted Saturday he tried to kick the ball from Ken Hubbs in a spiking incident that almost touched off a free-for-all.

Hubbs, Chicago Cubs second baseman, held his hand up for several minutes after he tagged Hoak out in the eighth-inning play.

In the ninth, players from both benches ran to the plate where Dick Bertell, Cubs catcher, and Hoak squared off for a fight.

No blows were struck and order was quickly restored.

Hoak said he ran from the dugout when Bertell dared him to come out.

Man to Man

LAKE

By JERRY WYNN

A $20 bill which grew into a $10,000 jackpot . . .that is the success story of the Southern California Professional Golfers Assn. Championship which for the 22nd successive year will be played at Recreation Park this week.

The man, miffed at the $20, who helped build the tournament into the largest and richest pro match play event in the nation is George Lake, host pro at Recreation Park for 27 years and Mr. Golf to thousands of Long Beach fairway faithful.

"In 1940, we played the championship at Riviera Country Club," Lake recalls. "I got hot and made it to the quarterfinals. But all I received was $20 of a paltry $200 purse.

"I figured the tournament should be worth a lot more than that, and offered to underwrite it for $500 myself if the PGA would bring it to Recreation Park. They agreed, and it's been here ever since."

Was the first tournament a success?

"Yes, and it had a great finish. Olin Dutra, a former National Open and PGA champion, was defending champion and a heavy favorite in the finals against a young fellow from Texas, Bud Oakley. But Oakley birdied seven of the 11 holes in the afternoon round and whipped Dutra, 8 and 7."

Did you continue to put up the money for the tournament?

"No. The City of Long Beach sponsored it for the next two years, offering $1,000 in war bonds each year. I underwrote it again in 1944 for $1,000 provided the PGA would give its support by establishing a championship fund. Since 1945, the purse has increased steadily to the $10,000 high of this year."

What do you consider the most exciting match in tournament history?

"The most sensational was between Lloyd Mangrum and Zell Eaton in 1947. Mangrum, then the U.S. Open champion, was 1 up on Eaton with five holes to go. Both players birdied the next four holes. Eaton birdied the 18th to tie and then won the 19th and the match with his sixth straight birdie. For the regulation 18, both players shot 64."

What was the greatest oddity?

"That's easy. In 1959 Eric Monti forgot to bring his golf clubs with him for a quarterfinal match against Bud Holscher. Monti was defending champion and had a streak of 18 match wins. I lent him my son Jeff's clubs, and he beat Holscher. But then Eric's wife delivered his own clubs, and he got beat by Jimmy Thompson in the afternoon semis."

What was your personal top thrill?

"In 1945, I was paired against the defending champion, Clayton Aleridge. He had beaten Olin Dutra, Ralph Guhdahl and Harry Bassler to win the year before, and I was considered something of a bye for him. But I sank a curling 20-footer to birdie the 18th hole and tie him, and then holed another 20-footer on the 19th to beat him.

"I also enjoyed playing against Tommy Bolt in 1959 only he sank all the 20-footers in that one. I lost, 6 and 5."

Who would you rate as the "big men" to play in the tournament?

"Dutra, Mangrum, Guhdahl, Bolt, Jerry Barber, Paul Runyan, Jack Fleck, Jim Ferrier, Johnny Bulla, Jimmy Hines, Willie Hunter. All were major tournament champions."

The National PGA changed its championship from match to medal play a few years ago. Are you in favor of keeping match play for the SC-PGA Championship?

"Definitely. Match play is far more colorful and exciting and it gives every player a chance to beat the top players and win money and recognition. I honestly believe that if Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus were playing here this week, I don't think they would be a cinch to beat some of our top men such as Barber, Monti and Holscher in an 18-hole match play on this course."

Who is your choice to win this year?

"I'd give an edge to Eric Monti. He's won four times, and always plays Recreation Park as if he owns the course."

120 Pros Set for $10,000 Battle at Park

Golf's little giant is Long Beach bound.

Jerry Barber will play in the $10,000 Southern California PGA Championship at Recreation Park Thursday through Sunday.

Champion in 1959 and a defeated finalist in 1962, Barber was not expected to compete in the tournament this year. He gave up his club position at Wilshire CC at the end of last year to devote full time to playing the PGA circuit.

The 5-foot-5, 135-pound marvel has been a consistent money winner and captured the $25,000 Azaléa Open in April. In the Canadian Open which ended Saturday, he took home a check of $900.

Barber was a strong favorite against Emil Scodeller in last year's SC-PGA finals only to have the young Annandale CC pro topple him by stealing some of Jerry's patented putting thunder. Emil sank putts of 50, 40, 30 and 10 feet on the final nine holes to score a 1 up on the 36th hole triumph.

Regarded as the game's foremost putter, Barber won the 1961 National PGA Championship by canning putts of 20, 40 and 60 feet on the final three holes. He also holds the Tournament of Champions scoring record of 268 set in 1960.

This week, Jerry will battle a field of about 120 of Southern California's "stay-at-home" pros including such outstanding shotmakers as Eric Monti, Bud Holscher, Paul Runyan, Mac Hunter, Jack Doss, Ed Merrins, Zell Eaton, Smiley Quick, Dale Andreason, Mike Austin, Ralph Blomquist, Jimmy Thompson, Ronnie Reif and Scodeller.

There will be two rounds of match play daily leading into 36-hole finals on Sunday. The winner receives $2,000; the runnerup $1,200.

Season tickets, costing $2 for all four days, are on sale at all golf shops. Daily tickets cost $1 for the first three days and $2 on Sunday.

2 Strokes Ahead in Final Day

By JERRY WYNN

Ed Korylak and Bob Howe, a pair of space-flight engineers from the Rancho Golf Club in West Los Angeles, blasted off into birdie orbit at Meadowlark Saturday.

Korylak carded a three-under par 68 for a 36-hole total of 138 and a two-stroke lead heading into today's final round of the 54-hole Medal Championship.

Howe, a former USC star, turned in the tourney's low round of 67 to vault into third place at 141.

Sharing second place at 140 are John Richardson of Lakewood, who fired a 71, and Ben Babcock of Alondra Park, who matched Korylak's 68. Howard Coleman, the first-round co-leader with Richardson, dropped out of contention with a 75.

* * * *

AN AMATEUR version of Jerry Barber at 5-foot-5, 135 pounds, Korylak made five birdies and two bogies Saturday. He birdied holes No. 5, 6, 12, 16 and 18 on putts of 5, 10, 2, 20 and 8 feet and bogied No. 7 and 15.

"I'll be happy if I can shoot around par tomorrow," said Korylak, an employee of Hughes Aircraft.

Howe bagged four birdies, all on the back nine, and 14 pars in a flawless round. He birdied holes No. 10, 14, 16 and 18 on putts of 14, 3, 8 and 5 feet, and called a 6-iron hit from a divot to the green on the 10th his best shot of the day.

* * * *

THERE WAS another 67 fired Saturday, but oddly it did not come from a player in the championship flight. Whitey Stanford of Meadowlark, a Class A competitor, was the pistol-hot shooter.

Results:

138—Ed Korylak 71-67.
141—Bob Howe—74-67.

GEIBERGER HOT

Ford Coasts to Canada Tee Win

Compiled from Wire Services

TORONTO, Ont.—Veteran Doug Ford of New York birdied the 17th hole with a 16-foot putt Saturday for a one-stroke victory in the $50,000 Canadian Open golf championship.

Ford, who won the Canadian Open in 1959, stood off a challenge by lanky Al Geiberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., that included an eagle and a five-under-par 30 on the back nine.

Geiberger, 25 and shaped like a 1-iron, finished with 65, the day's best round, and 281, one stroke back of Ford.

* * * *

THE 40-year-old Ford, who has won both the PGA and the Masters title and is one of the fastest players in golf, had a one-under-par 70 for the final round.

Ford had rounds of 69, 67 and 74 before his final 70 over the par 71, 6,738-yard Scarboro Course. He walked through the last round holding the hand of his eight-year-old daughter.

Top prize for the tournament is $9,000.

Several players made a run at Ford in the pressure-packed final round and a gallery of 10,000 was sure it would be treated to a sudden-death playoff. Australia's Bruce Crampton and Geiberger each tied Ford at one point.

Ford, whose last PGA tour win was in the 1962 Eastern Open, had an unspectacular 32 putts although he three-putted only once. He said later he had played for pars although he knew Geiberger was even with him.

ALTHEA ASKS FOR CARD AS LADY PRO

SUTTON, Mass. (AP)—Althea Gibson, 34, former Wimbledon and U.S. singles tennis champion, has applied for membership in the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. LPGA tournament, director Len Wirtz said Saturday.

Miss Gibson switched to golf about four years ago and has a four-stroke handicap as an amateur. She is a resident of Riverdale, N.Y., and is employed in the public relations field.

Wirtz said Miss Gibson must play as an apprentice golfer for one year, taking part in 60 percent of the LPGA tournaments. After that, he said, players will vote on acceptance of her application.

PALMER 2-1 BRITISH PICK

ST. ANNES, England (AP)—Arnold Palmer, top money winner on the United States golf circuit, has been made a 2-1 favorite to win the British Open for the third straight time over the Royal Lytham and St. Annes links Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The only player in modern times who has collared the historic title three straight is Australian Peter Thomson. He did it in 1954-55-56.

Famous old-time Scottish golfers like Tom Morris, Jamie Anderson and Bob Ferguson also captured three straight. But they did it between 1867 and 1882 when the championship was an all-British affair.

Palmer, a great favorite with British galleries, appeared to be slipping a few weeks back. Then he came back with a brand of golf reminiscent of his great days.

Now the bookies, as shrewd as they come when betting money is involved, have made Palmer the favorite followed by American Jack Nicklaus and South African Gary Player at 7-1. Thomson at 8-1 and Kel Nagle of Australia at 10-1.

The British Open, a prestige tournament, also carries a vast cash incentive to the winner—in addition to the $4,200 first prize for the winner.

The World Series of Golf at Akron, Ohio, Sept. 7-8 will match champions of the British Open, the U.S. PGA, the Masters (Nicklaus) and the U.S. Open (Julius Boros). The winner of that exercise will get $50,000, the second $15,000 and the next two $5,000.

The 6,836-year Royal Lytham and St. Anne is the layout where Bobby Jones won his first British Open Championship in 1926.

The hard winter has made the Lytham greens tricky and club members have not played them for several weeks.

ORTEGA WINS SPLIT VOTE IN TV FIGHT

RAMBO HEADS FOR LONG BEACH STATE
Coach Dick Perry has hit the jackpot now that John Rambo has announced he will attend Long Beach State this fall. Rambo, an outstanding basketball player at Poly High and LBCC, also ranks as one of the nation's finest high jumpers. The 6-7 athlete cleared 7 feet this season.

STRONG CAGE SLATE SET

L.B. State to Make Tracks in '63-64

By AL LARSON

Long Beach State College's 1963-64 basketball schedule, announced Saturday, features a heavy diet of intersectional play.

Coach Dick Perry's 49ers will make their first swing into the Southwest when they tackle Texas Western, Tulsa, Phillips 66 and Oklahoma State.

In addition to this rugged December trip, LBSC's cagers engage Creighton and Baylor Dec. 20-21. UCLA will share billing in the choice double-header at the Long Beach Arena.

Other non-conference foes on the 26-game schedule include Chapman, Cal Poly (Pomona), Orange State, University of San Diego and UC Santa Barbara. The Gauchos have dropped out of the California College Athletic Assn.

* * * *

Outstanding recruits this year include LBCC's John Rambo and all-conference forward John Barnicoat from Riverside. Barnicoat paced Riverside College to the Eastern Conference championship (10-0) and was voted "player of the year." He stands 6-5 and weighs 200.

The schedule:

KLABUNDE SET FOR START OF U.S. PUBLINX

Les Klabunde of Recreation Park will be the Long Beach area's lone representative in the National Public Links Golf Championship starting Monday at Sacramento.

However, Bud Bradley of Rancho and Dick Potzner of Griffith Park will join Klabunde on the Long Beach team in the Harding Cup competition for national team honors.

Tenn. State Off, Running in AAU Meet

Edith McGuire, the 19-year-old Pan American 100-meter winner, opened with a victory in the 100-yard dash in 11 seconds. Wyomia Tyus, also of Tennessee State and winner of two junior titles Friday night, finished second to give the favorites a 1-2 finish in the opener.

Miss Tyus, whose 10.5 in the preliminary for a record was not allowed because the judges failed to see the starter's gun flash, also was timed in 11-flat in the race into the wind.

Leah Bennett of Hawaii University, defending champion in the 880-yard run, finished third as Sandra Knott of Cleveland Recreation won the event in 2:12.5.

Whitworth Leads Carling Tourney

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI)—Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M., making a determined bid for her second straight Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament victory, turned in an even par-72 Saturday to take the second round lead in the Lady Carling Eastern Open.

Leaders after 36 holes:

Once Over Lightly

It's Clear Sailing for Dodgers, Yankees

When the major league clubs passed the traditional July 4 milestone last year, it appeared that the Yankees and Dodgers were well on their way to a meeting in the World Series.

According to our "Baseball Trend Chart," the two clubs would win by comfortable margins ranging from three to six games, possibly more.

The Yankees, of course, made it by five games. However the Dodgers lost 10 of their last 13 games to tie with the Giants, and then lost the playoff in the heartbreaking ninth inning of the third and deciding game after it appeared they had it wrapped up.

RALPH HOUK
His Yankees Have Balance

After the games of July 4 this season, the trend chart again points to the Yankees and Dodgers to make it to the World Series.

The Yankees figure to win by at least 10 games this time. Their present potential is at least 104 victories . . . eight more than they registered last year.

When injuries began to cut down several Yankee stars in recent weeks, the rival managers began humming that old tune "this is the year the Yanks can be had."

No other club could survive the rash of injuries that have hit the Yankees so far, yet despite their hospital list they have moved out on the rest of the league and not only held a 4½-game lead on the 4th, but had a solid six-game advantage in the important loss column.

Manager Ralph Houk has been able to use his "regular" lineup only 10 times so far this season, a statistic that confirms earlier estimates that this is the best balanced club the Yankees have had in many years.

CHICAGO AND MINNESOTA right now have potentials of 94 victories. However, baseball men feel that Minnesota may be the biggest threat to the Yanks . . . if a threat develops.

Chicago, for instance, has taken its best shots at the Yanks . . . and still fallen behind. Minnesota, meanwhile, has 13 games left with New York . . . seven of them later this month in a pair of showdown series that will decide whether the Yanks are going to breeze, or must fight it out to the finish.

If it comes down to the wire, New York and the Twins meet in the final series of the season (3 games) at Yankee Stadium Sept. 27-28-29, which would make an interesting climax.

However, unless the Yanks run into unexpected tough going, they should have the pennant clinched by the time they leave Minnesota Sept. 15 after their next-to-last series with the Twins. After that they'll have only 10 games left—four with Kansas City.

AT THE PRESENT TIME, the Yanks are four games ahead of their 1962 start, while the Twins are running even with the pace that earned them second place with 91 victories.

Fourth place is up for grabs among five teams—Baltimore, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Boston and Detroit. Their potential, in that order, ranges from around 84 wins down to 79. But a break here or there could change the whole order of finish from fourth down to eighth place.

Trailing in the American League are Kansas City with 62 wins and Washington with 52.

AFTER A SHAKY start, the Dodgers have come on strong to take command in the National League . . . and although their pitching still appears a little too thin, they should have no excuses this trip unless another important frontliner is injured and sidelined as was Sandy Koufax last season.

The Cardinals appear to have had their best days, although they should hang in there tough right to the end, while Cincinnati can't get a consistent winning streak going. If Joey Jay and Bob Purkey were merely pitching .500 ball, the Reds would be out in front now and favored to take all the marbles.

The Reds still figure to be the top threat to the Dodgers and Giants. Despite their disappointing start, they are only one game off their opening pace of last year when they finished just three games behind the leaders.

Although the Dodgers are running three games behind their '62 pace, they should at least hit their final victory total of a year ago—101. The Giants are six games off and their potential has dropped to 98.

The two clubs, schedule-wise, should have fairly good sailing after this week's All-Star break until mid-August.

MEANWHILE, THE REDS, still hard to figure, have a potential of 93 at present. Despite the fact they haven't made a real run yet, they are still within striking distance of the top.

However, at present it looks like it will be a race to the wire between the Dodgers and Giants with their final seven meetings deciding things—four games at Dodger Stadium Aug 29-Sept. 1 and three games at Candlestick Sept. 6-7-8.

St. Louis is even with its '62 pace when the club finished sixth 17½ back, but should finish at least fourth with around 91 wins. Other potentials at this point: Chicago, 84; Milwaukee, 81; Pittsburgh, 76; Philadelphia, 75; Houston, 60, and New York, 48.

Want Stars to Play—Houk

Dark to Use Best for Win

CLEVELAND (UPI)— Alvin Dark can go for broke if he likes, but Ralph Houk said Saturday he's more concerned with "giving everyone a chance to play" in Tuesday's 34th All-Star game.

Dark, who will handle the National Leaguers, has made it clear that winning the game is paramount with him.

"The starting lineup will play most of the game," said the San Francisco manager, "and the chances are Willie Mays and Hank Aaron will play all the way in the outfield."

Houk, managing the American Leaguers for the second straight year and on the scene here already because his Yankees wind up a four-game series with the Indians today, is as anxious to win as Dark but claims there are other factors to be considered.

* * * *

"I WANT to win the game just as much as he does," said Houk, whose Yankees defeated Dark's Giants in the World Series last October. "I've never gone into a game that I didn't honestly feel we could beat the other side.

"But let's face facts. The All-Star game actually is an exhibition. Every player picked for the game knows it's a real honor to be in it. If that's the case, why shouldn't as many of those players as possible get into the game?

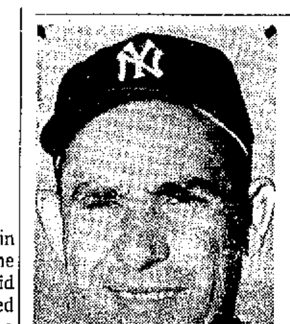

"When you get right down to it, there isn't too much difference between one All-Star player and another," Houk added. "Ordinarily, a manager doesn't hurt himself too much by taking one player out and putting another one in."

* * * *

THIS YEAR there will be only one All-Star game, instead of two as has been the practice since 1959, and the majority of players are happy to go back to the old arrangement.

Houk and Dark both have one common problem—which pitcher to name as starter for Tuesday's game?

"It all depends on who pitches over the weekend," Houk said. "You can't very well ask a pitcher to start with only a day or two of rest."

Birds Trip Twins on Brandt's Hit

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Jackie Brandt celebrated his return to the lineup Saturday with a two-run triple to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 2-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Brandt, who had been out for 10 days with a pulled back muscle, hit his wind-blown three-bagger with two out in the third off starter Dick Stigman to score John Orsino and Luis Aparicio.

Gabelich Tops Field at Lions

Gary Gabelich, driving Bill Martin's Chevy-powered dragster, took the top eliminator honors at Lions Drag Strip Saturday night.

The car also set the low elapsed time of 8.25 seconds. Jack Chrisman's new gas dragster with Roger Wolford driving took the top gas eliminator. Top time was 181.80 mph set by the Duncan-Built Holmes fuel dragster.

Air Academy Honors Ex-Rabbit Jagerson

Todd Jagerson, who was captain of Poly High's CIF championship football team of 1959, has been named to the commandant's list at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo., for his "demonstrated excellence in performance of cadet duty."

Jagerson is a starting guard on the Falcon team and will graduate in 1964.

BERRA TOUCHES OFF SPLURGE

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Southpaw Al Downing struck out 14 batters, coming within one of the New York team record, but still failed to finish the game as the league-leading Yankees downed the Cleveland Indians, 11-6, Saturday on the strength of a seven-run rally in the second inning.

Downing, a 22-year-old fireballer, gave up four runs, including solo homers by Max Alvis and Willie Tasby, before being relieved by Hal Reniff in the eighth with the bases loaded and two out. Reniff ended the threat by getting pinchhitter Fred Whitfield to fly out but he gave up a two-run homer to Mike de la Hoz in the ninth.

* * * *

THE LATE inning trouble cost Downing a shot at the Yankee record of 15 strikeouts for a nine-inning game set by Bob Shawkey in 1927.

Player-coach Yogi Berra ignited the Yankee second with a three-run homer against starter Barry Latman.

Downing hit a two-run double against Allen in the fifth and Roger Maris slammed a two-run homer, his 19th, against Jerry Walker in the sixth to account for the other New York runs.

BOSTON (UPI) — Rookie Dave Morehead, 19, pitched a brilliant three-hitter Saturday night to lead the Red Sox to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox and jump Boston from fourth to second place in the American League.

The win was Boston's 30th in 44 home games.

The Red Sox scored four runs in the fourth, all off rookie Joe Shipley and all of them unearned because of a passed ball by catcher J. C. Martin.

2 Homers Trigger Tigers' Fifth in Row

DETROIT (UPI)—The ninth place Detroit Tigers reeled off their fifth straight victory Saturday, banging out 12 hits including Norm Cash's three-run homer and a solo homer by Rocky Colavito to down the Kansas City Athletes, 8-4.

The Tigers were playing without star outfielder Al Kaline, who was sidelined with a pulled leg muscle.

Cash hit a three-run homer in the third to overcome a 2-0 A's lead and the Tigers put the game away with a fourth run in the fourth and three in the fifth. Colavito added his homer in the eighth.

Hannum Won't Go With Nats

Alex Hannum, coach of the Syracuse Nationals in the National Basketball Association, said Saturday he will not coach the team in Philadelphia.

Hannum, contacted at his Palos Verdes Estates home, said:

"The sale and transfer of the Nats to Philadelphia has nothing to do with my decision," Hannum said.

"I spoke with Ike Richmond, one of the Philadelphia owners and told him it would be impossible for me to stay with the Nationals."

* * * *

HANNUM, coach of the Nationals for the past three years, said increased business activity forced his withdrawal from the NBA.

"I'm very active in a general contracting business," he said, "and right now we're building apartments in West Los Angeles."

The leading contender for the job is reported to be Dolph Schayes.

Downey Gains Softball Final

By CHUCK MEDICK

EL PASO — The Downey Impalas recorded another upset in the Southwest Softball Classic here Saturday night as they turned back Pomona, 2-0, to gain the finals.

Downey will play the survivor among the other three teams remaining in the double elimination — Arlington, Tulsa or Pomona — for the title.

Milt Stark homered for Downey in the fifth and Chappie Wheeler accounted for the other run on a double and a two-base error in the sixth.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Artificial or Not, It's Home

The Department of Fish and Game took $5,500 in Los Angeles County fish and game fine money last January, bought some quarry rock, dumped it 2,000 yards off the Redondo Beach Pier and then quietly awaited the results.

Last week DFG diver-biologists Charles H. Turner and Earl Ebert, who originally selected the site and supervised the installation, reported that fish by the thousands have been attracted to the artificial reef.

They found kelp bass running from two to four pounds, halibut up to 30 pounds, rockfish, sculpin, sheephead, perches and ocean whitefish.

After those observations, the DFG decided to mark the spot with buoys. There are four separate piles of rock about 100 feet apart on what had been a perfectly smooth bottom.

The buoys, each 12 inches in diameter, are 700 feet apart and mark the extreme outer extremities of the reef which runs north and south. The words, "artificial fishing reef" are printed on the buoys.

The DFG had kept it unmarked for six months to permit the fish populations to build up for the sportfishermen. Let's hope that more artificial reefs can be built along the Southland's coast.

IF THE OPENING of trout season falls in the middle of the week instead of on Saturday next year, you can blame Assemblywoman Pauline Davis, who, even though indirectly, put a snag on the regulatory powers of the Fish and Game Commission.

It was her action in the Assembly that killed a once-routine Senate bill to grant the usual powers to the commission. When she amended the bill to suit her own purposes, the Senate, in turn, let it die.

It was thought that Gov. Pat Brown might ask the special session to restore the commission's powers. However, on Friday he said that he would not permit the Legislature to consider the FGC's powers because such action might lead to "another full-blown session."

He added that should he do so, solons might want to reconsider 200 other bills. He wants the legislators to consider just the state's fiscal condition.

The commission's powers formally expire in September. Regulations governing fishing and hunting then must remain in effect until action by the Legislature. No opening and closing dates of any seasons can be changed until that is done.

IT'S TIME FOR grunion again. The little silvery fish are scheduled to visit Southern California's beaches (where, I don't know) for the next four nights to go through their spawning routine.

Runs lasting about one hour are expected to begin at 10:45 p.m. Monday, 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, 12:15 a.m. Thursday and 1:15 a.m. Friday. Times are approximate; the runs could be later—or not at all if you insist on shining flashlights into the surf.

All you need to catch grunion—if you see any—are optimism, old clothes, a fondness for getting wet, a quick pair of hands and a gunny sack or other kind of container for the fish. Oh yes, you also need a fishing license if you are 16 years or older. You may use only your hands.

Speaking of licenses, it might be well to remember that your hunting license has expired. New licenses, covering the period from July 1 through June 30, 1964, are now available from 3,300 license dealers throughout the state.

Once again, it will be one of those self-serve deals. You fill out the application, the agent affixes a stamp and that becomes your hunting license. The archery deer season in the coastal area starts July 13 and continues through July 28. The regular shooting season for coastal deer runs Aug. 3 through Sept. 22.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA will become the archery center of the world this month with the national indoor archery championships slated for July 20 in Covina and July 21 in Downey.

The National Field Archery Association's annual tournament follows at Enchanted Forest July 22 through 26. Then comes the big one—the 79th National Archery Association tournament at UCLA, July 29 through Aug. 2.

Registrations for the indoor events are being accepted through July 19 at Golden Arrow Archery Lanes, 5136 N. Citrus, Covina. For the Enchanted Forest NFAA tournament, write to NFAA, Route 2, Box 514, Redlands, Calif. Registrations for the NAA already have been completed.

If you are interested in archery, you will have an excellent chance to see two of the best archers in the nation in action at the Downey Archery Lanes. They are Don Cavallero, Pasadena, who broke nine records to win the 1962 archery championship, and Matt Yurich, Woodland Hills, current national indoor free-style champion. They are rated as top contenders in the scratch singles event.

However, Bob Kelley, executive secretary of the NIAA, makes it quite clear that an average archer will have a chance of winning a portion of the $5,000 prize money because of the equalization handicap system which is being used on the indoor lanes.

RAMS TRY TACKLE FOR TWO

ONLY 4 RAMS UNSIGNED FOR '63 CAMPAIGN

The Rams announced Saturday that four more veterans from last year's starting lineup had signed their 1963 contracts and only four players remained to be signed before preseason training starts July 14.

Assistant general manager Elroy Hirsch said the latest to be signed were defensive backs Carver Shannon and Eddie Meador, offensive lineman Joe Scibelli and end Carroll Dale.

Still to be signed are linebackers Mike Henry and Marlin McKeever, defensive back Charley Britt and fullback Art Perkins. Of these, Britt had agreed to terms and was expected to sign next week.

Peterson '9' Posts Rout in Ninth Win

Jerry Flynn, Bob vonEps and Jim Smith each had three hits for first-place Peterson.

In the other Harbor League game, Buster Smith fanned 11 and Manuel Canteu doubled home Willie Fox in the eighth inning to give Wilmington a 1-0 win over San Pedro.

DESTROYER AND BLASSIE TO CLASH

They meet Tuesday night in a non-title bout as the Destroyer attempts to qualify for a chance to regain the heavyweight crown.

Ocean Race Won by Smallest Boat

By JIM McCORMACK

When the going gets rough, the rough get going.

This was the story of the second annual Redondo Beach-around-Catalina 100-mile rough water race—sponsored by the Redondo Beach Chamber of Commerce Saturday in conjunction with the Redondo Beach Neptune Days.

Gardena's D. C. Owen and H. Lou Hensel guided the African Queen across the finish line in 2 hours, 41 minutes, 40 seconds, one minute ahead of Santa Monica's Frances Weinberg and Bob Riggs in the New Job. Starfire was third, skippered by Steve Salem and Carl Tobin from Manhattan Beach.

* * * *

THE African Queen, a Boston Whaler and the smallest boat in the race (16 feet), was powered by a single 75-hp Johnson outboard. Only eight boats finished after choppy waters had cut the field from 22 at starting time.

Weinberg and Riggs ran a 30-foot Trimaran powered by two 345-hp Oldsmobile engines. But after leading to the mid-way point, New Job couldn't handle the job of keeping up with the Queen.

The African Queen was well off the record of 2 hours, 19 minutes, 17 seconds set in 1962 by television star Ronnie Burns.

Cornell Beaten in Henley Final

HENLEY - ON - THAMES, England (UPI) — The United States was shut out in the Royal Henley Regatta Saturday when the Cornell University heavyweights, the Amlong Brothers of Philadelphia and Rollins College of Florida all were beaten on the final day of competition.

The biggest surprise on this miserable, rain-swept day was the defeat of Cornell in the grand challenge cup final. The Big Red, trying to duplicate its victory here six years ago, trailed all the way against the University of London and was upset by three-quarters of a length despite a late rally.

L.B. Girls in Tourney

Jo Ann Nation of Lakewood and Sandy Small of Virginia CC will be among title contenders in the Junior Golf Assn. of Southern California Girls Championship at California CC Monday through Friday. Ann Wilson of San Diego is defending champion.

O'Day Sail Series Ends in L.B. Today

Earl Elms of San Diego took a first, second and third in dinghy racing here Saturday to gain a 62¾-point lead in the O'Day trophy races.

The last two of the 10 races in the sailing championships will be run Sunday. The races will decide who will be the two California contestants in the North American single-handed sailing championships here July 17-20. Second is Jim de Witt, Richmond, with 58 points, followed by Fred Miller of Newport Beach with 53½ points.

Miss Thriftway Tops Gold Cup Field Today

DETROIT (AP) — A dozen unlimited hydroplanes, the fastest fleet of boats ever assembled, will thunder over the Detroit River today in pursuit of the Gold Cup.

Bill Muncey's Miss Thriftway is the queen of the fleet with a qualifying time of 116.464 set Wednesday.

Lamb Chop, Wise Ship, Cicada Win

OCEANPORT, N. J. (AP) — William Haggin Perry's Lamb Chop took another big step towards the 3-year-old filly championship Saturday when she registered a head victory over Eleanora Sears' Spicy Living in the $56,100 Monmouth Oaks at Monmouth Park.

The finish of the 1⅛-mile Oaks was a replica of the $100,000 Coaching Club American Oaks at Aqueduct two weeks ago when Lamb Chop won by 3½ lengths over Spicey Living, and Mrs. Russell L. Reineman's Smart Deb ran third. Smart Deb was third again, by a length and a quarter this time.

Lamb Chop was timed in 1:51 3-5 and paid $6.60, $3.40 and $2.40. Spicy Living paid $3.60 and 2.60, and Smart Deb $3.20.

STANTON, Del. (AP) — Breaking his own world record, Milton Ritzenberg's Wise Ship carried top weight of 123 pounds to a nose triumph in Delaware Park's $28,500 Sussex Turf Handicap Saturday.

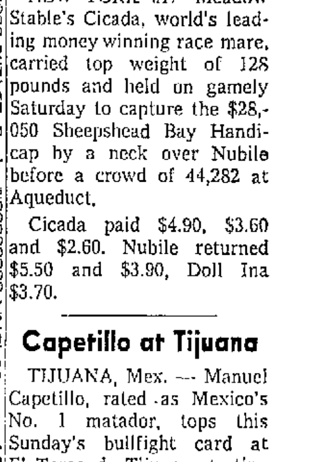

Wise Ship paid $7.60, $3.60 and $3. Vimy Ridge returned $2.80 and $2.20, and Shield Bearer $3.60.

Cicada paid $4.90, $3.60 and $2.60. Nubile returned $5.50 and $3.90, Doll Ina $3.70.

Oil Demand Will Dwarf Use in Past

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Demand for petroleum products for the next two decades is expected to dwarf consumption of the past.

Experts estimate total demand between now and 1980 will approximate 270 billion barrels. World consumption since the start of the industry more than 100 years ago has totaled only 140 billion barrels.

Participants in last month's 6th World Petroleum Congress in Germany were confident this sharp increase in consumption can be met.

M. J. Rathbone, the keynote speaker and board chairman of the Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), said some people might be concerned because the 270-billion barrel estimate is not far below current world reserves of 300 billion.

"I do not share this concern," he said. "Every since petroleum became a major fuel, proved reserves have been rising from one year to the next, through new discoveries and better methods of recovery, even faster than the increase in oil production."

* * * *

RATHBONE said there were 14 barrels of proved reserves for each barrel of production in the 1930s.

"Today the ratio is better than 30 to 1," he said. "It seems certain enough new proved reserves will be developed to provide for the rising oil consumption which we anticipate for many years to come."

Rathbone said new fields will be discovered and the percentage of recovery of oil in fields already known will be increased. He said refining technology will keep pace with production and meet product requirements of the future.

"We are constantly finding ways of 'squeezing the sponge' a little harder and recovering a greater percentage of the oil which we know is there," he said.

The world industry currently is recovering only about 35 percent of the oil in existing reservoirs but scientists at the Frankfurt conference expressed hope research projects under way and being developed can boost this to as high as 60 percent.

* * * *

"THIS PROGRESS already has come to a point where the industry might well claim reserves one half again as great as those now stated," Rathbone said.

"Even this may be conservative in view of the still more advanced recovery techniques that will be developed."

Rathbone acknowledged however, the distant future probably will require use of petroleum which can be extracted from the oil shale and tar sands deposits of such areas as Colorado and Canada. The Canadian tar sands alone are believed to hold from 100 to 300 billion barrels of oil.

"Competitive extraction methods are sure to be available when they are needed, indeed such methods are well advanced even now," Rathbone said.

"All this will make continuing demands on our research, as well as our capacity to invest, but these are challenges which the industry is prepared to meet."

For Want of a Washer---

WASHINGTON (AP) — A worn out washer that cost less than two cents may have caused the failure of the $10 million Ranger 5 lunar spacecraft last fall, space agency officials report.

A spokesman at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Pasadena, Calif., said tests showed that deterioration of a washer could have caused a short circuit and overheating.

Ranger 5 failed to generate power after its launching from Cape Canaveral Oct. 18 and it missed the moon by about 450 miles Oct. 21. Its radio signal was lost nearly nine hours after launching.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Second Half of 1963 Outlook Is Favorable

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Business headed into the second half of 1963 this week with the outlook favorable and only a few dark spots showing.

It was a time when business men put their heads together to look back at the first half and into the future.

The first six months were notable for a remarkable gain by the stock market and booming production in the steel and automobile industries.

What the second half holds for the stock market is anybody's guess but many Wall Streeters expect it to reach new all-time highs. The outlook for steel isn't so good. The automobile industry anticipates continued high output and sales.

* * * *

A PANEL of experts assembled by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce predicted a moderate climb in economic activity during the second half.

They foresaw an increase in the gross national product—total of all goods and services—not quite matching that of the first half. They also envisioned a rise in capital spending by business and an increase in government spending.

But, in their view, the problems of high unemployment and the deficit in the international balance of payments will remain.

* * * *

ANOTHER group of industrialists polled by the First National Bank of Chicago expressed more confidence in a high level of business for the entire year than they had felt six months ago.

Among them, Joseph L. Block, chairman of Inland Steel Co., said, "Although steel production in the second half will be depressed by liquidation of excess customer inventories, it appears to us that steel consumption should be somewhat higher than it was in the first six months of the year."

Austin T. Cushman, chairman of Sears Roebuck & Co., said he expected a 4 per cent increase in retail sales in the second half as compared with a year earlier.

* * * *

IN A separate statement, M. Monroe Kimbrel, president of the American Bankers Association, commented:

"There are good reasons to be optimistic about the outlook, and it is obvious that business sentiment has improved considerably. The prospects are that the American economy will expand through this year and into next year, perhaps even more than moderately."

Steel production declined again last week and another sharp drop was inevitable this week. Output last week fell 4.7 per cent to 2,313,000 tons from the previous week. Buyers were holding down orders because, with the new labor contract, there was no further need to build inventories.

* * * *

THERE WAS some cutting back of employment. Pittsburgh Steel Co. said it would furlough 750 to 1,000 workers in the next three months.

The Federal Government indicted eight steel firms and nine of their executives on charges of price-fixing in the $75-million-a-year castings industry.

Companies accused were Bethlehem Steel, Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp., Blaw-Knox Co., Erie Forge & Steel Corp., Textron, Inc., General Steel Industries, Inc., Birdsboro Corp. and Penn Steel Castings Co.

* * * *

THE FOURTH of July holiday cut into automobile production with output estimated at 124,600 cars, compared with 168,713 last week and 112,327 a year ago.

Production schedules for July call for assembly of about 625,000 passenger cars, which would be the highest for the month since 1955. June output of 689,519 cars was the highest for that month in history.

The time of decision drew near in the railroad industry. The railroads said they will put into effect next Thursday work rules changes which the unions have said would mean a strike. In that event, Congress is expected to act to avert a nation-wide railroad strike.

Spending on new construction rose in June to an annual rate of $63.74 billion, about $350 million above the original estimate. The June increase of 6 per cent over May was more than seasonal.

Briefly around the business scene: The F. W. Woolworth Co., variety store chain, will acquire the 570-store G. R. Kinney Corp. shoe chain . . . Major producers raised the price of lead ¼ cent a pound and of zinc ½ cent a pound . . . Higher dividend payments were made by 668 companies in the first half of this year than a year earlier . . . About 141 million Americans had some form of health insurance coverage at the end of 1962.

Horton, 'Father of Sonar' to Retire

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — Dr. J. Warren Horton, hailed by many as the father of sonar, will retire Oct. 19 as technical director of the Navy's Underwater Sound Laboratory.

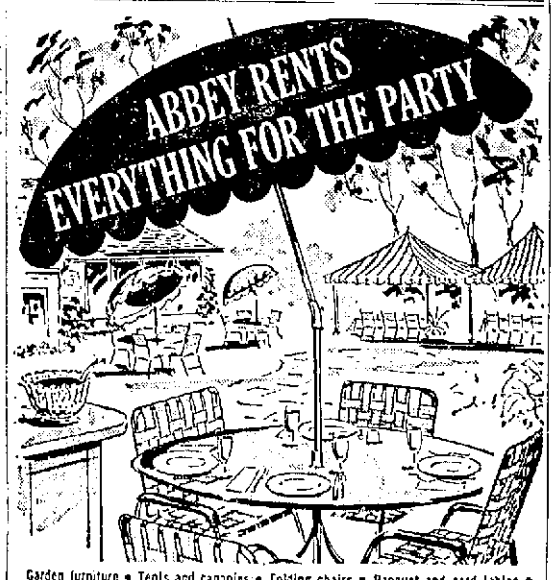

Horton, 73, pioneered in the development of the underwater detection device during World War I, as the submarine menace became increasingly apparent with the activities of German U-boats.

EDUCATIONAL SALES REPRESENTATIVE
The field of education is growing daily. Colleges are overcrowded and the next few years will greatly increase the load. We offer a career opportunity for the man who wishes to share in this growing market. The right man for us is the man who has had a successful background in direct one-call selling of intangibles, is bondable and wants a more challenging opportunity in a field where his earnings are limitless. We offer this man a position with our organization contacting young men and women interested in an Airline Career. We furnish leads from both national and local advertising and pay high commissions and bonuses. Our school is an accredited member of the National Home Study Council. Contact Mr. C. F. McCown for personnel interview at FR 8-6222 Monday 10:35 to 7:55 only.

ARTESIA

LIKE POETRY?
Like the old lady that lived in the shoe.
If you look at this house, you'll know what to do
A kitchen with blt-ins, nice breakfast nook with very large bedrooms and fine slanting roof
1 real big bathroom & one kinda small
but with the large front room, you won't mind at all
Like the old woman that lived in a shoe,
You can purchase this house for Fifteen Two.

Used Car Dealer Association

UCDA says:

Meet Your
USED CAR MANAGER
DON SWANSON
Cormier Chevrolet
Used Car Department

"I have been very happily associated with the CORMIER BRAND of used cars for eleven years," says Don. "We have almost two city blocks of sales, service, and courteous salesmen — bustling with activity. I've noticed that customer satisfaction has brought many hundreds of our customers back to us. They are pleased to say, 'I bought my car at Cormier Chevrolet.' I do insist that our most valuable assets are those customers who return for later model cars — the repeat buyer."

Don is a native son of Long Beach. Wife, Syndey, Don Jr., Wendy, Christine, and Don Sr. are a happy family on wheels ready to roll off to the mountains or beach for a frolic — when Don Sr. can get away.

SWEDEN'S CENSORS

Liberal on Sex, but Strict on Violence

By F. H. TREESH

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Sweden, which enjoys an international reputation for its liberal views on sex and free expression of ideas, has one of the world's more aggresive motion picture censorship boards.

It may surprise American moviegoers to learn that the majority of the films banned or cut by the Swedish censors were U. S.-made. The reason is that the things the Swedes find most objectionable is violence.

"I believe we are considerably more liberal than the State Boards of Censors in the United States when it comes to passing sex scenes in motion pictures," said Erik Skolund, director of the Swedish Film Censorship Board.

"That doesn't mean, however, that anything goes in Sweden. We are definitely turning thumbs down on movies where the more intimate sequences touch or pass the line of pure pornography."

"Sex is not banned, but there must be no excess 'petting'" seduction or homosexual behavior," Skolund said.

SWEDEN'S CHIEF censor said the fact that the majority of the films cut were American does not mean that they were the worst; only that U. S. production is so much greater than other countries.

The Swedish Film Censorship Board consists of four permanent members appointed by the Crown for five-year terms. One of the four is designated director.

"We take a very dim view of excessive violence or brutality in motion pictures. Young people are too easily influenced by what they see on the screen and we don't want to encourage that sort of behavior among them."

During 1962, Skolund said, 24 films were forbidden in Sweden. Thirteen of them were American ganster or horror films. Numerous other U. S. productions yielded considerable footage to the censors' shears.

SKOLUND said recent U. S. films to be severely cut included:

"Spartacus"—regarded by the censors as most profuse in vicious cruelties.

"Cape Fear" — Several violent sequences were clipped, among them a long drawn out fist-fight.

"Premature Burial"—A horror film showing open coffin, blood-stained corpses and "a bestial iron-bar murder scene."

IN ADDITION to banning or cutting moion pictures, the Swedish Film Censorship Board places them in one of three categories — one for persons 15 or older; one for children in the 11-15 year age bracket, and one which may be seen by all children.

Sweden, under its constitution, enjoys full freedom of speech and of the press. There is no censorship of the theater or the arts generally, the only exception being motion pictures.

Film censorship began in 1911 and only minor revisions in the original law have been made since. Censorship came into being in an era when films were exceptionally violent and brutal and local police efforts to control them were not uniform and occasionally ridiculous.

One small town police chief, for example, became famous for censoring all pictures in which China was broken. In his opinion, "the maids of this city known well enough of their own how to cause that kind of damage."

GERALDINE PAGE

3-Time Oscar Loser May Get 4th Chance

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The talk's around that Geraldine Page, the three-time Oscar loser, will be nominated for a fourth time . . . Therefore, one day recently, I asked her if it's true that she's conducting a campaign in reverse, hoping never to win.

GERALDINE

"A little bird — a 'Sweet Bird'—told me that you hoped you'd never win . . . but would just keep going on being nominated," I said.

"You cannot trick me into saying I don't want it . . ."

Miss Page was sitting in the Algonquin lobby drinking a toast to a friend's birthday and she was very pleasant as she answered.

"The story is," I said, leading her on in the Celebrity Quiz game, "that you think winning an Oscar would take a little shine off your incentive."

Miss Page sipped her drink and just as firmly replied, "I figure that if I have longevity in film-making, then I've got a long time to get an Oscar—and I'm very willing to wait."

It was just a few weeks before that she'd lost the Oscar to Anne Bancroft in "The Miracle Worker." Now the forecasters were saying she would be nominated for "Toys in the Attic," which would be her fourth nomination in four starts.

Q: But you couldn't have been very happy losing?

A: I was so pleased for Annie—she being a member of our Actors Studio—so I considered that it was all for our side anyway.

Q: Now you're going to do a movie with Glenn Ford?

A: Oh yes, and it's delicious. "The Out-of-Towners," and I play a little lady postmistress who goes to a postmasters' convention in New York.

Q: Are you happy you took off so much time for so little money to play "Strange Interlude" on B'way?

A: I'll say so! The way audiences react, with their shouting and "bravos," make us think we're in ballet or the opera. It's especially gratifying when we did it all by ourselves.

Joe E.'s Motto: Drink Big

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comic Joe E. Lewis, famed for his love of the bottle, has one driving ambition.

"I want to play the role of Bottom in 'Midsummer Night's Dream.'

"Most comics want to play Hamlet but not me. I want to be late for my cue and have the stage manager shout: 'Bottom's Up.'"

CELESTE HOLM . . . Likes Off-Broadway

Stars Moving Off-Broadway

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The stars are moving off-Broadway, for change and challenge.

As Shelley Winters, one of the latest recruits to the trend, remarks:

"The miracle of Off-Broadway is the excitement that you're free to do something different.

Celeste Holm, another prominent rover from the Main Stem, finds the movement the answer to a player's prayer.

* * * *

THE LATE-season arrival of Miss Holm, in Turgenev's "A Month in the Country," and Miss Winters, in a new playwright's work, has done more than merely enhance glamor along the byway theatrical circuit.

Occasionally in the past, name players have briefly ventured into little playhouses, but in the last six months an impressive array has lined up. Among them have been Eli Wallach, Anne Jackson, Michael Allison and Melville Couper.

Also Elisabeth Bergner, a famous lady from Vienna, was content to make her first New York appearance in 15 years in a small German-language production. And accompanying Miss Winters in "Cages" by Lewis John Carlino is Jack Warden, a busy TV and film performer.

Both ladies report several identical reactions to Off-Broadway activity: a sense of greater communication with spectators, a feeling that audiences are more willing to express their emotions.

They also found that opening-night jitters aren't reduced by being in a peewee playhouse. "I was green," confesses Miss Winters. And Off-Broadway's double performance schedule on weekends has them mentally panting.

"You get the feeling that you've just said each line a second ago," remarks Miss Holm.

"You don't work this hard for money," declares Miss Winters.

New Industrial Building Started Near Airport

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Program Editor

Ground was broken the past week for a 32,000 square foot industrial building to be for lease at Palm Drive and Hathaway Avenue, according to the Economic - Industrial Development Committee of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Industrial contractors Millie and Severson will construct the all-purpose structure for James Herley and the Security First National Bank, representing the Herley oil interests; and the T. F. Merrick Co. is the leasing agent.

Herley, 37, a native of Long Beach, an independent oil producer and active in civic affairs, lauded the City of Signal Hill and the Long Beach Chamber for increased progress in industrial development.

* * * *

SITE of the new project is in an area near the Long Beach airport and in Signal Hill. It will be serviced by the San Diego Freeway and it is expected to boom as an industrial center.

The building, on a 3½ acre site, will be adaptable for manufacturing or distribution, with a portion available for office space. Carl Hart, structural engineer, designed the project.

There will be parking for 60 cars. Completion is scheduled in about 60 days.

COMMENTING on the development, Robert L. Irvin, chairman of the Chamber Economic-Industrial Development Committee, said:

"We are pleased to see this type of activity in the Signal Hill-airport area. We've been working closely with the City of Signal Hill as well as Long Beach and other nearby interests to achieve our long-range goal of continued industrial development of these strategic areas."

Orange Co. Rural Area Booms in '63

Orange County's building boom in its unincorporated area leaped ahead of last year for the first half of 1963.

The county department of building and safety reported that during the first six months of this year it issued 3,702 building permits with a total valuation of $55,469,534.

Total number of permits for the comparable period of 1962 was 2,782, with a valuation of $32,609,077.

The county office said in June alone this year 883 permits were issued with a total valuation of $16,022,195.

This included permits for 569 apartment living units with a total valuation of $5,744,390 and 383 single family dwellings with a valuation of $8,428,398.

Buena Park Plant Gets Army Job

BUENA PARK — Imperial Electronics, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Imperial Thermal Systems, Inc., 6450 Dale St., Buena Park, has been awarded a $2,863,913 contract by the Chicago Procurement District of the United States Army, Congressman Richard T. Hanna of Fullerton has announced.

Hanna said he had been advised by Floyd L. Clark, president and chairman of the board of Imperial Thermal, that the contract would result in a doubling by year's end of the 120 workers now employed by the electronic firm.

Memorial Hospital to Expand Facilities

Dramatic plans for expansion at Memorial Hospital of Long Beach, 2801 Atlantic Ave., have been disclosed—plans to keep pace with the broadening concept of Long Beach as an International City.

In November, part of this expansion will be physically evident with completion of the hospital's new laboratory facility, a four-story, 12,000-square-foot addition which will give the hospital the largest lab of this type in the West, and containing the only virology lab in Southern California.

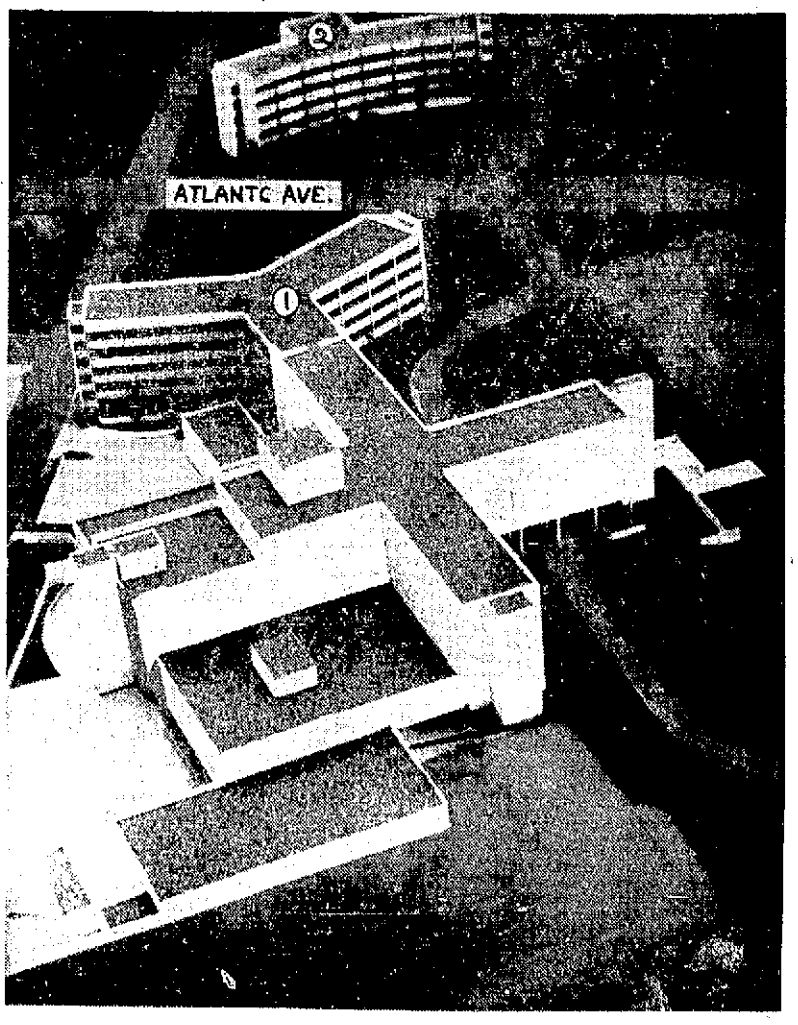

* * * *

ABOUT the same time, planning will be completed for the most recently announced expansion—a women's and children's wing separate from but attached to the east wing of the institution.

This will be a structure three to five stories high (undetermined at this stage of planning) which will add 150 to 200 needed beds. The project will be up for bids before the end of the year. The contract will be awarded and ground will be broken about the first of the year.

THIS NEW addition also will provide space for expanded physiotherapy and cardiopulmonary facilities which already have outgrown their presently allotted space.

Almost from the day the hospital first was occupied in June of 1960, the need for expansion was evident, and on February 11 of this year, the 440-bed hospital was taxed with a peak load of 465 patients.

MORE CONSTRUCTION PLANNED

STANTON — A giant multiple dwelling development boosted construction in Stanton to $1,626,492 during the past week.

Permits for 94 buildings valued at $1,606,710 were issued to MRC Developers, Inc., of 511 Wilkin Way, Anaheim. The buildings will be erected in the 8100 and 8000 blocks of Cerritos Ave.

The development includes 17 duplexes, each costing $21,440 for a total of $364,480; 20 studio duplexes, each $21,700 for total of $434,000; three triplexes at $31,500 each for total of $94,500; a $14,550 recreation building; 18 triplexes at $35,010 each for total of $630,180; 34 carports at $2,000 each, $68,000; and one carport for $1,000.

H. M. Fernandez, 10882 Cedar St., took out permit for construction of a single family residence costing $14,500.

Other permits were issued to Veprin and Associates, 10560 Magnolia Ave., commercial installation addition, $600, and also one at 10572 Magnolia Ave. for $400; W. O. Crumrine, 7842 Santa Catalina, carport, $780; Rinker Development Co., 10621 Magnolia Ave., sign, $590; and G. C. Balmer, 12312 Georgian St., den, $2,912.

Maloney Now Heads Shipbuilding Yard

A. J. Maloney has been appointed manager of the San Pedro Yard of Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Shipbuilding Division. The announcement was made by T. C. Ingersoll, general manager, west coast yards and is effective immediately.

Prior to his appointment, Maloney was assistant manager at the San Pedro Yard.

Maloney attended the University of Southern California and majored in industrial engineering. He came to work at the San Pedro Yard in 1941 in the production control department and was appointed junior test engineer in September, 1942. He became sales engineer in November, 1945 and was appointed assistant manager in 1962.

Maloney is a member of the Propeller Club and the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers.

He is married and has two children and is a long-time resident of Long Beach.

Las Vegas Building Boom Is Continuing

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

A $9 million construction program involving Wilbur Clark's Desert Inn and also the Stardust Hotel to attract additional visitors to Las Vegas has helped inspire an unprecedented building boom in the Nevada resort.

Deluxe suites, large rooms, added food facilities, new theater-dining rooms and lounges are being added to the hotels.

A nine-story addition of 120 deluxe rooms and suites and four penthouse apartments has just been completed at the Inn.

Construction of a 175-room, 12-story structure of comparable quality and design has just begun at the Stardust Hotel and is scheduled for completion near the end of the year. This building will contain deluxe accommodations in double occupancy rooms, suites and penthouse apartments giving the Stardust a total of 1,500 guest rooms, far and away the most imposing total in the area.

Also scheduled at the Desert Inn is a new theater-dining room more than double the size of the existing Painted Desert Room and to be equipped with the most modern staging devices and equipment available; a gourmet dining room featuring the ultimate in haute cuisine, and an enlarged and completely revamped Sky Room Lounge atop the hotel.

Builders to Hear Panel Wednesday

Trends in advertising and public relations to meet the needs of the changing market for housing will be the subject of a panel discussion at a meeting of the Residential Builders Council of the Building Contractors Association of California Wednesday evening at Rodger Young Auditorium, Los Angeles.

Approximately 200 builders from throughout Southern California are expected to attend the dinner meeting which will be preceded by a social hour at 6:30 p.m.

Effective means of generating interest and buyer acceptance for new homes, income units and remodeling will be described by Jack Frost, Frost & Shaffer, Hollywood advertising agency; William Gray Jr., C.M.D. Sales Developers, Bell; and N. Richard Lewis, Lewis & Associates, Hollywood public relations specialists.

Rohr Buys Plant at Fullerton

CHULA VISTA—Rohr Corporation has announced purchase of the former Sylvania Electric Products Company plant at Fullerton as a facility for its wholly owned subsidiary, Modular Components Corporation, for the manufacture of its line of Modubilt houses.

In addition to manufacturing equipment now being installed, a pilot plant in which research and development has been carried on for the last three years will be moved from an area adjacent to the Rohr plant at Riverside to the new location. No other Rohr activity is involved.

* * * *

THE FULLERTON facility, the announcement said, includes 18 acres of land, a 106,000 square foot factory building, 10,000 square feet of office space, and paved and fenced parking area for 200 cars. The plant was built in 1955 and 1957, of concrete tilt-up construction, and has docks on two sides, and a railroad spur.

Rohr Corporation was represented in the purchase of the property by the San Diego office of Coldwell, Banker & Co., and Sylvania by the Chapman Avenue Realty Company of Fullerton. Purchase price was $950,000.

Delivery of the first order of 148 houses to a development in Borrego Springs is scheduled to begin in September.

Volume production, at a rate of 65 houses a month, is to be reached by January, 1964, and peak employment at the new facility will approximate 150 persons.

AT TORRANCE GROUND-BREAKING

McKelvie Joins Richards & Sons

A local insurance firm, George A. Richards and Sons, Inc., has announced a new associate, C. Ross McKelvie, a veteran of 13 years' experience in the insurance profession.

A native Californian, McKelvie was graduated from San Jose State College where he belonged to the Sigma Nu Fraternity. He and his wife have four children and he is an officer of Long Beach Elks Lodge No. 888.

New Shopping Center Started at Torrance

TORRANCE—A new $500,000 shopping center to be known as Sepulveda Plaza is under way at Cabrillo Avenue and Sepulveda Boulevard.

A project of the Kergan Development Co., the center will feature a large, air-conditioned Alpha Beta supermarket as its primary structure.

The center, which is being built by Ernest W. Hahn, Inc., general contractors, of Hawthorne, features 27,500 square feet of stores in its initial increment on a 3½-acre site.

Located in a burgeoning residential area, the center is designed to serve the neighborhood shopping needs of more than 25,000 people.

* * * *

THE ALPHA BETA market will be a full-service store featuring convenient shoulder-height merchandise counters, wide aisles, extensive frozen food cases and complete delicatessan and meat departments.

Hugh Gibbs, A.I.A., of Long Beach is the architect of the project.

Provisions also are being made at the site for future commercial additions. A drug store and coffee shop are being contemplated for the second construction unit.

Parking spaces for 170 cars at Sepulveda Plaza will be surrounded by perimeter parkway plantings.

Completion of construction is expected within four months.

Torrance Firm's Sales Hit Peak

TORRANCE — George S. Wing, president of Hi-Shear Corporation, has announced operating results for the fiscal year ended Feb. 1963, and for the three months ended May 31, 1963.

For the fiscal year ended Feb. 28, net sales totaled $6,310,643, highest in the company's 20-year history, and a 10 per cent increase over sales of $5,721,519 for the previous fiscal year.

Net earnings, after taxes, for the fiscal year just ended were $146,115, or 28 cents per common share, based on 515,340 shares outstanding, as compared with net earnings of $206,576, or 39 cents per share on 528,840 shares outstanding for the prior fiscal year.

Backlog of orders stood at $1,403,800 on Feb. 28, up 42 per cent from the figure recorded on Feb. 28, 1962.

Famed Times Tower In N.Y. to be Rebuilt

One of manhattan's most famous landmarks soon will have a new look.

Times Tower, the triangular-shaped building for which Times Square is named and the focal point for New Year's Eve televiewers across the nation, will be almost completely rebuilt by its new owner, Allied Chemical Corporation.

The exterior of the 26-story building that cleaves Broadway and Seventh Avenue in the heart of New York's theatrical district will be refinished in modern architectural design.

Allied Chemical Corporation plans to use the 58-year-old landmark as a complex of exhibit and display areas and a location for some offices.

* * * *

A PUBLIC restaurant will be located on one of the upper levels—overlooking Times Square. Radio and television broadcasting facilities, areas for receptions and other functions also are contemplated.

In announcing Allied's acquisition and plans for the building—which is located on a site familiar to New York visitors as "the crossroads of the world"—Chester M. Brown, company president, said Allied will strive to make the area also the crossroads of chemistry.

Two of the world famous traditions associated with the building will be continued.

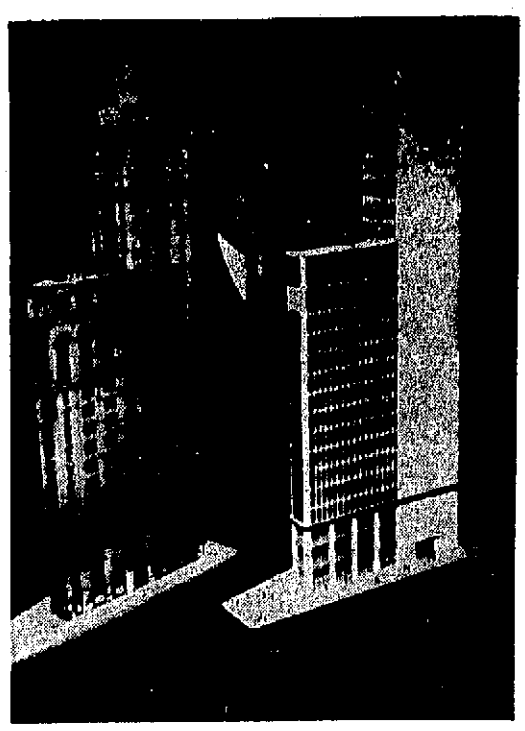

The New Year's Eve tradition of lowering an illuminated ball down the flagpole at midnight is a spectacle that annually attracts huge throngs of celebrants to Times Square area and is familiar to the nation's New Year's Eve televiewers.

* * * *

THE ELECTRIC news bulletin girdling the building will be lighted again to flash its headlines to the 1.5 million people who pass through Times Square each day. About one-third of them are visitors from all corners of the world.

The bulletin has been darkened since shortly after the New York Times completed moving the last of its personnell in 1961 to the present location a few blocks away. Life Magazine will operate the sign and service the news.

Allied Chemical acquired the building from Douglas Leigh, Inc., for an undisclosed sum. The Leigh organization obtained the property from the New York Times, March, 1961.

THERE'LL BE SOME CHANGES

Chester M. Brown, president of Allied Chemical Corp., stands between a model of the Times Tower, left, famous New York landmark, and model of how the building, just purchased by Allied, will look after its face is lifted. The building, located at 42nd Street and Broadway, on the corner known as Times Square, will be completely reconstructed, according to Brown.

Salaries of Bank Officers Increase, Survey Shows

A recent national survey of bank officers' salaries by Cole & Associates, a Boston consulting firm, showed bankers' salaries hitting new highs and increasing at a rate faster than those of their industry counterparts.

The annual increase among bankers as a group was more than 5 per cent last year and was 60 per cent greater than the average raises received by management personnel in industrial companies.

The survey, which included banks in the east, south, midwest and far west, indicated that banks are overhauling their institutional image to compete more effectively for professional manpower through aggressive recruiting and improved wages.

* * * *

BEST-PAID bank officers among the 36 professional classes surveyed were vice presidents for investments, who averaged $19,107 a year, and top loan officers, who averaged $18,000 a year. Within the latter group, the range was from $15,000 to $50,000-a-year.

Other average salaries revealed by the 1962-63 Bank Officer Salary Survey were: vice presidents, installment loan, $18,333; vice presidents, public relations, $17,781; trust investment officers, $13,320; bookkeeping managers, $8,032; income tax officers, $10,862; international trade specialists, $13,531; data processing managers, $9,971 and auditors, $10,682.

During the past year, bank officers' salaries have increased an average of 5.8 per cent, the survey showed. Individual banks showed increases ranging from 11 per cent to 3 per cent.

Fullerton Man Transferred to Palo Alto Post

Appointment of William G. Newton as manufacturing manager of the Spinco Division of Beckman Instruments, Inc., has been announced by Robert J. Baumann, manager of the Palo Alto based division.

In his new position, Newton will be responsible for all manufacturing operations of the Beckman division which specializes in the development and manufacture of biochemical and medical instrumentation for hospitals, research laboratories and clinics.

Newton replaces John F. Murray, who was named manager of operations of the company's Offner Division, Chicago.

A member of the Beckman organization since 1955, Newton served most recently as corporate industrial engineering manager at the company's Fullerton headquarters.

U. S. AIR FORCE contracts totaling $25,467,650 have been awarded to Hughes Aircraft Co. for engineering and production of two new versions of Falcon air-to-air guided missiles, a company official announced.

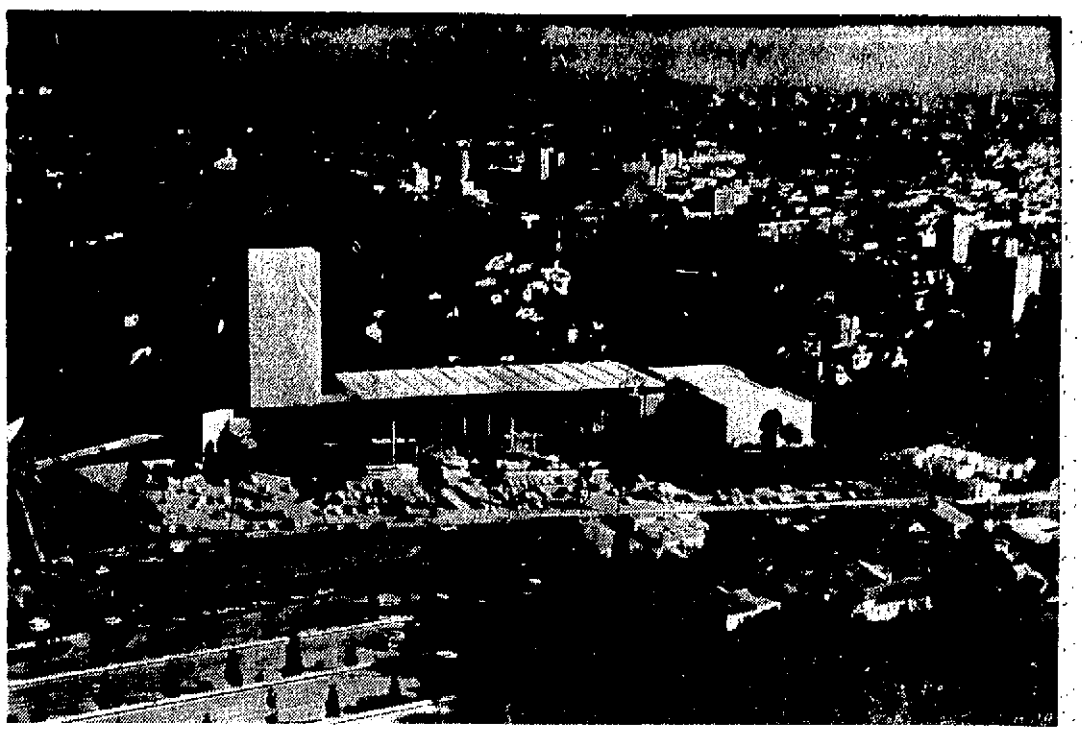

John W. Black, Hughes vice president and manager of aeronautical systems division, said the GAR-11 nuclear-armed Falcon will be adapated to carry a conventional warhead. The new version, designed GAR-11A, will be interchangeable with the GAR-11 and will provide greater flexibility of deployment, Black added.

The second missile is the GAR-2B, which has been given increased infrared sensitivity and more versatile capability, the official said.

Both missiles will be manufactured at the company's Tucson facility, according to Black.

Moore Luau to Celebrate Sales Boom

E. T. Moore, president of Moore Realty, has invited his entire sales staff, including wives and husbands, to a luau July 25 at the Palms restaurant, Anaheim, to celebrate a record sales volume for the first half of 1963.

For the six months, the company's real estate sales exceeded $13 million, Moore has announced.

This resulted in more than 100 transactions per month and represented a 98% increase over the first half of 1962, Moore said.

* * * *

THE COMPANY has nine offices, in Lakewood, Long Beach and Orange County, with more than 100 on its sales staff.

Moore attributes this growth to a "constant effort for better service to the client through more modern facilities; continual educational conferences for associates, such as the recently completed clinic on investment properties; and a new profit sharing type of compensation for top associates with the firm."

Seal Beach Man Will Talk at San Pedro

Start Lake Park Plaza Shop Center

Ground was broken recently for the $2 million, 12½-acre Lake Park Plaza shopping center at the corner of Ball Road and Valley View Avenue, Buena Park.

Turning first earth were Eugene Rose, general manager, Larwin Fund, the center's developers, Mayor Richard Crenshaw of Buena Park, Wayne Sheppard, president-elect of the Chamber of Commerce and Art Lucey, assistant to the president, Alpha Beta Markets.

* * * *

ROSE SAID that the facility eventually will encompass 120,000-square-feet of buildings, with parking for 600 cars.

First unit of the new center will be a 21,000-square-foot Alpha Beta supermarket, 85th in the company's chain.

In addition, Rose said that plans include a restaurant, bank, major variety store, drug store, clothing store and specialty and service shops.

LARWIN FUND, headed by Lawrence J. Weinberg and William Weinberg, is an affiliate of Larwin Group companies, the west coast's largest builders and developers of homes and shopping centers.

Larwin Company, another affiliate, is building the neighboring $40 million, 2,000-home community of Lake Park, near Lakewood.

Lake Park Plaza, said Rose, will be one of Larwin Fund's major shopping centers.

Orange Co. Developer Eyes European Styles

The search for newer, better building technique and architectural design is a never-ending quest for Orange County builder-developer E.L. Rafferty, who has been studying modern construction methods employed in European countries.

The busy executive, his wife, and son, David, 15, were to return to their Balboa home today after touring Spain, Italy, France, Denmark and Portugal. David joined his parents in Spain following completion of his semester at the Army-Navy Academy in Carlsbad.

Since then, they have completed a medical complex in Westminster and a 39-home subdivision in Carlsbad. They currently are building 62 homes in Orange (Pacific Homes), and are mapping plans for the construction of 500 multiple units on 10 different sites in Southern California.

Rafferty was born in Huntington Beach and attended Fullerton Junior College. During World War II, he saw service in the Central Pacific Theater as a Marine Corps fighter pilot. He retired with the rank of captain in 1949.

Rabuco is headquartered at 333 E. 17th St., Costa Mesa.

GENISCO NOW IN THIS COMPTON PLANT

Genisco, Inc., developers and manufacturers of aerospace system components, environmental test equipment, data acquisition and processing systems, and electronic controls for industry, has moved into this 101,000-square-foot Dominguez Industrial Park plant at 18435 Susana Road, Compton. Genisco is a 15-year-old company formerly located at 2233 Federal Ave., West Los Angeles. E. C. Burkhart, chairman and president, said the move was necessitated by the company's increased business volume and continued diversification of product lines.

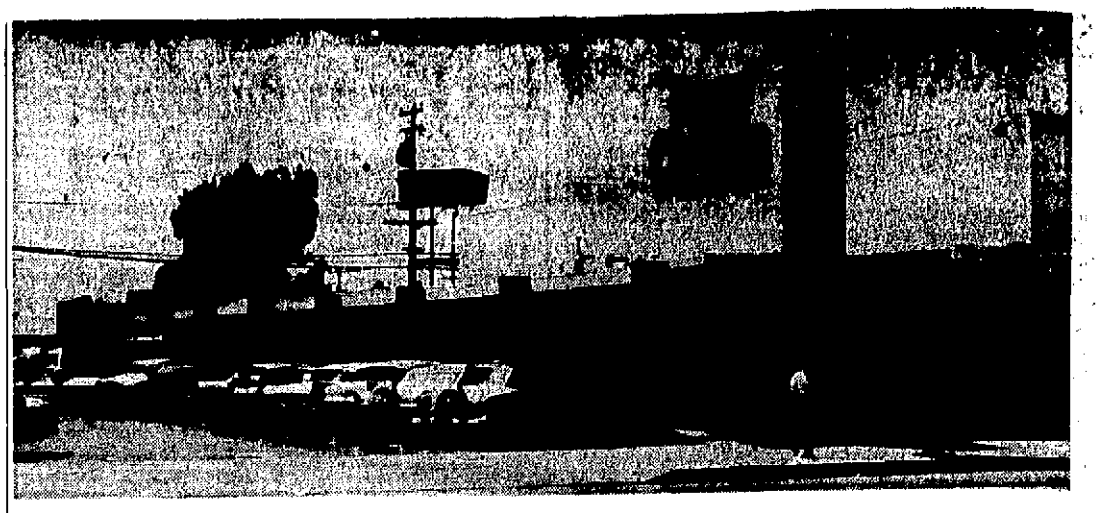

Time Service Now Sponsored By Loan Firm

The time of day by telephone has a new sponsor—Coast Federal Savings and Loan Association—for this service in Long Beach and vicinity, according to A. F. Schmidt, downtown Long Beach manager for General Telephone Co.

The number to dial for correct time, day or night, is 437-0211.

Time of day service is made possible through an ingenious recorder device, the Audichron, which plays three separate records simultaneously and continuously 24 hours a day.

When the number 437-0211 is dialed, the caller hears a brief commercial message followed by the exact hour to the minute. The instrument has the capacity of accommodating a great number of calls at the same time.

ANOTHER SHOPPING CENTER IN PARAMOUNT

With a pine tree in the background, this new shopping center area in the heart of Paramount has been named Pine Center. It is one of a half dozen new business zones in the growing city, and is located between Paramount Boulevard and Colorado St., south of Monroe. One of its features is a new restaurant operated by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Goodwin, long prominent restaurateurs in this area. The past week, the city's Chamber of Commerce started holding its meetings at the restaurant. The Chamber is in the midst of a shop-at-home campaign and is pushing for more industries in Paramount.

L.B. Group Seeks 1967 Convention

Actress Maureen O'Hara recently presented an award to Perry Griffith, president of the Advertising Club of Long Beach, after he had invited the Advertising Association of the West to hold its 1967 convention in Long Beach.

Invitations for the '67 session also were extended by the cities of Sacramento, San Francisco, Portland and Salt Lake City.

CREA President Talks in Long Beach Thursday

Mayors of Long Beach, Signal Hill, Lakewood and Seal Beach have been invited to attend a 22nd District realty meeting at 8 a.m. Thursday when principal speaker will be L. H. Wilson of Fresno, president of the California Real Estate Association.

Wilson, according to Melvin L. Mould, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, is traveling through California and has made several trips east in an effort to determine real estate business trends and to study tax problems.

* * * *

WILSON is reported to feel that dwindling loss of property owner rights and spiraling taxes affecting real estate are of high concern to Realtors in the state. This will be the topic of his speech at the Thursday breakfast program in the California Room of the International Breakers Hotel.

The Long Beach board and others in the district are hosting the event, open to Realtors and guests. Wilson will be accompanied by H. J. Pontius, CREA executive vice president, and Robert Allred, 22nd District regional vice president.

SALES AND PROFITS

Sales and profits of America's 500 largest industrial corporations set an all-time high in 1962. The combined sales of the 500 were $229.1 billion, 9.5 per cent above those of the previous record year of 1961. Combined profits for the 500 totaled $13.5 billion, 12.5 per cent ahead of the previous record set in 1959, and 16.1 per cent above the profits of 1961.

* * * *

THE 10 BIGGEST industrial companies, according to Fortune's ranking by total sales, are the following (in all cases sales are exclusive of excise taxes):

1. General Motors	$14,640,241,000
2. Standard Oil (N.J.)	9,536,877,000
3. Ford Motor	8,089,617,000
4. General Electric	4,772,733,000
5. Socony Mobil Oil	3,933,346,000
6. U.S. Steel	3,466,820,000
7. Texaco	3,272,136,000
8. Gulf Oil	2,836,292,000
9. Western Electric	2,761,409,000
10. Swift	2,494,552,000

Some other highlights of the Fortune compilation:

The 500 firms account for more than half the sales of all U.S. manufacturing and mining companies, and for more than 70 per cent of their profits.

The company with the best sales gain was Mergenthaler Lintotype (340 per cent); the biggest proportionate loss was shown by National Sugar Refining (23.9 per cent).

Forty-nine companies now have sales of more than $1 billion a year; last year only 41 companies were above that mark. The newcomers are: ITT, Cities Service, Monsanto, American Motors, Eastman Kodak, Republic Steel, Burlington Industries, U. S. Rubber.

* * * *

WHAT BIG industrial firms were the most profitable last year?

The top 10 in the U. S., ranked according to their 1962 profit after taxes as a percentage of sales, are these:

Company	Net Profit (% of Sales)
1. Amerada Petroleum	29.4%
2. DuPont	18.5
3. Smith, Kline & French Labs	16.9
4. Gillette	16.4
5. Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass	16.3
6. Superior Oil	15.8
7. Kern County Land	15.8
8. Texaco	14.7
9. Standard Oil of California	14.6
10. Champion Spark Plug	14.4

Americans Saving More, Banks Show

NEW YORK (UPI)—Americans added $1.45 to their accumulated long-term savings last year for every dollar of increase in their personal debt, one of the best such showings on record, says the Institute of Life Insurance. Savings in life insurance and other long-term thrift media rose by $31.5 billion, nearly a third more than the year before.

Banks Reporting Many New Accounts

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Bankers Association reports that more than 331,000 new accounts were opened in commercial banks in New York state last year. This included 130,000 special checking accounts, 110,000 savings accounts and 90,000 regular checking accounts.

Total savings in commercial bank, savings banks and savings and loan associations reached a record $34.4 billion.

Foreign Cars

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Imported cars snagged nearly 10 per cent of all new car sales in California in the first three months of this year.

L.B. Electronics Firm Honored

ANAHEIM — K. T. Electronics in Long Beach has been appointed a member of the Altec Engineered Sound Products Council for 1963 by Altec Lansing Corporation.

L. A. King, of K. T. Electronics, was presented with a seal affixed to his authorized sound contractor certificate, by Ronald Hall, regional sales manager for Altec.

The seal honors K. T. Electronics' recommendations and suggestions on new product planning conducted by Altec Lansing Corporation with its top sound contractors throughout the country.

Spacious Apartments on Ocean Attract Laguna Royale Buyers

"What features led to your decision to purchase an apartment at Laguna Royale?"

(1) The magnificent ocean-front location offering panoramic views of sky, ocean and shore line from every window;

(2) Unusually spacious soundproof apartments with choice of eight floor plans;

(3) Two elevators directly to a beautiful gradual sandy beach and heated pool;

(4) Large private balcony and terrace areas;

(5) Generous subterranean parking with 24-hour attendant service;

(6) The high quality of construction and elegant appearance of the whole building;

* * * *

(7) REASONABLE PRICES for ocean-front location, and generous financing;

(8) Independent title insured apartment ownership;

(9) Central location for Laguna's resort activities, and

(10) Access to superb fishing grounds.

The $4 million development features 78 resident-owned apartments, each with private balcony and terrace area enjoying panoramic views of ocen and rock-bound shoreline.

Built by St. Pierre Investment, Inc., the soundproof building is 11 stories high from the beach side with six penthouse apartments on the beach. Reflection pools and hanging screens have been employed by George Bissell Jr., architect, to dramatize the approach to the building from Coast Highway.

DANCING ON THE TERRACE

* * * *

At the beach level rock gardens provide a dramatic backdrop for a palm-fringed, heated pool.

Laguna Royale residents independently own their own title-insured apartment homes entirely carefree of all building and grounds maintenance.

Two-bedroom apartments at Laguna Royale are priced from $38,500 and three bedrooms from $58,000. There are six penthouses on the beach priced from $62,900 to $74,500.

New Banks to Be Built at Downey

DOWNEY — A strong indication the 1963-64 fiscal year will bring continued record-breaking commercial development here was given the past week as Ray Lake, building department director, announced issuance of a permit for a new $90,000 building for United California Bank.

The structure will be located at 8300 E. Firestone Blvd. It will be the second unit in the multi-million-dollar Downey Exchange Center.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH plans have not been submitted to the city for final check, officials of the U.S. National Bank recently announced plans and started site preparations for a $400,000 branch facility at the northeast corner of Downey Avenue and Third Street.

Permits for construction valued at $12,016,419 were issued by the city department during the first six months of 1963. This is nearly $5 million more than were issued during the comparable period in 1962 Lake said.

Notes Her 40th Year in Telephone Industry

Helena M. LeManquais of 248 E. San Antonio Drive, Long Beach, recently noted her 40th anniversary in the communications industry.

She is a staff assistant in Pacific Telephone's traffic department at Los Angeles.

Mrs. LeManquais supervises a group responsible for switchboard and teletype-writer practices, methods and service.

* * * *

HER ENTIRE CAREER, dating back to June of 1922, has been in the traffics department, both in San Francisco and Los Angeles. She began as a long distance operator.

Mrs. LeManquais has been active in organizations both in Long Beach and on the Palos Verdes Peninsula. She was matron of Palos Verdes Amaranth in 1942-43, propheless of Ladies of the Oriental Shrine in 1956-57-60 and has belonged to Palos Verdes Eastern Star, Calvary White Shrine, Daughters of the Nile and the Pilot Club.

Sales of New Cars Continue Fast Pace

DETROIT (UPI)—The car market continues to be a bustling one, auto manufacturers report.

Chevrolet again led the industry with sales of 81,228 new cars and trucks during the second 10 days of June, Larry Averill, general sales manager, said.

The June 11-20 total was the second highest for any similar period in Chevrolet history, exceeded only in 1962 when a special sales campaign was in progress, Averill said.

The 68,790 new cars and 12,438 new trucks brought Chevrolet new vehicle sales since Jan. 1 to a record 1,301,737.

* * * *

PRELIMINARY Ford reports showed dealers sold 49,902 cars in the mid-June period for a record 5,545 units daily. Truck sales were 12,469 or 1,385 daily.

The Chrysler-Plymouth division reported its dealers delivered 17,438 new cars during the period. Sales for the model year totaled 412,143, a 33 per cent hike over the same period of the 1962 model year, according to C.E. Briggs, vice president and general manager.

Dodge car sales were the best on record for that period in the firm's 49-year history. Dealers sold 12,486 new Dodges in the second 10 days of June.

Pontiac reported more than 19,800 Pontiacs and Tempests were sold, surpassing by 24 per cent the previous mid-June sales mark of 15,999 set a year ago.

* * * *

THE STUDEBAKER Corp. sold 1,690 cars in the period, compared to 2,312 a year ago. In the first 10 days of the month, dealers delivered 1,633 cars.

Lincoln-Mercury dealers continued to show gains with preliminary reports showing they sold 9,600 cars in the second 10 days, up 19 per cent from the first 10 days.

Cadillac deliveries reached 4,434 new cars, beating the old record of 4,084 in 1956 and are more than 15 per cent ahead of the same period last year.

Investors Need 'Savvy' on Income Tax Procedure

Regardless of whether the amount of money involved is large or small, the individual investor should be aware of the income tax laws affecting the taxation of his investment capital gains and losses, according to the California Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Likewise, says the society in a release on tax suggestions applicable any time during the year, he should be aware of the opportunities for tax savings in this area. Even a small investment portfolio can and should be managed with the minimization of taxes as one objective.

* * * *

Special rules apply in the taxation of capital gains and losses. Only 50% of the excess of net long term capital gain over net short term capital loss is included in income.

The maximum tax rate on the entire amount of such excess is 25%.

The excess of net short term capital gain over net long term capital loss is taxed in the same manner as ordinary income. Net capital losses are deductible in full, subject to a maximum annual limitation on such deduction of $1,000 per return.

Losses in excess of this limitation may be carried forward for the succeeding five taxable years and, when carried forward, are treated as a short term capital loss.

* * * *

Exceptions are property held for sale in the ordinary course of a trade or business (inventory), accounts and notes receivable arising from the sale of inventory and the rendering of services, depreciable property and land used in the trade or business, governmental obligations issued at a discount (Series E bonds, for example) and copyrights or the like in the hands of their creators.

Where the total gains from sales or exchanges of depreciable property and land used in the trade or business and held for more than six months exceed the total losses from sales of such property, the net gains are taxed in the same manner as long term capital gains.

However, if the total losses from sales of such property exceed the total gains, they are treated as ordinary gains and losses.

* * * *

IN THIS connection the Revenue Act of 1962 has introduced a "recapture" rule. Under this rule, gains from the sale or exchange after 1962 of tangible depreciable personal property will be treated as ordinary income to the extent of depreciation deductions taken after 1962.

The holding period of a capital asset determines whether gain or loss from the sale or exchange of the asset is long term or short term. If this holding period is more than six months, the gain or loss is long term, otherwise, it is short term.

In determining the beginning and ending of the holding period of securities traded on exchange, the trade date—that is the date an order to buy or sell is filled—is used. This date is usually four or more days before the settlement date, which is the date one pays for securities purchased or is paid for securities sold.

* * * *

However, income tax consequences are only one element to consider.

It is much better to realize short term capital gain and pay tax rather than watch a gain turn into a loss while waiting for the six months holding period to run its course and pay no tax at all.

NOT LIKE THE OLD DAYS

Fancy Apartments Put New Slant on American Way of Life

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Fancy, new apartment developments are springing up in the nation's suburban belts, and they are giving the builder of homes a run for his money.

Some of the customers looking for shelter seem to be pretty impressed.

Once the issue was pretty clear cut. Only the very old and the very young were attracted to the apartment, and the younger couple moved out just as soon as they could get together a down payment for a house.

But this was in the days when the apartment was a stack of concrete cubicles surrounded by honking autos and wire-fenced playgrounds.

* * * *

SOME OF them going up today radiate the architectural dignity of a college campus. Many have swimming pools and tennis courts and offer a shopping area in the basement where the apartment dweller can buy his groceries, drop off his drp cleaning or even sip a cocktail.

This new atmosphere of convenience is taking some of the glow off that once universal dream to own a home.

The builder of homes still feels that psycholngy and economics is on his side, and he's probably right. But there's no question that the competition from the apartment is stiffer than it was in past years.

The Nationaal Association of Real Estate Boards commented on this in a recent study of the real estate market, based on information supplied by 157 realtors from all sections of the country.

* * * *

"THE LARGE number of good quality apartment buildings that are being erected, particularly in the suburbs, are attracting and holding tenants who otherwise would probably have acquired a house of their own," the study said.

However, it stressed the conviction that home ownership is so imbedded in our way of life that no appreciable trend away from it was expected.

Realtors approached about this upsurge of apartment building feel it will not make any serious inroads into the business of the home builder.

Home ownership still has a lot of strong arguments going for it. One of the strongest is the fact that the home buyer gets some equity out of his investment.

Huntington Village Prestige Homes Will Open Sales Today

NEW HOMES SHOWN

The first unit of the new Huntington Village one and two-story Prestige Homes, in Huntington Beach, will be open to the public today. The three, four and five-bedroom homes are priced from $21,200.

The first unit of Huntington Beach's newest, and finest, family-sized homes—Huntington Village Prestige Homes—will be open to the public today, according to the builders, Doyle and Shields Development Co., Inc.

Six superbly decorated model homes emphasize and display the fine workmanship, the attention to styling and the wife-saving convenience built into Prestige Homes. The one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes are open daily for the public's convenience.

Prestige Homes are available in 22 new exterior elevations and six new floor plans to offer a wide variety of selection to the home buyer and to remove the stigma of a "tract" appearance.

* * * *

INNOVATIONS deserving of highlighting in Prestige Homes include a big overhead full size door (in one of the 3-bedroom models) from the garage to the patio area for safe and simple storage of a boat or trailer; an indoor barbecue facility in the family room of another style three-bedroom home; veranda-balcony on many of the two-story homes; a pantry in the five-bedroom two-story home, and the extra-large master bathrooms in all the homes. Many of these master baths feature a built-in dresser and have a door directly to the patio. A massive and magnificent floor-to-ceiling stone or brick fireplace, specially designed to complement each home, is still another attraction to be noted.

All-electric Westinghouse kitchens with built-in range, double oven with glass door, dishwasher with special top, overhead luminous lighting and ample cabinet space have made Huntington Village Prestige Homes especially attractive to early-bird shoppers that have toured the models.

* * * *

NYLON CARPETING, extra closets and shelves and large wardrobes will also please the discriminating home buyer.

FHA and convential and Cal-Vet financing are all available on the homes, which are priced from $21,200.

Prestige Homes are located just a short drive from the new $78 million Douglas Space Center facility in Huntington Beach; several neighborhood shopping areas; a new high school, several grade schools and the fabulous Orange County coastline of beaches and small boat harbors.

NORWALK WEST Homes feature wall-to-wall carpet in the living room, hall and master bedrooms, sliding picture window doors in aluminum frames leading to patio, a wealth of closet and wardrobe space with folding doors for easy access. The ultri-modern kitchen are equipped with Wedgewood Holly built-in oven and range with hood and exhaust fan, Insinkerator disposer and a large amount of cupboard space.

Located in Los Angeles County, Norwalk West Homes are close to everything. Furnished model homes are open daily for inspection and may be seen on Leffingwell Road between Curtis and King Road and Flatbush Avenue.

Expect European Cars to Use More Automatic Transmissions

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) A more rapid increase in the use of automatic transmissions in European automobiles is forecast.

Scientists from Great Britain and the United States said the increase will be steady but will stabilize at a lower level than in the United States.

The forecast was placed before the final technical session of the Sixth World Petroleum Congress. More than 6,000 oil and gas experts from 62 nations participated in the international forum on scientific and technological developments.

The council authorized its executive committee to meet in January in Mexico City to select the site for the next congress in 1967. Mexico City, Moscow, London and Tokyo have been mentioned.

* * * *

THE EUROPEAN trend toward automatic transmissions was reported by a group of Socony Mobil Oil chemists and engineers.

They said about 85 per cent of the automobiles being manufactured in the United States have such transmissions but the number of European vehicles so fitted probably is less than 1 per cent of the total car population.

"It can be expected that in Europe there will be a wider variety of transmission types because of the smaller and more diverse factory units," the report said.

"It is only comparatively recently that automatic transmissions have become available for the smaller size of engines which, mainly for fiscal reasons, are popular in Europe."

* * * *

THE SCIENTISTS said the rate of increase will be tempered by initial cost of the transmissions. At present these are considerably higher in Europe than in the United States.

They said the additional cost of an automatic transmission for a low to medium-priced vehicle in Great Britain is equivalent to 12.4 per cent of the total price of the same type automobile with standard gearshift. They placed the comparable U. S. figure at 7 per cent.

"The rate of increase as a percentage of the total car population can be expected to be slower in Europe than in the United States as the average age of cars is greater," the report said. "Individual owners retain their cars for a longer period."

Working drawings are being completed for a new $300,000 California Credit Union League headquarters building to be constructed in Pomona.

Architects of the sweeping, one-story structure are Balch-Hutchason-Perkins, A.I.A., of Los Angeles. The 13,000 square foot building will be erected on an 8.75 acre site on South Garey Avenue.

Construction is expected to begin in August, according to league president Harry L. Rodney of Orinda.

* * * *

SINCE 1933 when 25 credit unions joined together and formed the California Credit Union League on a voluntary, dues-supported basis, Oakland has been the headquarters city. The league has occupied its present leased offices at 2910 Lakeshore Avenue, Oakland, since March 1961.

Clarence E. Murphy of Piedmont has served as the organization's managing director since 1942.

At the annual meeting held in Los Angeles in November 1961, the members voted to construct a headquarters building and to relocate it in the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

ALCO-PACIFIC HONORED

'Telephone Planning Award' Goes to Sol Vista Home Fair

The plaque was presented to Solomon, who was honored for his foresight in planning today, for tomorrow's communications, by Hans Y. Kraepelien, vice president of marketing and sales for the utility.

"To meet General's stringent 'Telephone Planning Award' qualifications, considerable screening took place before Solomon and his firm were selected to receive this award," Kraepelien pointed out.

* * * *

A CONCEALED wiring plan with built-in telephone outlets to allow for the immediate installation of regular or portable phones and a pre-installed wiring plan designed for the resident's current requirements as well as future needs, played a major part in General's consideration of the Sol Vista International Home Fair for its coveted award.

"To qualify for General's award," said Kraepelian, "larger homes must have at least six telephone outlets, distributed in the living, working and sleeping areas. Smaller residences must have at least five outlets, located in the same areas."

THE 565 master planned balanced power homes in Alco-Pacific's new community are priced from $22,895 to $28,300. Cal-Vet, FHA and conventional terms are available.

BEFORE JOINING the Farrow firm, Rams served as district manager in Long Beach for a Long Beach firm.

Rams is a member of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, Lakewood-Los Altos Multiple Listing Service, California Real Estate Association, National Association of Real Estate Boards and Brokers Institute. He also belongs to Long Beach Optimists Club, Plaza Branch. He was graduated from Ferguson Institute, a business college on Long Island.

Man to Blame, .. Not Machines

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dictating machines are more reliable than the business executives who use them, Buyers Laboratory said today. After testing many makes of machines, the Laboratory said the big problem in their use is executives who don't take the trouble to spell out names or even to enunciate them clearly.

Big Home Comfort Offered in Cypress

ATTRACTIVE KITCHEN
Planned to save steps and lighten work, kitchens in Cypress Sunshine Homes stress the ultra-modern in built-in equipment. Featured is a Wedgewood Holly built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan.

Prime factor in the sales appeal of Cypress Sunshine Homes, a residential home development by S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, builders and developers, is the provision of "big home comfort at an affordable price," according to Thomas Richey, sales manager for the firm.

Richey stated that the low down payment of $195 and small monthly payments make it easy for the average income family to own a Cypress Sunshine Home featuring three and four bedrooms, two full baths, family room, and oversize two car garage. The home buyers receive free a completely fenced rear yard and front yard landscaped.

New Problems Seen for Industrial Realtors

Steadily increased competition between men and machines in today's age of mechanism will have a marked influence on industrial location, construction and design of buildings, according to a prominent Southland member and new leader of the Society of Industrial Realtors.

H. R. Hudson of Los Angeles, 20th national president of SIR, says:

"Mechanization is contributing to the obsolescence of existing industrial buildings, making it hard to compete with today's new one-story facilities with ample parking space."

He saw this as "a challenge to help owners of outdated multi-storied plants to decide what to do with them." He added:

"The choice of whether to . . . find another industry more suitable to the plant, rehabilitate the building for non-industrial use, or tear (it) down to put the land to another use is difficult to make . . . a problem that only a specialist can solve."

Hardware Man Gets Certificate

L. G. Schumacher of Dooley's Hardware Mart, Long Beach, has received a Certificate of Achievement for completion of the Fourth Annual Yale Builders' Hardware Training Course at Tarrytown, N.Y.

Awarding the certificate was Leo J. Puntas, vice president and a director of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co. which sponsored the two-week course, held at the Hilton Inn in Tarrytown.

The course is designed to enable its graduates to qualify, with further study, for certification by the American Society of Architectural Hardware Consultants.

DIAMOND HEAD SERIES HOME
Here is one of the models in the new Diamond Head Series of Springdale South Homes which may be purchased without down payment. Full price ranges from $17,495.

The Diamond Head Series, newest unit of Springdale South in Huntington Beach, has met with unprecedented buyer response, reports Sy Bram, executive director of Sunkist Plaza Builders.

This is due to the added value built into the homes, which, in turn is possible because of the company's mass buying power, Bram added.

The company, builder of several quality home developments throughout the Southland and one of the most respected building firms, has a huge mass buying power which has resulted in "something that catches the discriminating homebuyer's eye."

* * * *

THIS DIAMOND Head Series is the newest unit by the builders of Sunkist Plaza Homes, whose residences have been referred to as some of the best home values in Huntington Beach.

Occupancy is offered within 30 days on a no-down-payment basis to all and $100 costs. Full prices are from $17,495.

The homes contain three and four bedrooms, family room and two baths. As an extra incentive to buyers, the builders offer the bonus special of a fully fenced rear yard.

The quality homes include Waste-King-Universal built-ins in color and disposer. Modernaire range hood and fan, formica counters, ash cabinets and separate utility room.

Also included is Custom Aire forced air heat, decorator lighting fixtures, spacious stall showers, luxury Pullmans and deluxe medicine cabinets. Furnished models are open daily.

To reach the development from the Long Beach area, drive east on Garden Grove Avenue to Golden West, right (south) to Bolsa Avenue then right to Edwards and the models.

Artz Building Rates Award

Orville M. Artz recently was given Southern California Edison Company's "Award for Electrical Excellence" for his new office building at 5929 Cherry Ave.

Edison's Long Beach district manager, A. L. Code, made the presentation.

The award was established by the electric company to recognize built-in electrical quality in commercial and as the Medallion Home Award is the electric industry's honor in residential construction, Code pointed out.

Edwin H. Ripperdan, A.I.A., Long Beach, designed the building.

Artz's building has been chosen as one of the outstanding examples of architecture in Long Beach by the Long Beach Music Council for its recent "Four Centuries Festival."

Pacific Tel Project in Final Stage

A $146,000 Pacific Telephone project making facilities available for new housing and industrial development near Avalon and Sepulveda boulevards is in its final stage.

Splicing has been completed and "mop up" work is being done in connection with the placement of 21,150 feet of major feeder cable extending north from Pacific's central office on Broad Avenue, according to exchange manager A. B. Smith.

* * * *

THE CABLE runs along Lakme Street and Sepulveda to Avalon. A second link runs along Lomita Boulevard to Wilmington Avenue, then North to Carson Street.

"Numerous residential units and several large industrial plants are under construction in the area to be served by these facilities," Smith said.

"We expect continued growth in the next few years as large pieces of agricultural land are being made available for development into living quarters, trailer parks and industrial uses."

Fire Company Operates Cheaply

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI)—Perhaps the only fire company operated for profit in the United States is Rural Fire Protection, Inc., which serves three local communities. R-F-P assembles its own firetrucks, uses part time help and claims to operate more cheaply than a municipal department.

I, P-T Fashion Editor Covers New York's Fall-Winter Showings

HIGH FASHION look in knit jersey goes sportive. From Oleg Cassini's fall-winter collection.

AS SUN worshippers throng California beaches in the scantiest attire possible, I, P-T fashion editor Mary Ellis Carlton is in New York this week to report the latest in cover-up fashions for fall and winter.

Word from the fashion capital is that clothes for the coming season will be shifty, sportive and sexy—overstated with a capital "Oh."

Straws in the fashion wind whisper of turtlenecks and boots, country style hats and cable knit stocking, pantaloons and zany at-home pants. For evening: jewels and furs and floor-length gowns that slither and slink.

For what's in, what's out this fall, follow the women's pages this week. The first wire story from New York will appear Tuesday.

FOR EVENING . . . the high neck, sleeved, long Empire dress (left) from Arthur Jablow collection.

NOT ONLY NEWS, but smart and comfortable is this long evening coat in stretch fabric by Originala.

I, P-T's 'New Model You' Series

It Could Happen to You

Dear Fashion Editor:

Although my husband says he's satisfied with me—I definitely am not!

I am 46 years old, not too much overweight (140 pounds on a 5'6" frame), my hair is beginning to show some grey and the wrinkles aren't too noticeable, yet I feel dowdy and dumpy.

Don't you think I could be improved by remodeling? I do!

MRS. ROBERT J. ARNOLD
3152 Monogram Ave.

SAME DAY, four hours later . . . this is how Mrs. Arnold looked after "do-over" at Wilma Hastings agency. Notice more flattering hairstyle (created by Rafael), livelier makeup, more figure-flattering, up-to-now clothes.

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I, P-T Fashion Editor

In most every other department of her life, housewife-mother-grandmother-to-be Aili Arnold is happy, well-adjusted and has few complaints.

But when it comes to fashion, her hue and cry echoes that of thousands of would-be glamorites from Long Beach to Long Island.

Her lament: "I feel dowdy and dumpy!"

This despite her natural assets.

Which are numerous: vibrant, honey brown hair that responds willingly to a hair dresser's every whim . . . a youthful vitality that defies her 46 years . . . good facial features . . . a curvy figure that could be easily pared to size. . . .

Also a natural interest in all things fashionable.

"I know my appearance can be improved," said she, "But how? Where do I begin?"

The day started with an evaluation of her beauty-fashion problems, thusly outlined by Mrs. Hastings:

A too-flat hairdo that didn't flatter . . . dress silhouette uncomplimentary to the figure, skirt slightly too short . . . dark black mascara and down-pulled brows that gave a tired look to the eyes . . . a lack of flair in choice of accessories and textures.

Examples of the latter: no hat or gloves, uninteresting handbag ("elegance and quality in accessories are important to the total look"). . . mink collar with crepe dress ("unlikely textures and winter-summer looks should not be combined").

AFTER THE evaluation, then came the transformation.

Mrs. Arnold's dazzling do-over was accomplished with simple and fundamental principles of beauty and fashion—the kind that can help any woman, anywhere with her own beauty problems.

BEFORE: Aili Arnold as she arrived for one-day re-do in I, P-T's "New Model You" fashion-beauty series.

Says Mrs. Hastings: "For the beginner, the simple chord to beauty harmony is a pleasing figure outline (the experts call it silhouette) plus interesting, becoming colors and the proper balance of head and figure via the right hairdo and/or hat.

MRS. ARNOLD'S beauty program started, quite logically, with a new hairstyle created, in this instance, by Rafael at his salon, 4705 E. Anaheim.

"I'm weary of the same old hairdo," said Mrs. Arnold. "Maybe it was all right for other years, but now it's tired, old-hat."

Don't Let 'em Burgle You Blue

By MARY NETH

Burglars have a real holiday this time of year.

While the rest of the town goes on vacation, they go to work.

According to Lt. Maurice Wishon, detective Long Beach Police Department, residential burglaries rise a good 6 per cent in the summer.

When you take into account that there was a burglary committed every 36 seconds (day and night) in the state last year, any upswing is something to worry about.

* * * *

IS THERE ANYTHING you can do to keep your home from being ransacked?

"Yes," says Sgt. Robert Hill, LBPD residential burglary division. "A few precautions can really pay off."

"First of all, if you plan to be gone for an extended period, call the police department and let them know the date of your departure and return.

"They'll send a patrol car around to check on the property. It's also wise to give the name of a neighbor or friend with whom you'll leave a key and an address where you can be reached in case of emergency."

* * * *

BUT, THE POLICE can't do it all. To be completely effective they would have to be everywhere at once—a physical impossibility.

You can help them by taking a few simple steps yourself to discourage unwelcome callers.

To begin with, don't walk off without locking-up. Open doors and windows are an open invitation to trouble. They can let in more than a cool breeze.

And, if you are going to be gone for the night—leave a light burning.

According to Sergeant Hill this is one of the most effective means of foiling a would-be thief.

"Burglars often prowl neighborhoods looking for dark houses as likely places to rob. A light left on in the bathroom is often enough to deter them. If possible, leave a light on in the backyard, too."

But, better still, if you will be gone for more than a few days, invest in an automatic timer switch. One of these switches will turn on a lamp in the house at dusk—turn it off a few hours later.

* * * *

LOCKS ARE A BIG safety factor, too. Most homes have good locks on their front doors, but often a flimsy device on the rear entrance that can be opened with a hair-pin.

Substantial pin-tumbler locks should

Done in collaboration with Japanese Airlines, the champagne dinner was given at Elks' Club and airlines personnel served as hostesses a la as if in flight. Happi coats were given as favors and worn. Note incoming president Darry Neighbors and wife, "Marky" being served at head table by June Kawai, ground hostess of the airlines.

Happy smiles in happi coats for Neighbors.

Instead of saki and in consideration of American taste buds, champagne was served on the patio prior to dinner Marvelous teriyaki was cooked and served from glowing hibachis. A huge iced trough of chilled champagne bottles kept things popping out there, I tell thee true.

Dinner was eaten by chopsticks and, as far as I could see, nobody welched and insisted on silverware. Other most honorable honorees were outgoing prexy, Odie Wright, and wife, Lois, plus the Japanese Consul General of Los Angeles.

Major praise to Marvin and Margaret Davis for putting the lavish affair together. And they, in turn, give bows to helping handers of committee members Betty and Larry Hunt, Melba and Lowell Clark and their lovely, blonde daughter, Linda, Sally and Dick De Gulia, Helen and Lathe Brightman, Ruth and Gordon Dougherty and . . .

You better believe it, this was a big one and the list continues—Louise and Ernie Belcher, Helen and Doug Newcomb, Carrie and Al Vignolo, Lou and John Walter, Audrey and Neil Phillips, Norma and Bill Becker, Lorraine and Max Becker, Margot and Henry Meyer and a very large bow indeed to Joseph and Mary Ishii who brought marvelous array of Japanese flower arrangements and potted trees to grace the entrance area.

A FUNNY THING happened to Barbara (Mrs. Jack) Enloe on the way to the shower—a baby shower being given for her by Lucille (Mrs. Marvin) Garvin, 3904 Rose Ave., at her home and co-hostessed by Flo (Mrs. Ron) Krebs and Judy (Mrs. Dave) Klein.

It was a surprise affair. And I mean, it turned into the biggest surprise of the year. Husband Jack was in charge of delivering Barbara to the party-site on some pretext or other.

On that same day he had a test to take in Los Angeles in the afternoon (he'd made one trip up earlier in the ayem). Well, he forgot all about the shower and suggested to Barbara that she make the trip up with him. He compounded his error by telling her it was hot in L. A. and to wear something old and comfortable. Which she did.

At 2 p.m.—the hour of the beginning of the party—his gargantuan mistake dawned on him. He called Lucille in a fluster, said he'd have Barbara there late. Then, mumbling an excuse to his wife that the test had been called off, he rushed her home to th party by an incredible 2:30. And you can imagine how she felt in that "loose, comfy" dress when she finally found out the truth.

Well, Jack rushed back to L.A. to take the test. Whatta ya' expect. He flunked it, natch.

LIFE'S LITTLE miseries. Joan and Julie Bescos went to Pebble Beach (stayed at Del Monte Lodge) for the Men's Amateur State Golf Tournament. Julie was among 63 golfers, state-wide, who qualified, made the championship flight. Then he had to come home for business reasons before he could play in the finals!

Also qualifying for the championship were Ernie Combs (he and Ruth stayed at Svengaard in Carmel) and John Richardson, up for the tourney with wife, Wina.

ANOTHER PROUD moment in the lives of Celestia and Harry Whipple, 441 Nebraska Ave. They just returned from a trip to Washington, D.C. to be present when their local-boy-makes-good (and how!) son, Dr. Fred L. Whipple received his award for Distinguished Federal Civilian Service from President Kennedy.

Fred is professor of astronomy at Harvard and director of Smithsonian's Astrophysical Observatory. He was one of five to receive such an award from JFK in varying fields. After the presentation the Whipples visited in Des Moines before returning home.

A TERRIFIC GUY and his wife, Dr. Guy and Alice Frank, are houseguesting at Rose and Gene Bishop's home. Guy, for the record, is Rose's most talented brother. They are from Shepherds Town, W. Va., where he is chairman of the Fine Arts Dep't. at Shepherd College and an arranger and composer of note and great talent.

He has collaborated with a Dr. Charles Cooper on a musical, "Bon Marche," which has high hopes of hitting Broadway. Anyway, Rose and Gene entertained for Guy and Alice and invited good old-timer friends from charter membership of Singers' Workshop, now Civic Light Opera Co.

Guy played "Bon Marche," then asked the talented gang to take turns on the numbers. Wonderful! Among those "on stage," sans rehearsal, were Pat Zeig (there with Bob), Laura Killingsworth (as usual, Ed listened, enjoyed), Jackie and Harvey Waggonner, Marvin Cloyd and date, Jane Lewis, Sid Cullum (present with wife, Pat), Jim Boyd there with Joyce Dixon, Betty Kimber, Henri Scanlon and Art Carrah.

Happy as a people.

STARTED to say Lorraine Moore is happy as a lark or carefree as a bird in flight. Then got to thinking, for all we know, those poor little things may be worried sick about what's going on back in the nest. So forget it. Let's just say Lorraine is bound to be having real peoples' kind of fun . . . and that's not for the birds.

Currently renting her home on Treasure Island are Madelyn and Doug Nance and their sons, Douglas and Jon-Todd, enjoying their fifth summer "on the beach here" from their home in Palm Desert (they love us here, honest).

SMASHING success, very large, they tell me was Poly High's 1953 class reunion party of last week. Joint jumped (the International Ballroom at Lafayette) as at least 350 old grads got together.

A do-it-yourself affair, far as the committee work went, duties were intermingled and shared by Sidney and Dan Nichols, Peri and Travis Jackson (she coordinated), Bobby and Joe Kirkpatrick, '53 class prez Ray Cummings, wife, "Sandy."

Also on the workside of the party ledger, Binnie and Jack Berro, Roxy and Kent Bingham, "Tootsie" and Jim Gregory and Bonnie and Jim Hanson. Bonnie, still in a wheel chair from an accident in January, was undaunted—did more than most anybody.

Bill Warch was emcee. Imagine his embarrassment when, handing out the door awards, he had to give his own wife, Connie, the main one. She won, fair and square, a make-up case.

HEADS filled with memories of high country woodsy air and sun, Frances and Willard Campbell, daughter, Jenelle, are home from two weeks vacation at Big Bear. Next door neighbors, Ellie and Bob Milburn, and their three youngsters grew so lonesome for them they went up and spent four days!

THIS TOWN is getting artier and artier, of that there is no douht. Now it's going to be real kooky arty (one day only) with gusto and paint flying in all directions next Thursday.

With tongue in cheek and all members and guests welcome to join the fun, Yacht Club Ladies Day will feature the First Annual Long Beach Yacht Club Art Exhibit. Elaine (Mrs. Jack) Kirschke is chairman with co-chairmen Norma (Mrs. John) McIntire and Juanita (Mrs. George) Heinrich. Anything in art will go, from abstract to cartoons to doodles. Materials—paints, brushes, charcoal, even pencils, will be provided.

To give you some idea of what you're apt to run into on the docks as the gals have at it, note below Margaret (Mrs. Frank) Mansuy and Norma McIntire illustrating what a merry it will be.

Drawing a dock or a ship or maybe just a blue sky will be such gals as Darlene Couitrup, Norma Herster, Jeannine Mullender, Joie Jacomb. Then there will be stiff competition from real paint-thumbers (i.e. like green-thumbers) Loyce Carhart, Polly Merrill, Gladys Crum and Ellen Kapp.

Down to the sea with paint brushes they'll go.

Charity Game to Open Bridge Championships

Opening with a charity game, the 15th annual Midsummer Contract Bridge Championships will be July 18-21 in the Lafayette Hotel. The championships traditionally attract 5,000 players.

All proceeds of the first session, beginning at 1:30 p.m. July 18 will go to charity, according to Marshall Ketchum, tournament manager.

In addition to the capital prizes for first and second place over all winners in all championships, prizes will be offered for the first place winners in all sections and for every session. The only knockout event in this area at the sectional level will be for the Bixby cup. This will be a team-against-team contest with international match point scoring.

The Long Beach sectional committee includes Erik Paulsen, chairman, Kelsey Petterson, Paul Taylor and Robert Sterett. Lou Ryel will be in charge of partner pairing and Robert Dischner will be tournament director.

Manager of Fair to Speak

Loren McCannon, administrative vice president and assistant general manager of the 1967-69 California World's Fair, will talk at the Altrusa Club meeting Monday.

The event will take place in Boulevard Room, Lafayette Hotel, with dinner at 7 p.m. following a social meet at 6:30.

The program has been planned by Myrtle Seiler and her public affairs committee.

Audrey Stevens will introduce McCannon who will illustrate his talk with slides showing plans for the fair and development of its Pier J site.

WAL to Meet

Long Beach District, Women's Architectural League, will meet in the home of Mrs. Richard O. Prior, 6281 Marita Ave., Monday at 8 p.m.

Barbara Kummer Says Nuptial Lines

Mrs. Donald Richard Soukup

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of satin lined Alencon lace with panniers of satin forming a cathedral train. Her veil of illusion was caught with satin roses and she carried a Book of Common Prayer topped by a shower of butterfly orchids and stephanotis.

Marilyn Gerrard attended as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Coula Paulos, Linda Sadler and Mrs. Jerry Sands..

Bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Soukup, 1345 E. Ninth St., asked his brother, James H. Soukup, to be his best man. Ushers were John E. Rigby, David West, Thomas Alcock, Berry Blythe and William T. Kummer.

* * * *

A RECEPTION in the church Biblical Garden was followed by a champagne buffet for family and close friends at the home of the bride's parents. The newlyweds are honeymooning at Lake Arrowhead prior to motoring to Northern California and their first home in Arcata.

Both young persons were graduated from Polytechnic High School. The new Mrs. Soukup was graduated in June from Long Beach State College and will teach this fall in the Arcata area. Her husband attended Long Beach City College and will enter Humboldt State College in September with a major in forest management.

It Could Happen to You, Too

and doesn't do a thing for me."

Raphael's answer: A fluffier, higher hairstyle with camouflaging bangs that allow some forehead to show through, thereby lengthening facial features.

He calls it "the longer look in shorter hair," a new sportive approach with the fresh look of natural youthfulness, also a touch of sophistication.

The result: added height, updated appearance, more pleasing over-all balance.

THEN CAME the makeup with makeup techniques, executed by Mrs. Hastings, which gave new face value to Mrs. Arnold's over-all charm.

The prescription: a more natural, more complete makeup to create subtle flattery and more youthful radiance.

A creamy beige foundation gave needed color and facial highlights. Heavy black mascara was replaced with medium brown, applied to the underneath side of the lashes. The mascara, along with green shadow and dark silver eyeliner (extended beyond the eye), brightened her blue-green eyes.

Brows were plucked from underneath (raised a good half inch) to create a prettier arch. By extending the brow line slightly, and ending it in a soft upward sweep, a lift was given to the face.

A peach tone lipstick (softer than the color Mrs. Arnold had been wearing) was the final bright touch.

IN MRS. ARNOLD'S before picture, she wears a crepe dress that, in Mrs. Hastings' words, "is nice enough, but not right for her figure type."

WRONG: Waistline too high (accentuates over-ample 40-inch bust), quality of fabric not high fashion, lines of dress not elongated enough to be flattering.

In a one-woman fashion show at the Wilma Hastings Modeling and Finishing School, Mrs. Arnold tried on a variety of styles in different colors and fabrics (any woman can do this in a store).

By studying them carefully, on herself, she was soon easily able to see how one outfit could be dull and unflattering, while the next could be dramatically devastating!

SHE LEARNED these fashion do's and don't's for her 5-feet-6, top-heavy (40-inch bust, slim hips), now 135-pound (and still going down) figure. Similar figure types take note:

1. A carefully chosen dress can fool the eye as to figure proportions. The trick: lower your waistline to look slimmer through the bust. Longer jackets, tunics, three-quarter coats give better balance than short jackets or crop tops.

2. Full skirts are not flattering to the top-heavy figure, ditto puffed sleeves, large collars and bunchy necklaces. Gravitate to the new collarless coats and suits.

3. Don't add bulk with thick tweeds and gaudy "fattening" prints. Tailored lines, restrained colors, hard-weave fabrics are best.

4. When buying accessories: simplicity, restraint, proper scale in relation to you—all are important.

So are these primary rules: buy quality not quantity; don't mix tailored and dressy effects . . . DO splurge on good shoes and gloves to enrich the over-all look.

Add them all together and you have fashion at its best.

The main point to remember, says Mrs. Hastings, is that elegance is important: an uncluttered, unhurried look that is a combination of the right clothes, the right makeup and the right amount of faith in yourself.

RAFAEL CREATES new hairstyle for Mrs. Arnold. The result: added height, updated appearance, better over-all balance.

How to Out-Plot Burglars

be installed on all outside doors.

Don't forget to call the dairy, cleaners, newspaper, etc., to stop any deliveries that might be made during your absence.

Talk to your postman or neighbor to hold your mail until you return. A bulging post box is an indication that the family is away.

Also, ask your neighbor if he'll look after things—pick up circulars that might be left on the porch, etc.

Don't close those curtains or blinds completely. Closed blinds keep the sun out and also make an effective screen for burglars.

Of course, be sure there isn't any cash lying around. Keep it in the bank. It's also a good idea to place securities and other valuables in a safety deposit box.

Some robbers plan their hauls to coincide with the housewife's shopping trips. While she's gone they work undisturbed.

This is why it's important to always lock doors when going out, even if only for a minute. It's also important to keep an eye out for suspicious looking characters. Report door-to-door salesmen without proper credentials to the police department at once.

Coming home to a torn-up house minus TV, fur coat, other valuables can be quite a let-down. Don't let it happen. Take all the precautions you can.

IN THE SWIM

Kicking up a storm, Tommy McNamara, 5, a post polio patient, demonstrates for fellow swimmers, Johnny Pedretti, 4, and Carrie Alba, 2, with instructor Mrs. Evelyn duPont lending a helping hand. Students of Mrs. duPont will appear in a swim show Saturday to benefit a fund to build and maintain a pool for the handicapped.

New Pool Goal of Benefit

Cerritos Communities Pool for the Handicapped, Inc., whose motto is "New Horizons For the Handicapped Through Swimming," will have a first fund raising event Saturday at 3 p.m. at a "Swim Capade" at the pool at the Lafayette Hotel.

Handicapped children, students of Mrs. Evelyn duPont, vice president of the group, will be featured in the show, including an armless and legless swimmer.

The event will benefit a fund to build and maintain a pool in Long Beach for the use of mentally retarded and crippled children, physically handicapped adults and senior citizens.

* * * *

MRS. DUPONT has been teaching the mentally retarded and physically handicapped to swim without remuneration for ten years at her own pool at her Lakewood home. The exercise strengthens muscles, creates good blood circulation and is an important safety measure, according to Mrs. du Pont.

"They have so much fun," she said. "They are just like little barracudas."

Other officers of Cerritos Communities Pool for the Handicapped, Inc., include Donald K. McLaughlin, president; Norman Kreitzer, Frank C. Finch, Donald K. Hobbs, M. E. Lewis, Austin Wilson, Mmes. Marian Gardner, Kenneth Fleming and William Harland.

Miss Fisher Is Wed to Henry L. Meier Jr.

Honeymooning on the Island of Kauai are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lake Meier Jr., whose marriage was solemnized in an afternoon ceremony at Los Altos Methodist Church.

The bride is the former Bobbie Jeanne Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elwyn Fisher, Long Beach. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lake Meier, St. Louis, Mo.

* * * *

MRS. KEITH VICTOR GAHAN attended her sister as matron of honor and Eva Wilhelmina Kilger was maid of honor. Mrs. Thomas Potter and Nancy Lou Jackson were bridesmaids.

Adolph Frederick Hanser performed best man duties; Derek Ivers Meier, John Randolph Wielandy, Lt. Robert A. Colaizzi, Charles W. Caspari and Keith Victor Gahan ushered.

* * * *

THE BRIDE was graduated from Polytechnic High School and, in 1961, from Long Beach State College. A member of Delta Delta Delta, she was named in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," and was a founder member of the women's division of Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Henry L. Meier Jr.

* * * *

THE BRIDEGROOM is a graduate of Yale University and was a member of Bachelor Club of St. Louis. He recently completed a two-year tour of duty with the U.S. Navy as a lieutenant (j.g.), stationed in Long Beach.

After July 14, the couple will reside in St. Louis.

Geigers Reveal Troth

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Geiger, Long Beach, have announced engagement of their daughter, Susan Nancy, to William Richard Wilmer. The betrothed pair will wed on Aug. 3.

The bride-elect was graduated from Polytechnic High School where she was president of Caprice Welfare Club and received the Jeweled L for campus activities.

Her scholastic record earned for her the gold seal of the California Scholarship Federation and honors at entrance to UC, Santa Barbara. She served during the past year as president of her residence hall and has been selected by the dean of student residents to serve as a resident assistant next year.

* * * *

HER FIANCE is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Wilmer, also of Long Beach. Until recently his residence was divided between California and Venezuela. After attending Occidental College for two years, where he was affiliated with Phi Mu Alpha music fraternity, he transferred to Long Beach State College where he received his bachelor of arts degree. He currently is a candidate for his master's degree in psychology at State.

Ladies of Elks

Ladies of the Elks will have a noon luncheon followed by business meeting and card party Wednesday in Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St. Mrs. Thomas J. Davis will preside.

Bennets Celebrate 40th Year

Mr. and Mrs. Armond M. Bennett will be honored on their 40th anniversary today from 2 to 4 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Barrett, 5581 Lemon Ave.

The open-house will be cohosted by Mr. and Mrs. Barrett and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Tomich, the son-in-law and daughter of the Bennetts.

The Bennetts, who reside at 6758 Lemon Ave., were married in Long Beach July 7, 1923. They have resided at their present address for 35 years, and have four grandchildren.

* * * *

BOTH have been active in North Long Beach Lions Club. They are members of North Long Beach Methodist Church and he served on the Armed Services Commission of the City of Long Beach from 1956 to 1957 and is a member of Monte Vista Masonic Lodge. They both belong to Samuel Thomas Post American Legion 326.

Writers Invited to State College

Long Beach Writers Club members will be guests at Long Beach State College on Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., according to director John Frisch.

Professor Dixon Gayer of the journalism department, a former student of Frisch, will be host and main speaker.

Manuscripts by members will be criticized constructively during the afternoon. Luncheon will be served in the college cafeteria.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harris

50th Anniversary Honors for Harrises

Long Beach residents for more than 35 years, Mr. and Mrs. George Harris today are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house in their 3020 E. Fifth St. home.

Arranging the party are their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Harris, and daughter, Mrs. Virginia Burton, assisted by their grandsons, Bobby Harris and Larry Burton.

* * * *

THE COUPLE was married on July 9, 1913 in Los Angeles, and Mr. Harris pioneered the development of the oilfields in the Brea area before their move to Long Beach. Prior to retirement in 1955, he was a security officer for Craig Shipyards. Both are members of Colonial Tabernacle.

Travelogue on Mexico Slated

Fred Luther will present a colored slide travelogue on Mexico when he speaks at Lakewood Area Fuchsia Society Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Lakewood YMCA. Potted plants will be given as door awards. There will be a plant sale and refreshments. The public is invited.

Golden Day Honor for McConahays

Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. McConahay, 1324 E. Artesia Ave., will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary today at an open house from 2 to 6 o'clock in the home of their eldest son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard McConahay, 2941 Cedar Ave.

Assisting in party plans are the couple's four other children, Messrs. and Mmes. Paul McConahay and Clyde McConahay, all of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Henri Pernot of Walteria, and Mr. and Mrs. Orval Cheesebro of Orange. The elderweds also have 14 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren.

THE McCONAHAYS were married July 6, 1913 in Watonga, Okla., and have been Long Beach residents since 1929. Prior to retirement, they were active in the grocery business and are members of North Long Beach Methodist Church.

Misses Dressler, Gilliam Are Brides

Berkhoel-Dressler

Phyllis Jann Dresslar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen S. Paul, Lakewood, became the bride of John Phillip Berkhoel, son of the Phillip O. Berkhoels of Long Beach, at a recent ceremony in California Heights Methodist Church.

The bride, attended by Mrs. Phillip E. Brandts, matron of honor, wore a white silk organza gown with chapel train. Her bouquet was of white spider mums.

Also attending her were Pamela Paul, her sister, maid of honor, and Patricia Gillis and Mrs. Edward V. Wood, bridesmaids.

* * * *

The new Mrs. Berkhoel was graduated from Wilson High and attended Art Center School, Los Angeles.

The bridegroom, an alumnus of Poly High, attended Arizona State University where he was a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

Following a honeymoon in Santa Barbara and Carmel, the newlyweds will make their home in Long Beach.

Mrs. John Berkhoel

Mrs. Charles Bennett Jr.

Bennett Jr.-Gilliam

First Presbyterian Church, Clifton, Tex., was the setting for the recent marriage of Margie Ruth Gilliam and Charles Oren Bennett Jr.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Phil Gilliam, Clifton, Tex. He is the son of Mrs. Marjorie Donaldson, and Detective Inspector Charles O. Bennett Sr., Long Beach Police Department, both residents of this city.

The bride wore a gown of magnolia silk organza and carried a sweeping spray of Talisman roses.

She was attended by Sylvia Salmans, maid of honor; Beth Butler, Geneva Kleine and Mrs. John Bruce Parks Jr., bridesmaids, and Barbara Bennett and Rosemary Jenson, junior bridesmaids.

* * * *

The new Mrs. Bennett was graduated from Baylor University, Waco, Tex., where she was a member of Athenean Club and a twirler with the Baylor Golden Wave Band. The bridegroom was graduated from Poly High and West Point. He is a second lieutenant with the U.S. Air Force.

Following a honeymoon in Las Vegas, the newlyweds will make their home at Kirkland Air Force Base, Albuquerque, N.M.

New Blue Star Club Announced

California Department, Blue Star Mothers of America, will install a new chapter of the organization in San Diego Tuesday.

Officially designated as Chapter 30, the event will be preceded by a television appearance of the Mothers that morning.

Evening ceremonies will begin at 7:30 p.m. in U.S. Grant Hotel with all department officers taking part.

* * * *

WOMEN from this city expected to attend include Mmes. John E. Urquhart, Sidney M. Drew, J. E. Shonholtzer, E. Ray Johnston, Joseph Reed, Waldo Uhl, Norman Reilly, Glen T. Benbrook, Paul Forker, Hazel Fitzpatrick, Barbara Clemons and Nell Peyton.

Pair to Note 60th Year

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Morris will be honored at a reception from 2 to 5 p.m. next Sunday in their home, 2049 E. Third St., marking their 60th wedding anniversary.

Hostesses will be their daughters, Miss Mildred Morris of Long Beach and Mrs. Charles Bostick of Springfield, Ill., and a foster daughter, Mrs. John Franke, also of Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris were married July 14, 1903, in Springfield where they resided until 1952 when they moved to Long Beach. Both are members of First Christian Church.

Designer Pattern

Pat Walker Answers Your Personal Letters

DEAR MISS WALKER:

I have been reading about you for some time, and on several occasions I have started to call you to see if maybe there was something you could do to help me.

I have worked hard all my life until recently. During those busy years I did not have much time or money to spend glamorizing myself. I am retired now with time on my hands, and I don't exactly like what I see in the mirror, but what can I do about it?

I am 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 150 pounds. Not only am I overweight, but my weight is poorly distributed. Unless I wear a long, closely fitted bra, I carry a big inflated spare tire around my middle, but if I do wear a close fitting bra, flesh spills out over the top on either side of my shoulder blades at the back in a way that is positively indecent.

Maybe some people think a woman approaching 60 shouldn't care how she looks, but I feel there is lots of living left for me yet, so why junk it? Besides, I always feel so much better when I look my best. Furthermore, I am, comparatively speaking, a newcomer in Long Beach. Back in Iowa where I used to live, people liked me because they had known me a long time. They were not critical of my appearance. Here people can judge me only by the way I look.

I want to be liked and admired—I want to attract interesting, worthwhile friends. To do this I must have poise and self-confidence and an appearance that looking her best gives to a woman so that I may project that radiant, interesting, vibrant self I really am to those with whom I come in contact, causing them to become interested in me.

PLEASE, what shall I do? I thank you for your courtesy,
Mrs. H. A., Long Beach

Miss Pat Walker, the nationally known figure authority, spends one full day each week in her private office on Wilshire Blvd. in Los Angeles. Here she conducts the business affairs of her salons and personally replies to the many letters she receives. Printed here is a letter telling why many women want to reduce.

DEAR MRS. H. A.:

I thank you for your delightful letter, and I shall start this letter off by saying that you are absolutely right in thinking that any woman, regardless of her age, should care how she looks. As for your feeling that there is still "lots of living left for you yet," you are absolutely right and also in thinking that you are just as young as you appear.

Through the years, as the National Director of this Company, I have met and talked with thousands of women, and it is always refreshing to come in contact with a woman who has the mental outlook that you have, because truly, you are only as young or as old as you appear and feel you are.

I am sure that you will have no problems attracting interesting and worthwhile friends. There are lots of wonderful people of your age in the area that you live in, and since you feel that you are radiant, interesting and vibrant, you should be leading a more active life than you are.

You ask for help, and it pleases me greatly to be able to write to you and sincerely say, that any woman, regardless of her age, regardless of how long she has had her "inch and weight" problems, can come down to her bone structure and lose it where she needs to lose it. With this comes many fringe benefits such as feeling better, a more confident outlook on life, and the pride of realizing that you had a problem and did something about it.

Again, thank you for taking the time to write me regarding your problems, and I sincerely hope this letter will be instrumental in helping you make a decision to have a "new figure," combined with the fringe benefits that it will bring about.

Sincerely yours,
PAT WALKER
National Figure Authority

Widow, 60, Reduces to Start a New Life

Mrs. Nellie Campbell felt depressed, lonely and unwanted because her husband passed away a year ago. She became nervous, over-ate and as a result neglected her figure and appearance. Here you see her, with Pat Walker the figure authority, after only a couple of weeks she has reduced 6 pounds and her slacks show the weight loss.

Here you see Mrs. Campbell after only 6 weeks. She has reduced 16 pounds and a total of 37 inches. Since this picture was taken she has reduced 22 pounds and has lost 48 inches where she needed to lose to make her a perfect Size. 10.

As told by
Mrs. Nellie Campbell, Lakewood

My name is Nellie Campbell and I live here in Lakewood. I lived here for many many years with my dear husband who just passed away a year ago. We were so happy while he was alive — he was so good to me and I leaned on him and depended on him so much. I worked at the Lafayette Hotel in Long Beach as the head folder in the laundry room until he died and had enjoyed my work very much.

When my husband died I faced all the responsibilities alone and being alone was almost more than I could bear. As a result I ate too much, became very nervous and so despondent and then I read about that lady in the paper one morning and it just took all kinds of courage to muster up enough nerve to call Pat Walker Stauffer System Salon to see if there was any hope for me.

That morning became for me the start of a new life and a new way of thinking. They were so nice on the phone and made an appointment for me to go in and talk to them. I was sure nervous when I got in my car and drove to see them. In fact I drove around the block 4 times before I could get the nerve to park and go in. Believe me when I say they were so nice to me and put me at ease.

Well when I found out what they could do for me even when I told them I was 60. I just prayed it would come true because I felt despondent, lonely, unwanted and self conscious. I told them about selling my house and that I was going to Santa Cruz to live and they worked out the time so I could get in the treatments I needed before I left. Just being there made me feel better.

It had been a long time since I cared how I looked (nothing looked good on me anyway). I had really let myself go and mentally I knew I was a real mess. After I set up my first appointment I began thinking as I drove home about clothes, hair and all the things women think of and prayed I wouldn't be disappointed and not have it come true. When you're 60 sometimes you think life is going to pass you by.

Well I will be a lifelong friend of Pat Walker, I didn't meet her that first day. One of the managers took care of me, but I've met her and talked to her many times since. She gave me all the self confidence I lacked and made me feel so important and I have lost 16 lbs. in 6 weeks and a total of 37 inches. I can't keep my slacks on. I'm proud 'cause I'm losing it where I needed to and I'm not all flabby and nervous like some people I've seen who tried to do it on their own. If only I could, I would talk to every other lady who has problems like I did and tell them to just go see them at Pat Walker Stauffer System Salon and their troubles will be over. It's what I did and I'm a happy, more confident woman because of it!

—Nellie Campbell

What Others Say:

I wish I had a photo of how I looked before I went to reduce with Pat Walker's system. I don't have one because I looked so awful for so many years that any time anyone took a picture of me, I made a point of hiding behind my husband and anyone else who was near me because I was ashamed of how I looked. My hobby is raising beautiful flowers and my favorite is bird-of-paradise. I love to garden. Now when I stoop over to cut my flowers, I don't huff and puff getting up. That alone is worth a lot. Besides my husband and children are pretty proud of me because somehow my whole personality has changed. — Mrs. Lillian Polak, Long Beach.

For many years, it seems like forever, I was hiding my figure under a boxy suit or coat, huge handbags and full skirts. My problems were all from the waist down. I had given up slacks and told everyone I didn't like the beach when the real truth was I was ashamed to wear a bathing suit. I'm proud to say I'm finished with my treatments. Now I wear a size 10 dress. Before I wore a 16. I had to because my hips and thighs were so bulgy. I lost 7 inches in my hips and 5 inches on each thigh and my legs look decent again. — Mrs. Jackie Stevens, Seal Beach.

GIRL SCOUTS CAMP OUT

Skyland Rates High for Fun

Rest Period. Time for Writing Home (See Letter Below) or Reading

DEAR MOM,

Camp is great. We hiked up Black Mountain trail today. It goes straight up. Thanks for the card. I miss you and Daddy and Rover and I'm having lots of fun. Even doing the dishes is fun. We take turns and call it pearl diving. We are out doors just about all the time. The food's great. Did you send the Brownies?

LOVE, JENNY

A 'Pearl Diver'

Registration . . . Still Open

School girls go all out for the great outdoors.

They are especially keen about camping. That's why reservations for Skyland Ranch, the established camp of the Greater Long Beach Girl Scout Council, go so quickly.

This week Girl Scout Headquarters, 4040 Bellflower Blvd., is taking the last registrations for its 12 and 14 day July and August sessions.

Any Long Beach area girl, from the fifth grade to 18 years of age, is eligible to take part in the program. She need not be a member of the Girl Scouts.

The camp, located in the San Jacinto Mountains, offers a full program of activities: hiking, cookouts, conservation and nature study, arts and crafts, singing and dancing. More than 500 girls will take part in the camping sessions this summer.

A camp nurse and infirmary are provided for health care and counselors are on hand at all times.

IN ADDITION to established camping, the council (a service of The United Way) provides day camping for 3,000 girls at in-town sites. The program is similar in that the Girl Scout program of camping is used. However, the girls are in camp only five or six days from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. The in-town sites are close to home and city parks are used in addition to El Ranchito camp grounds.

Some of the older campers spend two or three nights at a troop camp site. All unit counselors and camp directors are volunteers.

Wrong Card No Mistake

Any time you find things running badly it should cheer you to meet my friend, the unlucky expert. He never makes a mistake, but unfortunately his opponents never make mistakes against him.

It is even more cheering to listen to his stories in his own words.

"Maybe I shouldn't open 12 point hands, but I can't imagine anyone passing this one. And maybe my partner should have bid only two no-trump. But who can blame him for jumping to game? He had 12 good points and a nice five-card suit. Anyway, the three no-trump contract was a good one. Give West the king of diamonds and I have nine easy tricks against any defense. However, finesses never work for me when I need them and I had an extra line of play at my disposal, in case West had opened from a five card suit. I grabbed the first heart in dummy and led the three of clubs.

"AS YOU can see, if East plays a low club I can't lose the hand. I play any one of my clubs. If West ducks I go after diamonds and even if the finesse loses I have nine tricks. If West takes the ace I simply duck one heart and nothing bad can happen to me. Furthermore, East was not a good enough player to go up with the king of clubs. But look what happened.

"He played the king of clubs and then looked at it as if a rattlesnake had bitten him. He started to apologize for pulling the wrong card, but after the king held it was a different story. He led a heart and when I took the diamond finesse I was down two."

THE PROGRAM will be directed by Bebe Carpenter and Barbara Gill, who also will be the mistress of ceremonies.

Carl H. Robertson will lead community singing to open the program at 7:30 p.m. with Regenia Beam as accompanist.

The Tyu Orchestra will play for the old time and square dancing which follows the stage show. Joe Marshall will be the caller.

The public is invited to this free civic program.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Return Visit Discouraged

DEAR ABBY: We have just returned home from a week-end with some friends who have a beautiful, expensive, push-button home. The guest room was unbelievably furnished. There was one three-quarter-sized bed. (The room was large enough to accommodate one large double bed or a pair of twin beds.) There was one small, decrepit straight-back chair, a tiny hooked rug and one thin blanket. The mattress sagged in the middle, and to top it off, there was NO mirror in the room. My husband said that they intentionally furnished the guest room poorly to discourage guests from returning. Considering that the rest of the house was so elegantly and comfortably furnished, could my husband be right? — NO NAME PLEASE.

ABBY

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Somewhere in a modest home is the luckiest woman alive, and I'm sure she isn't even aware of it. The "Other Woman" usually writes a tale of woe. I am the "Other Woman" but I have no "tale of woe" because of a decision I have just made. This wife I speak of is lucky because her children are healthy and well-behaved. They have a pleasant, middle-class home, with good food, good clothes and a good car. Their lives are secure. Her husband is with her, and he always will be. If I could tell this wife one thing, it would be to LOVE her husband and let him know it. He wanted me, and I wanted him, and only God knew how much. But when people are basically good, they refuse to hurt innocent people. Especially children. He's the man I've been searching for all my life. I love him and he knows it. But he is HER husband, and THEIR father. And he has integrity. I wish he were mine. But he's not and he never will be. Thank you, Abby, for letting me say this. I feel better now.—TOOK AN OATH.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: We have neighbors who do not have a telephone, but they have given all their friends OUR telephone number, and we have to run and get them when they get phone calls. When they first moved in, we told them they could use our telephone for emergency calls, but so far they have been using it for gossip and gabbing and we are getting tired of this. How can we tactfully get our point across?—FED UP.

DEAR FED: Don't waste your energy with "tactful" cover-ups. Tell your neighbors that you will be glad to deliver an "emergency" message, but if they want the use of a telephone for social chitchat to get their own.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: There is a darling boy who collects tickets at the theatre in my neighborhood. The last time I was there he gave me a special look that he never gave me before. I have secretly liked him for a long time and think he likes me a little. My problem is that he is on the shy side and so am I. How can I let him know I like him without being forward? — TIRED OF POPCORN.

DEAR TIRED: There is NO way a girl can let a boy know she likes him without being forward. The quickest way to kill your chances with a shy boy is to let him know you like him. Let HIM blaze the trail—if there is going to be any.

Robert F. Lichtenhan

CHEF OF THE WEEK

These Natives Not Growing Restless

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I. P-T Food Editor

The 3500 block on Cerritos might well be distinguished by the name "Lichtenhan's Corner."

His grandmother lives in one house—several houses down in the home of his mother and dad. Just up the street lives today's Chef of the Week, Robt. F. Lichtenhan and his family; while, all you need do to meet his sister, is take a turn around the corner.

Lichtenhan is general manager Long Beach Convention & Visitors Bureau, Inc.

Bob first saw the light of day at Seaside Memorial Hospital in Long Beach, as did his wife, Janet. Their son, Bob, nearly five, chose St. Mary's Hospital for his debut. Daddy Bob attended Fremont and Longfellow Elementary schools, Franklin Junior and Poly High before enrolling at Long Beach City College. His own father formerly managed the blackstone Hotel and the Imperial Inn.

* * * *

LICHTENHAN vividly remembers the earthquake of '33—the mink-coated women lined-up for food, and his own family, complete with belongings in a wheelbarrow, heading over Signal Hill to camp in Houghton Park.

Bob first entered the food brokerage business after graduation. Then, one day, he attended a Long Beach Food Sales Clinic at which Howard Jones was the speaker. Howard did such a good job of selling Long Beach as a convention city, that Bob conceived the idea the City of Long Beach would be great to sell. He applied for the job, and got it. Eight months ago he succeeded "Chef" Howard Jones as manager of the bureau.

Since that time one might say that his dedication has been all-for-the-cause . . . the Convention Bureau. He can be seen having breakfast with a labor leader luncheon with a minister, and perhaps dinner with a group of school teachers. Each guest, you may be sure, is being boned-up on the virtues of our city.

* * * *

BOB PREDICTS a bright future, "new people wise," for Long Beach. His reasons? . . . new facilities already built, the drawing and planning of three more major ones for early completion, and, of course, the Worlds Fair.

A member of the Long Beach Rotary Club, Lichtenhan has been active in Community Players as an amateur Thespian. He is probably best known for his role in "Mr. Roberts."

Bob and his wife are equally well known as collectors of antiques; and he for his choice of paintings and etchings. He even has a faked Rembrandt to prove his ability as a collector. Possessing excellent taste, he can find one in the oddest place and at the best price. In fact, they're even sharing them with friends.

* * * *

THEIR OWN home is Colonial type, and boasts a front porch especially purchased and shipped from San Jose. They have bought, stripped and refinished all their furniture.

When it comes to cooking, our "chef" thinks what grandma did was great. His recipe today is for Nanny's Old Fashion Chicken.

NANNY'S OLD FASHIONED CHICKEN

Breast of Chicken.

Sprinkle with salt, coarse ground pepper and 3 to 4 slices of garlic over each piece of chicken.

Place on dish, cover with foil and let stand over night in refrigerator.

Preheat over 350°. Brush melted butter over each piece of chicken. Sprinkle both sides with corn flake crumbs. Place in roaster. Cover and bake 2 hours. Remove bones. Return to oven for ½ hour.

He's Marrying You, Not A Decorator

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

I'm not what you would term a truly feminine woman. I've spent much of my life helping my father with his law practice and being like a son to him because he was crippled and needed me.

Two years ago he died and about six months ago I became engaged. My fiance and I will be married in September. Several little things worry me.

First of all my aunt who is helping me with the plans (my mother died when I was two) insists that I have to be married in a white dress. Now I am in my middle 30's and I would feel out of place in such an outfit. I would much prefer picking out a flattering cocktail dress in a flattering color. My aunt feels that friends will question my virtue unless I am in white.

But aside from this problem there looms one much larger to me. I have little or no creative sense when it comes to picking our china, silver or crystal and I'm completely panic-stricken at being expected to decide on furnishings, tile and wall coverings, etc. (We are having a home built.)

My husband-to-be, who has supreme confidence in my ability to do anything, is leaving everything up to me. At home the things I chose for my father's home were cold and unfriendly. I don't want our home to look uncomfortable. Should I take a course in interior designing, hire someone else to do the house or let my aunt take over as she is dying to do? (She is the fussy Early American type). I do want to make a good marriage.—BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR BRIDE-TO-BE:

Your fiance is marrying you—not your aunt and not an interior designer.

He wouldn't have asked you to share his home unless he like what he saw and that includes your surroundings.

I agree with you that a flattering cocktail dress would be a better choice for several reasons. White is a difficult color for anyone to wear particularly when she reaches her mid-30's. You want to be at your best on your wedding day and in an ensemble that is alien to you and one which you feel is unsuited you cannot be yourself.

Pick a dress — and it doesn't have to be a new one if there is one you enjoy wearing—and splurge on sime smart accessories and a good-looking trousseau.

White no longer is a sign of your purity. There's many a bride who walks down an aisle in white that from that angle shouldn't and many many girls married in colors who could wear white.

As to your decorating problems. Find out what this man of yours likes. Perhaps you can window shop and get an inkling. Decide what you are going to use the house for. Are you going to do a lot of entertaining? Is it to be a quiet retreat for the two of you or what?

After you establish the pattern of your life think in terms of what would fit in with the pattern and if you need help in picking pieces within the framework don't hesitate to ask for professional help.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am 52 and want to marry a girl who is 17 years younger than I am. Friends tell me that is too big an age gap at my time of life. I spent all of my life seeing that my four sisters were settled and caring for my mother. Last year she died.

I've known this girl for two years. We have dated, find that we enjoy many of the same things. She is a widow. I have not told her of my intentions because of the violent reaction from my friends and business associates.

Am I being foolish?—DEPRESSED

Age is a relative thing. Some people are old at 20, other never. If you genuinely want to marry the girl ask her. If she feels differently she will tell you. But after all at 35 this woman is a mature individual. You are not robbing a cradle nor is it a May and December romance.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

In years I'm old and I've gone through a few adjustments in my life. I can't remember when I've been so riled before. I thought I was shock-proof — that is until today.

I do not approve but have grown accustomed to women of ages, sizes and shapes gadding around the city in shorts. But today something snapped!

I was on my way to a meeting and stopped at a large shopping center. There was this woman of between 30 and 35 in the family way and I mean big in the family way. She was wearing short short shorts with a blouse that just touched the bottom of the shorts.

I was shocked and pained to think that anyone could think so little of themselves and family to appear in public in such a way. Am I being old fashioned? — NOT

SHOCK PROOF
DEAR NOT:

You better steel yourself because summer and the tourist season are in high gear and judging from last season you will be seeing a number of pregnant women similarly attired.

It seems to me that shorts have a place in one's own backyard but not on the public streets and not on pregnant women. Our rising crime rate has been blamed in part by many doctors and law enforcement officers on the way in which girls and women dress.

But what should be equally important to women — shorts emphasize all a woman's worst features.—M.M.

They're Off to the 'Wizard of Oz'!

GLINDA, THE GOOD witch, keeps benevolent watch over the little company of friends who meet obstacle after obstacle on their way down the yellow brick road.

By ELISE EMERY

When Frank Baum created the Wonderful Land of Oz in 1900, he conjured a magical world that has entranced generations of children and their parents.

The musical version of the beloved "Wizard of Oz" will be produced for the first time in the Harbor Area by Long Beach Civic Light Opera Company, opening Thursday.

Performances will be given in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium nightly at 8:30 through Sunday and again July 18, 19, 20, 21, 23, 24, 25 and 26.

Baum, an American writer of children's books, was born in Chittenango, N. Y., in 1856.

"The Wizard of Oz" was an immediate favorite and only a year after its publication was made into a musical comedy.

Capitalizing on the enduring charm of the story about Dorothy, the little Kansas farm girl, and her friends as they adventure in Oz, producer Mervyn LeRoy and director Victor Fleming put together a film that is a motion picture classic.

Judy Garland starred and the cast included Bert Lahr, Ray Bolger, Jack Haley, Billie Burke and Frank Morgan.

The songs became tradition—"Over the Rainbow," "Ding Dong, the Witch Is Dead," "If I Only Had a Heart," "We're Off to See the Wizard," and many others.

IN CASTING the modern musical stage production, Civic Light Opera sought types as nearly like the creators of the roles as possible.

Lovely Lois Beane is Dorothy, who, when a cyclone suddenly strikes, is knocked unconscious by a flying window and awakens in Munchkinland in Oz.

She finds herself a heroine because the house in which she arrived has struck and killed a wicked witch.

With new-found friends she starts down the yellow brick road to search out the Wizard of Oz in the Emerald City.

The Tin Wodman (James Short) wants a heart, the Scarecrow (B. J. Ross) wants a brain, the Cowardly Lion (Chuck Nix) wants courage and Dorothy wants to go back to Kansas.

Their venturesome way is hindered by the wicked Witch of the West (Valerie Hobbs) and aided by Glinda, the good witch (Nancy Sawyers.)

The exciting climax comes when they finally reach the Wizard (Phil Poppler).

The magic of the fiction and film versions comes alive on stage with lavish sets, spectacular costumes, dissolving witches and legerdemain.

The most difficult character to cast in the company of 85 was Dorothy's little dog, Toto.

Finally, a rag doll, Gwendolyn, was written into the script to replace him, but Miss Beane determinedly continued the search.

After visiting 25 animal shelters, she found an abandoned black and white puppy, Toto himself, in Compton Dog Pound. Suddenly, he's a star!

WITH THE "Wizard of Oz," planned especially to delight children and grown-ups, Civic Light Opera closes its 15th season.

The entire production is directed and choreographed by Bill Roberts, with Kathy Davis as co-producer and Jack Kroesen as musical director.

Their purpose—to transport audiences, for an evening, over the rainbow to the happy world of make-believe.

Tickets for the trip are on sale at CLO offices, 518 E. Fourth St.

WICKED WITCH casts spells to defeat the Cowardly Lion, Dorothy, Tin Woodman, Scarecrow—and Toto—as they valiantly seek the Wizard of Oz. But when they reach him, more surprises and magic are in store.

Bay Shore Program Thursday

Bay Shore Branch Library, 195 Bay Shore Ave., begins its summer film festival Thursday at 7:30 p.m. with the "Silent World," full-length 16mm color films of underseas adventures. It is narrated by Capt. Jacques-Yves Costeau, one of the inventors of the aqua-lung. Costeau shares honors for direction and underwater photography with Louis Malle.

The voyage of the Calypso and the discoveries made by its crew beneath the Persian Gulf, Red Sea and Indian Ocean, provide a beautiful and scientifically accurate documentary. The film, three years in the making has won many awards.

July Films at Library

"Movies Learn to Talk," one of the Long Beach Public Library's 16mm July circuit films, may touch the oldster with nostalgia and the younger generation with laughter as it traces the development of sound movies beyond the fondly remembered "Jazz Singer" of 1927, back even to the turn of the century. In the film, clumsy sound systems of that era are sharply contrasted with today's sophisticated sound techniques.

* * * *

OTHER FILMS available this month for a small service charge area: "Above the Timberline — The Alpine Tundra," "Atom in the Hospital," "Lincoln" Parts 1 and 2, "Mr. Europe and the Common Market," "Mother Goose Stories," "Nature's Half Acre," "St. Lawrence," "Stars in Stripes," "Talking Hands," and "Tocatta for Toy Trains."

'Patio Pop' Set Tuesday

The patio of Burnett Branch Library, 560 E. Hill St., will be the scene of the season's second free Patio Pop Concert Tuesday at dusk.

"The Ancient World," a feature-length documentary film, is accompanied by music composed especially for it by Memelaos Pallandios. It was photographed in color and produced for the Egyptian government and the Harmon Foundation by Ray Garner.

A comprehensive and beautiful film, "The Ancient World" covers Egyptian arts, architecture and politics from the beginning at Skara to the Pharaohs.

'My Uncle' First

The summer foreign film series at Long Beach State College will open Saturday in the Little Theater with Jacques Tati in "My Uncle."

Exciting Variety in LBAA Juried Show

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The current juried show at Long Beach Art Association's Villa Riviera Gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd., is bright, well-hung and of high quality. Authoritative juror, Lorser Fietelson, selected 67 from the 187 works entered. The prize-winners represent a wide range of styles, point of view and proficiency.

Fran Soldini, awarded best-of-show for "Several Forms," is represented by two other works. The winning work is small, 8 inches by 8 inches, and in delicate harmonies of lavender, brown and blue suggests great depth in a quiet vignette. Her large oil, "Window Imagery," is in quite a different mode with a Daliesque palette and the feeling of looking toward the sea.

* * * *

DR. EUGENE WALLIN received second best-of-show for "Untitled," a water-color, in which six dancing forms of black and burnt umber cluster toward the center of a large white sheet. These could be men, animals or things, and provoke the imagination. His drawing, "Locomotive," is very exciting.

Though not a prize-winner, Marie Boucher's "The Hybrid" in oil is a beauty and so different from the work she did before her studies abroad as to be rather amazing. This is a Lascaux-type leaping animal of blue and white resist on a terra cotta ground. It is fresh and utterly original.

* * * *

PRIZES FOR FIRST and second were awarded in five categories: oil, watercolor, graphics (which included drawing), mixed media and sculpture. While the last category has only four pieces in it, they are all most attractive. Ralph Tarzian's "Genesis" is a fetal form of brazed sheet metal which in itself suggests the birth process. "Suzanna" is a terra cotta female form by Ina De Can of elegant simplified, compacted, sculptural form.

* * * *

THE STABILE "Ulalume," balances on a pivot. Constructed by R. M. Hetrick, it is of welded wire and paint-impregnated paperboard. An insouciant turtle of wood, hand rubbed, is by Helen Fayler.

Another exciting work is "Valve" by David Denevan, which won the first award in mixed media. The valve is large, done in marigold with black ink resist, alone, in a dark sky. It suggests the strangeness of every-day objects if they are isolated and examined.

While there are many other works of interest in the show, it is impossible to summarize as each work is an individual.

BEAUTY IN THE COMMONPLACE

MICHENER SPONSORED CONTEST

Japanese Print Show at LBMA

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

When James A. Michener decided to write on the art of Japan as seen in the modern print, he and the Charles E. Tuttle Company sponsored a contest open to all Japanese artists.

Michener selected the works of Sempan Maekawa, Sadao Watanabe, Un'ichi Hiratsuka, Yoshitoshi Mori, Masaji Yoshida, Tamami Shima, Haku Maki, Reika Twami, Tomio Kinoshita and Umetaro Azechi for his book.

Twenty-four of the contest entries go on view today at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., in an exhibit, "The Spirit of the Japanese Print." Friends of the Museum will host a public reception from 2 to 4 p.m.

Some of the prints are concerned with traditional Japanese subject matter, others are representational works of landscapes, animals and people, and still others are non-representational.

First shown at the Japan Society quarters in New York, the exhibit is being circulated nationally by the Smithsonian Institution.

* * * *

SOME 30 OIL paintings by Jack Kay will be shown at the Veltman Gallery, 5604 E. Second St. through Aug. 7. The show opens with a reception Saturday from 7 to 10 p.m. and may be seen daily, except Sundays, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Kay, 26, is a native Californian who has studied at the Art Center School, Otis Art Institute and for several years in the Netherlands and Southern Germany.

Last year he isolated himself in the Bitterroot wilderness area in Montana, painting and writing a book.

Says he, "I choose to paint familiar objects, places and people, attempting to show the beauty and fascination in commonplace things.

"In combining the lessons of the French impressionists with the concepts of non-objective expressionism, I try to produce a contemporary but figurative art with strong design and definitive color."

Kay has exhibited in the Los Angeles area, at Long Beach Museum of Art and in several one-man shows. His subjects include oil derricks, construction lines, landscapes, bridges and street scenes.

STANLEY MILLSTEIN has his first California show at Atelier 7 Gallery, 3316 E. Seventh St., where it will hang through July 27. The gallery is open from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. seven days a week.

Millstein was born in New York City in 1924 and has resided in Southern California for three years. He studied at the Art Students League in New York and with the New York portrait artist, David Lax.

LAKEWOOD ART ASSOCIATION will present the third annual open show at Dutch Village shopping center, South Street and Woodruff Avenue, Monday through July 14.

Fran Soldini and Robert McMenomy will serve as judges. Cash awards totaling $395 will be presented to winners.

Artists may register entries Monday between 10 a.m. and 9 p.m. in these categories: Land and seascapes, still life and portraits, abstracts, mixed media, copy, and gallery by popular choice. Judging will take place Wednesday.

MORE THAN 2,700 amateur and professional artists in the Los Angeles area—500 more than last year—have registered for the 11th annual All-City Outdoor Art Festival in Barnsdall Park.

The work will be displayed from Saturday through July 21 in 90,000 square feet of space in the Municipal Gallery and park.

Hawaii Vacation Enchanting

By RACHEL MORTON
I.P-T Music Critic

I have recently returned from a vacation spent in the Hawaiian Islands — a paradise set down in the mid-Pacific, sun-drenched and flower fragrant. So spell-binding was this visit that I am impelled to share with my readers for the next few weeks the wonders I saw and experienced in Hawaii.

We left Los Angeles by jet plane and in five-and-one-half hours we were landed at the beautiful new airport of Honolulu. In true Hawaiian fashion we were greeted with lovely flower leis made of orchids, fragrant tuberoses and plumeria, placed about our necks by a friend, who then drove us to our hotel, The Princess Kaiulani.

* * * *

WHO CAN describe that thrill of wonderment on first beholding Hawaii? Our little balcony looked out over the broad Pacific, gently lapping the white sandy beach of Waikiki in waters of opalescent blue and green. Far out, in the deep purple waters, the intrepid surfboard riders rode the white-crested waves and catamarans with colorful sails plied lazily by, skillfully avoiding the outrigger canoes.

The mountains all about were lush and green and high and impressive. Old Diamond Head, a rugged fellow, stands alone at one end of Honolulu, an enduring rock-guardian of all that is beautiful and serene.

Major and Minor Notes

AFTER FEASTING our eyes on all this incomparable beauty, we freshened up and strolled along the lovely Kalakaua Avenue, the main street of Waikiki where there are fascinating shops and intriguing restaurants. We dined the first night in the famous Polynesian restaurant of Duke Kahanamoku in the quaint International Market, itself a browsing area of all kinds of shops.

The Plantation Steak House on the same premises, charges 50c an ounce for steak, grilled before your eyes (if the tears of extravagance do not bedim them!). At the Pearl City Tavern we dined a la Japanese, some sitting on the floor at little tables. The food was all served in little dishes on a large tray and ranged through sea-weed soup, raw fish, crabmeat in egg roll, to a gelatine-like dessert.

THE WILLOWS Restaurant, although indoors, is built around graceful willow trees, through which a little stream flows. The Salvation Army has a charming restaurant called The Waioli Tea Room set in a lovely garden and the La Ronde Restaurant, high up, revolves slowly around as one dines leisurely and gazes out over all Honolulu. This large and attractive city is the industrial center of the Island of Oahu.

* * * *

HERE ARE the great factories of the pineapple growers and the sweet smell of pineapple from the huge Dole plant permeates the whole city. Sugar cane and fishing are important industries of Honolulu and the city bustles with activity. The largest shopping center in the world has lately been completed here and is called Ala Moana. It is fabulous.

Next week, in this column, I will tell you of our delightful excursions on the Island of Oahu, which is 245 miles in circumference and on which is the city of Honolulu.

Royal Ballet Ends Run Tonight

The Royal Ballet of Britain winds up its Los Angeles engagement tonight at Hollywood Bowl with a performance of Tchaikovsky's "Swan Lake." The ballet will be given in its full four acts.

Principal roles will be danced by Nadia Nerina and David Blair. On both sides of the Atlantic and in Russia, Miss Nerina has been cited for technical virtuosity. Blair's versatility has earned him the title of premier danseur.

Soloists in the cast will include Gerd Larsen, Stanley Holden, Leslie Edwards, Merle Park, Georgina Parkinson and Graham Usher. John Lanchbery will conduct.

Two Off-Broadway Plays to Star Talman

Actor William Talman returns to the Long Beach stage Thursday starring in a double bill, Jean-Paul Sartre's "No Exit" and Noel Coward's "Ways and Means," at the Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave.

Appearing in "No Exit" with Talman, who recently concluded a successful run of "Born Yesterday" at Magnolia Theater, are Adele Wolkow, recently seen in "Sweet Bird of Youth;" Norma Crowley, and Richard Moore just out of "The Devil and Daniel Webster" for Community Playhouse.

* * * *

CAST FOR "Ways and Means," the curtain raiser, includes Barbara Crooker of Community's "Third Best Sport" and Magnolia's "Send Me No Flowers," Doris Parenteau of "Where's Charlie?" and "The Devil and Daniel Webster," Jim Daugherty, Frances Richman, Ruth Forsythe and Jack Lackman.

Talman, in addition to appearing in "No Exit" directs the existentialist work which is laid in a room in Hell where three failures are doomed to each other's company.

William Talman

* * * *

"WAYS AND MEANS," one of the one-acts from Coward's "Tonight at 8:30," is directed by Colin Ford, of England, visiting professor of English Drama at Long Beach State College. It is a sophisticated comedy of high society manners and morals. Kenneth Rugg assists Ford. Sets are designed by J. K. Krause, of the State College art department.

The double bill is scheduled to run Thursdays through Sundays at 8:30 p.m. through Aug. 11.

Singing on Bills at Bowl

Singing will predominate on all first-week programs in Hollywood Bowl, which will open its 1963 season of Symphonies under the Stars Tuesday with a Viennese concert featuring opera prima donna soprano Elisabeth Schwarzkopf.

Roger Wagner will conduct the Philharmonic, his own Chorale and soloists Thursday in a program honoring the 150th anniversary of the birth of opera composer Giuseppe Verdi. Soprano Martina Arroyo, tenor Chris Lachona and baritone Robert McFerrin will sing excerpts from "Otello," "Aida," "Rigoletto," "La Traviata," "Falstaff," and "La Forza Del Destino."

* * * *

INSTANT PLEASURE PACKAGE

Mercury Discovers Oasis

By BILL EMERY

Combine the magic of a valley climate, a South Sea Island escape and a new outlook for big driving pleasure and there you have our latest motorlog.

The place—the Wonder Lodge on Highway 99 in Bakersfield. The car — a showroom-fresh Mercury Monterey custom two-door hardtop from Marshall Duffield's "grand opening" Continental-Mercury-Comet agency at 1940 Lakewood Boulevard at the traffic circle.

This Merc has a new brand of beauty and driving pleasure with its slant rear window that operates electrically. And it's functinnal as well. Drop the window all or part way and you have an instant breezeway to whisk out smoke and in fresh air. Rain won't splash or fall in and passengers in the rear have more protection from the sun with better vision.

But this is the only the beginning of this car's pleasure package. The new push-button AM-FM 10-transistor radio puts two worlds of entertainment at your fingertips. Traveling along the newly-competed San Diego freeway, a non-stop express from Long Beach connecting with the Golden State freeway near San Fernando, FM radio performed like a living-room console.

In the mountains the AM set was much more practical. Inland where the temperatures began to rise to 80 and 85, we put the Merc's air conditioning to work. In seconds cold air flooded the car under the high-speed third setting. It wasn't long before we turned it down to second and eventually to one, which is the slowest speed.

This custom two-door sedan was equipped with full power including a 6-way seat for an added touch of quality and luxury.

* * * *

Exotic Polynesian and American dishes are served in the authentically South Sea Island atmosphere. Art treasures from the Islands decorate the rooms, and even the waiters are imported.

An outrigger canoe of gigantic proportions is wheeled out to the pool from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. evenings to serve cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. From 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. the canoe is used as a chuck wagon in the Tahitian room.

A new feature in the Tahitian room is Bakersfield's first and only charcoal broiler. Next to it, set in lava rock and glassed in, is a rotisserie large enough to make two turkeys look like two chickens in a family-sized unit.

A new feature out by the pool is a redwood Sauna steam room which produces a dry heat (7 per cent humidity.

Guest accommodations include attractive bedrooms or studio rooms all with enclosed private patios, free TV and direct dial telphone service. Rates were from $10 to $14. All in all, it seemed to be a lot of comfort, hospitality and atmosphere for the money.

Heading back to Long Beach straight in on 99 to pick up the San Diego freeway, we decided to hit the freeway at the peak traffic hour, just before 5 p.m. Apparently, few motorists are aware that this freeway is now completely open all the way to Long Beach as we were able to make this leg of the tour in less than one hour.

SOUTH SEA RESORT NEARBY
Romantic atmosphere of the Surf Rider dining room and cocktail lounge at Bakersfield's Wonder Lodge is just a two-hour drive from Long Beach on the newly completed San Diego Freeway in Mercury Monterey motorlog car.

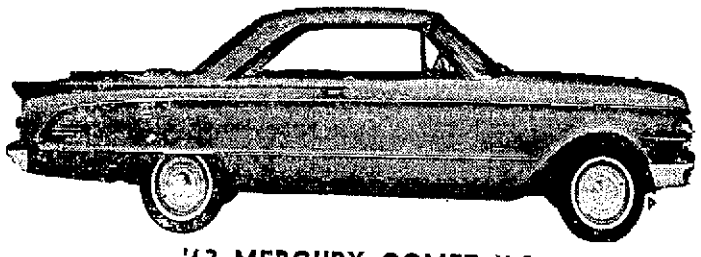

AUSTRALIA'S TERRI KING
Entertaining in the Surf Rider lounge with the Embers Combo, Miss Terri King comes from Sidney, Australia, via Hong Kong, Manila, Tokyo, Taipai, Singapore and India, to name a few.

UNIQUE BREEZEWAY STYLING
Power-operated rear window is functional as a breezeway and added sun protection. Pool-side view shows luxurious lodge accommodations.

George Has Eight Million Cameramen

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

George Fenneman has eight million cameramen working with him in producing his new television show.

The show is "Funny Funny Films" and it makes its weekly debut 8:30 p. m. Monday on channel 7.

The cameramen are you and you and you and several million others just like you.

Just like you in at least one aspect—you're all home-movie buffs.

Buffs to the extent that you love to take you're own home movies although you may not be quite so enthusiastic about watching others.

Fenneman expects to increase your enthusiasm about others.

HIS NEW program consists entirely of home movies.

Will sophisticated televiewers, used to the acme of professional drama and acting, go for amateurish home movies?

You bet your life they will, according to Fenneman.

"These movies are people," he said. "They're great. They're funny.

"We've shown them to audiences and the reception has been most gratifying," said Fenneman.

The "most gratifying" reception included an emphasis on laughs.

"We won't have a laugh track," said Fenneman. "If the live audience doesn't laugh, it's not going to be any funnier to the viewers at home by adding a laugh track."

FENNEMAN, who came into TV prominence as an announcer for Groucho Marx, will host the production.

The hosting duties will include ribbing the maker of the home movie.

"It's a softer kind of humor than Groucho," said Fenneman. "We're not going to hurt anybody's feelings."

Then, lest he hurt Groucho's feelings, he explained:

"The Groucho thing gave me an image with the public.

"I was the underdog, a nice young man whom the other fellow was taking advantage of.

"I knew it was a joke—after the first year or so."

THE "GROUCHO THING" is still paying off with re-run checks for Fenneman. And the re-run checks are what put him in the position of producing the upcoming series.

"As a matter of fact," said Fenneman, "Groucho and I not so long ago did a week of 'Tonight' show together.

"It was just as terrifying as ever."

So far, there haven't been any really "terrifying" home movies. Although there's one which Hy Freedman, writer and show co-owner, and Fenneman are doubtful they'll use.

A woman made a home movie about the fable of the country and the city mouse.

"The trouble is," said Fenneman, "that she used the rats in her own home."

ONE HOME MOVIE which will be used was made by a 12-year-old boy.

The youngster got together 12 other children, then wrote, produced and directed "The Lost Battalion." The 27-minute home movie has been cut to five minutes for airing on "Funny Funny Films."

Another home movie buff specialized in taking pictures of walking girls—good-looking girls.

But he was diverted from his specialty long enough to accompany his wife on her first water-skiing expedition.

His films show his wife taking off, falling off and bobbing helplessly in the water.

Then the scene suddenly shifts.

Several good-looking girls walked down the beach and the man behind the camera went back to his specialty.

HOWEVER, Fenneman reassured, the man's wife didn't drown while her husband was focusing elsewhere. Someone else pulled her to safety.

There's a 10-second shot showing two youngsters with shoe-shine kits. They're busy polishing the refrigerator.

For every sequence used on the program—even the 10-second ones—there are 200 home movies screened by Fenneman's editors.

"I don't look at all of the 200," said Fenneman. "Believe me, that's why it's nice to be an owner."

But he's an owner with sympathy for the 199 home movie makers whose product won't hit the TV screen.

"You see," said Fenneman, "I would almost rather be a photographer than anything else."

SPECIAL

ISSUES & ANSWERS—Newly-appointed FCC chairman E. Willam Henry is questioned on various phases of the broadcasting industry at 2:30 p.m., ch. 7. Henry tells his ideas of his position, ratings, option time, political coverage, Madison Ave.

REHEARSAL FOR A TOUR — The California Youth Symphony, under baton of Aaron Sten, prepares for its 30-day, 10-city summer tour of Japan. The 100 students, aged 11 to 18, are seen at 3:30 p.m., ch. 7, in a San Francisco-produced special.

SHOW OF WEEK—Original drama, taped in London, stars Jack Hawkins, Pamela Brown and Nigel Davenport, at 10 p.m., ch. 4. When a brilliant politician is repeatedly passed over for a deserved ministerial post, his wife feels sure it is because there is some bleak incident in his past which no one will explain.

CLOSE-UP!—Simon Gutter, former inmate of several Nazi concentration camps, revisits Europe in 1961, more than 15 years after his escape from Buchenwald, and retraces his steps through Holland, West and East Germany and Poland. The repeat news special is at 10:30 p.m., ch. 7.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE—Premiere. KTTV's new owner, Metromedia, debuts its own 2-hour discussion series at 10:30 p.m., ch. 11, as pink slips go to the more controversial "Open End," along with Tom Duggan and the Saturday Dan Smoot outings. Archibald MacLeish, John Dos Passos, Sen. Eugene McCarthy and Elmo Roper are among the participants in the opener, which in various segments explores "the American mind and mood."

SPECIAL

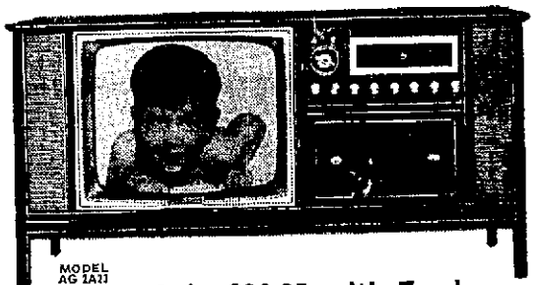

YOUR FUNNY, FUNNY FILMS — Premiere. Amateur home movie enthusiasts explain their films, for fun and for prizes, as George Fenneman hosts a new weekly series at 8:30 p.m., ch. 7. Opener shows boys learning to skate, a World War II epic with 12-year-olds and a 40-year-old 9½ mm. film, followed by a regular "short shorts" segment of humorous gems too brief to classify.

TELEVISION MOVIE TIPS

SUNDAY

TUNES OF GLORY—8:30 p.m., in color, ch. 7. Alec Guinness, John Mills (British-1960). Tough, hard-drinking commander of Highland Regiment is replaced by disciplinarian. Mills received best actor award at Venice Film Festival for his role.

BEAU GESTE—11:15 p.m., ch. 2. Gary Cooper, Ray Milland, Brian Donlevy (1939). Exciting tale of the Foreign Legion, an all-time classic.

ETHEL BARRYMORE co-stars with Maurice Evans in the 1951 movie "Kind Lady" at 8 p. m. Friday, channel 11. It's about a suave murderer.

MONDAY

THE BROWNING VERSION — 2:10 p.m., ch. 5. Michael Redgrave, Jean Kent, Nigel Patrick (British-1951). Stuffy professor learns of his wife's affair with another teacher as he prepares to leave for a new post. Brilliant performance by Redgrave.

BOY ON A DOLPHIN—7:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Sophia Loren, Alan Ladd, Clifton Webb. Discovery of centuries-old statue on sunken galleon sets archaeologist against greedy millionaire. Filmed in Greece.

I WAS MONTY'S DOUBLE—10:30 p.m., ch. 9. John Mills, Cecil Parker (British-1959). Well done war drama about a great plot involving an actor impersonating a General to confuse the Germans in African campaign.

THURSDAY

STORMY WEATHER — 11:30 p.m., ch. 2. Lena Horne, Cab Calloway, Fats Waller, Bill Robinson (1943). First run. All-Negro musical, with typical plotline but excellent musical performances.

FRIDAY

CORNERED — 10:30 p.m., ch. 9. Dick Powell, Walter Slezak, Micheleine Cheirel (1945). Fast-moving melodrama of airman who goes seeking those responsible for the death of his French wife during the war.

GLASS KEY — 11:30 p.m., ch. 2. Alan Ladd, Brian Donlevy, Veronica Lake (1942). Henchman sets out to clear politician wrongly accused of murder.

SATURDAY

THE SUN ALSO RISES — 9 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Tyrone Power, Ava Gardner, Errol Flynn, Mel Ferrer, Eddie Albert (1957). Ernest Hemingway's poignant story of the "lost generation" of Americans in Europe after World War I.

SERGEANT YORK—11:45 p.m., ch. 13. Gary Cooper, Walter Brennan (1941). Tennessee hillbilly becomes the greatest hero of World War I as he single-handedly captures over a hundred Germans.

SPECIAL

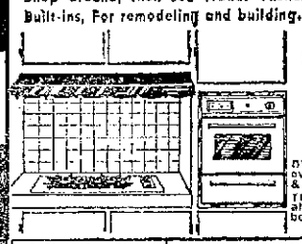

HOT SPOTS '63 — Hour-long news special of world crisis areas is repeated at 8 p.m., ch. 13, with special film segments in color. Harold Fishman and Gunther Less are commentators, with highlights including commando raid by anti-Castro guerillas and films of the tension at the Brandenberg Gate.

REPORT FROM . . . — Premiere. Tokyo is the first of 11 leading cities to receive a close-up visit this summer, each explored by the NBC newsman assigned to that area, and sampling the thoughts and actions of its people. Opener, at 10:30 p.m., ch. 4, finds John Rich viewing Tokyo's preparations for the 1964 Olympics, and following the Western-type activities of Japanese teenagers.

FOCUS ON AMERICA — Third season premiere, Don Goddard is host for the first network showing of outstanding documentaries produced by ABC affiliate stations, at 10:30 p.m., ch. 7. Detroit-filmed opener documents the emergency treatment of a seriously injured auto accident victim. All hospital personnel and surgeons are actual members of the receiving hospital staff.

SPECIAL

TOWN MEETING of the World—One of America's oldest institutions, the town meeting, is introduced to Europe as a brain child of CBS president Frank Stanton and used to mark the first Telstar anniversary. By "hot switching" of transatlantic facilities via Telstar II, leading world figures in Denver, London, Brussels and Cologne will question each other on the Common Market, NATO, multilateral nuclear forces, German unity and the prospects for a test-ban treaty. Walter Cronkite will be anchor man for the historic global roundtable, in which Dwight D. Eisenhower, Sir Anthony Eden, father of the Common Market Jean Monnet and former West German foreign minister Heinrich von Brentano will participate, seen on ch. 2 from 11:25 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and rebroadcast at 7:30 p.m.

7 Our Man Higgins, Stanley Holloway, Sylvia Fields (repeat). Higgins tries to keep his nephew's gambling creditors away from visiting Aunt Martha.

WILLBANKS...Sells Quality Carpet for Less!

JULY Clearance Sale

THE WILLBANKS STORY:

The Willbanks Carpet Co. is a departure from the usual carpet specialty shop. It was founded on the premise that quality carpet, backed by expert installation, could be sold at a minimum mark-up in sufficient volume to be profitable. The extension of this premise was to operate without frills and costly fixtures from a low rent and thus low overhead location in a factory warehouse on a side street in Signal Hill. By eliminating high rent and other cost-raising features, the company decided it could afford to pass on to its customers the substantial savings by giving more carpet at less cost.

100% CONTINUOUS SPACE DYED NYLON PILE BY CORONET

Willbanks has just made a tremendous purchase on several thousand yards of this popular carpeting, and as always we are passing this savings on to you. Come in and see it Today!

100% CONTINUOUS FILAMENT DUPONT "500" NYLON PILE

In a popular cobblestone texture. Moth-proof and not allergenic. Full rolls to choose from. Many popular colors.

YOUR CHOICE $5.95 PER SQ. YD.

SPECIAL ALL-WOOL PILE by GULISTAN

100% All-Wool Pile. This special all-wool is really beautiful. Three levels of textured loops plus a cut design. The wools used in the yarns have been carefully selected to create beautiful colors, yet give rugged service. We have a nice selection of colors for you to choose from: antique white, mellow gold foam beige, barley beige and cocoa glaze.

WILLBANKS SPECIAL $8.95 PER SQ. YD.

ACRILAN PILE by ALEXANDER SMITH

"FASHION NOTE," a brilliant new styling achievement. Fashionable colors make decorating easy. Acrilan pile resists crushing and cleans effortlessly. Skillful blending of cut and loop fibers offer a unique textured surface. Comes in snowdrift, mocha, April green, platinum, sand and martini.

100% HERCULON PILE

It's Here! The First New Carpet of Herculon—Polypropylene

Continuous filament fiber made by Hercules Powder Co.—one of the strongest man-made fibers known today—fashioned into beautiful broadloom that is amazingly soil resistant and easy to clean . . . absorbs less moisture than any other fiber . . . lovely colors are locked in. Will never fade, never change. Rugged, durable and strong . . . takes years of hardest wear.

THE WILLBANKS PRICE FOR THIS TERRIFIC CARPET $6.95 PER YD.

100% ALL-WOOL PILE

8 Decorator Colors to choose from. A textured carpet that would be wonderful for that extra bedroom, or, for that matter, the entire house.

$3.95

"CHAPEL LANE" ALL-WOOL PILE

by Gulistan

All-wool face with a textured four-dimensional pattern. This interesting effect is formed by a combination of design on design—the basic design being surrounded by a second one. Chapel Lane has a double jute back adding strength and unsurpassed tuft bind. 15 colors to choose from.

ATTENTION:

Leisure World and El Dorado Park residents. We have all the necessary measurements to carpet and drape your homes. Compare our prices before you buy.

OUR COVER

It's the season of the campers, and up and down the coastal playgrounds, and far back into the camp sites of the hinterlands, families of happy tenters will be camping tonight—and for many nights all through the summer. Camping out is "the top" for its devotees, a delightful way to commune with nature—to get the "feel" of the great outdoors. For those looking for a big rest, camping is a way to relax. For those looking for scenery, hiking, riding, swimming and fishing, there's a camp site right where all these activities take place. You name it and there's a camp ground somewhere, not too far away, that has it. To help Southland's readers with camping plans there's an interesting roundup article about this favorite activity today on Page 7.

NEXT WEEK

"Fishy, fishy . . . look so good; Papa carved him out of wood!" That parody of the old nursery rhyme fits the hobby of W. S. (Bill) Keith of Long Beach to a "T." In fact, Keith has a whole aquarium of wooden fish that he has carved, painted and set into an underwater scene. Keith is a fisherman, too, and another fisherman, Donnell Culpepper, Southland's outdoor editor, describes his hobby of fish carving next week in Southland Magazine.

Exclusive Anthony Equipment

Anthony is the exclusive manufacturer of many pool accessories that you may want to add to your "Flipper" pool. The Anthony Automatic 290 Heater, Hydra-Sweep Automatic Pool Cleaner, clock controlled to clean any time night or day, and Antho-Pure the new Automatic Purifier that dispenses daily. Keeps pool constantly pure, ready for a swim.

USE GUARDEX® AUTOMATICALLY

So dependable is the pool maintenance protection provided by GUARDEX® Dry Chlorine Concentrate that it is the only product recommended for use in the new Antho-Pure Automatic Purifier. The new Anthony Automatic Purifier will hold an average six months' supply of GUARDEX.

GUARDEX, the effective modern method of pool chlorination, is available at leading pool supply dealers everywhere. GUARDEX reduces eye irritation so effectively that most users mention this advantage. Bleaching and color fading of swimwear is noticeably less when GUARDEX is used rather than liquid chlorine.

Ask your pool supply dealer about the many additional advantages of a GUARDEX Pool Maintenance Program for your swimming pool.

Swinging from a bit of driftwood, seashell bells are unique when hung in patio breeze.

By Edna Ward Hicks

FOR AN interesting pastime, try making a set of shell wind bells.

You'll need shells, a few yards of string (but nylon monofilament 10-pound test fishing line is better, it is strong, durable and almost invisible), an 8 or 12-inch stick, bamboo slip or skewer, an awl or ice pick if you don't have an electric drill. The awl or ice pick can be sharpened to a needle point, by rubbing it briskly on a sidewalk.

On a flat wooden surface stand a scallop shell on end and drill with a slight pressure a pinpoint hole in the cup end.

Cut each string about 25 inches along so you won't be crowded when tying knots.

START BY TYING a volcano shell on the end of each string, then place four large scallop shells at intervals (see photo). You can drill holes in the stick support or notch them every inch or two inches apart, so the strings won't slip and spread apart in the wind.

Tie each strand of shells to the stick. When finished clip the loose ends of the strings and you're ready to swing the wind bells.

They will give an interesting crisp cling clang sound in the breeze.

TIPS FOR CARPET CARE:

To control Moth and Carpet Beetles check to see if your carpet is labeled Moth-proofed. If not, cleanliness is one of the best defenses against insect damage. Employ regular vacuuming and use a professional rug cleaner's service at least once a year. This will insure you against Moths and Carpet Beetles.

Food stains and other fatty or greasy substances should be removed as soon as seen; by using a good dry cleaner followed by a mild detergent solution. Never over wet. Under no circumstances roll up a rug and place it in an attic or cellar — without first having it cleaned and possibly moth-proofed by your professional rug and upholstery cleaner.

Season of the Campers

By Harry Karns

Carpinteria Beach State Park is small but well equipped seaside site, popular for fishing and surfing. A number of coastal camps are maintained by the state for vacationers who wish to get away from the busy and noisy pace of life in the cities.

ON THE BEACH at San Clemente the kids build sand castles just beyond the reaching fingers of the surf while Mom and Dad lie baking in glorious serenity under a clear blue sky. Beside a giant redwood in Yosemite a family sits at a camp table in the cool of evening, eating supper and dreamily watching the Merced River riffle over the rocks. Nature has called the city-bred back to the outdoors, and they have answered.

Tiring of the smog, the traffic stink and noise, the eight-to-five regularity of their lives, thousands of California families answer that call about this time of year, packing tents and kids and hitting out for the beaches and the mountains. It's the season of the campers.

And no one anywhere has a greater variety of camping facilities within easy driving distance than the Southern Californian. If he so desired, he could break camp at a desert state part in the morning, pitch his tent at noon in the mountains, and bed down that night on a Pacific beach.

CALIFORNIA has approximately 25,000 camp sites. Thousands of these sites are in or near the Los Angeles Basin, and many of them are not far away in two magnificent national parks, Sequoia and Yosemite.

The fame of the national parks tends to overshadow the state parks, but some of the finest scenery and recreational activities and 5,300 of the campsites are located in the California State Park system.

The state-built camp sites are noted for their spaciousness. Families have indicated through the years that they don't want crowded sites but would rather wait a day or two for a site where a degree of privacy exists. California camp sites are built with that in mind. The standard California State Park camp site has a parking place, a level spot for pitching a tent, a table with benches to seat six to eight persons, a food locker, and usually a cooking stove. Nearby are water faucets and rest rooms; in most parks showers and laundry facilities are also available. Some of the beach parks have fire rings on the sand of the beach itself.

IN ORDER that more families may enjoy them, the parks impose camping limits. These limits are from seven to 30 days, depending on park and season. The fee per car with or without trailer for camping overnight in all state parks with established camp sites is $1.

(This applies to state park units operated by the Division of Beaches and Parks. Some local agencies operate beach state parks, and charges and fees in these are established by the agencies under an operating agreement with the state, but they are in all cases quite reasonable.)

Families which usually spend their vacations driving cross-country to visit relatives, staying in motels along the way, greet the idea of a camping vacation with two big questions: "What do you do with all that time?" and "Doesn't the equipment cost a lot of money, and isn't it complicated to operate?"

Taking the second question first, the equipment costs but a fraction of the motel bill for a two-week car trip. Tents used to be complicated, bulky affairs, but today a light-weight tent big enough to sleep a family of six can be lifted easily and erected by one person. It is reasonable in price, as are camp stove, lantern, and cooking kit. Add one sleeping bag per person, with perhaps an air mattress each for Mom and Dad, and you're ready to go. If all this equipment takes up too much space in the trunk or the back of the station wagon, a light-weight luggage rack to fit on your car top can be purchased or rented cheaply.

There's plenty of variety in the state parks, too. This scene at Pismo Beach is an example of the change of pace from mountains to the coast.

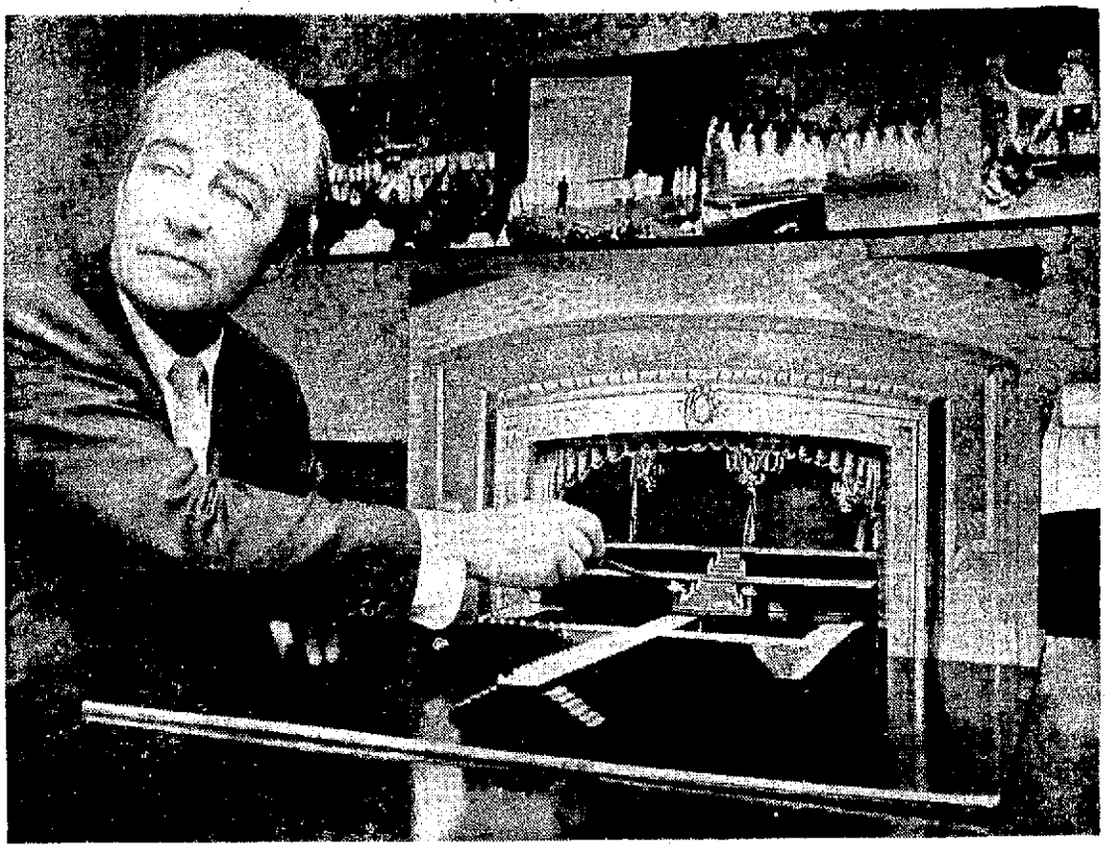

AS FOR THE USE of time, don't worry. There's plenty of camp fire wood to be hauled and food to be cooked. In the mountains, you go exploring, find hidden, quiet places, watch the animals. At the beach you fish, surf, hunt for shells. Mainly, though, you do nothing—a very constructive occupation for a vacationer; one which may make you nervous at first, but which you will adapt to if your try.

More and more families are trying it each year and finding in the cool mountain woods and the sun-bathed

Scenic mountain parks such as Palomar, where this family is finding relaxation, add variety to vacationing. Palomar also offers hiking, horseback riding, camp fire programs and fishing for those looking for more active ways of changing the tempo.

Wayne Dailard, executive director of the International Beauty Pageant, explains the new stage setting for the 1963 contest. A long career in show business and in presenting spectaculars lies behind Dailard as he takes over here.

Wayne Dailard
. . . impressario

The Man Behind the IBC

By Bob Sanders

WAYNE DAILARD, the impeccable impressario of the International Beauty Pageant, is a man of many parts.

One of the top showmen of the country, he has launched into a brand new career this year as executive director of the IBC Spectacular, coming Aug. 8-18 to Long Beach. Behind him is a mounting progression of successful careers in the theater. Dailard, whose distinguished appearance of 59 lends an air of cosmopolitan elegance to this year's pageant even as he is putting it together in its new shape, began his professional life as a musician.

Way back in 1920, fresh off his father's Nebraska cattle ranch, young Dailard landed a spot playing saxophone with the old Ted Lewis aggregation. He was 16.

A SCANT four years later he gave up the saxophone to become a publicity director (they were known as press agents in those days) with the Orpheum Theater chain. At 27 he was the youngest division manager in the organization.

From there it was just a short jump into producing and directing light opera and stock company dramatic productions. Referring to this period of his life, Dailard drops vintage names that sound like a roster of the show business era.

"I worked with most of the famous ones," he says. "I directed May Robson in the old favorite, 'Mother's Millions,' Estelle Taylor, who later married Jack Dempsey, in 'Street Scene' and I don't remember who in 'Front Page.'

"I ALSO TOOK Lionel, John and Ethel Barrymore on the first vaudeville tour they ever made."

A long-time Southern California resident, Dailard came here with Fox West Coast in 1933 but left two years later to become managing director of the California Pacific International Exposition—otherwise known as the World's Fair—in San Diego in 1935 and 1936.

Juggling 65 different productions, including drama, light opera, symphonies, spectaculars, California's first outdoor ice show and a review starring Sally (the fan) Rand of Chicago World Fair fame, gave him his first experience with the "many shows in one" concept.

After a short stint packaging productions of various expositions around the world, Dailard began booking big name bands, such as the Dorseys, Guy Lombardo, Glen Miller, Kay Kaiser and Artie Shaw, around the country. When the big band wagon slowed down Dailard went into what he now calls "semi retirement."

EXCEPT FOR OCCASIONAL efforts, like Santa Barbara's Old Spanish Days, Dailard concentrated on one of the great loves of his life—polo. From 1946 through 1950, when he quit playing, the slim, muscular showman advanced from a two-goal player to a four-goal man and was described in the polo magazine, "Tanbark and Turf," as the "best mounted man on the West Coast." He is still extremely proud of the string of polo ponies he got together at that time.

In 1950, he came out of "semi retirement" to produce—with Meredith Wilson and the late Lionel Barrymore, both of whom were close personal friends—"The California Story," commemorating this state's 100th anniversary. First produced in Hollywood Bowl, the gigantic pageant of history proved so popular that Dailard took it to San Diego where it played to nearly a million people in 1956, 1957 and 1958.

Combining pageantry, ballet, opera, symphony and drama into a sweeping historical story line, Dailard put together a new format of entertainment.

CAPITALIZING on this success, Dailard has since produced the Oregon Story to celebrate that state's 100th year in 1959 and the Kansas Story which drew 60 per cent of that state's 2,178,611 population in 1960-61.

Utilizing the experience he picked up with this form, the is determined that this year's International Beauty Pageant spectacular will change the entire concept of beauty contest from here on.

The greying Dailard, whose quiet manner belies a restless energy, dresses conservatively, thinks in big terms but is not given to snap decisions.

His ability to capitalize on a good thing was illustrated in 1936 when he offered fight promoter Mike Jacobs $1 million to bring the first Joe Louis-Max Schmeling fight to the San Diego exposition.

WHEN THE DEAL fell through because of legal entanglements and Dailard was accused of pulling a publicity gimmick, he promptly produced a certified check for $500,000 he had intended to put up as a down payment.

This quelled the rumors—and the exposition already had the publicity.

"The day of pretty girls in beauty contests parading around a stage like so many cows at the county fair is over," he predicts. "When I get finished with this pageant, every other beauty contest in the universe, or at least the world, will have to make some drastic changes or go out of business."

And if past performances are any criteria this is what may happen.

Wrong-Way Flight Right Way to Fame

Doug Corrigan: 25 Years Later

By Ev Hosking

Corrigan had other than flying talent; turned to successful orange production.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago Monday, a rickety, $900, 10-year-old monoplane took off from Long Beach Municipal Airport.

And as the ancient crate soared into the eastern sky, so lifted the spirits of a depression-weary America.

The people were about to have a new hero—the original backward boy.

Tugging at the controls of the old plane was a chunky, cocky Irishman who 10 days and one gas stop later was to land in Ireland "by mistake."

Douglas (Wrong Way) Corrigan gave the country a new kind of idol. One wearing a battered leather jacket and a boyish smile. And one who carried his total wealth in his pocket, $69.

BANNED BY AVIATION officials from over-water flying in the vintage plane, Corrigan blithely navigated his way to fame with little or no trouble.

Blaming compass error, he blandly told the authorities he hadn't intended to make the Atlantic crossing to Ireland—that he had really meant to fly west to Long Beach again, saying "my compass froze . . . instead of flying the right heading I went the opposite way . . .

"I knew I wasn't in Long Beach when I dropped out of the overcast over Dublin," he continued. "The place was greener and some of the houses had hay roofs."

The flying Irishman's plane took 23 hours and 13 minutes to make the 3,150-mile flight to Ireland. The old Robin's top speed was somewhat less than the landing speed of the modern jet airliners that today span the Atlantic.

TEXAS-BORN Corrigan was one of the few who barnstormed his way through the depression years in a series of rickety planes, most of which were held together with baling wire.

In 1927, Corrigan was working as a mechanic in a San Diego aircraft plant helping to tune up a Ryan monoplane that belonged to a lanky pilot who was later to become Corrigan's idol.

A few weeks later that plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis" flew non-stop from New York to Paris. At the controls was the lanky pilot—Charles A. Lindberg.

Corrigan likes to recall that his Curtiss Robin plane was smaller and had less horsepower than "The Spirit of St. Louis."

He also points out that his only instruments were a dollar wrist watch (which stopped) and the famous "wrong way compass."

THE PINT-SIZED Lindberg's adventures began shortly before noon on Friday, July 8, 1938. Schneider Air Service filled the Robinson's oversized gas tanks with 252 gallons of gasoline and 18 gallons of oil and Corrigan was off on a non-stop flight to New York. He made the trip in little less than 27 hours.

A few days later, at dawn, Corrigan eased his plane out of New York's Floyd Bennett Airport virtually unseen except for the airport manager and attendants.

Later, in explaining how he flew a westerly course and arrived in Ireland, Corrigan had this to say:

"There had been a haze near the ground, and when I was 500 feet high there was fog below the plane, and when I started to turn west I noticed the top compass was not working right, due to the liquid having leaked out. I had seen that in the dark the night before. There was another compass down on the floor that I had set to fly a westerly course, so now I turned the plane until the parallel lines matched, and flew over the fog."

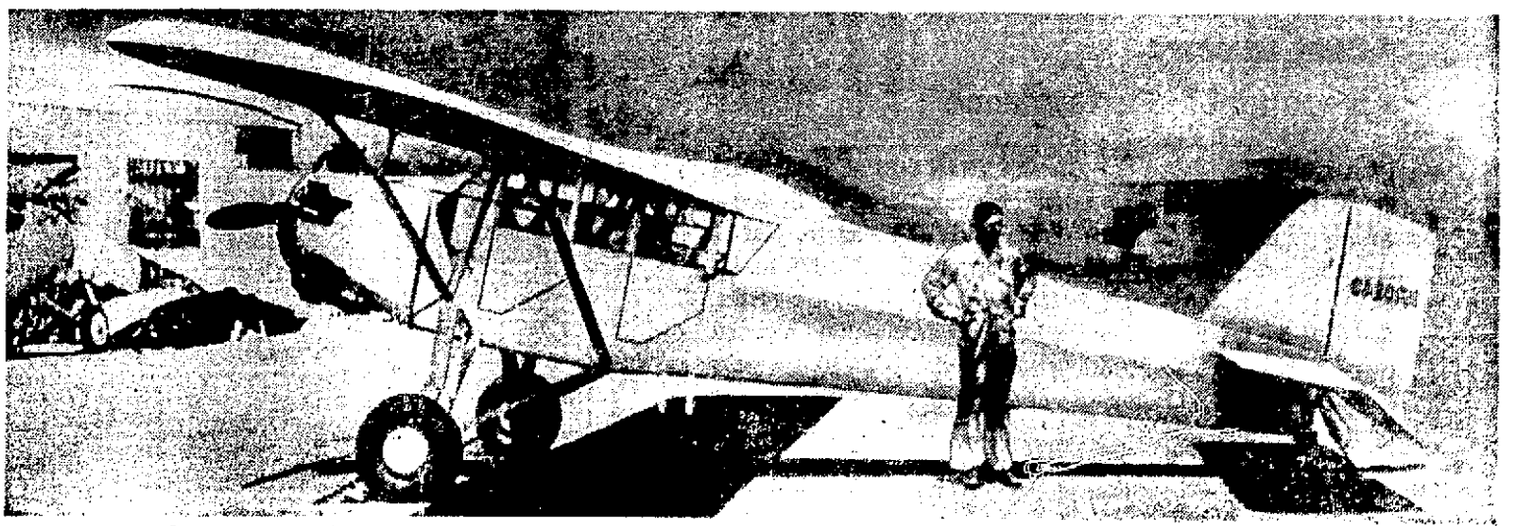

CORRIGAN would flash his famous grin and amplify his tale a little.

He would point out that after being out 20 hours he found it strange to be flying over water since he didn't figure he had yet reached the Pacific Ocean.

"I looked down at the compass, and now that there was more light I noticed that I had been following the wrong end of the magnetic needle on the whole flight. As the opposite of west is east, I realized I was over the Atlantic Ocean somewhere. . . I flew on straight ahead, hoping to strike land some place if the gas held out long enough."

A frustrated Civil Aeronautics Board, not knowing what to do about the smiling Irishman who apparently had a plausible excuse for flaunting the law and who had now become a national hero, punished him by restricting him from flying for

Hawaii Guide

The 50th state—dreamed about by those who have never been there and a haunting memory to those who have—is constantly changing. That is, you're liable to find a glamorous hotel on the site of a lagoon you admired a couple of years ago because it was so beautifully secluded.

This ever-changing land is brought up-to-date for prospective travelers in "Bob Krauss' Travel Guide to the Hawaiian Islands" (Coward-McCann, $5.95). Author Krauss, a talented columnist for the Honolulu Advertiser, not only gives the lowdown on hotels, food, fun and frolic and the 1963 price tag: he also gives the latest information on tours, festivals, sports, shopping and all the other island attractions visitors will want to know about. And he tells it all interestingly.

With a Touch of Palm

By Edna Ward Hicks

THE palm tree is one of the West's most plentiful trees with enough fronds for all who seek the beauty in nature's graceful formed sprays.

When trimmed, the fronds give a touch of elegant beauty to a mantle, table or wall ornament.

The tips can be left long and exaggerated, trimmed symmetrically, tapered to form a crescent, or snipped close and stocky with abbreviated spires. When the dried branches are difficult to bend, just soak them in cold water for several hours. When they are flexible tie them with a strong string, then let them dry thoroughly. One who isn't fortunate enough to "cut" a palm frond can purchase them at stores specializing in dried flowers and foliage. The accompanying photos show three ways to experiment with a single palm frond.

Photos by the Author

Dr. Strangelove and the H-Bomb

Co-stars George C. Scott as an Air Force general and Peter Sellers as the president do some heavy thinking in Stanley Kubrick's comedy of a world H-bomb crisis.

"LOLITA" has just about finished that lollipop in most theaters around the world. Did they know how good they had it—those unsung stalwarts of the motion picture industry who stand on high ladders in wee hours playing scrabble or marquees?

Stanley Kubrick, the man who gave them six letters to arrange for his last film, is about to hand them 54.

Kubrick is busily completing a film in London called "Dr. Strangelove or: How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb"—with Peter Sellers (in four roles), George C. Scott, Sterling Hayden and Keenan Wynn.

Strangely enough, the outsize title is probably the least strange thing about "Dr. Strangelove, etc."

COLUMBIA Pictures won't be releasing the film till October, but the word is already around London that it could be the most original and controversial American movie since "Citizen Kane."

Item: The story deals with the terrifying possibility of nuclear annihilation by accident.

Item: It is a comedy.

A preposterous, irresponsible mixture? Producer-director-writer Kubrick doesn't think so. In fact he thinks quite the opposite.

"Most strategists agree," says Kubrick, "that the chance of nuclear war by accident, miscalculation or madness is infinitely greater than the possibility of the bomb being dropped deliberately by either side. Now this is an absurd situation. It's presumed that if something goes wrong people will act coolly and rationally to correct it in time. It seems to me that the fallacy of a lot of the thinking in this field is the assumption that emergency steps will run smoothly, that the safety valves will work in an actual crisis the way they do on paper. Realistically, we're confronted almost daily with bizarre happenings—the wrong patient is operated on in a hospital; a postage stamp is printed upside down; a U. S. airman goes berserk right here in England and tries to set off an H-bomb (the base psychiatrist had been treating the man but hadn't been able to find out his job because it was so classified).

"WHAT THE FILM does is exaggerate the possibilities of foul-ups and dramatize the potential absurdities. That's why I call it a 'nightmare

Best of Class

Just what, precisely, does this mean?

In dogs the answer is quite obvious. In organs, something very different, to be sure. Hammond consistently breeds "best of class" instruments, from our $495. F-100 to our magnificent $3895. concert organ.

Take our Concert Organ, for instance. It is unparalled, surely "best of class". You can pay more . . . but you will not find its equal in tremendous tonal resources, its simplified means for producing an unbelieivable variety of sounds and tones. And all Hammond Organs are unique in their dependability: Hammonds can never get out of tune nor change pitch, never are affected by changes in temperature or humidity, almost never require service.

If you're organ-minded, be sure to see the Hammond Organ. And you can see all the Hammond Organs only at the Hammond Organ Studios of Long Beach.

A BEAUTY SECRET

ACTS LIKE A MOLECULAR SPONGE

Modern skin specialists know that "skin scraping" —removing the lifeless outer cell layer—enables the living cells beneath to produce 4 or 5 times the growth of new skin. They use a surgical treatment, which though effective, is expensive and not exactly pleasant, but listen!

Instead! Wouldn't you like to find a completely natural method of lifting the lifeless cells from the hair and scalp . . . a method so safe that it involves little more than plain water . . . a method so inexpensive it costs less than 5c a treatment . . . a method time-proved by hundreds of years of use by men and women the world over?

This method lifts cell-clogging debris from hands, face, hair, the entire body, leaves Nature's system free to grow, "breathe" again. The most delicate skin, no problem!

Use for one week. Tell no one! Then, if your friends aren't asking about your New Look, tell us and we will gladly refund your money!

It costs only $3.00 for a full gallon, which you make in your own home from ingredients we supply. Dozens of uses, complete instructions. Expect something unusual, a conversation piece! Do not miss this opportunity. Made only by Albert E. Holand Company, Dept. MB, Box 2281, Gardena, Calif.

Despite exterior appearances, the home of the Charles Treffry family is surprisingly roomy. Above, living room.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Here's "after" view of Treffry home . . .

. . . and this is "before."

House With an Inside Story

By Stella George

THERE'S more to the home of the Charles Treffry family, 109 Park Ave., than meets the eye — an inside story, and it's a tale of unsuspected roominess. Location, too, is part of the story, since the dwelling is near the recreational advantages of beach and sea. And since the family consists of father, mother, grandmother, seven children of 3 to 19 range of ages, and assorted pets, that play area is important.

The house is deceiving from the exterior insofar as the size of the interior is concerned. Few passersby notice that there is a second story at the rear. Too, since most homes in the Belmont Shore area are small (apartment and duplex dwellings excepted), it is natural to assume that this one is also on the petite side. This being the case, a visit to the Treffry home provides surprises in its capacity.

The front door opens into an entrance hall with a filigree divider directly in front and access to the living room at the left. Here a sense of spaciousness is created. The room is about 20 feet long and 16 feet wide. At the far end the wall is entirely covered with a mirror which seems to double the entire area. Furnishings include a curved, off-white couch facing a grand piano in the corner; twin green-blue chairs at one side; a purple velvet occasional chair; a coffee table in front of a large picture window. Another surprise: a table that was made by Mr. Treffry from a brass plaque, glass covered and with inexpensive table legs obtained at an outlet store. Carpeting is off-white.

THE DINING room is formal and graceful, furnished with an extension gold-leaf dining table for large dinner parties. Choice silver pieces adorn the buffet, including out-size candleholders. The gold theme is carried out in the wallpaper.

The kitchen is small, but well designed for the ever constant use which it receives. An island bar seats the entire family for quick meals, and serves as a work area for the chef.

A long hall leads from the kitchen to the rear of the home. The first bedroom on the left is designed for two girls. Lavender spreads complement the blue-green-lavender curtains. The suite is complete with an adjoining bath.

The first room on the right on the hall is a small bathroom with an indirectly lighted ceiling.

The bedroom at the far end is designed for two. Color accents are orange. Built-in closets and cupboards provide ample storage space, and low, matched chests of drawers custom the room.

Steps down on the far left of the hall lead to the family room. Oriental accents are the key to the decor. Expertly designed and furnished, the room has everything — from the entertaining and family points of view. There is a large fireplace. The couch, long, white, and comfortable, faces a coffee table. The bar is out-sized, with a half dozen white stools. Oak colored paneling provides a background for shelves that hold bric-a-brac. A door in the room leads to the garden. (The owners purchased the adjoining lot when they bought the home, thus doubling the size of their property).

Adjoining the bedroom is a study. The Oriental motif is again carried out (as in the family room downstairs), with a mural on the wall, handsome chest in one corner, and knick-knacks here and there.

Also adjoining the bedroom is a dainty and feminine dressing room and bath. Lavender accents are bright and colorful.

This is an impressive home, particularly so when it is realized that, when the Treffrys purchased it, it was a tiny, Spanish-style, two-bedroom stucco house that might adequately accomodate a family of three (plus, perhaps, one pet). The Treffrys designed the additions and Mrs. Treffry did the interior decorating.

Problem Kitchen Yields to Change

TWO PROBLEM rooms—a kitchen and a dinette—presented a troublesome aspect in the otherwise enjoyable home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Fitzgerald, 245 Park Ave.—that is, they did until a few months ago.

The problems: the kitchen lacked work area, had too few cupboards and was poorly arranged; an archway led from dinette to kitchen and, in addition, the route to a bedroom located beyond the kitchen was through the archway, around the refrigerator and exit through a door in the opposite end of the kitchen.

The solution: purposeful remodeling.

The Fitzgeralds called in Kay Langen, an expert in such assignments, who evolved a solution.

THE WALL between the dinette and kitchen was removed, thus creating a feeling of wide open space in the area. Old, inadequate cupboards were removed to be replaced with spacious ones, the shelves of which are staggered to give even more space.

FLOORING is beige as are the new curtains in the windows of the dinette. Storage tricks are everywhere.

—STELLA GEORGE.

Dr. Strangelove

comedy.' Comedy can be more 'realistic' than a straight drama because it takes into account the bizarre."

Between camera set-ups in the mammoth "War Room" set at Shepperton Studios, Kubrick outlined the plot of the film: "A psychotic Air Force general unleashes his wing of B52 H-bombers to attack Russia. It develops that for various and entirely credible reasons the planes can't be recalled, and the president of the U. S. is forced to cooperate with the Soviet premier in a desperate attempt to save the world."

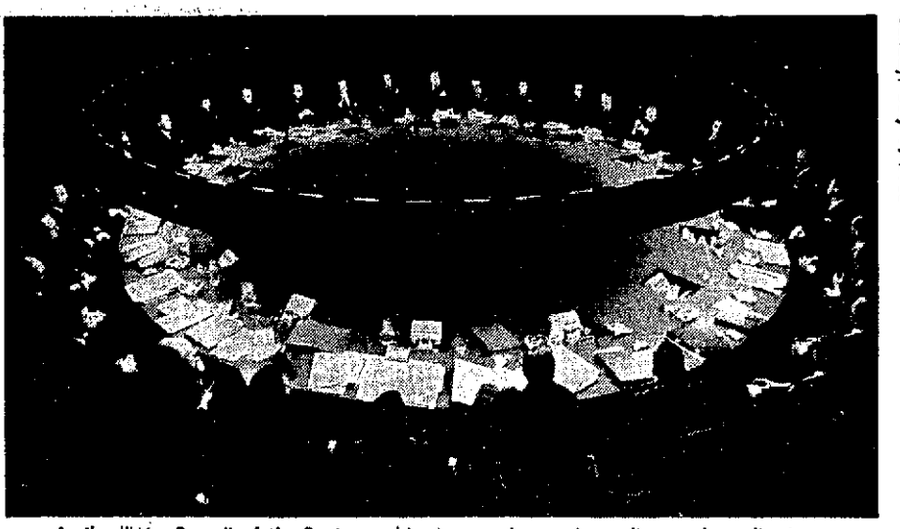

If this doesn't seem a likely framework for comedy—even of the nightmare variety—let it be noted that the mad general (Jack D. Ripper by name) pushes the button because he believes that fluoridation of water is a vile communist conspiracy to pollute and sap our precious bodily fluids.

Other absurdities include a brainwashed hand, an armed assault on a soft drink machine, and a pie-throwing sequence involving more than 3,000 custard pies (precisely how this fits into the movie is a closely guarded secret).

But perhaps the best indication of the nightmare comedy style is the "hot-line" phone call from "President" Sellers to the Soviet premier in the Kremlin (this scene was "in the can" a full week before the Geneva announcement that Russia had accepted the U. S. proposal for a direct link between Washington and Moscow).

SAMPLE DIALOGUE:

"Hello? . . . Hello, Dimitri . . . Yes, this is Merkin. How are you? . . . Oh, fine. Just fine. Look, Dimitri, you know how we've always talked about the possibility of something going wrong with the Bomb? . . . The Bomb! THE HYDROGEN BOMB! . . . That's right. Well, I'll tell you what happened. One of our base commanders . . . well, he went a little funny in the head and . . . ordered his planes . . . to attack . . . your country . . . Well, look, let me finish . . . Let me finish . . . Let me finish, Dimitri! Uh-huh . . . Thirty-four planes. They won't reach their targets for at least another hour . . . I'm positive . . . Uh-huh . . . Well how do you think I feel about it? . . ."

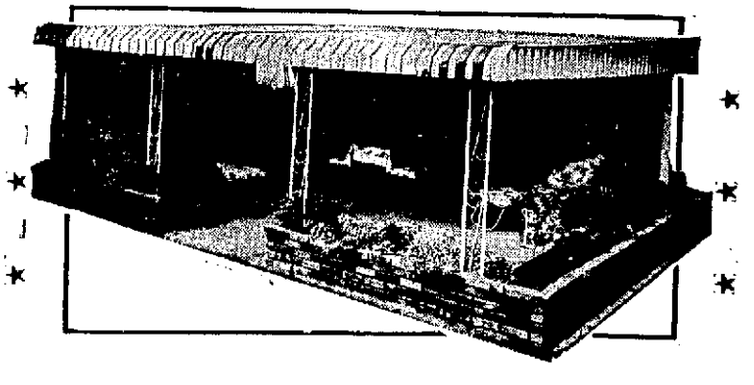

In the "War Room" of the Pentagon, bigwigs ponder an impending nuclear disaster, touched off by a military official who is "funny in the head," and how to stop it.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Heavy Smokers True Addicts

By Ben Zinser
Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

FEVERISH illness, such as a cold or the flu, may increase the effect of the drug guanethidine, used to lower blood pressure in persons with high blood pressure.

As a result, dosage of the drug may have to be reduced when the patient contracts a virus infection, say two doctors in British Medical Journal.

The doctors describe three hypertensive patients who caught a cold or the flu while under treatment with the drug. The patients became giddy and one lost consciousness because blood pressure fell too low.

Drug dosage was reduced while the patients were ill. It was restored to former level when they recovered from their virus ailment.

A NEW FORM of the drug phenyramidol has proved an effective muscle relaxant and pain-killer in the relief of low back pain, strains and sprains.

The compound is known as Analexin Injectable.

Fair to excellent results were obtained in 68 of 72 patients (94%). Only one intramuscular shot of the drug was required.

Sixteen of the 72 had temporary lightheadedness for a few minutes after receiving the drug. But this side effect was so minor that few patients mentioned it at the time.

Trials of the injectable form of the compound are reported by Dr. Max C. Igloe of Los Angeles in Industrial Medicine and Surgery.

A POTENT pain-killing drug which appears to be non-addicting has been described to the Illinois State Medical Society.

The drug, given by injection into a muscle, is pentazocine.

Dr. Max S. Sadove, professor of anesthesiology at the University of Illinois College of Medicine, described use of the agent in 155 postoperative patients.

Patients got pain relief as early as 20 minutes after injection, and this relief persisted up to three hours.

ADULTS who have not had the measles can take the new live-virus measles vaccine without undue hazard, a new study shows.

In older adults a fever reaction to the vaccine is moderately severe—but no more so than in young children who take the vaccine. In young adults the fever reaction is milder.

However, a shot of gamma globulin, a blood fraction, given at the same time the vaccine is administered, can reduce the frequency, duration and level of fever in adults.

Vaccine trials were conducted among adults in remote areas of Iceland where the population has had little exposure to measles. The study was carried out by Yale University and the Institute for Experimental Pathology in Reykjavik, Iceland, and is reported in Lancet.

HEAVY CIGARETTE smokers are true addicts, Boston University doctors report in the American Journal of Psychiatry.

Yet with appropriate motivation, heavy smoking can be stopped, the researchers say. On the other hand, it can be resumed readily.

"The habit is notoriously persistent and recurrent," say the researchers.

One patient who had abstained from smoking for 6½ years confessed he still dreamed occasionally of smoking. However, during his waking hours he was completely unaware of any desire to smoke.

HOW DO DOCTORS rate recent drug developments?

A poll conducted by Medical Research Digest discloses:

Type III Sabin oral vaccine to protect against one type of polio infection was voted the most significant advance in therapy.

Sansert, a medication to prevent migraine, was named the most effective drug in easing the course of illness.

Prostaphlin, an oral penicillin effective against resistant staph germ infections, was chosen as the most useful new drug in medical practice. Persantin, a drug indicated in certain coronary heart ailments, was awarded second place.

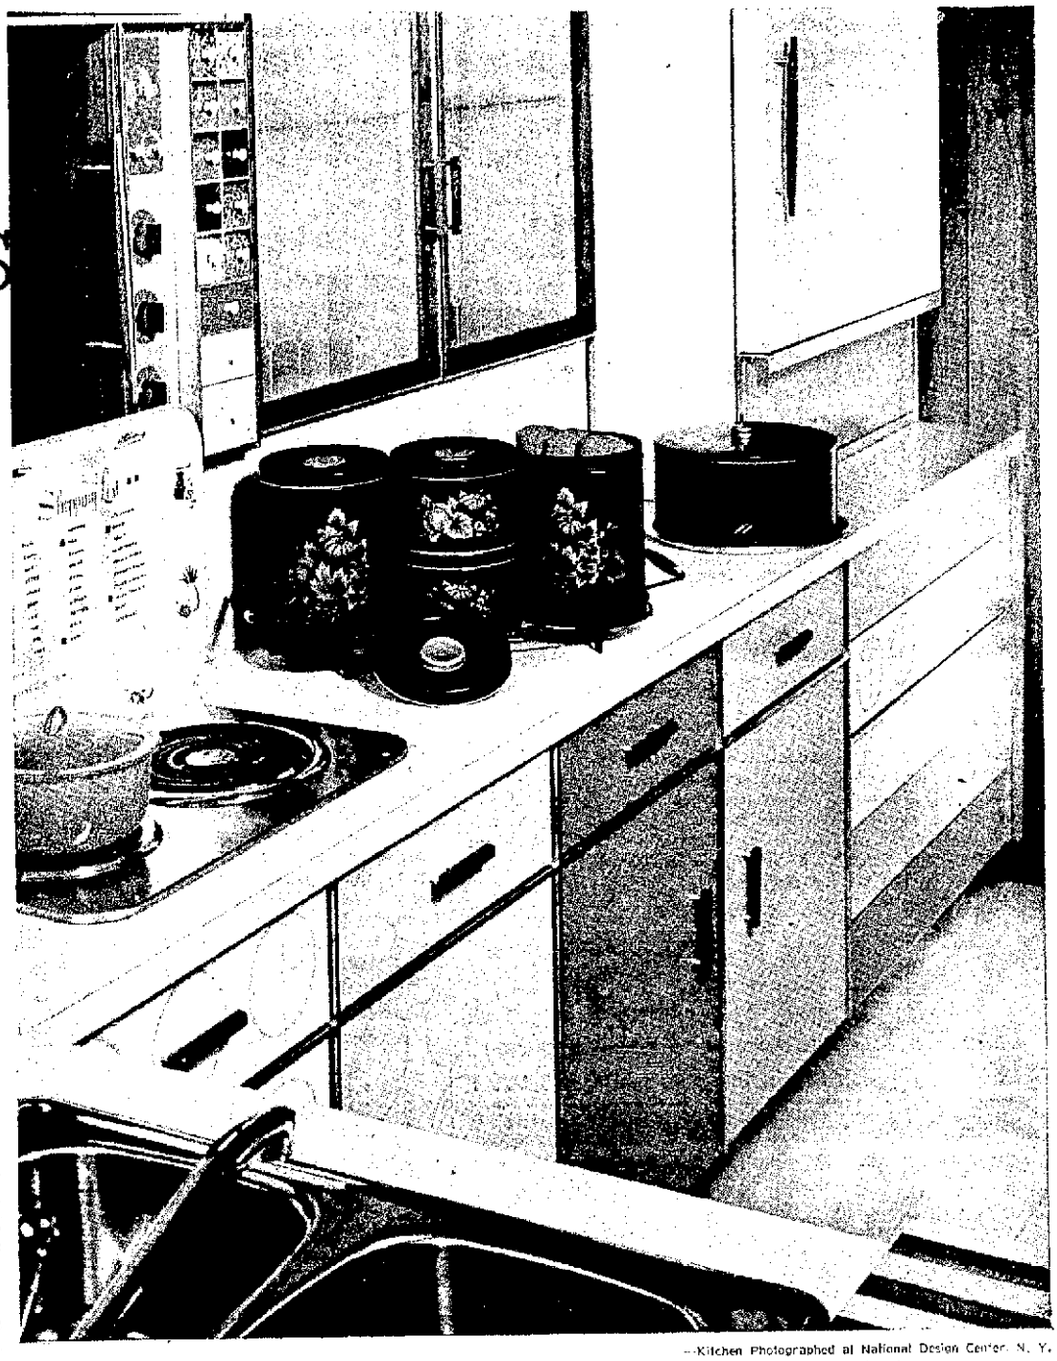

Prostaphlin rated second in the first two categories.

Kitchens Become Living Centers

Canisters of an original design are part of a complete set of kitchen accessories, cheerfully decorative as well as efficiently useful for cakes and cookies, a large serving tray and a small but handy waste basket.

Today, with our renewed interest in creative cookery and with the new open floor plan, the kitchen is again taking its place as a "living center" rather than just a domestic laboratory for the preparation of meals. Once again, women are learning that a cheerfully decorated kitchen can be the most wonderful, heart-warming room in the house.

"This doesn't mean that spending more time in the kitchen necessarily involves expensive redecorating plans. In making the kitchen more livable, it's little things—inexpensive things—that make a big difference," says Freda Diamond, internationally known design consultant. Miss Diamond puts theory to practice in her role as design director for the Decoware line of Continental Can Co. This vibrant, dynamic woman creates the "little things" within the economic reach of millions of homemakers that enliven the rooms in which they live.

Miss Diamond feels that beautiful metal kitchen accessories, for instance, involve little cost and make the difference between a cold, sterile-looking room and a room that has a warm, decorative look. The canisters in the photograph, for instance, are in the Hitchcock pattern, the same fruit-and-leaves design to be found on classic Hitchcock chairs. The set features four canisters in a metal caddy, matching "sta-fresh" for cakes and cookies, large serving tray, and a waste basket. Just these inexpensive accessories, spotted throughout the kitchen, add a perky, cheerful note that can give the whole room character.

"One of the ways to make your kitchen more livable is to give it your own distinctive ideas. The Hitchcock accessories, for instance, would obviously look handsome in a kitchen decorated in colonial style—but why not use them, too, for a contemporary kitchen?" More and more decorators, says Miss Diamond, are learning to mix periods harmoniously for unusual attractive effects.

Other kitchen decorating tips:

Use your pretty accessories imaginatively. The canisters that generally hold coffee, tea, flour and sugar can be used for a number of purposes. They can hold cookies, potato chips, pretzels, candies, cereal, dried beans, or a variety of other foods. Or they can serve as attractive containers for hardware, sewing accessories, and so on.

If you have a handsome tray, use it as a "message center." Buy small magnetic weights at a hardware or dime store, use them to attach memos and messages to the tray. It is far more attractive than a bulletin board, serves as a novel conversation piece when guests are shown the kitchen.

If your kitchen is large enough, try adding one or two pieces of upholstered furniture from one of the other rooms. An easy chair in the kitchen is a new idea, extends a silent invitation to members of the family to read or keep you company while you work.

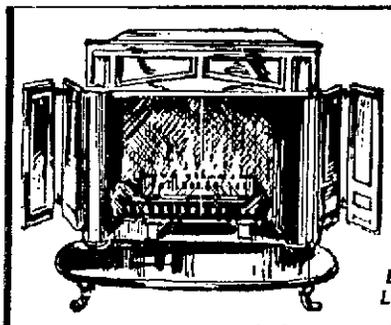

If your home has a second TV set, radio, or hi-fi speaker, try having it in the kitchen.

If you have children of school age, install a special "homework corner" in the kitchen. If the youngsters use the table you work on or eat on as a homework area, they will be disturbed from time to time. But if you set up a special corner, their books and working materials can remain permanently undisturbed.

Help your kitchen to achieve a dramatic, unified color scheme by hanging art work on the walls.

More and more families are enjoying the idea of eating their meals in the kitchen, using the dining room area as a special den or family playroom. They enjoy the worth and coziness of eating in the kitchen—and it saves mom many a step. Properly decorated, the dining area in the kitchen can be so attractive you could use it to serve informal company dinners.

A kitchen is a fine place to display anything you collect. If your hobby is antique banks or tiles, for instance, a display unit will be as much at home in the kitchen as in the living room.

Shortcake: Year Around Treat

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

STRAWBERRY shortcake is now a year-around treat, what with frozen berries always available, but this queen of American desserts always tastes best in early summer when the local luscious, plump and sweet berries flood the market.

Enjoy the luscious berries with wheat germ-nutrified shortcake biscuits—the old-fashioned kind made with flaky dough. Fashion it into fat biscuits to be split, lavishly buttered and filled and topped with the tart-juicy fruit. Cap them wtih whipped cream, of course.

Wheat germ added to the dough (which in this instance can be made from your favorite packaged biscuit mix) adds a pleasing nut-like flavor and crunchiness to the biscuits, beside bolstering them with lots of essential nutrients. Sprinkle wheat germ flakes on the whipped cream, too. This can be optional with those around the festive board if a bowl of wheat germ is placed on the table.

Nut-like flavor, nutrition and crunchy quality are added to these shortcakes by including a half cup wheat germ.

Wheat Germ-Strawberry Shortcake

- 2 cups biscuit mix
- ½ cup wheat germ
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 egg
- ½ cup milk (about)
- 2 tblsp. butter or margarine
- 1 quart strawberries, sliced and sweetened to taste

Combine biscuit mix, wheat germ and sugar. Beat egg; add milk; stir into dry ingredients. If necessary, add more milk to make a soft dough. Roll out ½-inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut with 3-inch round cutter. Place on ungreased baking sheet; dot with butter. Bake at 450° for about 15 minutes or until golden brown. Split biscuits; spread cut surfaces with additional butter or margarine; put together with strawberries between and on top. Garnish with whipped cream. Pass wheat germ flakes to sprinkle ad lib on whipped cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Recipe of the Week

SOMETHING for a sweet tooth—candy, that is—wins this week's best recipe prize of $5 for Mrs. Mary Kling, 100 Atlantic Ave., Apt. 701, Long Beach 2. The recipe:

Opera Creams

- ¾ cup cream or half and half
- 2 cups white sugar (granulated)
- ⅓ square butter (no substitute)
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- 1 tsp. vanilla

Combine cream, sugar and butter and cook slowly. Do not stir when it boils until it forms a soft ball in water. Take from stove without stirring and let it cool. Then beat until it starts to firm and then add the ½ cup of chopped walnuts, and 1 teaspoon of vanilla. Mold for cutting when desired.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address, to: Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Fragrant Trio for a Gift Idea

Round deodorant cakes encased in white, plastic doilies with ribbon ties and hangers form neat gifts.

By Lorena Fleissig

ROUND CAKES of deodorant that contain anti-moth ingredients are wrapped in sparkling cellophane. The pink, orchid and green of the cellophane contrasts interestingly with the opaque white plastic doilies which may be applied to cover both sides of the cake.

It is best to measure the deodorant to be sure the doily will extend barely enough to accommodate a narrow ribbon. The ribbon, same color as the cellophane, may be satin, ribbozene or cellophane. It is woven over and under through the matching doilies with very pretty effect. Each sachet is finished with a bow and a loop for hanging in the clothes closet or bathroom.

In order to release the scent, the cakes must be pin pricked through the cellophane when they are in use.

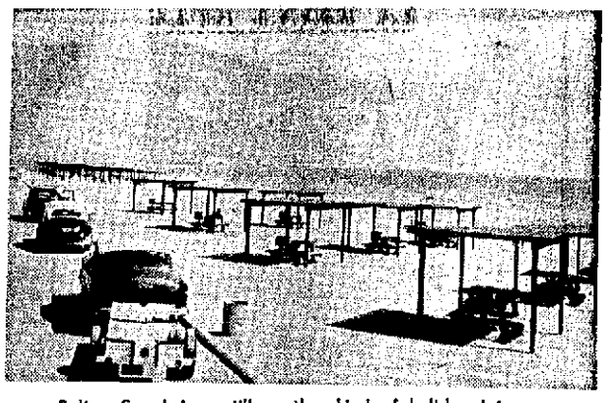

Given singly or in a set, the deodorant makes an inexpensive and useful prize.

Lawn Remedies

Sloping lawns often go thirsty in spite of frequent watering. The reason, of course, is that the water runs off before it has a chance to sink in to any degree. The California Association of Nurserymen suggests several remedies for this situation.

First and best is a canvas soaker which can be put at the top of the slope and left to dispense water so slowly that it sinks in before it runs off.

Second, mist sprinklers are helpful for much the same reason. Lacking either of these, try watering in spurts —soaking, then holding off for an hour, then soaking again, and so on until the water works itself in.

Salton Sea brings still another kind of holiday into being, offering water sports in a desert atmosphere.

Season of the Campers

beaches a cure for the spiritual disease of elbow-to-elbow urban existence. A week by the camp fire, a week of hiking and swimming, and they go home ready for what city life can throw at them and prepared to endure it—until the next camping season.

Here are some of the state parks, both mountain and beach, within easy driving distance of this area. The list is offered with a word of caution. Sometimes a period of waiting is involved before a camp site is available. To find out when crowding is most likely to occur, write the Division of Beaches and Parks in Sacramento or the park in question.

Carpinteria Beach State Park. A relatively small but well-equipped ocean beach park 12 miles east of Santa Barbara on U.S. 101 in Santa Barbara County. Has 92 camp sites. Surfing, fishing. Rangers, lifeguards.

Doheny Beach State Park. Ocean-beach park, 115 camp sites. Swimming, fishing. Ranger, lifeguard. One mile south of Dana Point, U. S. 101-A, Orange County.

Morro Bay State Park. Ocean-beach park, 96 camp sites. Boat rentals and launching facilities. Rangers, lifeguards. Thirteen miles north San Luis Obispo on State Route 1, San Luis Obispo County.

Palomar Mountain State Park. Mountain recreation. Hiking, trails, corrals for horseback riding, camp fire programs, fishing. Scenic with lush foliage and Sierra-like atmosphere. Thirty-five miles northeast of Escondido, off State Highway 76, San Diego County.

San Clemente State Park. Ocean-beach, 48 camp sites, swimming, fishing. Ranger, lifeguard. Camps on high bluff overlooking expanse of splendid beach. Located at the edge of San Clemente on U.S. 101, Orange County.

Also:

Cuyamaca Rancho, a mountain park, 50 miles east of San Diego on State Route 79.

El Capitan Beach State Park, 20 miles west of Santa Barbara on U.S. 101.

Mount San Jacinto State Park in Idyllwild, 54 miles east of Riverside.

Pismo Beach State Park, three miles south of Pismo Beach, State Route 1, San Luis Obispo County.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on PYE. —Mrs. R.S., Garden Grove.

R.S.: PYE goes back to the reign of King Henry I of England, from A.D. 1100 to 1135, making this name among the earliest surnames adopted. Before this time people were known only by their given-names. The family ancestor in the 1100s was Hugh Pye, Lord of Kilpec Castle in Herefordshire. Pye originated as a nickname taken from a shop sign identifying the place of business with a picture of a "Pye" or Magpie bird. The Pye coat-of-arms has a diagonal stripe composed of red diamonds lying across an ermine coated shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain JOINER. — I. W. J., Long Beach.

I. J.: JOINER is a derivation of the English surname Joyner. This designated a carpenter whose specific work was termed "joining," a man who dovetailed and glued the joints of fine furniture and wood paneling. An ancestor, Thomas Joiner, was married at London in 1743. The Joyner coat-of-arms from Sussex has a black eagle with outspread wings on a diagonal silver stripe across a blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the background on MADARY. — R. M., Torrance.

R. M.: MADARY is one of several variations of the German surname Madry, which had its inception in the ancient warrior hero name Matto-Heri. This title had the unusual meaning "warrior-member of an assembly." Matto-Heri evolved into Mattery, then Madry and Madary. Another source of Madary was the old French word "Madiere" for "timber worker."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on CHERRY. —H. P., Long Beach.

H. P.: CHERRY forebears were owners of a cherry orchard. The oldest spelling of this name was that used by William Chery on tax lists of King Henry VI of England in 1443. Chery was adopted from the old French word "cheryse" with the same meaning. The Cherry shield is silver, emblazoned with three red rings. The earliest abode of this lineage was in Derbyshire. Cherry is also traced to the old Anglo-French word "cheri" meaning "beloved one."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on BURN and BURNS.—A. W., Mishawaka, Ind.; M. B., Long Beach.

A. W., M. B.: BURN and BURNS originated from the English term "bourn," a name for a "small stream." Resultant surnames used by "dwellers on a small stream" were Bourne, Burn, Bournes and Burns. Burns was made famous by the 18th century Scotch poet Robert Burns. The Burns shield from Scotland has three black stars and a black hunting horn on a gold shield. The Burn shield from Perthshire is similar to Burns, with a black crescent between two black stars at the top of the shield and a black hunting horn at the bottom, with these emblems on a gold background. The clan motto "Tendit ad astra fides" translates from Latin as "Faith extends to heaven." Burns can also be Irish, originating in Kildare, where the clan O'Broin, whose name means "sons of the raven," modernized that name to Burns.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on MONTEVERDE. —D. M., Lakewood.

D. M.: MONTEVERDE may be either Italian or Spanish. Proud ancestors in Italy adopted this descriptive name from their home, located on "Monte verde," or "Green mountain." In medieval Spain the meaning was different, since "monte" referred to "forest." This resulted in the definition, "from the green-forested place." No shield is accessible for Monteverde.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly publish the origin of SENTMAN. — H. S., Norwalk.

H. S.: SENTMAN originated in medieval Germany as the phrase "Sande-Mann," meaning "follower or adherent of the True-one." No other data is accessible on Sentman.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze SKILES.—R.E., Long Beach.

R.E.: SKILES is an American phonetic formation of the German surname Schiles. This name was a dialectical alteration of Schild. Both Schiles and Skiles have the same meaning as Schild, that is, "son of the shield-bearer."

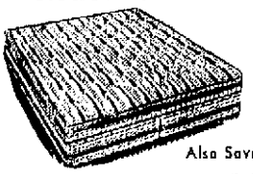

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like to hear about SCHLAGER.—P.S., Long Beach.

P.S.: SCHLAGER has two divergent meanings. Schlager was primarily a term that individualized "expert swordsman." The secondary meaning, from "Schlag-er," eulogized "owner of land cleared from the forest." No shield is available to Schlager.

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you give genealogy on McGREGOR and GREGORY.—L.G., Montebello; I.M., Long Beach.

L.G., I.M.: McGREGOR and GREGORY are famous Scotch Highland clan names that were formerly the Gaelic MacGreagair, meaning "sons of the watchful one." The first recorded clan estate, at Glenorchy in Argyllshire, was granted this family by Alexander II of Scotland in the early 1200s. The proud clan slogan "'S rioghal mo dhream," means "Royal is my race." Their plaid has narrow green and brown stripes crossing a scarlet background. The MacGregor-Gregory shield from Scotland is silver, decorated with a green oak tree below a blue sword. In England the Gregory family is recorded as early as the 1200s. Their shield is gold, emblazoned with two blue bars below a blue lion.

WHAT HAPPENS when a scientist breaks the speech barrier between man and animal? Specifically, what happens when he finds Penelope, a porpoise who can talk (with a Southern accent), and who gets into zany situations with the big brass, bikinis and a drowning astronaut? Col. William C. Anderson, Air Force pilot and author of the zany novel "PENELOPE" (Crown, $3.95), poses here with his heroine.

Intellectual of the Renaissance

By VERA WILLIAMS
Southland Magazine Book Editor

FRANCIS BACON himself would appreciate his new biography.

His strengths and his weaknesses and the strengths and weaknesses of his period are probed by Catherine Drinker Bowen in "FRANCIS BACON, the Temper of a Man" (Atlantic-Little, Brown, $6). The reader understands Bacon better than ever before, and also gains a clearer understanding of Elizabeth I, Shakespeare and the era which blended the medieval and the burgeoning revolt against dogma and tradition.

She says "Here was a Renaissance man, as many-sided as da Vinci." She presents him as an intellectual with a mind as sharp as a scientist's, with the insight of a poet. "It was Bacon's forte to ask questions; the largeness of his anticipation was his genius."

And she presents him as a statesman, who for years made little headway with Queen Elizabeth, then rose to lord chancellor under James I, was tumbled into oblivion by his political enemies, and spent his last five years in brilliant writing.

It's a dramatic portrayal of a dramatic character by a searching and efficient writer.

Every passenger had a special reason for escaping to an unknown land and Peter Bourne tells their stories, keyed to the England of James I, in "SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE" (Putnam, $4.50).

Capt. John Smith moved calmly through the emotional and quarrelsome atmosphere on the anchored ship, but most fascinating are the tales of a young artist who painted a masked, nude woman; an aristocrat who killed a king's musketeer, a soldier who spoke of the slaughter of Turkish women; and a gentleman farmer who got involved in the Guy Fawkes plot to blow up Parliament and assassinate the king.

Bourne's technique is masterful although his material is not outstanding.

GRAHAM GREENE interweaves fantasy and the conviction that one man's reality is another man's unreality in "A SENSE OF REALITY" (Viking, $3.50). There are four short stories—more exactly, "pieces" instead of stories — in the book. The most compelling is "Under the Garden" about an incurably ill man who returns to the scene of his childhood, finds an adventure story he began as a boy, and finishes it in the light of his adult experience. Another is "Dream of a Strange Land," an ironic account of a retired medical professor and a doomed patient on an eerie night when the professor's country home is taken over by the military.

ZACHARY TAYLOR spent 40 years in military service —first in the War of 1812 and then the Black Hawk and Florida Wars, and finally in the Mexican war in which his distinguished service led him to the presidency.

"ZACH TAYLOR'S LITTLE ARMY" (Doubleday, $4.95) is the first book that begins and ends with the full story of Taylor's campaigns in the 1848-48 conflict with Mexico, and in it author Edward J. Nichols shows why the general's military reputation came off well and won strong support from such army leaders as Grant, French and Reynolds.

The Mexican War often is referred to as the "small war" and Taylor's forces as the "little army." While it is true that he always faced the enemy with inferior numbers, he nevertheless won four major battles in that war, and drove the Mexicans back nearly 500 miles in a year—the first invasion of American troops on foreign soil. Taylor was plagued by jealous politicians, but his able subordinates demonstrated the worth of West Point, an academy in dire jeopardy at the time.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO, who has made the study of espionage a journalistic specialty, has a real shocker in "THE GREATEST PLOT IN HISTORY," the theft of America's nuclear secrets by the Soviet Union (Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $4.95). He shows how Soviet agents, American Communists and their dupes penetrated every phase of the American-British-Canadian atomic bomb project. He shows how close the United States came to catastrophe as a result of opposition to continuation of the nuclear weapons programs—and he discloses that just before the Berlin blockade, America's A-bomb stockpile had so deteriorated that experts considered it worthless.

PENELOPE MORTIMER

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

GREECE is one of the last places in the tourist's world where you had better do what the Greeks do for a good time, or you're not likely to have a good time.

The Greeks simply won't do things your way, and when you get right down to it, that's probably just as well. We've been wishing for years there were a few places left in the world where you could not find hot dogs, strip joints and bowling alleys.

There are, for example, few good restaurants in Athens. Outside of the hotels still fewer serve non-Greek food. Greeks don't take to foreign dishes or to restaurants as we know them. Neither do they frequent bars as we know them, and most of those in Athens are dim, grim clip joints peopled by sad-eyed "hostesses."

TO A GREEK, the place to go is a taverna, a social institution whose image is so deeply rooted that the luxurious new Athens Hilton Hotel felt constrained to call its prime gourmet restaurant a taverna, lest Greeks boycott the place.

The taverna—mother of all taverns, pubs, and bars—is the purest distillation of the modern Greek's approach to life.

Having gone this far, we are faced with the prospect of defining a taverna, whereupon we will proceed to make fools of ourselves by saying it is a bar, restaurant, social club, night club, day club and whatever else we said it isn't. It may be indoors in winter, outdoors in summer, or both. It may be small or large, have an elaborate menu or none. But what it always is, is a place Greeks go to listen to music, put their feet on the chairs, rage with or needle the waiters and each other, drink ouzo or retsina or beer, eat slowly and heartily, feed the cats (the best food is where the most cats congregate), and dance with each other, with a chair, or alone as the spirit moves them.

AMONG THE beverages, beer is beer. Ouzo is an anise-flavored liqueur similar to the French Pernod. Retsina is an awful-tasting white wine which requires more than an acquired taste: the Greeks say it is an inherited taste.

All tavernas are simply furnished with wooden chairs and tables with oilcloth covers (better places have linen), and rows of wine barrels line the walls.

IF YOU have a week's vacation coming up soon, and are still undecided about where to go, why not consider the Flagstaff-Prescott area of Arizona?

Not only are these cities located in the heart of some of the most beautiful country in western America, they have a bearable midsummer climate (over a mile high), and their calendars are loaded with interesting events. And each is blessed with fine motels and hotels.

Ever since one Fourth of July when pioneers first hoisted a big pine for a flagpole that gave the town its name, Flagstaff — with its scenic setting at the foot of the San Francisco Peaks and its array of attractions from unforgettable Oak Creek Canyon to Meteor Crater — has lured travelers who usually stay longer than they had expected.

IN THE GENERAL area, too, is Montezuma Castle, an imposing monument left by cliff dwellers, about 50 miles from Prescott; the Grand Canyon, 91 miles from Flagstaff; and the new Navajo Bridge, which may be reached through 112 miles of beautiful country north on Hwy. 89 out of Flagstaff.

First of several notable events planned at Flagstaff is the All-Indian Pow Wow being staged this weekend. Also scheduled is the city's 15th annual Square Dance Festival Aug. 2-4, and the big Coconino County Fair, Aug. 23-25.

One spot not to be overlooked near Flagstaff is the Museum of Northern Arizona, always an absorbing showplace. From July 21-28 it will hold its annual Navajo Craftsmen Exhibit with outstanding examples of work by that tribe, and Aug. 15-Sept. 15 it will show the priceless Fred Harvey Collection of Indian Arts and Crafts.

Lowell Observatory, also near Flagstaff, will hold its evening programs July 12-26 and Aug. 9-23.

PRESCOTT holds its world-famous Smoki Ceremonials on Aug. 10, an event staged by white people so expertly costumed that they look like real Indians.

In the area you can take leisurely drives through pine forests to pan gold, explore ghost camps, visit ranch lands and Indian domains, old battlefields and army posts. There are always fine spots to spread a picnic lunch. And if you like the outdoors, you will enjoy every minute of these drives.

This attractive map shows the important scenic attractions, calendar of events, summary of motor vehicle regulations in Arizona, mileage charts, and even pinpoints new highway developments. It's free. Just write to the Arizona Highway Department, Phoenix, Ariz.

PACIFIC Southwest Airlines, with the addition of a sixth Super Electra to its fleet, has increased its weekly flight schedule serving the Long Beach-Los Angeles area by 32 new flights a week.

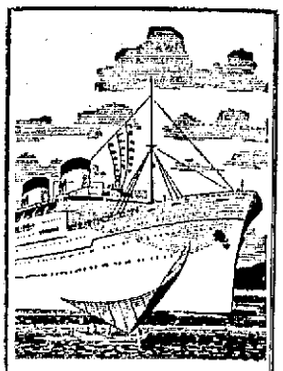

The new weekly schedule includes 16 flights departing Los Angeles for San Francisco and San Diego, and 16 new arrivals. The schedule includes operations at both Los Angeles International and Burbank airports.

VISITORS to Hilo on Hawaii's "Big Island" Aug. 2-3 will see 1,000 paddlers from a dozen or more canoe-racing clubs compete for the Hawaii State Championships. This is one of the big water sports events of the year in the 50th state and will take place on Hilo Bay.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"We enter Europe through Paris next month, go to Geneva and then to Rome. We are thinking of going back through Spain. Any advice, etc."

WEATHER'S the problem. Europe's worst month, I think, is August. Best are June and September. Every Frenchman has decided August is the ONLY month to vacation. Likewise the entire Swiss watchmaking industry, British, Germans and American tourists.

It's the hottest month. The Europeans have long since reserved the beach hotels. That leaves you Rome, Paris, Madrid all right. But a lot of the restaurants are closed.

Even so, a lot of Americans are here in August. And if you can handle hot but dry (90 degrees) weather, Spain is a rewarding country. Filled with rich history: Spain was a suburb of Rome—three Roman Emperors were born here. The Moors held it for 800 brilliant years when the rest of Europe was in the Dark Ages.

All this has given flavor to the food, the speech. Christian churches of Oriental splendor are built on walls of Moorish mosques, in turn built on Roman temples to Roman gods.

ANOTHER REWARD: Prices are very low. You should get excellent hotel rooms at $8 for two. Dinners for two in garden restaurants —$5 with wines and brandy. Madrid is one of the most splendid cities — tree-shaded boulevards and fine stone buildings. Sparkling fountains, narrow cobblestoned streets in the old quarter and pleasant, shady plazas.

Shopping is particularly good in leather goods, mantillas from Seville, tile and pottery from Talaveras, Damascene work from Toledo, ranging from brilliantly inlaid swords to earrings. Tailoring is very cheap. There are some great women designers here. Balenciaga is a Spaniard and has a salon here.

It saves you some heat to know that Madrid, in summer, operates from 9 in the morning until about 2 in the afternoon. Stores reopen about 5 to 8. And most people don't get out until nightfall.

Dinner is about 11. Nightclubs don't open until midnight. If the heat gets you, run for one of the mountain resorts not too far away. The Costa Brava — (the Mediterranean coast from Barcelona to France) — is cooler. However, it is usually loaded with advance reserved British and Scandinavians.

TAXIS are inexpensive. (Tipping is 10 percent to taxis.) Hotels and restaurants add 15 percent service charge. You are expected to add five percent. Cigarettes in American brands are sometimes sold in a relaxed sort of black market or legally in tobacco stores. In either case, they seem to cost 35 cents—probably the lowest price in all Europe.

Gasoline runs about 90 cents a gallon — Rent car services—(?7 a day and about 9 cents a mile) — make you pay for your own gas.

Water is good in Madrid. In outlying towns, I drink bottled water — Solares is a tasty brand. Medical facilities are good. The British-American Hospital in Madrid has 24-hour service. Nearly everything is cooked in quantities of olive oil here. But you can ask for it broiled without oil. For anyone on a salt-free diet, it's bad. Whoever sells Spain salt, can surely sell salt.

Traffic is brisk. The pedestrian has no right-of-way unless the lights are with you. Traffic police are very efficient. Keep an eye on their signals.

AMONG good restaurants: Bodegon and the new Las Lancas — both expensive by Spanish standards. Which means dinner for four with cocktails, wines and brandies and tips will be $25. The old quarter in the Plaza Mayor: Eat outside at El Pulpito or Meson de la Corregidora and feel like a Spanish grandee. Also in this area: Botin, Hogar Gallego and Las Cuevas de Luis Candelas. All good.

En route home you are entitled to use your ticket for a stopover in Lisbon. Do it. Another great town with low prices. And your ticket probably takes you home via the Caribbean for very few dollars more. Ask the airline. Buen viaje.

The Man With the Laughs

By Betty Hardesty

THE SITUATION was grim but the young actor joked, "I knew that life had its ups and downs but I never quite expected this," as he pumped the handle of a railroad handcar to drive steel wheels along the tracks. Through a bleak Western Canadian countryside, the rails stretched between banks of windwhipped snow and Keith Houdyshell was cold in spite of his labor.

He spoke to four companion Chautauquans huddled on the tiny vehicle, the only means of reaching their next scheduled theatrical performance. Keith wished the weather had permitted sleds or trucks but he felt better thinking of the warm welcome ahead and anticipating the applause, the tears and especially the laughter of the night's audience.

He had forgotten the name of the last town already, but he'd always remember the biggest building there, a pool hall. For a stage, two covered pool tables were set end to end while blankets were rigged for curtains. Tonight he'd lead the singing of "God Save the King" and stay after the show to dance with the townsfolk and others gathered from miles around to see the Chautauqua.

YEARS LATER, Keith found that handcar trip quite laughable and so did everyone in Long Beach who heard his speech, "Behind the Footlights." After graduating from Kansas State College, he was lured away from his first year of teaching into the Kansas City Orpheum Theater where he appeared with Guy Kibbee. Hopeful of making acting his life career, Keith traveled with stock companies before he "hopped onto the Chautauqua train for five years before it ground to a halt."

After coming to Long Beach in 1938, he was working for a linoleum firm when Harvey Freeman asked him to fill in for a canceled program at the Long Beach Executives Association. Keith consented and spoke casually, giving Chautauquas and his life a comical twist. Recalling his first speech, he said earnestly, "It wasn't supposed to be funny. I planned a talk for Freshman English on 'When the Cyclone Hit Great Bend' and was amazed to find everyone laughing, even the teacher. I don't know why they were amused, I still don't," he insists, "but I do know that I love to make people laugh.

"The way my first speech turned out here in Long Beach, was that I either had to quit giving it or stop work and starve." It is not always what he says but the way he says it that makes Houdyshell popular as a speaker. Last February, he gave his speech, "A Day at Gettysburg," to 24 clubs.

CONSIDERED expert at ad-libing, he modestly confesses that "the best ad-lib is carefully rehearsed."

"There is satisfaction in getting close to people," he says. "After playing three acts at Community Playhouse, I find myself relaxed, rested and refreshed through the appreciation expressed by the audiences."

Houdyshell has starred in a dozen comedies before Long Beach audiences beginning with "Arsenic and Old Lace" in which he played the "nut who thought he was Teddy Roosevelt."

Houdyshell has also played Santa Claus for the Downtown Lions Club party for kids at Christmas, acquiring the role because, he says, belt-wise "the suit now fits." His wife, Maezella, and two teen-age sons take pride in his community efforts as president of Lions and Executives and in the March of Dimes, Heart Fund and Red Cross drives. His flair for comedy has served him well in all, especially the fund drives where he finds those he meets give more easiily with a laugh.

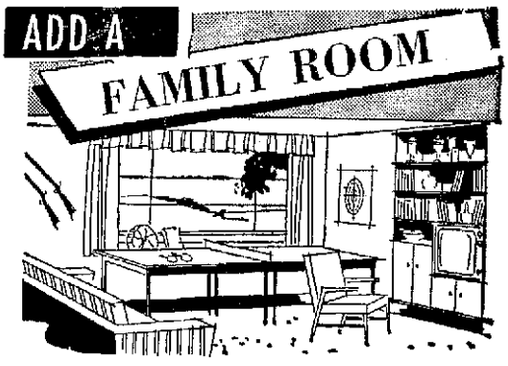

Keith Houdyshell: A flair for comedy and a Chatauqua background make life fun. Here he is in the role of an absent-minded professor.

Heavy Feeders

Chrysanthemums are gross feeders and like a good helping of liquid fish fertilizer every three weeks or so right up to the time their buds begin to show color. Stop feeding at this time—usually in late summer — because an overdose of food at bloom time tends to diminish the brilliance of the bloom, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

Jeepers! Creepers!

Common green Iguana is an easy lizard to keep. He will eat mealworms, lettuce and bananas. He enjoys climbing.

By Eleanor Avery Price

IT USUALLY happens sooner or later. An adventurous boy (and girls are not immune) will try to add lizards and perhaps even snakes to the family circle. Fortunate is the child who has a parent, uncle or an older friend who will encourage the child's pursuit of reptile study.

Not too many years ago, Daryl Keener was just such an adventurous lad. Probably his mother's first abrupt introduction to a reptile was when one slithered out of a pocket when she dropped his pants into the wash. But Daryl continued in his love for nature and now, as owner of Kings Pet Shop, he goes frequently to South America to "bring 'em back alive." A few years ago he drove a large van truck 7,000 miles into Guatemala, British Honduras, and the Yucatan Peninsula. Now he flies his plane because, in order to return animals from the above countries, the importer at present is required to use plane or ship. This is due partly because Mexico forbids removal of any living creature except by government permission for zoos, hence no animals can cross the border by land.

ALTHOUGH you should not go hunting for poisonous reptiles, you should be alert for them on excursions. Wear high boots or high shoes with stiff leather puttees. Wear heavy leather gloves when climbing and reaching among rocks, wood, shrubs, etc., and keep your face guarded.

If you really prepare to collect harmless specimens, carry a metal poker or an L stick such as a golf putter. A forked stick can be used, although the Y seldom is the right size to pin down a reptile. Also, have along some double-stitched, cloth drawstring bags, or some sort of cage. In an emergency, use your sock as a bag to carry home a captive, or a pillow case. Tie the top with string or wire. Keep such containers in the shade or your captives may die.

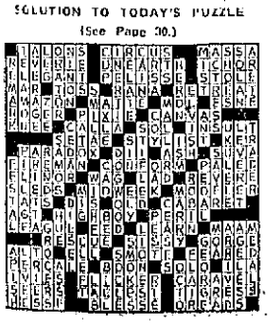

Some reptiles lay eggs in early summer. Should you find little eggs in damp parts of rotted logs, tree bark, lumber piles, etc., put them into a sock or fold a handkerchief around them with a few handfuls of the material in which the eggs were deposited. Keep them out of the sun and, as soon as possible, get the eggs into a warmly located terrarium, flower pot, or wide-mouthed glass jar. Nest them in a depression of the damp material you brought home and cover with a piece of bark or a thin inch of sand. Put glass over the container, but push it aside now and then if the container "sweats." If hatching material dries out, sprinkle it with enough water to keep it as moist as it was originally.

When the eggs hatch, try to identify the creatures. Most poisonous reptiles are live bearers, so the hatched creatures are probably harmless. If possible, return most of them to the place where you found the eggs and keep only two or three healthy specimens so you can house and care for them properly.

Pleasing results of abstract study by plan on black-edged white board using elastic threads shown here.

By Ursula M. S. Dadras

ONE OF the most successful projects ever offered in the Sketchbook series was the "Modern Art" plan last year.

Now you can try "Modern Art—2," an entirely different and more interesting pattern of geometric abstract shapes based on the same methods and materials as its outstanding forerunner.

The size is a 30" by 40" rectangle. The shadow box edge is painted jet black, the background dead white. The eye-catching parabola patterns are formed by winding cotton - covered elastic threads, red and black, systematically back and forth on evenly spaced brads.

Modern Art-2 Plan is detailed, leaves nothing to chance. To order, specify S-115 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Doll House for Happy Child

AN ENCHANTED little girl, completely absorbed in a miniature world, is a rich reward for the time spent in building a beautiful doll house.

The house, pictured here has a handsome Swiss chalet styling. It is particularly appealing to youngsters because each of the four hinged roof panels lift up and out of the way.

TO ORDER, specify Doll House Plan No. 310 (which lists required materials—principally plywood, and gives detailed instructions) and send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

Twins have a ball with this intriguing doll house. They are Karen and Christie Paul, cuties from NBC.

CAMERA ANGLES

Night Time's Picture Time, Too

By Irving Desfor

NIGHT PHOTOGRAPHY is a challenge for camera fans looking for something different to shoot. The results are usually dramatic or offbeat and make fine conversation pieces in a slide show, on display or in any discussion of unusual pictures.

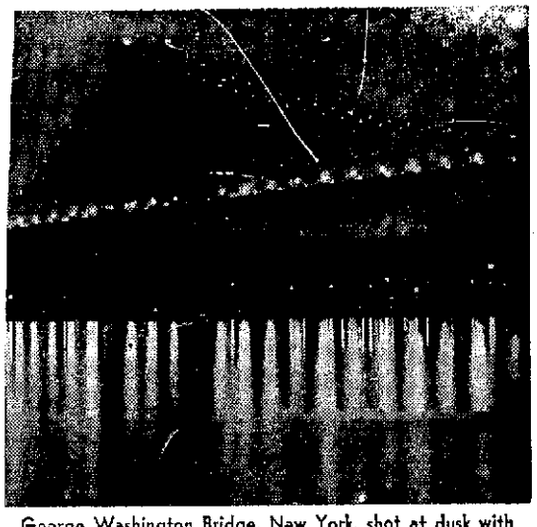

Actually, night shots are not difficult to make. They just take more time, effort and the gumption to tackle such an assignment. It's one type of shooting where a variety of exposures may lead to a variety of effective pictures, especially in color.

Since we're dealing with longer or time exposures, a sturdy tripod is essential. Don't assume that all tripods are sturdy. Check yours by extending the legs all the way and setting the camera on it. If it sways or wobbles when you touch it, it may not withstand some stiff breezes now and then out in the open. Try putting a wedge between the tripod legs for firmness.

A CABLE release is an aid in shooting time exposures. It minimizes the danger of jarring the camera in shooting. One with a locking device is best, especially for those cameras with a "B" (for bulb) setting only.

Do you know exactly how the "B" and "T" (for time exposure) settings work? Open the camera back, before you load up with film, and check the way the shutter works. Check the various slow speeds also. After such tests, you'll know what you're doing outdoors at night on these settings.

A small flashlight or a penlight is a handy gadget so that you can see the camera markings at night. An exposure meter is a valuable accessory for any type of photography and one that is sensitive to a low level of illumination is better suited for night shots. Its reading is used as a basic exposure. When time permits, other exposures are made of the same scene: one at half the recommended exposure; another at double the exposure.

George Washington Bridge, New York, shot at dusk with Zeiss Super-Ikonta B camera and slow pan film. Timing was four minutes at f22, creating an effective photo.

BY USING the fastest films available in color as well as black - and - white, time exposures are kept to a minimum. Whenever sunsets or twilight pictures are to be taken, use daylight type color films. If all the pictures are to be taken after dark, use the type for artificial or tungsten light. But if and when the opportunity arises to take night pictures, use whatever film you have in the camera or on hand. That's better than waiting to get "the right kind of film."

Here's a favorite photographic trick to get clouds or a lighter sky in a night shot or some detail in the outline of a city skyline, a bridge or a monument. Anchor the camera firmly on a tripod and make a partial exposure of the scene at twilight. After shooting from one-third to one-half the indicated exposure, cover the lens and, without moving the camera or changing film, wait till darkness and the lights come on. Then make a second exposure for the lights.

ANOTHER double exposure trick adds the moon to a night scene. The scene is shot first with allowance for placing the moon where it would be most effective or realistic. Then, on the same film, the camera is pointed up at the night sky for the moon itself. By changing to a longer telephoto lens for the second exposure, the moon will be larger and more dramatic.

The reflections of colored lights on a rain-soaked pavement are very effective so add that to the things-to-shoot list. It'll be a lot easier to wait till the rain stops and safer for the equipment too.

Water Citrus

Young citrus trees benefit more from adequate water than from any other single factor. There is a right and wrong way to water them, however, and gardeners should follow the advice of the California Association of Nurserymen. Make a basin for irrigation around the trees, but leave a ridge of soil right around the trunk and out a few inches from it. This will prevent over saturation at the crown, a condition which can cause trouble if allowed.

Occasional feeding with a high nitrogen fertilizer will also push young citrus trees to their maximum performance.

Here Are Snapshot Contest Rules

First-week winners in the Independent, Press - Telegram and The News Newspaper National Snapshot Contest, for which entries have been pouring in for two weeks, will appear in next Sunday's Southland Magazine.

If you haven't entered, do so this week. Here are the rules:

1—Contest is strictly for amateur photographers. Anyone is eligible excepting employes of this newspaper, or employes of any newspaper participating in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, employes of the sponsors and their families, and individuals who, personally, or any member of whose families are engaged in the manufacture, sale, commercial finishing, or professional use of photographic goods.

2—Pictures that have been made after July 1, 1962, are eligible. Black-and-white and color PRINTS accepted only.

3—Black-and-white snapshots may be made from any brand of negative type black-and-white film, but not from color transparencies. Color prints may be made from any brand of color film. Any make of camera may be used. No prints, enlargement or transparency more than 10 inches in the longer dimensions will be accepted. No art work or retouching is permitted on prints or on the negatives from which they are made or on transparencies. No composite pictures, such as multiple printing or montages are eligible. Pictures should not be mounted or framed.

4—To enter the contest, mail no more than four prints each week as you desire, within the contest dates, to this newspaper's "Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor." On the back of each picture, print your name and address clearly in ink.

5—No black-and-white or color prints will be returned. Do not submit negative with your prints. Keep negatives of color or black-and-white prints until requested by the Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. (Only original negatives and transparencies accepted.) This newspaper and the sponsors of the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards assume no responsibility for negatives, prints or transparencies.

6—At the close of the contest, this newspaper will submit eight pictures (one in each class) chosen by its judges as the best entered in its contest, in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, where they will complete with entries from other participating newspapers for cash prizes totaling a minimum of $31,000.

7—All pictures shall be judged in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards on general interest and/or appeal. Photographic quality, although important, may not necessarily be the deciding factor. The decision of the judges shall be accepted as final.

8—It is not permissible to enter pictures in the contest of more than one newspaper participating in the Twenty-fifth Annual (1963) Newspaper National Snapshot Awards.

9—Before receiving the newspaper's final prizes in one or more of the eight classifications, the entrant must submit the original negative with print and sign a statement that his picture, or any closely similar picture of the same subject or situation, has not been and will not be entered by him in any snapshot contest, exhibit, or salon where prizes are awarded, other than the one conducted by this newspaper; and has not been and will not be offered for publication in any manner.

Plants That Yield a Quick Show of Color

By Joe Littlefield

WHEN quick color is needed in the garden, plant zinnias, asters, petunias and annual phlox. Give them a sunny bed and they'll soon be rewarding you with bright floral beauty.

Agave attenuata also is another somewhat rapid grower that is of the specimen type, rising to 10 feet tall and yielding a showy spike of green and white flowers when it blooms. Plant it in a large outdoor container or among cacti-succulents.

Be sure to keep two things in mind when planting for speed. The tall growers are zinnias and African marigolds, next are asters, Petunias and annual phlox are low.

PLANT THE same kinds of plants, such as zinnias, together, then set a group of African marigolds beside them. Plant an irregular mass of asters in front of the zinnias and marigolds. A row of petunias in front of the asters completes the flower bed.

Zinnias in mixed colors provide a Joseph's coat of many bright flowers, the yellow and orange color of African marigolds yields vivid color masses. Asters with subdued tones and colors add a touch of dignity; petunias provide some colors the other plants lack. Altogether, you'll have a section of your garden come alive with color in such plantings.

Your shade garden, too, can be colorful during the summer. Fuchsias provide lots of blooms, if plants are watered deeply but not kept continually wet. During hot days, plants need early morning quick shower baths to lower heat temperatures and provide humidity.

BEGONIAS, impatiens, and showy leafed coleus provide more needed color and flowers during the summer in the shade garden.

While shade gardening, don't forget to shower-bathe camellias and azaleas, too. Feed camellias and azaleas throughout the summer season.

Fast Grower

California redwood trees (Sequoia sempervirens) grow about four feet in height per year in gardens; one redwood grew 50 feet high in eight years.

Dorothy Digs

Many people become discouraged in trying to grow vegetables in their yard for home use because of the constant battle with insects, so here is a suggestion.

Disinfect the soil before or right after planting with a copper-ether material. This will eliminate all insects and fungus spores in the soil and greatly minimize your pest control problem later on. Your plants will get off to a good start and with the proper care will remain vigorous. A fast-growing healthy plant will help you in staving off pests.

To control the insects that will appear in spite of everything, be very careful in your choice of an insecticide. Take time to read the labels and avoid buying anything that will poison or effect the taste of the food. There are vegetable sprays and dusts on the market that control both sucking and chewing insects that are safe to use on food crops. These state frankly on the label that they are non-toxic.

GARDEN CHATS WITH GORDON

CAMELLIAS

Camellias are the aristocrats of the garden. No other flowering shrub gives so much beauty and elegance for so little care. There are many varieties to choose from in each color class of red, pink, white and variegated.

Camellias should be planted on the north or east side of the house in acid soil, so we recommend the use of Gromulch as a planter mix. It is also beneficial to spray the foliage during the hot summer months but do it early in the day.

Now that the blooming season has passed, camellias should be fed with Bandini Camellia Food. Repeat this every six week until September. Their roots are close to the surface so weeds should be pulled. Do not cultivate.

Spray for aphids as they are the only pests that would dare infest the aristocratic camellia.

We at the GARDEN SHOP NURSERY are interested in your gardening and landscape problems. Come in and see us at 5431 E. Spring St. (at Bellflower Blvd.), Long Beach —phone HA 5-1362.

Research finds new fast way to shrink hemorrhoids without surgery

Recent research reveals fast new way to shrink hemorrhoid tissues, stop pain and itching—all without surgery. It's a combination of six modern medications in one complete formula: The Pazo Formula.

NEW, RELIABLE RELIEF. Pazo is the only leading formula with these six active ingredients to shrink and soothe hemorrhoid tissues. Research shows this new combination brings symptomatic relief even to long-time pile sufferers.

CLINICALLY TESTED BY DOCTORS: Pazo actually proves to do more than just shrink hemorrhoids. It also relieves pain and itching promptly, fights infection, promotes healing, and lubricates membranes.

five days — the number of days he was aboard a ship returning to the U.S.

THE ACCOLADE accorded Corrigan was as intense as that recently accorded astronaut Gordon Cooper when he returned from his 22 laps in orbit around the earth.

He was given the traditional ticker-tape parade in New York and then was rushed to Washington where he was officially greeted.

In the meantime, the City of Long Beach appointed a committee headed by the late S. S. Conklin, newspaper executive, the bring Corrigan back to his starting point for a parade, celebration and to dedicate a plaque commemorating his flight at Long Beach Municipal Airport, starting point of his journey to legendland.

Corrigan, in a book published after his flight, said:

"I arrived in Long Beach on Saturday and as this was the first reception on the Pacific Coast it also was the best. The mayor and his daughter met me at the field and after unveiling a large bronze plaque located opposite the spot on the runway where my plane had taken off on the non-stop flight to New York, the parade started."

TODAY, 25 years after the famed wrong way flight, Corrigan is a successful Orange County orange grower.

And, in front of the administration building at Long Beach Municipal Airport stands the plaque dedicated to Douglas Corrigan who left Long Beach on July 8, 1938, and arrived in Ireland on July 18 by flying due west—

He says.

Not to Be Coaxed

Inexperienced gardeners sometimes think that, by sowing seeds of a vegetable earlier or later than the normal time, they'll get an earlier or later crop. While this is true of the vegetables unaffected by the length of the daylight (or length of the night) like tomatoes which will flower and form fruit at any time of year, providing temperatures are suitable, it is not true of others.

Soybeans, for instance, are short day (and long night) plants and will simply grow good plants, but not flower until late summer when days shorten and nights lengthen. If you want to try an experiment, plant some soy bean seeds early in spring, others a month later. You'll find that plants from both sowings will flower and fruit at the same time.

There are also long day (or short night) vegetables which, like spinach and spring lettuce, bloom as soon as the days lengthen, thus ending their usefulness for the table. Spinach blooms as soon as days are 12 hours long or longer. The plants apparently get a signal to flower then. Seed follows flower and the spinach is said to "bolt to seed."

These facts are well known to seedsmen and account for their instructions as to planting time of vegetables.

Why that extra weight may not be fat!

Pre-menstrual "water logging" can add from 2 to 7 pounds to your weight.

If every month your weight goes up, you feel stuffy and bloated, you are most likely suffering from pre-menstrual water logging. Your body takes on extra water that puts pressure on delicate tissues causing headaches and nervous irritability. That's when the new medical discovery Pamprin helps your body to adjust to your period by gently relieving it of extra water and weight. It also relieves headaches and cramps during your period. Pamprin contains no hormones, narcotics or harmful sedatives. It is a combination of medically proved ingredients that have helped thousands of women get wonderfully effective relief. AL HENDLIN

The Summit of Flavor

AL HENDLIN, owner-host of the handsome Coral Room, 4130 Paramount Blvd., Lakewood, has an excellent descriptive word for the prime rib he serves.

He calls it "pampered."

This implies the quintessence of tenderness, the pinnacle of juiceness, the summit of flavor. It also implies that the beef is of choice eastern quality, aged at the proper cool temperature and roasted by a chef with a gentle, kindly nature.

All of those implications are correct, including the fact that chef Earl Beebe is a gentle, kind man who enjoys winning accolades for the way he prepares his prime rib. High praise is also accorded Hendlin for the way he serves that exquisite beef. It is featured Sundays from 3:30 p.m. on (and also Monday nights) for only $2.35. chuck-wagon style. On their first trip to the buffet, the guests load their plates with 10 fresh salads. On their next trip they receive a 10-ounce cut of prime rib, their choice of au gratin or mashed potatoes, or rice, and bread and butter.

THE CORAL ROOM, which has banquet facilities and vast amounts of parking space, also emphasizes such superb specialties of filet mignon, $3.50; fancy disjointed southern fried chicken, $2.50; barbecued spare ribs with pineapple $2.75; and such sea food pleasures as Nantucket Bay scallops and broiled fresh halibut, both $2.50. All include chilled appetizers, huge fine salad, baked potato, bread and beverage.

Hendlin, long established in Long Beach, recently opened a second restaurant, the swank Vallejo Inn in Vallejo, Calif.

Q. Is it true that Marlon Brando has been the single largest and most secret financial contributor to the cause of Negro integration?—Lemoyne Hill, Birmingham, Ala.

A. Brando recently contributed $5,000 to a Martin Luther King rally.

Q. Has Ingemar Johansson quit boxing, or will he fight Sonny Liston in Paris?—H.T., Philadelphia, Pa.

A. Says Ingemar: "My boxing days are over. I am no longer a hungry fighter."

Q. How old are Ginger Rogers and her fifth husband, Bill Marshall? Doesn't she have him by 10 years?—V.H., Columbia, S.C.

A. Ginger is 52, Marshall 46.

Q. I read recently that President Sukarno of Indonesia has been appointed to office for the rest of his life. Can this be? Who appointed him? What kind of democracy is that?—Penelope Ward, Albany, N.Y.

A. Sukarno, 62, President of Indonesia since its independence from the Dutch in 1949, was just given the life appointment by his own hand-picked congress.

Q. What is the relationship between actress Ann-Margret and George Sidney, who directed her in Bye Bye Birdie? — Florence Lewis, Evanston, Ill.

A. Each thinks the other the greatest.

Q. Is Henry Cabot Lodge our next Ambassador to Spain?—Louis Terrell, Boston, Mass.

A. Probably to Italy.

Q. Is Randolph Scott still making films?—Ben Frank, Charlotte, N.C.

A. After 150 films in 32 years, Scott says, "I've just about had it."

Q. Has Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers taught Doris Day how to steal bases?—T.J. Rawlings, Dallas, Tex.

A. A childhood accident in which one of her legs was badly broken prevents Doris Day from learning the art of base-stealing.

Q. Is Grace Kelly expecting her third child as the rumors have it?—Knox Johnson, Scranton, Pa.

A. Not at this writing, she isn't.

Q. What actually is Averell Harriman's position in the Kennedy Administration, and does he really have anything on the ball?—T.R. Underwood, Atlanta, Ga.

A. Harriman, 71, is Undersecretary of State for Political Affairs, possesses the most impressive and experienced background in world affairs of any man in government today.

Q. Who said: "Power? It's like a Dead Sea fruit. When you achieve it, there is nothing there"?—George Annenberg, Baltimore, Md.

A. Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Q. I would like to know how evangelist Billy Graham did in Paris a few weeks ago. — Ken Pritchard, Asheville, N.C.

A. He found the going tough. Either the French working class is antagonistic to soul-salvation or Graham's "message" suffered in translation from English to French.

Q. Princess Dmitri Djordjadze, 59, once married to Douglas Fairbanks and Clark Gable, put up for auction a stunning 17-carat diamond ring. I'd like to know who gave it to her. Fairbanks or Gable? —Diane Fields, New York, N.Y.

A. Reportedly Lord Ashley, her first husband of 37 years ago.

Q. Where and how did they get the name Chevrolet for the motor car?—S. Swanson, St. Paul, Minn.

A. Louis Chevrolet, a famed racing driver in the early years of this century, was hired in Detroit by W. C. Durant in 1909 to design an engine for a car. Durant later decided to call the car Chevrolet because he liked the foreign and musical ring to the name.

Q. Is Brigitte Bardot happy now that she has a new lover in Christian Marquand?—M. Rosen, Far Hills, N.J.

A. Apparently not. "Everybody thinks I have," says Brigitte, "all a girl could want. But look at what I have lost—tranquility, privacy and liberty."

PALL MALL

Smoke "traveled" through fine tobacco tastes best. Pall Mall's famous length travels the smoke naturally ... over, under, around and through the finest tobaccos money can buy. Makes it mild... but does not filter out that satisfying flavor!

WASHINGTON, D.C.

WASHINGTON'S THIRD PRECINCT INCLUDES THE WHITE HOUSE, 29 BANKS, 8 MILLION TOURISTS AS WELL AS THE SOVIET ENVOY.

World's Toughest Police Job

by FRED BLUMENTHAL

Big headache for Washington's Third Precinct, pickets demonstrate at Soviet Embassy. Policeman tells them to stay back 500 feet.

One hundred forty men of Washington's Third Precinct have America's most difficult police job. Their 200-square-block beat, in the heart of the nation's capital, contains some of the most important real estate—and most important people—in the world today. Other police have a daily diet of law enforcement and crime detection. Washington's Third specializes in one-in-a-million situations—and it tackles one after another.

What other precinct has the President of the U.S. as a resident? Or Blair House, the nation's guest house for foreign kings, queens, sultans, shahs and presidents? Or the Soviet ambassador, a unique police headache if there ever was one? Washington's Third has all this to cope with—and more.

A great many of Washington's top officials live or work in the Third—including ambassadors, judges, senators, congressmen, cabinet members, department heads. In addition, millions of tourists converge on the district each year, bringing such problems as picked pockets, lost children and traffic jams.

The men of the Third must also guard against assassination attempts—against the President or a visiting dignitary—within precinct boundaries.

Only the other day, for instance, President Kennedy left the White House and made three separate public appearances in the Third. He had, of course, his usual bodyguard of Secret Service agents, but it was officers of the Third who provided the outer perimeter of his protection.

The 1950 attempt by two Puerto Rican nationalists to assassinate President Harry Truman—in which two men died—took place in the Third. In the gun battle on the steps of Blair House, where Truman was living while the White House was being renovated, one bullet went right through the uniform coat of Third Precinct Patrolman Marion Preston.

Like any other big city precinct, the Third has its share of ordinary crime. But more often the men under Capt. Raymond Pyles move in a world of high-level diplomacy. They must be diplomats and detectives all at once.

Take the recent experience of patrolmen John Ronayne and James Croson. They halted a good-looking, well-dressed young man for driving without proper lights and took him before Desk Sgt. Ludwig Lewandowski. The conversation went like this:

Sgt. Lewandowski: "Your name, sir?"

Young man, smiling: "Peter."

Sgt. Lewandowski: "Peter what?"

Young man: "Just Peter. I am a king, and kings are known only by their given names."

Sgt. Lewandowski and officers Ronayne and Croson exchanged knowing looks that said, "We've got a nut here." Then the young man, still smiling, produced his credentials. He was a real monarch—ex-King Peter of Yugoslavia—and he apologized for not having turned on his bright lights. He explained that he always drove with parking lights at home in Manhattan.

In another recent incident, a Third squad car sped to the scene of a collision between two autos. One driver was an angry senator, the other a priest.

"No one was hurt and damage was slight," recalls one of the officers. "But both men were plenty hot under the collar. And they told widely conflicting stories. I'm no Solomon. I persuaded them to continue the argument through their insurance companies, helped them move their cars and left them shaking hands."

One of the thorniest problems for the men of the Third are the laws of diplomatic immunity. Under these laws, foreign diplomats and their families cannot be prosecuted for offenses committed in this country; all that can be done is to ask their government to recall them. Several thousand persons with diplomatic status live or work in the Third—and not all are always well-behaved. Yet a mistake in handling any of them could lead to an international incident.

Most diplomatic misdemeanors are the result of the Washington cocktail circuit, and these call for especially careful handling. The usual procedure is to ask the diplomat his address and help him home. If he cannot remember, he is escorted to the station house and his embassy is called to come for him.

Recently, when a Latin-American naval attaché, three sheets to the wind, created a disturbance in a Washington restaurant, he was taken in hand by Patrolman J. I. O'Connell. He couldn't, or wouldn't, give his address. At the station house, he was tough and abusive. "This means war!" he cried.

The desk sergeant, however, had had long experience with tipsy diplomats. He gave the attaché a chance to sober up. Later, there were "amigos" all around.

Then there was the night Patrolman A. L. Kragh, in the Third's paddy wagon, got a call to go to an apartment building where there was a "man down." A "man down" means just that—it can be murder, mugging, suicide, heart attack or drunkenness. You don't know until you get there.

In this case, it was a drunk, but a baffling one. He was incoherent, had legs like rubber and carried no identification except a tax exemption card which suggested he might be a diplomat.

At the station house, the card was traced. The man was a diplomat—from an Iron Curtain embassy. His superiors were called. An officer who was present that night recalls:

"A top-level Communist official came down at once. You should have seen the fire in his eyes. He wasn't sore at us. He grabbed the guy by the coat collar, marched him out to the embassy car and bawled him out all the way. That's one drunk I really felt sorry for. I figured he was heading for the firing squad or Lower Slobbovia."

Foreign embassies are another problem for the Third. Technically, they're foreign soil and may not be entered, even by police, except on invitation. Iron Curtain embassies are particularly reluctant to open their doors to police. They fear they may be admitting spies in disguise.

One Iron Curtain embassy recently put out its own fire rather than call the Washington fire department. And a Soviet military attaché reported the theft of a valuable camera and watch from his home. Third precinct detectives Bob DeMilt and Edward Thomas recovered both and caught the thief. But to the detectives' frustration, the attaché refused to prosecute, and the thief went free.

"Almost everything to do with an embassy is frustrating," says one veteran officer of the Third. "Embassies don't like headlines."

For instance, there was the recent call to an embassy where a passer-by had found a woman outside the building with a broken ankle. A torn bedsheet dangled from an upstairs window.

"The obvious inference," says an officer, "was that the woman had been held prisoner and had tried to escape. The obvious inference was wrong. The woman was a maid at the Embassy and a favorite of the Ambassador. The Ambassador's wife had come home unexpectedly."

Then there was the case of the wife of former Costa Rican ambassador Manuel G. Escalante. She and her sister were savagely attacked by a knife-wielding burglar. The man held his knife to the throat of the Ambassador's wife, and then, when she freed herself, he lunged at the two women and embedded the knife in the wall. He got away with $5,000 in jewelry and $260 in cash. A few months later the man was arrested, and half the jewelry was recovered. But he was never brought to trial because Ambassador and Mrs. Escalante had returned to Costa Rica and could not spare the time to return to testify.

Pickets and demonstrators are a special problem in the Third. One officer keeps constant watch on the Soviet Embassy, calling in every 15 minutes around the clock to report. During last fall's Cuban crisis, Capt. Pyles assigned six men to prevent demonstrations at the embassy.

However, the White House is a picket's paradise. Any well-behaved person is permitted to wave a placard under the President's nose. And it's also permissible to picket the pickets.

"We get at least one picket line somewhere in the precinct every day," Capt. Pyles says. "We get everything from 'Ban the Bomb,' to the American Nazi Party, to 'Clothing for Animals.' No matter what the cause, the law permits peaceful demonstrations. My men protect the rights of the pickets as well as those of the people being picketed."

To handle these and other ticklish assignments, the men of the Third Precinct are carefully chosen. Washington's highly respected Police Chief Robert V. Murray and Capt. Pyles go to great lengths to screen them. Typical is Patrolman John Harrison, 22 years in the Third, who has won more than 100 citizens' commendations. Harrison carries in his mind a complete map of the precinct down to the smallest alley and building entrance or exit.

Big, powerful, gentle, Harrison lives by a code of policing carefully laid down by Capt. Pyles: "We're not bullet policemen. Guns are a last resort. If you must make an arrest, treat the individual as if he or she were a member of your own family."

And perhaps the supreme accolade to these hand-picked men with the ticklish job comes from Chief James J. Rowley of the U.S. Secret Service, no mean slouch of a policeman himself. "I can testify from 20 years' experience," says Chief Rowley, "that Capt. Pyles and the men of the Third are competent and highly professional. They are a credit to the nation's capital and to American law enforcement." ■

Checking in, Capt. Pyles makes required every-15-minute call from Soviet Embassy. Third Precinct keeps 24-hour watch there.

Pickets in front of White House demonstrate peacefully. Third Precinct men oversee picketing, respect rights of the marchers.

Guarding President, Capt. Pyles leads the way as Mr. Kennedy enters Hotel Statler. Third often helps Secret Service.

WHAT FAILURE HAS DONE TO Jean Seberg

IT'S MADE HER BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER

by Lloyd Shearer

JEAN DOROTHY SEBERG is a 24-year-old actress from Marshalltown, Iowa (population 22,500), who is currently courted and sought after by every New Wave movie director in France.

Seven years ago this petite, blonde, gray-eyed daughter of a small-town pharmacist triumphed in a widely trumpeted Hollywood Cinderella talent search.

From among 18,000 contestants, she was chosen by director Otto Preminger to play the title role in the film version of Saint Joan, by George Bernard Shaw.

After a tremendous build-up—par for all Preminger productions—Saint Joan turned out to be a disaster. The critics burned Jean Seberg at the stake.

The immediate reaction in film circles was to attribute the failure of Saint Joan to Jean Seberg and to write her off at 18 as a hopeless amateur. Otto Preminger, however, is a bulldozer of a man. Double chin on the back of his neck, he storms through life throwing his notions as if they were brickbats. "I refused to believe," he says, "that I was so wrong and the critics so right, that this girl was so completely devoid of talent."

To bolster his ego and convince the critics of their error, Preminger cast little Jean in a second film, Bonjour Tristesse, this time ably supported by veterans David Niven and Deborah Kerr. In Hollywood, jaded observers, aware that Preminger had just divorced his wife, intimated that the director's true motive was romance, that despite the disparity in age, "the beauty and the beast" had fallen in love.

Preminger and his protégée both denied the rumor, described their affiliation as platonic, then went to work on Bonjour Tristesse in France.

That film also laid a bomb, and again Jean was pungently panned, not as severely as the first time, but enough to discourage the possessor of even the stoutest heart and the stiffest upper lip.

Followed then what she describes as her "testing period."

I could either face life," she recalls "or run away from it, race back to Marshalltown and try to block out my failure. Of course, I felt terrible. I wanted to run and hide from everyone. My self-confidence had been ravaged. I was a mass of insecurity, but I decided I wasn't going to quit. I was determined to give acting the good old college try.

"That was a bad time for me. Confidential magazine came out with a piece about me and Preminger entitled 'Svengali and the Druggist's Daughter.' It was horrible. My father saw one of the first copies in his own drugstore. He was so disturbed, he ran around the whole town buying up all the copies and then burning them. It was a bad, sad time."

At this point, possibly as an escape or compensatory mechanism, Jean Seberg began going steady with a tall, Harvard-educated French lawyer, François Moreuil, 24, a cousin of famed Hollywood director William Wyler. Young Moreuil had visions of becoming a producer and director in his own right. He talked Jean into getting out of her long-term contract with Preminger (which Columbia Pictures took over) and into starring in his first film, then nebulous. They would become a famous husband-and-wife team, he the producer-director and she the star.

In 1958 they were married in Marshalltown in the same Trinity Lutheran Church where Jean had once taught Sunday school. They settled down in Paris, and almost immediately the marriage began to sour—largely, according to friends, "because François wanted to Pygmalionize a girl who had a great will power, a strong streak of Swedish and Midwestern stubbornness and who frankly needed a much older man for a husband."

Jean and former husband Francois Moreuil. They were married in 1958, divorced two years later.

Under her Columbia contract Jean played in two films. But of these pictures she says, "They were only a few days' work. I did nothing for them, and they did nothing for me. I had learned discipline from Preminger. Now I learned mime from Étienne Decroux, who taught Marcel Marceau. I took French lessons, acting lessons, voice lessons. I cultivated the society in Paris of directors, writers, actors. I absorbed from everyone. But my marriage wasn't working out, and at 20 I felt I was a has-been both career-wise and marriage-wise."

In 1960 Jean divorced her husband in Iowa on the grounds of cruelty. "My only cruelty," François said at the time, "consisted of giving up my profession as a lawyer to help further my wife's career."

In truth, the turning point in Jean Seberg's life came earlier that same year when she was cast in Breathless, a French New Wave film, shot in four weeks on a shoestring budget of $90,000, co-starring Jean-Paul Belmondo. The actress played the part of a tramp, and won rave notices. From out of the woodwork, French producers then came in bevies to offer Jean Seberg parts in which she played the American girl generating New World naïveté in an environment of Old World corruption.

Early this year, when writer Irwin Shaw and director Bob Parrish were trying to cast their film In the French Style, they were told over and over again that the most celebrated and typically American young girl in Paris was Jean Seberg. They promptly signed her.

A few months ago, when director Robert Rossen was looking about for a young, sensitive actress to star in Lilith, the story of an exquisitely beautiful asylum inmate, he chose Jean Seberg. After working with her a few weeks, he told me:

"This girl is not a polished actress in the sense of technique. She is a fine instinctive actress of depth and power. She is extremely intelligent and takes direction beautifully. She looks like one of those girls who goes house-to-house selling Girl Scout cookies, but she's really a sophisticate, and that she owes to Romain Gary."

Romain Gary, 49, aviator, author-winner of the Prix Goncourt in France, a worldly, charming, erudite former diplomat—he was until a few years ago the French Consul in Los Angeles—is currently Jean Seberg's inseparable companion. Wherever Gary is, Jean Seberg is not far behind and vice-versa. Two years ago I was standing outside the Carleton Hotel in Hong Kong. I ran into Gary. Seberg was 20 yards away. Last month I was on location in Maryland with Seberg. Thirty miles away, in Washington, D.C., Gary was working on a new novel.

These two first met in Los Angeles in 1959. Jean was married at the time. Her husband, a proper Frenchman, called at the consulate and left his card. Three nights later, Gary invited them to dinner. Subsequently, when Jean was divorced and living in Paris, Gary called upon her again, and between them a strong friendship developed. Today it's burgeoned into more than that.

On the face of it, they seem blatantly mismated — a sophisticated European writer who knows the world as well as the mustache on his upper lip, and a young corn-fed actress from Iowa, eager, hungering for knowledge, experience, fame.

How can a man like you," I asked Gary recently, "go around with a young actress half your age? What do you two have in common? Isn't it dynamite for you? Isn't it Pygmalion and Galatea all over again?"

Gary smiled. "You make the same mistake," he said, "as so many others do. You think I am wise and she is naïve. I am knowledgeable and she is not. You are mistaken. This girl is absolutely fantastic. She reads omnivorously, everything—Tolstoy, Pushkin, Flaubert. And she retains what she reads. Education, culture—these are as necessary to her life as air. Do you know she has a degree signed by André Malraux personally? She went to the Louvre every day for 18 months, took a course in Roman and Gothic art. It's known as the 'Cours du Louvre.'

"Failure diverts most young people. Look what it has done to Jean. It has strengthened her, fortified her, made her more determined than ever. This girl has developed the art of interpreting failure in terms of experience and learning from that experience and turning the whole process into success. In the past few years she has become a mature woman.

"Because she comes from Iowa and now lives in Paris, many American reporters say she's an expatriate. Not true. Do you know that every few months, perhaps when things aren't going so well, you know what she does? She gets on a plane and flies back to Marshalltown where she has her roots. People there — maybe they're shocked at the kind of films she's made in France, but she is one of their own, and they are extremely kind to her. She comes back always a glowing gem of a girl, shining and bright and splendid, her roots watered and her personality growing. I do not know if she will ever develop into a great actress, but I tell you, my friend, this is no small wisp of an American girl living it up on the Left Bank. This Jean Seberg is a young woman, wise in the ways of the world, and every day getting wiser."

What does Jean Seberg think of Jean Seberg? What have five years of French living done to her way of life?

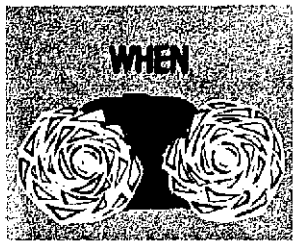

"I think first of all," she says, "that I am basically American. There are two reasons why I went to France. First, I married a Frenchman who lived there, and second, because after* Saint Joan and Bonjour Tristesse, *there was no work for me in Hollywood. No producer would touch me with a 10-foot pole. So I went over not only as a wife but as an actress looking for work. Now I've found it.

What I've picked up these last five years is no new philosophy, just sound knowledge about superficial things, a different way of setting the table, something about wines, something about art. They don't have very good ready-to-wear clothes in Paris so I buy mine at the couturiers.

"I love to act, but at some point I would like to settle down and have some children. It seems to me a very sad life to go on and on, just acting and to end up at age 50 without any children or husband. I think it's a great struggle to combine career and marriage and to do justice to both. It's an almost impossible thing. And some day, I guess, I will have to make the decision. But that problem hasn't arisen yet. So, for the time being, it's work for me, work I enjoy because it was preceded by failure. Now I've conquered that failure and maybe—and I say this hopefully—now at long last, I'm on the way up."

Romain Gary, French author, aviator, diplomat, is constant companion of actress Jean Seberg.

1961 Parade Scenic Highway, Maine's Interstate Route 95, zips across the rolling landscape between Augusta and Fairfield, Me.

PICK YOUR FAVORITE HIGHWAY

What kinds of roads will you drive this summer? Scenic, imaginative highways, swinging smoothly across attractive landscapes? Or beeline express routes, knifing harshly cross-country without view or vista?

More and more "motorists' highways"—highways that are a joy to look at, as well as drive upon—are being built today. California is considering plans for a whole statewide network of scenic highways. The federal government has discussed such a system nationwide. The American Association of State Highway Officials has put its weight behind "complete highways"—which means roads built with scenic considerations uppermost.

And today, to further encourage construction of roads designed for beauty and efficiency, PARADE announces its third annual Scenic Highway Contest—and invites you to get in on the nationwide drive for more enjoyable highways.

You may already have heard of the Scenic Highway Award. In its two years of existence it has been widely acclaimed.

For the new highway in America which best advances the principles of safe, beautiful highway design, PARADE awards a bronze plaque to the State Highway Commission. The engineer who designed the highway receives a citation in the form of a scroll. Parchment certificates go to other highways considered worthy of special mention.

And the motorist—or club or civic group—who nominates the winning entry receives a $500 savings bond.

In 1961, the first year of the award, Interstate Route 95 between Augusta and Fairfield, Maine, was judged the nation's finest new highway. Last year the award was won by Interstate Route 81, between Scranton and East Benton, Pennsylvania.

HERE'S HOW YOU ENTER

As you drive along this summer, why not look for candidates for the 1963 award? Here are standards for judging the nominations:

1 The new or rebuilt highway must be at least five miles long. It must have been opened to traffic after September 1, 1962, but before September 1, 1963.

2 It must be a highway for general use, not a special highway for sightseers only, such as the Skyline Drive.

3 It must "drive well," with gentle curves, easy grades and wide lanes, although it need not be a superhighway.

4 It must be well planned, with good use of land, minimum destruction of property and neighborhood.

5 It must look good, and be designed to take advantage of natural terrain and scenic beauty.

Officials of five prominent organizations connected with highways aid PARADE in sponsoring the contest and furnish judges. They are the American Automobile Association, the American Planning and Civic Association, the American Society of Landscape Architects, the Automotive Safety Foundation, and Engineering News-Record, the Bible of the construction industry. All have endorsed the principle that highways must be good-looking as well as fast-moving.

So nominate your favorite highway now. List name or route number, location, approximate length. Tell why you consider it worthy of the award. Send photographs if possible. (In case of duplicate nominations, the Board of Judges will decide the winner.) Clubs and civic groups as well as individuals are encouraged to enter. Send entries by August 31, 1963, to Parade Scenic Highway Contest, Box 1640, Grand Central Station, New York 17, New York. ■

PARADE OF PROGRESS

Here are new ideas for home and family by PETER DRYDEN

Inflatable hat: Here's a plastic hat (above) that inflates to keep you cool—putting a layer of dead air-space insulation between you and the sun. It's 20 inches in diameter, has vinyl ties to keep it in place, folds up into its own carrying case. Green, blue, red or yellow. $2. M & M, Dept. PP, Box 16, Port Washington, L. I., N. Y.

Cool and fizzy: Handy way to carry cold drinks to beach, picnics, etc., is in a compact styrofoam container that insulates and keeps them cool all day without ice. Especially useful for cola, beer, other carbonated beverages that lose fizz in vacuum bottles. Just slip cans in 6 individual slots, replace cover. $1.49. Polar-Pac, Dept. PP, 129 Bay St., Glens Falls, N. Y.

Safe in the water: A new device can be a lifesaver when you swim, boat, water-ski. Little bigger than a cigarette pack and easily worn on belt or wrist without interfering with motion, it has a gas cartridge that, at the press of a button, balloons out a vinyl float that can support 200 lb. It's reusable; just deflate float, insert new cartridge. $4.95. Davis & McGill, Inc., Dept. PP, Saint Pauls, N. C.

Something new in a travel iron: This one is first to include spray feature of regular spray-steam-dry irons. It weighs 1¾ lb., has thermostatic control, works on 120-volt AC-DC, 230-volt AC, and has adapter plugs for world-wide use. $15.95. General Electric, Dept. PP, 1285 Boston, Bridgeport, Conn.

CANTALOUPE À LA MODE WITH BLUEBERRY SAUCE

- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup water
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 cup cultivated blueberries
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3 small cantaloupes
- 1 quart vanilla ice cream

Combine sugar, water, salt and cornstarch. Cook, stirring frequently, until mixture boils and is thickened. Add blueberries; heat to boiling; simmer 5 minutes. Stir in lemon peel and juice. Let sauce cool slightly. Cut cantaloupes into halves. Scoop out seeds. Spoon vanilla ice cream into cantaloupe halves; top with warm blueberry sauce; serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

ICED TEA BY THE PITCHERFUL

Bring 1 quart water to a boil in open saucepan. Remove from heat; immediately add ⅓ cup loose tea or 15 teabags.

Brew 5 minutes uncovered.

Stir and strain into pitcher holding another quart of cold water.

KITCHEN HINTS FOR PERFECT TEA

Use 50% more tea than for hot tea to allow for melting ice.

Measure tea accurately—1½ teaspoons of tea or 1½ teabags for each six ounces (¾ cup) of water.

Use fresh, cold water; bring to a full, rolling boil. Pour boiling water over tea or teabags.

Brew 3 to 5 minutes.

Strain brewed tea into pitcher; keep it at room temperature until ready to serve.

Don't refrigerate iced tea. Refrigeration may cause clouding.

If tea does cloud, add a little boiling water to restore its amber-clear color.

Use the convenient instant soluble teas when you want a glass of iced tea in a hurry. Use cold tap water and follow directions on the jar.

A RE-ARMED CHURCH BATTLES THE REDS

by ED KIESTER

WE HAVE NOT TIME TO WASTE. We have not energy to waste. I know that we shall experience a few losses. But I have a great hope—no, I would say a great certitude—that we will win the battle. We will win the battle."

The man who said this, leaning forward urgently on a frail gilt chair in a Spanish colonial drawing room here, looked like anything but a warrior. Round-faced, jovial, with the appetite of a Maine lumberjack, Archbishop Rómolo Carboni, the apostolic delegate to Peru, gave off the warm, comforting glow of a man of peace.

But in fact Archbishop Carboni is a general in one of the most important battles in the world today. He is a key leader of a revamped Roman Catholic Church in what may be its showdown struggle with Communism.

All up and down Latin America, that battle rages today. In a 6,000-mile swing around this continent, I have seen it being fought out in the ghastly shack colonies of Lima, the parched backlands of Brazil, the banana jungles of Central America, the oxygen-starved altiplano of Bolivia. The stakes are high—200 million people. Desperate, hungry, illiterate, sick, they are easy prey for Communism. Yet 95 per cent call themselves Catholic, and the Church is doing battle for every last Christian soul.

To do so, I found, Latin Catholicism has turned its back on old, traditional ways. In the spirit of the late Pope John XXIII, Archbishop Carboni and a new generation of leaders are taking the Church in directions unheard of in the past. Organizing labor unions, political parties, even peasant revolutionary groups, the Church is building itself into the foremost champion of the poor on this continent. And voices continually cry for new action to beat the Reds on their own ground.

"Agitators! That's what the Church needs—more paid, professional agitators!" Father Renato Poblete, a brilliant Chilean Jesuit reformer, told me one night as we sat in a Santiago garden. "Agitators to infiltrate the student federations! Agitators to work in the labor movement. People who would be paid enough to be free of the necessity of earning a living. We have these people, trained and dedicated. All we need is the means to support them."

Archbishop of Rio, Dom Helder Camara, urges widespread social reform. He asks: "Was it selfishness that we Christians learned from Christ?"

Nuncio to Peru, Archbishop Romolo Carboni asks Americans to help in the struggle. His suggestions are donations, personnel and prayers.

"The Church must simplify itself," says Dom Helder Camara, auxiliary archbishop of Rio de Janeiro, known as the priest of the favela-dwellers. "It cannot deal with the true problems of humanity until it speaks the language of the poor. Great cathedrals and elaborate dress, the pomp of the Vatican, cannot be justified when two-thirds of the world lives in misery and underdevelopment. To speak to the poor, the Church must become poor itself."

To these men, drastic measures are called for because the hour for Latin America—and the Latin Church—is late. "Your people do not realize the state of emergency here," says Father Poblete. Yet all North Americans may be involved in the outcome. For many observers here feel that the Church is the only institution that can stand in the path of a Red takeover.

To most Americans, as to me, it must come as a distinct shock to discover the plight of the Latin-American Church, for they remember from history how the Cross swept over this continent in the days of the conquistadores and established itself as both rich and powerful. Yet, according to Archbishop Carboni, the Church has been in a state of decline for 150 years. Archbishop Carboni estimates that only 15 to 25 per cent of Latins are "good Catholics." Most authorities put the figure lower—at about 5 to 10 per cent.

One study shows that 95 per cent of Latins have been baptized, but fewer than 1 in 3 receive first communion; fewer than 4 in 10 marry in the Church; more than half die without receiving the last rites. Only 1 Latin man in 20 and 1 woman in 10 attend mass regularly.

One chief reason for this slipshod Catholicism, the Church states, is a shortage of clergy. One Peruvian parish in four—according to Archbishop Carboni—has no permanent priest. Officially Latin America has 36,000 priests. To provide minimum services, it needs 200,000 more.

The Church also is plagued by shortages of money (an average collection from seven Sunday masses in Priest among the poor, Father Leo Mahoney of Boston visits Indian children in Lima barriada. He has brought Peruvian slum-dwellers their first parochial school, soup kitchen and clinic.

one Santiago parish is $12), educational facilities (Peru had not one parochial school until a few years ago) and seminarians. It also suffers from a casual Latin approach to religion. American Maryknoll Father Vincent Mallon, secretary to Archbishop Carboni, describes a "good" Latin Catholic as a man who neglects his family, takes a mistress, indulges in sharp business practice—"but always takes part in religious processions, crosses himself when he passes a church. At age 45, he makes his peace with the Church and gets ready to die."

But many Catholic clergy now say that all these problems are subsidiary to the main problem—the poverty and backwardness of this continent. Says Archbishop Camara of Rio: "When we are talking with men who live without a house, without food, without clothes, without the minimum of education, without real work to occupy them, we need a miracle to be heard."

Drastic steps taken

In the face of Latin poverty Church leaders have felt justified in taking drastic steps. Under the guidance of the Pontifical Commission for Latin America, organized by Pope John in Rome, the continent's own regional Council of Bishops and with the aid of the North American Bishops' Committee for Latin America under Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, the Church has forged ahead on many fronts. It has put together stopgap relief measures, broad-scale educational projects, political innovations, social reforms. It has also taken a position of economic leadership and become what Father Poblete calls the "leading apostle of reform on this continent."

You can see the progress of this movement best in Chile. The Church has scored tremendous gains there in the past two years. Using Father Poblete's infiltration tactics, Catholics have captured control of formerly Red-led student federations and more than a third of the labor movement. A Catholic-sponsored Christian Democratic political party, left-of-center, emerged from recent elections as the nation's most powerful political force. Cenapo, a Catholic organization to promote grass-roots social action, has welded the slum-dwelling pobladores into a powerful Christian force.

The Church's real master strokes came last fall. First, the Church gave, absolutely without strings, all its existing lands to those working them. It also set up co-operatives, gave technical advice and furnished tools and capital to the new landowners.

A few weeks later, it dropped a bomb on the Chilean wealthy. A pastoral letter signed by the nation's 24 bishops was read from every pulpit in Chile, decrying the concentration of half the nation's wealth in the hands of 10 per cent of its people. In the spirit of Pope John's social encyclicals, the letter dressed down the rich for banking their wealth abroad and frittering it away on selfish pleasures. It called for land reform, tax reform and other revolutionary measures, and left Chile's rich—the long-time backbone of the Church—severely shaken.

Results have been less spectacular, but still substantial, in other countries. In northeast Brazil, known as Latin America's No. 1 trouble spot, a fiery young priest named Father Antonio Melo has stolen the Reds' thunder by organizing peasant leagues in opposition to theirs.

In Peru, the lead has been taken by American Maryknoll missionaries. Father Dan McLellan, working among Indian peasants around Lake Titicaca, a few years ago started a credit union movement which since has been called by the UN "the most significant self-help program in Latin America." Another Maryknoller, Father Robert Kearns, has organized a "hot lunch" program, which feeds 95,000 Peruvian schoolchildren two meals of U.S. surplus food a day and has increased school attendance 40 per cent.

In all countries, there is a new emphasis on teaching and schools. Peru has a network of "radio schools" in which classes will be taught by transistor radio in isolated communities throughout the country. Brazil has placed particular emphasis on basic education and educating rural community leaders. In several areas the Church is particularly trying to train laymen to alleviate the severe clergy shortage.

Meanwhile, hundreds of North Americans are pouring in here to help in the battle. The Papal Volunteers for Latin America—a kind of Catholic Peace Corps—already has sent 200 teachers, social workers, farm experts. Cardinal Cushing has organized the Society of St. James the Apostle to recruit experienced American priests for posts here. And, in line with Pope John's call for all religious orders to send 10 per cent of their personnel to Latin America, Archbishop Carboni ticked off for me 25 American religious orders represented in Peru.

However, many clergy told me that the onslaught of personnel and the offensive for reform alone will not defeat the Reds. The Church itself must change. Many agree with Archbishop Camara's cry for humility. Others suggest changing the Mass to the Spanish or Portuguese tongues; instituting an order of laymen empowered to teach the faith and perhaps even baptize and marry; even a change in priestly attire to signify the Church's "new look" to the world.

On the other hand, some changes have stirred virulent opposition. Some wealthy Catholics have even stopped donating to the Church. Padre Melo in northeast Brazil, Archbishop Camara, Father Poblete all have been condemned as Communists. Still another faction feels that the reformers are unwittingly doing the Communists' work.

A feeling of hope

Other clergy contend that, with the death of Pope John, the direction of the Latin Church may change. But most observers here say the trend is irreversible. Unless the Church is to be left behind as a historical anachronism, it must swim with the forces of change and try to influence them. No one minimizes the difficulty of the battle ahead. But everywhere among Catholics in Latin America there is a buoyancy, a feeling of action, a certainty that hope exists.

"We are gaining," Archbishop Carboni, in the nunciatura in Lima, told me, "gaining everywhere. I do not say we will not have setbacks. But thanks be to God the Church has tremendous resources. And I hope and pray that with these resources—with these methods, with these programs, with these new forces—the Church will reach its goal.

"This is the most important struggle in the Church's history. But I feel it can be won." ■

EDITOR'S NOTE: The comedy team of Lewis and Dane was formed two years ago as a result of a chance meeting in a New York rehearsal studio. Vince Dane, 28, of Cleveland, a former art teacher, was rehearsing for a part in a night-club act. Don Lewis, 30, of Macon, Georgia, fresh from a part in summer stock, was rehearsing for a New York play. The young men struck up a friendship and decided to form a comedy team. They went to Europe for a one-month break-in engagement and ended up touring for a year. In this country they've been seen in such night clubs as the Town Casino in Buffalo, Blinstrub's in Boston and the Playboy Club in Chicago. Herewith some of their jokes.

Our favorite jokes

by LEWIS AND DANE

One of the men from the photo lab at Cape Canaveral came rushing from the darkroom with the just-developed film of the latest moon probe.

"We finally have it!" he exclaimed. "These photographs will show to the world for the first time what the other side of the moon looks like!"

"Tell me what you see," said his assistant excitedly.

"Well," replied the first man, "there seems to be a great big sign."

"What does it say?" questioned the eager listener. "What does it say?"

"It says," came the answer, "this is your moon —please keep it clean."

A trumpet player was rehearsing late one night when there was a knock on his door. He opened it and found an enraged neighbor who asked: "Do you know there's a little old lady sick upstairs?"

"No," replied the musician, "but if you hum a few bars, I'll fake it."

Did you know that Teddy Roosevelt started "hip" talk? He went to Panama and said, "Dig that canal."

A man traveling through Arizona stopped by an Indian who was selling blankets and inquired: "How much for this red blanket?"

"Fifty dollars," was the answer.

"Fifty!" exclaimed the tourist. "I'll give you ten."

"Oh, no, brother," came the rejoiner. "No more deals like Manhattan!"

Johnny walked into the house with a black eye.

"Who gave you that black eye?" screamed his mother.

"Nobody," he replied. "I had to fight like heck for it."

A young man joined the paratroops and confessed to his instructor just before his first jump that he was badly frightened because he had runs of bad luck every so often. The instructor told him that there was nothing to worry about—all he had to do was fall out the door, the chute would open automatically, he would float down to earth, and there would be a car waiting to give him a ride back to a nice warm shower and a steak dinner.

Inspired and reassured, the young man jumped. After a few thousand feet, he noticed his chute didn't open and commented with disgust, "It'll be just my luck—the car won't be there to meet me, either!"

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

As Winston Churchill shuffled out of the House of Commons recently, two young members of Parliament stood by and watched him.

Said one: "They say he's not very steady on his feet."

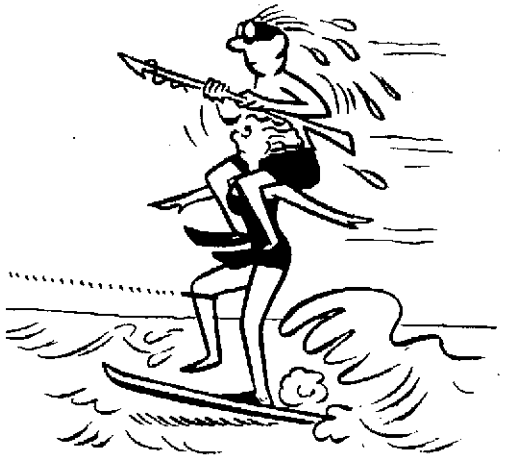

Whispered the other: "They say his eyesight is failing rapidly."

"And they say," growled Sir Winston as he passed, "that he's as deaf as a stone wall, too!"

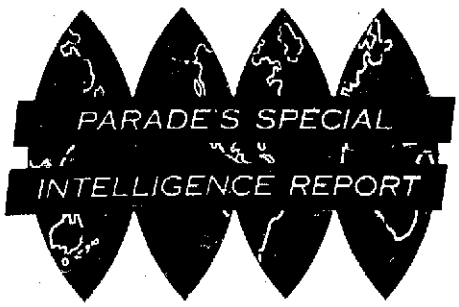

Record Breaker

NEGROES IN CITIES. Washington, D.C., is the only major American city with a Negro population majority: approximately 55%. Among the other 15 largest cities in the nation, New Orleans has a 37% Negro population. Then comes Baltimore with 35%, followed by Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland and St. Louis, each with approximately 30%.

ANGRY WIDOWS. According to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the average American wife is widowed at 59, has a remaining life expectancy of 20 years. Dr. Marion Langer, executive director of the American Orthopsychiatric Association and author of Learning to Live as a Widow, says that most widows blame their husbands for dying and leaving them in predicaments of frustration, inconvenience and loneliness. They become angry but repress their anger and therefore tend to lead lives of almost perennial resentment. "To live as a widow," Dr. Langer maintains, "is to learn to change."

PATCH-UP. If Khrushchev cannot come to an ideological agreement with the Chinese Reds, he will turn to the West with new offers of friendship. So predicts Lord Home, the British Foreign Secretary, who confided his opinion to a secret session of NATO ministers recently held in Ottawa.

SCANDAL IN JAPAN. There is despair in Japan over the future of democracy. Why? Because some of the people are so dishonest. In the recent nationwide local elections for mayors, governors and village assemblymen, more than 30,000 Japanese were arrested in 15,000 cases of election fraud. This is double the number of violations committed in the last similar elections of 1959. A typical case involved the incumbent governor of Tokyo, Ryotaro Azuma, whose supporters used 20,000 counterfeit election seals. Another gubernatorial candidate for metropolitan Tokyo was arrested for assuming the identity of a dead man.

WATER TEST. In the next two years the U.S. Public Health Service will check the drinking water in 3,000 U.S. communities. Purpose: to determine the amount of sodium in the water. There are more than 1,500,000 heart patients in this country who are supposed to consume less than half a gram of salt per day. Sodium deposits build up in their kidneys, preventing normal excretion. The increase in body fluids leads to a strain on the already weakened heart. Once the PHS learns which water systems contain too much sodium, it will advise heart patients in these areas to go on bottled water.

TROUBLE BACHELORS. Should girls marry confirmed bachelors? Only if the girl is mature and capable of giving more than she receives. That's the opinion of Dr. Stella Saslow, a veteran gynecologist of South Orange, N.J. "What the confirmed bachelor really wants," Dr. Saslow explains, "is the emotional support he is used to getting from his mother. When that support is withdrawn because his mother dies or remarries, he looks for it elsewhere. At this point he may get married, and as a husband he's going to be bad. He's been spoilt by his mother....To make a go of that marriage, the wife will have to be a real psychologist, because his relationship with her will probably be a neurotic one."

TITLE-HAPPY. There's a mania in this country for important-sounding executive titles. No one is a janitor any longer. He's an engineer of sanitation. No one is an usher, but rather an audience guide. The penchant for titles has even spread to dog catchers. There are no more of these. Instead there are canine administrators, supervisors of missing dogs, animal controllers and officers in charge of dog law enforcement.

FLUORINE. New York City is the only one of the 12 largest U.S. cities to bar fluoridated water from its municipal water supply. Mayor Robert Wagner believes, however, that his city council will soon vote to add fluorine to New York water and help prevent tooth decay.

COVER-UP FOR BELLY DANCERS. The Egyptian government may have abolished one of the leading tourist attractions in Cairo: the belly dancer. It has just issued a new list of rules for belly dancing, and the first rule says that "all dancers will have their legs and abdomens covered." Cairo guides say that tourists expect to see the type of belly dancers they've heard about, "not covered-up tummies."

POP GOSPEL. Latest musical fad to sweep the country is "pop gospel," a jazzed-up version of traditional Negro spirituals. Several recording companies are preparing P.G. albums.

EXCEPTION. The wives of Soviet statesmen are rarely seen in public and practically never heard. The only exception is Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev, a former schoolteacher who occasionally speaks out on books, children and peace.

Alcohol a Factor in 85 Percent of CYA Sentences

TEEN-AGE DRINKING A GRAVE PERIL

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON

(Last in a series)

Terri, like many alcoholics, started tipping the bottle in her early teens.

She doesn't remember just when. Things were pretty hazy in those days. Maybe she was 14, maybe 15.

At any rate, she was young—young enough, in fact, so that when she entered college, Terri was well on the road to alcoholism.

* * * *

THE DAUGHTER of middle-class, midwestern parents—both alcoholics—Terri believes her "really serious drinking" began when she was 16.

That was when her mother, who had just celebrated her first birthday with Alcoholics Anonymous (one year of sobriety), decided it wouldn't hurt to take "just one more drink" . . .

But it did.

She died the next day in an alcoholic convulsion.

* * * *

TERRI'S college days were a blur of books, booze and bennies.

At the dorm, she hid bottles in the wastebasket, under the mattress, in her bureau drawers. Nips kept her going; the right pills, she found, brought school books into focus when they were too blurry.

With bennies and brains, persistence and personality, she managed to win her teaching credential. But she had lost friends, reputation and self-respect.

* * * *

TO GET away from fading friends and fretting family (who had marked her off as "no good"), she headed for California, subsequently Long Beach.

Like most alcoholics, she thought a change of place would change the pace.

It didn't.

Attractive and possessing superintelligence, she did manage to land a teaching job. But her progressive disease — alcoholism — kept her from making the grade.

The pills helped. But her thirst for liquor became so overpowering that, to use her own words, "by the end of the day, all the children's heads began to take on the shape of half-gallon bottles."

* * * *

THE JOURNEY continued downward. Terri, at the time, could find no other way to go. She had gone past most of the turn-offs.

She recalls: "I found some of my kind of people in Belmont Shore — the kind who make a career of bars, drink around the clock, then sober up, only to start drinking again.

"Months staggered by. Before long, I'd been thrown out of every bar in the area. They said I didn't act ladylike—that it wasn't ladylike to fall off bar stools, to be given sobriety tests by policemen on street corners, to end up in strange places with strange people."

Then came the inevitable: drawn window shades . . . telephone calls that went unanswered . . . nightmares of hangovers, blackouts and broken promises . . . food that went untouched . . . the uncontrollable craving for a drink, another drink and another, then . . .

Oblivion.

* * * *

LUCKILY for Terri, she found one road back. It was long, tortuous, fraught with despair. But she made it.

She hasn't had a drink in two years.

And she credits Alcoholics Anonymous with saving her life.

DRINKING AMONG TEEN-AGERS poses a serious problem—last year in Long Beach 281 youths between 14 and 17 were taken into custody because of drinking. Picture above was posed to illustrate the problem.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY FLIES A KITE

—Associated Press Wirephoto

President Kennedy, on a holiday week-end at his summer home in Hyannis Port, leans from the stern of the presidential yacht Honey Fitz Saturday to fly a kite. He didn't do very well. The kite dove into the water. Other members of the family and friends are on beach in foreground. Story, Page A-3.

TORRANCE PAIR OFF DUTY

Police Jailed for Robbery

Women's $1,700 Grabbed

Two off-duty Torrance police officers who allegedly grabbed a moneybag containing $1,700 from two women store clerks were caught after a wild, shot-punctuated chase through South Los Angeles Saturday night.

While one of the suspects was being handcuffed he unsuccessfully tried to shoot one of his captors with a gun concealed in a hip pocket.

* * * *

THE ACTION began when the clerks, Nancy Sananiego, 17, and Eileen Thibodeau, 39, both of Los Angeles and employes of a dress shop at 8310 S. Vermont Ave., were about to place the bag in a night depository at the Security First National Bank branch at 84th Street and Vermont Avenue.

A slowly moving car pulled up to the women, they told officers, "and a blond man jumped out and grabbed the (canvas) bag."

As the holdup men sped away, a Los Angeles prowl car assigned to another mission drove by and the women were able to point at the escaping car and say, "That car right there just robbed us!"

* * * *

LOS ANGELES Officers R. L. Funk and L. E. Tietgen gave chase south on Vermont, pulling up to the getaway car near 106th Street. Tietgen said he fired several times before the civilian car's left rear tire was flattened.

One suspect jumped from the car and dashed into a sidestreet, only to be captured by other pursuers. He later was identified as Robert W. Keith, 26, of 2179 Sepulveda Blvd., a

MARINES WILL TRAIN COAST GUARD UNITS

By BILL BROOM
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Camp Pendleton Marines soon will begin training Coast Guardsmen in guerrilla warfare as part of a new program aimed at strengthening the nation's defenses against spies and saboteurs.

The Independent, Press-Telegram learned exclusively Saturday that the first such class will start a 30-day course at Pendleton sometime this summer.

* * * *

A SPOKESMAN at Coast Guard headquarters here said only volunteers will be accepted because the course will be "extremely strenuous—physically and mentally."

Graduates will be assigned to special "Coastal Force" units. These are reserve outfits whose mission is to augment port-security units the Coast Guard now has organized. The units would be activated only in event of mobilization.

The Coastal Force program is an outgrowth of last year's Cuban crisis. It was determined then that the nation's coastlines could be infiltrated with relative ease by foreign agents.

Organization of units and training still is in the pilot and planning stage. The first class of specialists is in training at Camp Lejeune, N.C. Pendleton will be the training base for all West Coast units.

The first two Coastal Force units in California are being organized at Santa Barbara and Bakersfield. They will be manned by Coast Guard reservists who have completed six months of active duty and who must now serve in stand-by status for eight years.

After completing basic training, volunteers for the Marine Corps training course will be put through a special physical toughening. After 30 days of individual training at Pendleton in hand-to-hand combat, night fighting, guerrilla tactics and similar skills, they will go into the Coastal Force units.

Not all members of the units will be so trained, but it is expected that a "substantial percentage" of them will be.

The Coastal Force units would be activated only in the event of mobilization, Coast Guard headquarters said. Their main purpose would be to prevent agents from coming in along deserted shorelines. Eventually, "quite a number" of the units will be formed in California.

UNHAPPY ABOUT HOME LOAN BANK'S CURBS

L.B. Federal Savings Investors Vote Merger With Equitable

By ROBERT HEARD

Few seemed to be happy with it, but more than 1,000 shareholders of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association Saturday approved a controversially restrictive plan to merge with Equitable Savings.

The merger could give Long Beach Federal shareholders a $9.4-million bonus, but the restrictions placed on the distribution of the bonus by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board were endorsed only because there was no other way to get the board's approval of the merger.

The merger would place L.B.F.S.&L. under Equitable's state charter and beyond the jurisdiction of the federal board which twice has seized Long Beach Federal.

THE SEIZURES WERE characterized by congressional investigating committees as "arbitrary, capricious and reprehensible," and each time spurred depositors to withdraw tens of millions of dollars.

Thomas A. Gregory, president of Long Beach Federal, Saturday explained to the shareholders the federal board's sweeping authority to approve or veto a merger, and he outlined the board's announced restrictions:

The board insists that no shareholder should participate in excess of $10,000 above the value of his account on April 22, 1960 (the date of the board's second seizure of the firm).

The federal board had charged that some depositors had come into Long Beach Federal with large sums, often borrowed, after the seizure in anticipation of the merger and bonus.

MANY OF THE late depositors came in because they were personal friends of Gregory and they wanted to help him build his firm back up from the low point it reached after, and because of, the board's seizure.

Gregory told the shareholders the bank board demanded the restrictions before it would approve the merger even though, by admission of board officials in testimony before congressional committees, it does not have authority to discriminate in any manner among shareholders.

Approval of the merger plan by the shareholders does not prevent them from individually contesting in court the federal board's restrictions, Gregory said.

The $9.4-million bonus includes $6.4 million in Long Beach Federal reserves and a $3-million payment by Equitable for Long Beach Federal's goodwill.

The bonus will be distributed in the form of stock and is equivalent to about 13 percent of Long Beach Federal's total savings accounts. Equitable stock is valued on the open market at about $12 a share.

Glenn May Seek Senate as Demo

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) —Astronaut John H. Glenn may resign from the space program to run as a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate from his native Ohio next year, informed Democratic sources said Saturday.

The plan to put Glenn into the race was seen as a move to strengthen President Kennedy's hand in Ohio, which he lost in 1960, and to give the party a strong candidate against the Republican nominee expected to be U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr.

Informed sources said the plan depends in part upon whether Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young, a surprise winner in 1958, decides to run for re-election.

Party leaders would be reluctant to put a candidate into the field against Young, who is in his 70s. Young has kept silent about his plans.

Word that Democratic national party leaders were checking quietly in Ohio on Glenn's eligibility as a candidate caught leaders of both parties by surprise. The Marine colonel's civil-

Crabs Flaunt Flag at Fidel

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hundreds of crabs with United States flags painted on their shells invaded a Cuban city recently, an exile organization reported Saturday.

The incident occurred in Cardenas, Matanzas Province, said Dr. Luis Conte Aguero, president in exile of Sentinels of Liberty, an underground group.

He said it was the people's response to a speech there in which Fidel Castro announced elimination of 14 rebel groups.

APL Liner Stuck on Reef Off India

BOMBAY, India (AP)—The American President Lines cargo-passenger vessel, President Coolidge, en route to Karachi from Bombay, has run aground on a reef in the monsoon-whipped Gulf of Kutch, 325 miles from here, said a radio message received here Saturday.

NAACP BRANCH REPORT:

School Meets Make Progress

Eight areas in which there is need for exchange of views and development of mutually acceptable policy and practices have been identified by the Education Committee of the Long Beach branch of the Association for the Advancement of Colored People and representatives of the Long Beach Unified School District.

"We have been meeting for the past six months and are making progress," according to Aaron Harrington, chairman of the Education Committee of the NAACP. "Some problems are being solved almost immediately, but others will require long-range planning and effort."

"We are definitely convinced, however, that there exists genuine sincerity on the part of both NAACP and school representatives in this cooperative effort," Harrington said.

THE EIGHT AREAS under current study are:

1. Personnel hiring, assignments and transfer procedures.
2. In-service training of teachers.
3. Publicizing of school district job opportunities.
4. Counseling services.
5. Motivation of youth toward better academic achievement and toward the development of marketable skills.
6. School district plans for education of culturally disadvantaged youth.
7. Youth canteen programs and policies.
8. Building student body unity in racially mixed schools.

School officials said that meetings will continue to be held with the NAACP education committee in the months ahead and that progress reports will be made from time to time.

Fire on Train Destroys Mail

L.A.C. Says: Watching the Pennies

Some of the wealthiest men in the nation are often charged with being the greatest penny watchers. Some of these men have given hundreds of millions of dollars to charities. But they are almost penurious when it comes to their personal expenditures. This is because they know the importance of planning and watching the pennies or nickels. It is a trait millions of families would be wise to emulate in their own financial problems.

It brings to mind some of the old sayings which I believe in. One is: "A capitalist can afford to be a philanthropist—but capital never can." This means that a person with substantial surplus capital is a capitalist. He can afford to spend or distribute this money as he desires. But capital represents investments which should only be used for sound investments. It is a cold thing that must be watched with the greatest care. It must make a profit if there is to be surplus for charity and gifts to others. It cannot afford to be careless as concerns its use.

This applies equally to the home budget. The young people who take on unnecessary expenditures beyond the capital they have accumulated are destroying that capital. When they assume debts that eat up their weekly paychecks they are destroying the chance of saving money and accumulating capital. But, if they prepare and live within a budget they can afford, including some savings, they are on the road to accumulating capital.

Another old saying is: "Watch out for the nickels and the dollars will take care of themselves." This means that every individual should take a look at the many small expenditures they make. They will probably find many of them could be saved. Such a habit will be followed when substantial savings are accumulated. But, far too many of us dribble away small sums that produce little satisfaction to us. But they do keep us from accumulating a surplus capital for our old-age protection—medical bills and other emergencies that may arise.

A lot of us keep ourselves in financial distress because we try to keep up with the Joneses. We live beyond our means because we think this keeps up our prestige. Each time we get a pay raise we increase our standard of living. The result is, 10 years later we may have doubled our income. But in many cases we have more than doubled our living standards—a more expensive car—a more expensive home and a more expensive social life.

It is only after we have reached the later years of middle age that we look back and wish we had done a little saving along the way. As we approach retirement we think of how much we would have had had we saved $500 or $1,000 a year. As we look back we see many places we could have saved this amount on pleasures that were short lived. But when we look forward to years of retirement, it is depressing to realize how much more it would mean to us in our remaining years.

Thousands of business enterprises go into bankruptcy each year. Many are inevitable because they served no useful purpose. But many more go broke because the operator ignored the wastefulness that prevailed. Had they looked after the seemingly unimportant small expenditures, they would have operated a more sound operation. But their eyes were on bigger things and they overextended their resources. This applies to the individual family just as it does to the small business. If the same attention had been given to watching the many small expenditures, many of them would find they would be financially solvent, rather than being close to bankruptcy.—L.A.C.

Cabazon Fire Still Uncurbed

CABAZON, Calif. (UPI) — Fast-breaking hot spots whipped by strong winds raged out of control late Saturday in rugged and steep mountain country.

Hand crews were unable to man the east fire line because of the steep terrain. Six planes hit the hot spot with borate solution but it had little effect.

The west fire line of Cabazon Peak was reported holding back the blaze, but the east line and the northern half toward the peak were "still very hot."

By 4:30 p.m. PDT, the blaze had blackened more than 220 acres and was about 70-percent controlled, the State Division of Forestry said.

* * *

BARRING unforseen problems, the division said it hoped to have the fire subdued by this morning.

However, the threat of 20-30-mile-an-hour winds hampered fire-fighting operations and prevented airplanes from dropping borate solution effectively.

The fire broke out late Friday on Cabazon Peak near this Riverside County community. The area, heavily covered with brush, had not been burned for many years.

BILLIE JEAN HAILED

Mayor Sends Hope Cable to Net Star

Mayor Edwin W. Wade just dispatched a telegram to "Billie Jean Moffitt, England." He expects it to be delivered, even with that scant address.

"Billie Jean's name must be on the lips of every Englishman by this time," the mayor remarked Saturday.

The 19-year-old Long Beach girl has established herself as the upset queen of tennis. She defeated three seeded players in winning her way to the women's singles finals at Wimbledon against Margaret Smith of Australia.

The telegram said:

"Congratulations on an outstanding performance. Our hopes are with you for success in the finals"—which, weather permitting, will be played Monday.

Boys on Bicycle Hit Truck, One Killed, Other Injured

A Los Alamitos boy, carrying a younger brother on his bicycle, was crushed to death Saturday beneath the wheels of a hay truck.

Officers said that Gerald Lopez, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Lopez, of 10751 Chestnut St., ran into the side of the truck at the intersection of Katella Avenue and Los Alamitos boulevard and fell beneath a rear wheel.

The younger brother, Randall, 8, was reported in good condition in Katella Community Hospital. He suffered a concussion and mangled right hand.

Ben Ormonde, 34, of 12254 E. 213th St., Artesia, driver of the unloaded truck, told investigators he did not see the boys but stopped immediately when he felt a bump. Officers said he was traveling at 10 miles per hour when the accident occurred.

School Board Meets July 25

Laguna Arts Fiesta Opens

LAGUNA BEACH (UPI) — More than 30,000 people crowded into Laguna Beach Saturday to help the little art colony open the annual festival of arts.

The 38-night presentation of living pictures in the city's outdoor bowl is expected to draw a record crowd this year, because an extra week has been added to the pageant in order to pay for a $25,000 facade added to the entrance of the festival grounds. About 200,000 are expected.

More than 200 local artists have displays at the festival.

Canadian Coin Shop Looted of $40,000

OTTAWA (UPI) — Thieves made off with about $40,000 in valuable coins Saturday from the Coin Center of Canada.

The shop, which claims to be the largest coin and stamp retail center in Canada, was entered by breaking through a wall from an adjoining restaurant. The thieves smashed a door to get into the restaurant.

Ready New Session of Legislature

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State lawmakers were gathering in the capital Saturday for a special session of the 1963 legislature that could last a few days or a few months.

It all depended on how Gov. Brown, who ordered the session when his tax program was crushed in the general session, planned to raise new financing for the state.

* * * *

BROWN WAS expected to ask lawmakers to restore $40 million in cuts from education programs and $30 million in pay raises for state employes. But education was the number one problem.

Brown held last minute meetings with advisors to hammer out his proposals for presentation to the reconvened lawmakers at noon Monday, just two weeks after they ended their six-month general session by refusing new finances and adopting a $3.1 billion "skeleton" budget.

In the hours before the lawmakers met, the battle appeared to be between Brown on one side and the GOP strengthened by rebel Democrats on the other. It was the rebels that cast the deciding votes against the Brown "no new tax" plan.

* * * *

THE SLASHES, which came in the Senate at the hands of tightly-knit minority Republicans joined by some key Democrats, eliminated about $104 million in state expenditures.

The Democrats have been for the most part silent the past two weeks while Brown issued statements that his $147 million tax program was defeated by the big business lobby and the Republicans.

Republicans have blamed the defeat on the unpopularity of Brown's plan to accelerate collection of taxes to balance his record $3.2 billion budget proposal. They have been vocal, but the problem of how to raise money for education has tempered their victory cries.

* * * *

THE GOP hurled charges of arm twisting, and later "blackmail," when Brown cut another $9 million, chiefly in aid to higher education, when he signed the budget bill.

Brown promised during the week this would be the number one consideration of the special session.

Brown said he would not ask for an increase in taxes, even with the defeat of his "no new tax" program. But he said he would "take a look at" any new tax bills that passed the session.

Brown Bid for Money Supported

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson Saturday urged full support of Gov. Brown's request for additional money "to meet critical problems of the day."

Anderson spoke at the national convention of the League of Latin American Citizens.

* * * *

SEVERAL important programs, Anderson said, including mental health, education, libraries and crippled children "went down the drain when the legislature . . . failed to enact Gov. Brown's proposed tax reform program."

Gov. Brown has called a special session of the legislature on Monday to work on an augmented budget.

Singling out the $300,000 that Gov. Brown recommended for the new youth conservation program, Anderson said "this program, designed to aid jobless boys who have dropped out of school, would be money well spent."

* * * *

"IT WOULD provide the boys with a small amount of pay while doing much-needed conservation work in forestry camps," he went on. "Their education would be continued at the same time, and certainly some potential local and state government costs resulting from juvenile delinquency would have been averted."

'MORE LAWS NOT ANSWER'

Goldwater Clarifies Stand on Racism in Newport Talk

Sen. Barry Goldwater Saturday called upon President Kennedy to use "moral persuasion" to help solve racial problems.

The Arizona Republican, speaking before a press conference at Newport Beach, said "more laws are not the answer to racial issues and man must realize it is his problem and he must solve it."

He said President Kennedy should "use his powers in morally persuading business, civic and social leaders in the racially strife-torn South to get them to talk over their problems and realize how silly they are."

Goldwater said, however, that "if there is racial violence in the next few months, it will come not in the South but in the Northern cities. The racial problems in the North are ignored, but are much more prevalent than in the South."

Goldwater, the leading potential candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, refused to acknowledge that he will be in the running and described his position as "sitting around, waiting and watching."

He did say that he is not in favor of candidates running in primary elections, and that the nomination "should be fought out during the convention."

"My research indicates very few Presidents have been successful in both the primaries and the presidential election," he said.

SEN. AND MRS. Barry Goldwater cast appraising eyes Saturday upon a 7-pound, 13-ounce girl born Friday to their daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ross, in a Torrance hospital. At left is the baby's father, a surgeon. Dr. and Mrs. Ross have three other children, two girls and a boy.

Goldwater is in Southern California to visit his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ross, who gave birth to her fourth child, a 7-pound, 13-ounce girl, Friday at Little Company of Mary Hospital in Torrance.

Mrs. Ross' husband is a resident surgeon at Harbor General Hospital.

Goldwater said he will return twice more during the summer to Newport Beach, where his wife is vacationing. He leaves Monday for Washington, D. C.

KENNEDY CLAN'S FLEET DEPLOYED

JFK No Kite Flier but He Regains Aplomb as Sailor

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — President Kennedy tired to fly a kite from the stern of his yacht Saturday. He failed.

The Chief Executive and members of his family put to sea for an outing climaxed by Kennedy's attempt at kite-flying.

The kite, bird-shaped and bright yellow, red and black, was soaring about 50 feet above the vessel on lofted by Kennedy's friend, K. Lemoyne Billings. When Billings handed the fishing pole to Kennedy, the kite nosedived into the water.

The Kennedy and Billings apparently were flying the kite for the entertainment of the President's five-year-old daughter, Caroline. She was sitting in the stern of the White House yacht Honey Fitz beside her father.

* * * *

ALSO present were Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, the President's brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, and the First Lady's pet German shepherd, Clipper.

All, including Clipper, watched attentively.

Kennedy had some success later when the Honey Fitz docked and he gave Caroline another display of the seagoing capability of her two-year-old brother's new toy sailboat. The President had commandeered the three-foot vessel, a gift from Italian President Antonio Segni, from his son Friday to watch it from the beach outside his family's "compound" of homes.

White House newsmen and cameramen covering the presidential cruise in chartered boats of their own were unable to watch the latter event. Coast Guardsmen had been ordered to keep the press vessels a half mile from the Kennedy pier, while dozens of other small boats and a sightseeing vessel were allowed in close, and other spectators stood on the beach.

The 92-foot Honey Fitz was one of eight vessels in the Kennedy fleet Saturday. Others were the family-owned Marlin, a 53-foot motor cruiser; Kennedy's 22-foot racing sloop, Victura; the family's speedboat, the "Restovus;" a Coast Guard escort boat, two Secret Service waterjet speedboats and a local police launch.

* * * *

The President's other brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, sailed to the island on the Victura with their sister, Mrs. Eunice Shriver, and a batch of children, there were more than a dozen presidential nephews and nieces here.

The group on the Victura grounded the sailboat and picknicked on the beach. Part of the time, Caroline and Clipper were with them.

Thomas Schippers Scores in Italy

SPOLETO, Italy (AP)—American conductor Thomas Schippers scored a handsome success Saturday night conducting the Orchestra Sicilian of Palermo in Handle's "Messiah" at the Festival of Two Worlds.

The open-air performance in this Umbrian hill town attracted 5,000 persons. They filled the cathedral square to overflowing and many had to be content with hearing the masterpiece in side-streets by means of loudspeakers.

Hosmer Urges U.S. School-Prayer Vote

Congressman Craig Hosmer, R-Long Beach, has introduced a joint resolution calling for a constitutional amendment that would permit Bible-reading and prayers in public schools on a noncompulsory basis.

Hosmer said Supreme Court rulings on the subject "seem to prohibit Bible-reading and prayers in the schools even though they may be on a voluntary basis. Consequently, a constitutional amendment is required."

Key provision of Hosmer's proposal, introduced in the House, reads:

"The right to voluntarily offer, receive and to participate in the saying of nonsectarian prayers or the right to voluntarily read from and listen to the reading of the Holy Scriptures in the public schools and other public places shall not be denied or abridged."

2 Children Die, 8 Hurt in Intersection Collision

FONTANA (AP)—Two children were killed and eight other persons injured Saturday in a two-car collision two miles west of Fontana.

The accident occurred at the intersection of San Bernardino and Haven Avenues.

The dead were Rosie Galbraith, 11, of Mira Loma, and her sister, Carol Ann, 16, passengers in a car driven by their sister, Mrs. Lilly Mae Berfield, 21, also of Mira Loma.

Mrs. Berfield was injured along with another sister, Kathy Galbraith, 8, and Mrs. Berfield's sons, Joe, 5, and Mike, 3.

Driver of the other car, Lawrence Loomis, 53, of Montclair, and his passenger, John M. Gideon, 64, of Ontario, also were hurt.

The injured were treated at Ontario Community Hospital.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Soviet, Chinese Parley Is Secret

MOSCOW (AP)—With attacks on Premier Khrushchev still coming from Peking, Red Chinese and Soviet Communist party officials conducted Saturday their first full day of talks in the clash over communism's way to world supremacy.

Everything was in secret and the Soviet press avoided any direct plunge into the argument that has split the world's two largest Communist powers.

Leading the Chinese is Teng Hsaio Ping, short, broad-faced general secretary of the Chinese Communist party. He has six Chinese experts with him. Mikhail Suslov, a member of the Soviet Communist party presidium, is the chief Kremlin negotiator.

TV Award-Winner Air Victim

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Four Southern California men, including a prize-winning television producer, have been killed in a small-plane crash in Mexico, U.S. Customs officials reported Saturday.

THYSSEN

The crash occurred near the airport at the Baja California fishing resort of Mulege, 500 miles south of the U.S.-Mexico border.

Customs officers identified the dead as: George (Ty) Thyssen, 42, Woodland Hills, pilot of the plane and winner of the 1963 Grand Prix of the Cannes Film Festival for the best television commercial; Charles Harold Vallance, 42, Canoga Park, a design engineer for Douglas Aircraft Co.; Allen Charles Darrow, 32, Canoga Park, a computing engineer for Douglas, and Harold F. Blom, 49, Monrovia, a World War II veteran of the Swedish Air Force.

Body Found as Lost Ship Hunted

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A search craft reported it found a body and a variety of debris Saturday in a Caribbean Sea area being combed for the missing fishing boat Sno' Boy and 40 Jamaicans aboard it.

Coast Guard search and rescue headquarters at Miami got no immediate details from the search craft which radioed the report. The Coast Guard said the report came from the aircraft carrier Wasp, which had search planes in the area.

Ike Not for Rocky, Goldwater

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Former President Eisenhower is prepared to support any one of four prospective contenders for the Republican presidential nomination next year, the Philadelphia Inquirer reported Saturday, but they do not include New York Gov. Rockefeller or Sen. Goldwater, R-Ariz.

The Inquirer identified the four prospective contenders as Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania; Gov. George Romney of Michigan; Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky; and Gen. Lucius Clay, President Kennedy's personal representative in Berlin.

Yank Deserter Kills Border Guard

PASSAU, Germany (AP)—An American Army deserter Saturday shot and killed a West German border patrolman while fleeing into Austria, West German police reported.

Police said Edward Mannis, of Baltimore, Md., a 19-year-old soldier stationed with the 11th U.S. Cavalry in Straubing, Germany, killed border patrolman Franz Gruber, 34, with two shots from a revolver before he fled across the Danube River to Austria.

Killer Shaky, Remorseful

LINDEN, N.J. (AP)—Police took Richard (Teddy) Coleman, shaking and remorseful, to a funeral home Saturday to identify the bodies of his wife and sister-in-law, who authorities say were slain by him in a berserk shooting spree.

The burly, 36-year-old father of four also faced Mary Kaminski, the pretty 18-year-old blonde police said he abducted Friday night after slaying the women and shooting three other persons, including his brother. He was captured in Newark Saturday.

25 MILLION MEMBERS

Church of Christ Backing Merger

DENVER (AP)—The United Church of Christ authorized Saturday development of a plan to merge six Protestant denominations into a single church, possibly with as many as 25 million members.

The action came in a resolution passed by acclamation during the fourth general synod of the church, a two-million-member body created by a merger of Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Churches.

Other churches involved in preliminary discussions of the union are the Methodist, United Presbyterian, Protestant Episcopal, Disciples of Christ and Evangelical United Brethren.

The resolution is the first approved by any of the denominations to call for actual development of a merger plan.

• • • •

ITS PASSAGE came after one of the United Church of Christ representatives in the unity discussions said that progress in two years "has gone far faster than any of us would have dreamed at the start."

The spokesman, the Rev. David C. Coldwell of Washington, D.C., said he personally believes it will be possible to determine within four or five years whether a union of the churches will be possible or not.

Preliminary meetings were held in Washington last year and in Oberlin, Ohio, earlier this year.

A round of spontaneous applause followed passage of the resolution.

The resolution in no way committed the United Church of Christ to final approval of a merger.

• • • •

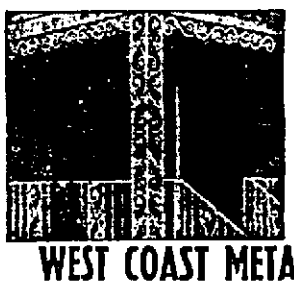

EIGHT PERSONS, two of them Negroes, were appointed by the United Church of Christ president, Dr. Ben M. Herbster of New York City, to conduct the new race-relations program voted Friday by the synod.

They are Mrs. Alfred C. Barthelomew, Lancaster, Pa., retiring assistant moderator of the general synod; Ashby E. Bladen of Glen Ridge, N.J., chairman of the church's executive board; the Rev. Sterling Carey, New York City, pastor of Grace United Church of Christ; the Rev. Nicholas Hood, Detroit, Mich., pastor of Plymouth United Church of Christ; the Rev. Dr. A. William Loos, New York City, president of the Council on Religion and International Affairs; the Rev. William C. Nelson, Akron, O., president of the United Church Board for World Ministries; the Rev. Dr. Roger Shinn, New York City, president of the church's Board for Homeland Ministries and professor of applied Christianity at Union Theological Seminary, and the Rev. Arnold Slater, Chattanooga, Tenn., pastor of Pilgrim Church.

Red Poland Liberalism May Tighten

WARSAW (UPI)—The Polish Communist Party's Central Committee ended an important meeting on ideology Saturday night and indicated a tightening of the nation's relatively liberal policies would take place.

The Polish news agency PAP reported the three-day session concluded after Communist Party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka called for the establishment of an "ideological commission" to supervise "intellectual activities."

The meeting's opening session Thursday featured an angry attack by Gomulka on the Polish Roman Catholic hierarchy.

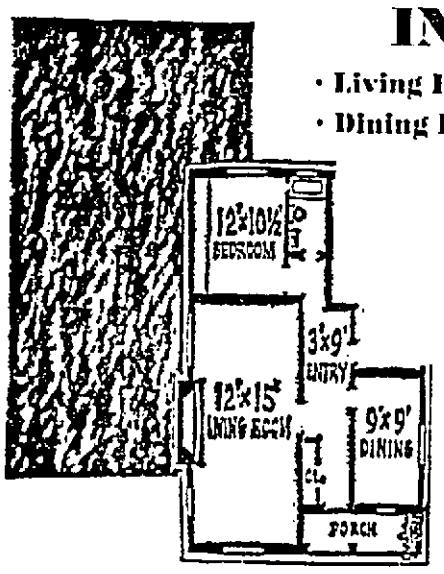

Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, primate of Poland and archbishop of Warsaw, is arriving back here by train from Rome today. There was speculation he may reply in a sermon tonight to some of Gomulka's criticisms.

Pickets Parade for Integration in Eastern Cities

By Associated Press

Integrationists picketed Saturday in Detroit, Danville, Va., and New York City while civil-rights leaders in Baltimore laid plans for another assault on the segregated Gwynn Oak Amusement Park.

In Chicago, the annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People concerned itself with reports of friction among youthful leaders of the organization.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, discounted reports of the friction between James Meredith, the first known Negro to attend the University of Mississippi, and other young leaders in the group.

Wilkins told a news conference that impatience and dissatisfaction of younger members was a vital force in the civil-rights movement.

Meredith had complained about "very low quality leadership present among our young Negroes and the childish nature of their activities."

• • • •

In Baltimore, meanwhile, Integrationists planned renewed racial demonstrations today at the privately owned Gwynn Oak Amusement Park.

About 260 persons, including some nationally known clergymen, were arrested in a demonstration at the park last Thursday.

Some were released on bail soon afterward and the balance left prison Friday night without having to post bail.

Although modest steps toward settlement of racial problems were being taken in Cambridge, Md., racial problems there appeared far from settled. The Cambridge Housing Authority said it had been directed by the city's mayor to go ahead with plans for a $1-million, 100-unit Negro housing project, one of the Negro demands.

But there still was a threat of a referendum to upset a city charter amendment which would require eating places and public accommodations to serve Negroes starting Aug. 19.

In Detroit, about 25 white youths jeered some 200 white and Negro paraders who were protesting what they termed racial housing discrimination.

• • • •

THE ALBEMARLE County school board in Charlottesville, Va., was dismissed after it refused to alter its stand to discontinue extracurricular sports activities when the county schools open in September with their first Negro students.

An integration leader in Clarksdale, Miss., predicted racial demonstrations Monday after the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. appears at a rally there.

Negroes in Savannah, Ga., voted to boycott stores on the main street unless demands for integration are met.

More than 500 persons attended a rally in New York's Harlem at which speakers called for increased employment opportunities and other rights for Negroes. The rally was sponsored by the Greater New York Coordinating Committee for Equal Opportunity.

In Philadelphia, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, top officer of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., urged white Christian laymen to demonstrate where necessary against racial segregation.

He was among the clergymen arrested in the Baltimore amusement park demonstration.

Negro Girl Slapped; White Man Jailed

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI)—A white man convicted of slapping a Negro girl who refused to move to the rear of a bus Saturday began 30 days on the county work gang.

Albert Samuel Boozer, 36, was ordered by City Judge T. Pou Taylor to pay a $100 fine or spend 30 days at hard labor. Boozer could not pay the fine.

The girl, 15, told the court she sat toward the front of the bus when she found the rear seats filled. She said Boozer ordered her to move to the rear and slapped her when she refused.

Soviet-Cuba Missiles Said Aimed at U.S. Guantanamo Naval Base

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban exile report said Saturday that Soviet missiles are pointed toward the U.S. Guantanamo Naval Base in Cuba from a nearby camp for use in case of an invasion.

The report, by Sentinels of Liberty, said: "It is urgent to investigate the zone of Yerba de Guinea, near Guantanamo, since there is a strange movement there of Russians dressed as civilians. No one is permitted to pass on the highway where they enter and leave.

"At this place, there has been installed a base of medium range directed missiles to be set off against the Guantanamo base in case an invasion is started there."

Sentinels of Liberty also reported 15 Castro soldiers were killed June 22 by guerrillas who ambushed them in the Escambray Mountains.

"Among the dead was Horacio Rodriguez, commander of the platoon," said the report, released by Luis Conte Aguero, president in exile of the Sentinels. "The bodies were buried at La Moza."

The report added that a new Castro batallion composed of bachelors was being formed to combat guerrillas in the Escambrays.

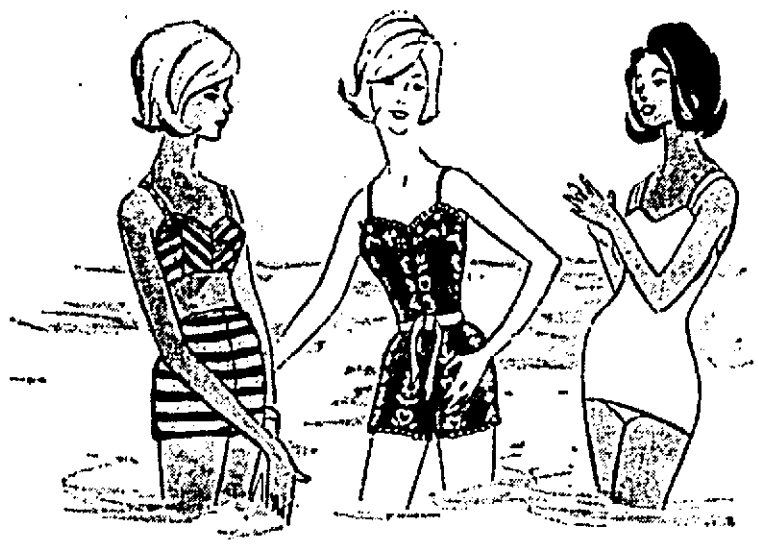

The anti-Castro organization said 104 Castro men who fought rebels in west-central Matanzas Province were hospitalized with a rare disease which doctors called "fungus of the caves."

The stricken, the report said, had pursued rebels hidden in caves near Jaguey Grande.

The refugee radio "Voice of the People" said Russians had taken over a base near the Managua-Mantilla highway southeast of Havana.

Analyze Studies on Tots' Deaths

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—In the last two weeks of June, 30 apparently healthy babies were put to bed here for the night and died—adding a new puzzle for medical researchers to unravel in their long study of so-called "crib deaths."

In reporting the rash of deaths Saturday, City Medical Examiner Joseph Spelman said he couldn't explain them.

• • • •

ASKED about a report that the recent high incidence of deaths might have resulted from a severe heat wave and dehydration of the victims, Dr. Spelman commented:

"It's true, more or less, that the deaths coincided with the heat wave . . . but . . . we had a couple more yesterday and there certainly was no heat wave."

And a pathologist who studied many of the crib death cases for Dr. Spelman's office, Dr. Marie Valdes Dapena, says some objective studies support the dehydration theory. But, she adds, "This is just one little brick in the wall."

Dr. Dapena, on the staff of St. Christopher's Hospital for children, said that in about 85 percent of the cases she lists the death cause as undetermined.

• • • •

SPELMAN said that Philadelphia annually averages about 150 crib death reports, with the highest incidence in the cooler months. Normally, the summer month average is about 5—compared with 15 a week for the last two weeks of June. It was in this period that Philadelphia experienced eight straight days of 90-plus temperatures.

The victims in this surge ranged in age from 2 weeks to 15 months.

Dr. Dapena's years-long research and that of others investigating this world-wide problem is underwritten in part by the Mark Addison Roe Foundation of New York City. It was established by a New York stock broker whose infant was among the victims of crib deaths.

She said that beyond many-faceted medical studies of the victims, exhaustive case histories are made to find clues. There are, she said, some significant figures, although they still don't provide the answer to the question "What caused death?"

Dr. Dapena reports that in 38 percent of the cases, the child victims were born prematurely.

• • • •

THE PARENTS who are checked "usually say they just don't know what happened."

Dr. Frederic Rieders, the city's chief toxicologist, said that among the 150 "crib deaths" in the city last year, he found an unknown red substance in the brains of 88 percent of the victims.

Rieders said the red substance also shows up in the brains of children who die of well established causes—but only about 20 percent of the time.

Haiti Bars Former U.S. Envoy as Visitor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Saturday night that Haiti has refused to let former Ambassador Raymond L. Thurston or his wife return to the Caribbean Island.

The State Department said the same action will be taken in the case of Dr. Louis Mars, the former Haitian envoy to the United States.

Thurston was in Washington for consultation when Haitian President Francois Duvalier asked that he be removed June 14. The United States bowed to the request. Haiti at the same time recalled Dr. Mars from Washington.

• • • •

SINCE THEN, the strained diplomatic relations between the two nations have been carried on at the charge d'affaires level.

However, Thurston and his wife had planned to return to Port-au-Prince to pick up their household goods and personal belongings and to say the formal good-byes to other diplomats required by protocol.

A State Department spokesman said there would be no problem for the Thurstons concerning their furnishings and personal goods because U. S. Embassy personnel in Port-au-Prince would see that they are returned to the United States.

• • • •

THE UNITED STATES has been increasingly cool toward Duvalier since it became apparent he intended to continue in office past the expiration of his term last May 15. Many American civilians in Haiti were removed from the tense island in May, and U. S. policy still opposes their return.

Haiti earlier had ordered some—but not all—U. S. military training and advisory groups out of the country.

Wallace Urges More Industry Near Farms

SOUTH SALEM, N.Y. (AP) — Former Vice President Henry A. Wallace said Saturday night the nation could reduce unemployment and gain security by putting more jobs within driving distance of the farm.

More small farmers, Wallace said, might be able to keep their farms if some member of the family could hold an industrial job while living on the farm.

"It might not make for the greatest efficiency, from one point of view," Wallace added, "but it would make for the greatest security of the country and greater stability of employment."

Wallace, former secretary of Agriculture and later secretary of Commerce, who in 1946 urged a plan for 60 million jobs by 1950, was commenting on the recent announcement that employment passed the 70-million mark last month.

• • • •

HE SAID the country should aim for 80 million jobs by 1970, but said we may fall short of this goal as we did his 60-million goal in 1950.

Wallace said that decentralization of industry, so that 80 percent of "the folks living in open country would be in driving distance of a job," would not solve the unemployment problem but would help to do so.

He said it also would help to keep the small farmer from being pushed off his land.

A study made in the area around Austin, Minn., he said, showed that the large farmer had a big advantage over the small farmer in proportionate income, but that this advantage lessened when some member of the small-farm family worked in a local packing plant.

• • • •

"FARM FOLKS are used to working," Wallace said, "and there's something to be said for having both types of experience.

"I shudder at the fact that only about eight percent of our children have the kind of background where you have to get the hay in if it's going to rain—to meet a problem, no matter what."

Wallace, the 74-year-old who retired to his farm here after his campaign for the presidency in 1948 under the Progressive Party banner, said he is too busy cross-breeding strawberries, gladiolus, and egg-laying chickens to talk about politics, the nation's economy or world events.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Government has stowed away 69 million cubic feet of records which costs more than $560,000 annually to store.

AT 200-FOOT PRESSURE

Navy to 'Sink' Trio in Two-Week Test

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A Navy physician disclosed Saturday that the Navy plans to put three men into a high-pressure tank in mid-August to see if they can live and work for two weeks in surroundings equivalent to those 200 feet under the sea.

Capt. George F. Bond, director of the Submarine Medical Research Laboratory in New London, Conn., made the disclosure in an address to the Underwater Society of America. The test chamber is in Washington.

Bond said the experiment will exceed considerably any previous efforts to expose men to great pressures for long periods.

The Navy men will be unable to get out any time they want to. In other outer space chamber experiments, subjects could get out when they desired.

Bond explained: "It takes at least 46 hours to decompress them, and even if one of them should die, the rest would have to sit with the corpse for that time. This is just an example of the kinds of stresses the men will face."

Human Factor Bogs Atomic Queen of the Seas

By JOSEPH D. HUTNYAN

Four years ago proud and jubilant speechmakers hailed the dawn of atomic sea travel and then watched the sleek nose of the nuclear ship Savannah splash into the Delaware River.

Today, memories of the launching cause embarrassment for some and others get fighting mad.

The $82 million Savannah—the world's first nuclear-powered merchant ship—was financed by the Federal Government as a shiny symbol of U. S. ingenuity in using the atom for peace.

At this moment the queen of sea-going commerce should be cruising to ports of the world. Instead, she lies silently in her Galveston, Texas, berth, her graceful bow nudged against a pier, the waves gently lapping at her gleaming white paint.

• • • •

SECRETARY of Commerce Luther H. Hodges is among those who have strong convictions on the subject. He claims the ship would really be the queen of the seas today if it weren't for the "defiant attitude" of the vessel's 29 reactor engineers who are embroiled in a labor dispute.

The Savannah was unable to sail in May because of the conflict. This so incensed Hodges that he canceled the government's contract with States Marine Line— the private carrier hired by the Commerce Department to operate the Savannah.

Critics of the Savannah project claim the labor dispute was merely the culmination of a series of blunders that started shortly after the ship's keel was laid.

• • • •

IT IS REGARDED as ironic that when the big breakdown came it was a human failure rather than mechanical.

Even the cause of this is a subject of bitter wrangling.

The Savannah had been plagued with labor problems for some time but the situation became serious only after an arbitration award which tied the wage scale of the engineers to those of the deck officers.

The engineers refused to accept this. The government was sympathetic to their arguments but wanted them to continue operating the Savannah while the award was being appealed.

• • • •

THEY REFUSED and, just before the vessel was due to sail last May 7, the engineers began shutting down her reactors.

Hodges charged that this was unjustified. A short time later, he canceled the contract with States Marine Line.

He suggested that the engineers should have been happy to comply with the government request to stay on their jobs, and even hinted it was their patriotic duty. He also noted that the engineers had been trained by the government and that a majority were under 30 years of age and were receiving from $14,000 to $22,000 a year.

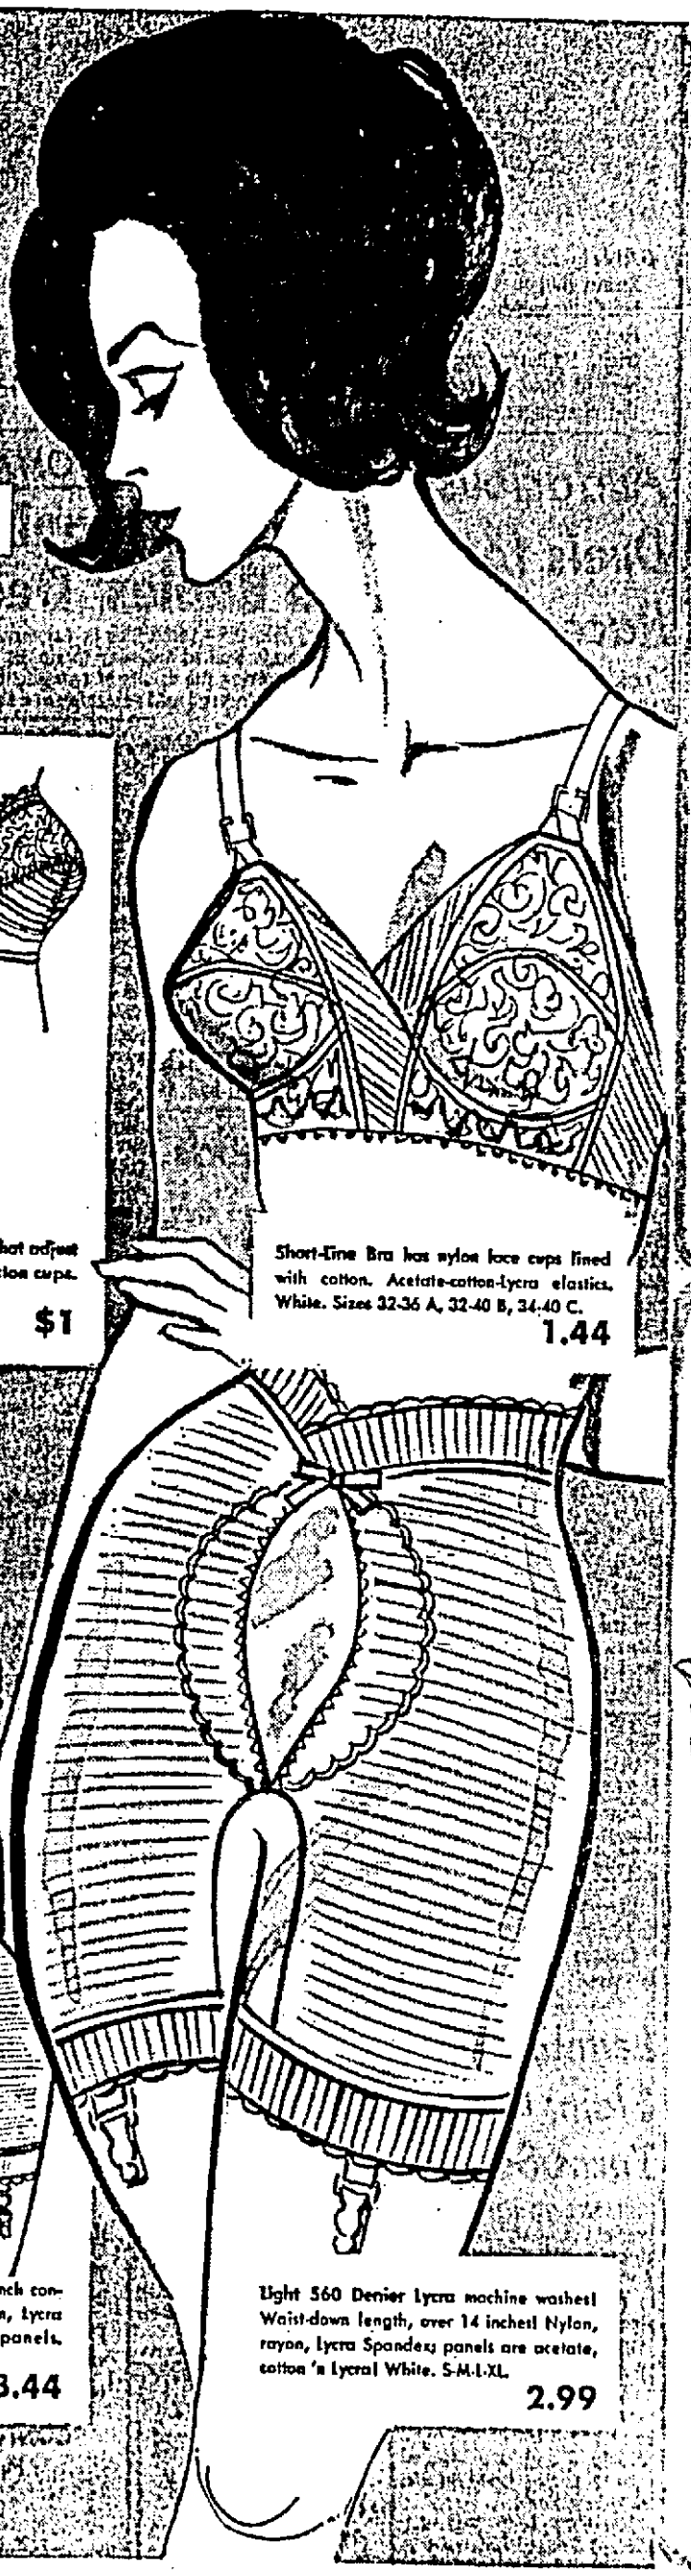

In their own defense, some of the engineers claimed their salaries seemed high but actually reflected long hours of overtime work, and many seven-day weeks.

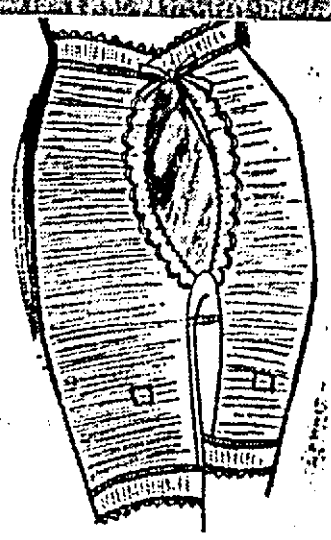

• • • •

THE GOVERNMENT has just contracted with the designer of the ship's power plant, Babcock & Wilcox Co., Lynchburg, Va., to train a new crew. The same firm trained the original crew.

ALCOHOL PERILS YOUTHS

Now 26, now an expectant mother and wife of a prominent local physician, Terri—along with several others in the group—told her dramatic story to a roomful of reformed alcoholics at a Long Beach AA meeting the other evening.

She couldn't have had a more sympathetic, more understanding audience. All had traveled the same road, experiencing their own tailor-made tragedies, ignoring the danger signals, ending in the same place. . . .

Trapped at the bottom of a bottle.

• • • •

LIKE TERRI, most of those present were attractive, vibrant articulate people. Many hold responsible positions in the community (only 3 percent of the nation's 8 million alcoholics are skid row type).

Most had staggered through the Valley of the Shadow, had found, in AA, the spiritual spark and strength to live again. And, with the spark, a vibrant, joyous life that is fuller, more compassionate than ever before.

There were these parallels among those who told their stories: In their drinking days, most thought they were too intelligent to become a drunk. When it happened, they blamed situations, people, things. Never themselves. Life had dealt them a bitter blow. . . .

And most admitted they'd started drinking when they were teenagers!

• • • •

WHAT WILL Terri tell her own child if the problem of alcohol arises?

"Of course, I'm a walking-talking example of why my child — any child — shouldn't drink. My husband and I have agreed that the answer is to build a strong foundation, a wholesome home life, a solid means of communication — so that if the problem of alcohol should arise, we can cope with it in the same manner as other problems."

Another AA's theory: "According to statistics, 13 out of 100 who drink socially, become addicted, become powerless over the disease of alcoholism. I'll point out to my son that the person who never takes the first drink cannot become an alcoholic."

• • • •

HOW SERIOUS is the teen-age drinking problem?

Here are some of the statistics:

California attorney general Stanley Mosk reports that 85 percent of the 17,000 teen-agers in custody of the California Youth Authority got their start from drunkenness, either their own or that of friends and relatives.

A survey of 1,000 youths between the ages of 15 and 17 by Gilbert Youth Research Co. Inc. indicated that 79 percent had had one or more alcholic drinks in their lives. Fifty-six percent of the boys and 39 percent of the girls said they drank beer often; while 35 percent of the boys, 20 percent of the girls conceded they frequently downed cocktails or soft drinks spiked with hard liquor.

Capt. Paul Landsdowne of the Long Beach Juvenile Division reports that, last year, 281 youths (between the ages of 14 and 17) were taken into custody because of drinking). Most of the cases in the 16-17 age group in some way involved a car. (Seriousness of this is reflected in statistics from the Standard Report of Alcohol Involvement in Fatal Motor Vehicle Traffic Accidents, in which a study of five California counties shows that 254 of 488 drivers killed in accidents last year had been drinking).

Captain Landsdowne believes that for every teen-age drinker who has been picked up, there are 10 others who have not. "We have more than 600 running miles of street in Long Beach and it's physically impossible to patrol all places at all times."

• • • •

WHERE DOES the problem start?

Some say in the home.

Others say it develops from individual personality problems.

Still others blame our modern-way of life in which, on the one hand, alcohol is glorified, on the other scorned.

The diehard Women's Christian Temperance Union charges that all alcohol problems are now rooted in the home, where children learn to indulge by watching their parents get potted—regularly.

Surveys by the Yale Center of Alcoholic Studies have shown that college students who drink most come from heavy-drinking families.

And Dr. Herman D. Goldberg, head of the Hofstra College psychology department, who has made studies of teen-age drinkers, says teen-agers copy the drinking habits of their parents, and greater freedom in mother's drinkings is likely to be reflected in the daughter's. Currently, more boys than girls drink, reflecting the pattern of their elders.

Another theory, this one expressed by a local judge: if there is any drinking among a group of teen-agers, it is difficult for would-be nondrinkers to abstain. It's a normal psychological pattern for teenagers to follow the herd."

• • • •

THE 64-DOLLAR question: should parents insist on total abstinence among their teen-age children?

Captain Landsdowne of the Juvenile Division says yes.

"There is a time in life for everything," says he. "The teen-age period is no time to experiment with alcohol, any more than it is a time to experiment with sex.

"Teen-agers are not emotionally equipped to cope with the effects of alcohol and its resulting problems," he emphasized.

Dr. I. D. Litwack, city health officer, believes that, as in other diseases, prevention is the most realistic approach to the problem of alcoholism.

He points out that in Long Beach, as in the nation, alcoholism is a major public-health problem, surpassed only by heart disease, cancer and tuberculosis.

He sees the need for more education at the teen-age level to acquaint that age group with alcoholism; what it is, how it affects the body, its sociological and psychological affects.

• • • •

TODAY, in the problem of alcoholism, psychiatry is working with AA. The churches are working with psychiatry. Medicine is working with all. Business, labor, the schools, law enforcement, clubs, lawyers and the public are looking for "the key". . .

Most important of all, public education has not only increased the attention of all to this expensive, heartbreaking problem, but also has tended to lessen the moral stigma from the issue.

With this, the alcoholic can face his problem sooner and more squarely —and all of us can help him do so.

BANTERING BELLE BALKS BAR BENDER

Strain though he will, moviehouse doorman Trevor Smallman cannot unbend the half-inch steel bar he bent around the neck of 10-year-old Laurian Healy. Hacksaw used by firemen in Worcester, England, finally did the trick. Embarrassing moment came for the strongman, who was bending bars in front of theater to publicize a movie, when Laurian piped up with the challenge: "My Dad's stronger than you."

Audacious Duels for Race Lead

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The 74-foot ketch Ticonderoga and the 72-foot yawl Audacious waged a close duel Saturday for the front-running position in the 2,225-mile transpacific yacht race to Honolulu.

At the morning roll call—only official position announcement daily—the Ticonderoga, owned by Robert F. Johnson, Portland, Ore., led the field with a distance of 363 miles from the Los Angeles Harbor starting point.

• • • •

THE AUDACIOUS, owned by Baldwin M. Baldwin, Newport Harbor, was only 5 miles behind and on the same parallel in the biennial yachting classic which decides its winners on a handicap basis.

The Australian schooner Astor was reported third, about 8 miles behind the Audacious. She was some 35 miles south of the two yachts leading her.

The 75-foot ketch Kamalii, which set the pace Friday, still was holding a good position, some 346 miles out of Los Angeles Harbor.

• • • •

BEHIND the Kamalii, in the following order, were: Tenderfoot II, 339 miles; Orient, 324 miles; John P. Scripps' scratch boat, Novia del Mar, 323 miles; Ichiban, 322 miles; Legend, 321 miles, and Queen Mab, Rascal and Copper Head, all 317 miles.

The yacht making the best corrected time over the course will win the over-all honors.

Class leaders on a handicap basis were:

Class A—Audacious, Ticonderoga and Astor.

Class B—Tenderfoot II, Ichiban and Legand.

Class C — Starlight, Rascal and Patronilla.

Class D—Tiare, Tyboon and Islander.

Lennox Man Slain; Knifer Turns Self In

EL MONTE (CNS)—A 25-year-old man walked into El Monte police station Saturday and reportedly confessed to the stabbing of a Lennox electronics engineer.

Kenneth Calvin Cole, El Monte, reportedly told police he didn't know why he killed Edward Marable, 40, whom he met in a bar on the night of July 4 and then stabbed with a paring knife in the engineer's home.

Marable's body was discovered Friday. Cole said he surrendered after hearing reports of the slaying on the radio.

Sheriff's Det. Sgt. Robert Chapman said the suspect is employed by a Pasadena exterminator company.

Marable, an employe of Hughes Aircraft and a member of the Inglewood Symphony Orchestra, was found sitting on a stool propped against an organ in his home.

Tri-State Inquiry Into Babies' Deaths

OZARK, Ark. (AP)—Authorities in Arkansas, New Mexico and California worked Saturday to tie the threads of a bizarre case involving the deaths of two infant girls whose decomposed bodies were found yesterday in a shallow mountainside grave.

Police at Albuquerque, N.M., said the father of the children contends one died of natural causes and the other smothered accidentaly while sleeping with an older sister in a station wagon.

A map sent to Arkansas state police from Albuquerque led to the bodies which were wrapped in a yellow blanket under a thin cover of earth. A huge rock and some brush were piled on the grave.

• • • •

CAPT. PAUL McDonald of the state police said both infants were about three months old.

McDonald said that the children apparently died March 18 in a roadside park at Russellville, 37 miles east of the gravesite, and charges, if any, probably would be filed there.

Prosecutor Jeff Mobley of Russellville said a group of at least three adults and several children camped out in the park when they ran out of money.

McDonald said the story of the burial came out when the parents of the mother of one of the girls, a Santa Ana, Calif., woman, asked her where her baby was. She provided the name of the Albuquerque man who is being held, police said, on a charge of robbing a motel.

• • • •

ALBUQUERQUE police got the location of the grave. They said the man offered to take a lie-detector test to prove his story about the deaths. He said the baby who died of natural causes was "always sick."

Police withheld names of the principals pending further investigation.

State Leads in Auto Toll

Compiled from Wire Reports

California again led the nation in traffic deaths Saturday night as the long Fourth of July holiday weekend entered its final 30 hours.

As of 9:30 p.m. PDT, the latest United Press International survey showed that 40 persons had lost their lives in traffic accidents since the 102-hour holiday period began at 6 p.m. Wednesday. Southern California accounted for 23 fatalities, northern California 17.

In addition, 15 persons lost their lives in other holiday mishaps, bringing the total to 55. Seven persons drowned, two were killed in a boating accident and six others were killed in miscellaneous accidents.

• • • •

TRAFFIC deaths on the nation's highways reversed an earlier trend and took an upturn in the long Independence Day weekend Saturday and the heavy traffic of homeward bound motorists was yet to come.

Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council, said Saturday night the trend indicated highway deaths might exceed the record high of 509 set in 1961, the most recent four-day July 4 observance.

An Associated Press tabulation at midnight Saturday reported 383 deaths in traffic accidents, 33 in boating accidents and 101 by drowning.

DEMOCRATIC STATE Chairman William L. Coleman and former Gov. Michael V. DI Salle, a recent dinner guest at the White House, said the reports were news to them. Republican State Chairman Ray C. Bliss, who has masterminded some major GOP victories, said he had heard nothing of any move to put Glenn into the race.

THERE WAS no word from Glenn but reports have filtered out from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) in Texas that Glenn might soon put aside his actual space work to become a public-relations man for the agency.

2 Policemen Arrested in Bandit Chase

two-year veteran of the Torrance force.

The car, still bumping southward, was rammed by the Los Angeles cruiser. Jumping a curb, it hit a house at 1044 W. 130th St.

The driver, identified as Roger L. Jacobson, 25, of 3610 St., surrendered a .38-caliber service revolver to Funk and Tietgen. Then, they said, he tried to reach into a trouser pocket for a .25-caliber automatic pistol.

Both men were taken to Los Angeles' 77th Street police sub-station where, under questioning, Jacobsons reportedly admitted the robbery to Det. Sgt. Robert Sluder. He was booked on suspicion of grand theft, personal.

• • • •

KEITH WAS interrogated by Torrance officers who said similar charges would be brought against him.

During the questioning, the blond Jacobsen said that he and Keith flipped a coin to decide which would actually grab the money. He said the dark-haired Keith "lost" the toss and accosted the women.

The women, however, said the actual stickup was committed by a blond.

Jacobsen was quoted by Sgt. Sluder as saying the pair had planned the robbery for several months.

WEEK IN REVIEW

U.S. Scrutinizes Atomic-Test-Ban Offer for Bugs

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev opened the door to a nuclear test ban treaty this week—but with strings attached.

He said Russia was ready to talk about a pact covering all tests except those underground, conditioned on the signing of a nonaggression agreement between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and its Communist counterpart, the Warsaw Alliance.

Was he dead serious? Are there prospects that West and East will finally get together on the major obstacle to disarmament? Or was he dangling propaganda bait to take the heat off President Kennedy's European tour achievements?

The President went into long sessions with his top advisers to sift the offer for bugs. Khrushchev made his proposal in Red East Berlin in the wake of Mr. Kennedy's triumphant visit to free West Berlin. But it was regarded as of some significance.

The United States, Russia and Britain open new test-ban talks in Moscow July 15 with Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman representing the President. However, Khrushchev's conditions raised questions whether he was sincere.

He reiterated his nonsurrender policy to U. S. demands for on-site inspection against secret underground tests, asserting this would amount to "espionage" on Soviet territory.

* * * *

KHRUSHCHEV'S use of the word espionage has an ironic echo. The Federal Bureau of Investigation seized a Soviet United Nations employe and his wife in New York and a Washington alien couple on charges of conspiring over the past six years to steal U. S. military secrets for the Kremlin.

Only a few days earlier the State Department had ordered Soviet Embassy Attache Gennadiy G. Sevastyanov to leave the country at once for attempting to recruit for espionage an alien employe of the hush-hush Central Intelligence Agency. The department said the diplomat tried to coerce the alien, a Russian, by threatening measures against his family in the Soviet Union.

Arrested by the FBI were Ivan D. Egorov, $10,000-a-year personnel officer attached to the U. N. secretary general's office, his wife, Alexsandria, and the Washington couple known as Robert K. and Joy Ann Baltch, names borrowed illegally from an Amsterdam, N. Y., Catholic priest and a Connecticut housewife.

The Soviet embassy protested the Egorov arrests, asserting the pair was entitled to diplomatic immunity. It warned that Soviet-American relations could be damaged. The State Department replied curtly that they did not have immunity and thus were subject to prosecution and imprisonment if found guilty.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy cautioned that the Communists were stepping up their espionage activities all over the world. He called the Baltch couple "illegals." These are persons who come to the U. S. as members of diplomatic missions and adopt American identities.

Britain also was having espionage troubles with American angles. The London government disclosed that British newsman Harold Philby, former British counter-intelligence chief in Washington, had gone behind the Iron Curtain. Philby vanished last January from Beirut, Lebanon, where he represented the London Sunday Observer.

* * * *

IN HIS EAST Berlin speeches, Khrushchev again called for conclusion of a German peace treaty because "the Damocles sword of war hangs over the world." But he was not as didactic as usual except to declare the Oder-Neisse border between East Germany and Poland can never be altered.

He riterated his policy of peaceful coexistence in the face of serious ideological difficulties with Red China which favors destroying capitalism through war. A Red Chinese delegation arrived in Moscow Friday to discuss the split and got a cold reception. No Russians of note were in the welcoming party.

Khrushchev declared that "only lunatics" would try to overthrow capitalism by going to war. He also defended the Communist-built Berlin wall as "the legal frontier" of the East German Republic which "serves the cause of peace." President Kennedy, while in Berlin, had branded it a pen to keep freedom-loving people from leaving.

Mr. Kennedy returned from abroad convinced that his trip had forged a more powerful NATO alliance in dealing with Russia. In Naples, Italy, he again called for greater allied trust and an end to "self-sufficient nationalism." This was an obvious jibe at French President Charles de Gaulle who has weakened the alliance with his go-it-alone nuclear and economic course for "an independent Europe."

In remarks broadcast over Voice of America, the President said every American has every reason to be proud of this nation's reputation and standing in Europe. "In every country," he said, "I found a deep conviction in our common goals, the unity of the West, the freedom of man, the necessity for peace." He did not visit France.

* * * *

THE CHIEF executive was received in audience by Pope Paul VI who praised his efforts to attain world peace and toward racial equality in the United States. It was reported the pontiff would visit the U. S. later but not before the 1964 presidential election for fear it would be miscontrued politically.

The President's brother, the attorney general, wound up three days of testimony before Congress in defense of Mr. Kennedy's far-ranging racial rights legislation. Crux of the bill is a public accommodations proviso to give Negroes the right to be served in all business establishments. Kennedy denied Republican and conservative Democratic charges that this "would shackle business" but he added that the President does not want to apply a yardstick to small establishments which have no appreciable effect on interstate commerce.

Republicans said the administration's appeal for their help in passing the bill was a confession that the White House had lost control of its Democratic majority. Most Southern Democrats are pledged to try to kill the program. The GOP said the Democrats would have to take the lead in working out any compromise on public accommodations.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., will open hearings on the legislation July 16.

* * * *

IN OTHER racial front developments the AFL-CIO's building trades unions ordered its locals to halt all forms of racial discrimination; a special three-judge court in Alexandria, Va., ruled that Virginia's law requiring segregated seating in theaters was unconstitutional; North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford pledged an end to discrimination in hiring for state jobs and urged private employers to follow suit; the National Education Association urged an end to segregation in its local affiliates and decided to look into the possibility of merging with the predominantly Negro American Teachers Association; hecklers prevented Democratic Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago from making a speech at a NAACP audience after he had led a Negro-white parade in a freedom rally; the Catholic archbishop of Omaha, Neb., ordered all parishioners in his diocese to help end "indignities perpetrated against minority groups"; Negroe leaders held a "summit" meeting in New York to organize a campaign of "unprecedented magnitude" on behalf of the President's bill; NAACP decided among other things to work for the defeat of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and other members of Congress next year who fail to support the civil rights legislation.

Reassign Salvation Army Man

Capt. and Mrs. Robert J. Stillwell, commanding officers for the Long Beach Citadel Corps, Salvation Army, for the past three years, have been reassigned.

They will report to the Salvation Army School in San Francisco after July 1.

Major and Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, corps officers in Sacramento, will take command of the Long Beach corps.

During his term here Capt. Stillwell conducted a campaign which provided the funds for the new Citadel to be constructed at Spring Street and Elm Avenue. He also was in charge of the annual Salvation Army summer conference and camp meetings in Municipal Auditorium.

Mrs. Capt. Stillwell was an active member of Soroptimist, Church Women, Ministers' Wives and other groups.

South Rhodesia Riot Insurance Rate High

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — Insurance rates on riot damage are so high in Southern Rhodesia these days that the City Council of Bulawayo—this British Colony's second biggest town — has refused to renew protection on its buildings.

The council decided not to take out riot insurance when it was told it would have to pay 5,000 pounds ($14,000) premium for coverage of 100,000 pounds ($280,000). On top of this the council would have had to pay the first 1,000 pounds ($2,800) of each loss.

Racial conflict in the drive for independence has stirred frequent rioting over the past several months.

Omarr Reads the Stars

By SYDNEY OMARR

FORECAST FOR TODAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Excellent day for catching up on reading and research. Break from routine at past week. Pleasure can be had by being with family. Try to gain spiritual understanding.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Good lunar aspect today emphasizes adherence to principles. Also good for sharing of knowledge and love. Display real understanding. Offer sympathy instead of "preaching."

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20): Spiritual guidance offers much, if you will absorb lessons. Better time for finishing projects than for starting new ones. Be practical, and don't neglect ideals. Combine effort with humor.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Be quiet within. Answers you seek are there, if you permit them to "come through." Self-analysis holds sway. Understand yourself before criticizing others. Avoid worries.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Wonderful day to "bank creative fires." Get something on paper. Follow through on hobbies, projects. New mental horizons open up. Perspective due to enlarge.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Favorable lunar aspects highlight travel, dealings with members of opposite sex. Obtain joy through children, amusements, change of routine. Plan for future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Have strength of convictions. Stand up for what is right. Seek harmony within family circles. Encourage creative efforts of others by example of appreciation, understanding.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You are active, you get around, and impress others. Be sure you are also realistic. Means don't do things merely to make impressions. Be true to your own principles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Key is harmony. Means an time for squabbles. Don't spread efforts too thin. Instead—concentrate. Finish what you start. Don't allow impulse to rule decisions concerning money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Seeking perfection could cause frayed nerves. Cycle remains high. You game must by hardy, selfless attitude in plain words, be a good "sport." Then you earn greater respect.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Tremendous chance to display ability, talents. Shake off fear of unknown. Read Taurus message for good hint. Give your all. Whatever you do, do it with enthusiasm.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Wonderful day for socializing. Bowing with friends, articulating hopes, wishes. Don't be afraid to express unusual ideas. Others respond favorably to your suggestions.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are fond, basically conservative and extremely sensitive to the rights of others are concerned.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Accept responsibilities which go with friendship, fulfilling of wishes. Means take mature attitude. Do for others what you would like them to do for you. Prove yourself worthy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Spread influence through advertising, personal appearances. Assert your position and stick to it. Make sure you are not "bluffed" into sudden change.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Take long-range view and attitude. Don't be petty. Total your score as you can see matters as a whole. Exercise originality of thought, action. Lead rather than follow.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Some want you to move too quickly. Instead, heed your own counsel. Take your time, especially where spending, investigations are concerned. Be sure you have your partner "on your side."

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Fight for beliefs. But also be aware that constructive criticism can work in your favor. Means be practical. Push a little, retreat a bit. Apply strategy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Cooperation is key. You may require help from fellow workers, friends. Moderation is a necessity. Avoid extremes. Check flaws personality. Make this a day when your shoes are shoe box sure.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Lunar position emphasizes adventure, vacation, romance. Exciting days be active mentally as well as physically. Read new papers to obtain new knowledge and insights.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Your need for harmony, appreciation much in evidence. But don't fall for false flattery. Keep feet on ground. Evaluate statements, promises. Rather trust those who were loyal in past.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Good lunar aspect highlights relations with relatives, short journeys. Communications. Write, read, express yourself. Good evening for attending theater or performance playhouse.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Be true to your own ideals. This does not mean you have to be unreasonable, rigid. You can gain inner satisfaction through simplicity of approach. Show love and your "best side."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Cycle high. You make tremendous impression if you display faith in your own abilities. Clue obtained from Libra message. Stress creative aspects. Show that you can "perform" as well as criticize.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't neglect those who may be confused or sympathetic. Prove sensitivity to those in love. Many favorable lines begin to manifest themselves today!

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are very sensitive, creative, able and willing to help others.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Too many expect too much. World economy in spotlight.

Two Named to Top Ad Posts

Appointment of Warren Mitchell as retail advertising manager and Stanley Schafer as national advertising manager of the Independent, Press-Telegram has been announced by Don Nutter, advertising director of the newspapers.

Mitchell replaces James Duncan, former retail advertising manager, who becomes assistant to the publisher in charge of advertising on the News in Garden Grove. Schafer comes to the Long Beach newspapers from the Pasadena Independent, Star-News.

Mitchell has been national advertising manager of the Independent, Press-Telegram since 1955. He had previously been an advertising account executive in the New York office of Ridder-Johns, Inc., then national advertising representatives of the newspapers. From 1948 to 1952, he was employed in retail advertising departments of the St. Paul, Minn. Dispatch, Pioneer-Press. Mitchell has been president of the Long Beach Sales Executives Club, a member of the Food Sales Club, the National Sales Development Committee of the Newspaper Advertising Executives Assoc. and has been engaged in local Chamber of Commerce activities.

After graduation from the University of Southern California in 1951, Schafer joined the Los Angeles office of Maloney, Regan & Schmidt, newspaper advertising representatives, remaining with the firm until 1958 when he joined the Pasadena Independent, Star-News national advertising department, subsequently becoming its manager in 1960. He has been active in Pasadena food industries associations.

From now until Aug. 18, when the contest closes, camera fans will have an opportunity to try their luck for prizes ranging up to $1,000. In addition, weekly winners will be able to share $200 in savings bonds. The weekly winners — 48 in all — will be announced every Sunday in Southland Magazine starting July 14.

From the 48 winners, the top eight will be chosen for entry in the Eastman National Snapshot Contest in Washington, D.C., where their photographs will compete for $31,000 in cash awards.

The eight winners in the national competition will receive $1,000 cash and an all-expense-paid trip to the capital for themeselves and one member of their family. Second place winners in the Eastman contest will receive $500 each, third place winners, $250. Beyond that, there are numerous $50 and $25 awards for runners-up.

• • • •

CONTESTANTS are reminded that they needn't have special equipment to take their photos. Cameras that cost less than $10 have just as much chance of snapping a prize-winning photo as some of the more expensive jobs.

As Bryan Hodgson, one of the judges says:

"What matters is not what a photographer uses—but how he uses it."

• • • •

JUDGES will accept both black-and-white and color photos. In each case, the entries will be judged in four classifications: babies and children, activities, scenes and tabletops, and animal life.

Thus eight winners—one from each category in black-and-white, and one from each category in color—will be chosen weekly.

• • • •

CONTESTANTS are reminded that they can enter as many as four pictures each week. Moreover, any snapshot taken after July 1, 1962, is eligible.

Entries should be addressed to the Snapshot Contest Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram.

The rules will be printed every Sunday, starting today, in Southland Magazine.

ICC to Probe Ogden-L.A. Rail Switch Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) has ordered an investigation of the Union Pacific Railroad's plans to discontinue and reschedule its passenger service between Ogden, Utah and Los Angeles.

The railroad had filed notice June 12 that it planned to discontinue its trains 9 and 10 between Ogden and Los Angeles and schedule train 103 and 104, effective July 15.

In ordering the investigation the ICC ordered the trains continued under present schedule for four months from the date the Union Pacific had planned to alter service.

Litterbug to Clean Highway

JACKSON, Mo. (AP) — Thomas Heyde threw a beer can onto U.S. 61 the other day. Magistrate Roland Busch gave him a choice: spend 60 days in jail or two Sundays picking up litter along the highway. Heyde, who is in his 20s, chose to policing the road.

Girl Space Aid Favors 2 Shifts for Shut-Eye

By LEE CRAIG
Aerospace Editor

A pretty space psychologist at North American Aviation's Downey plant thinks the world has formed the wrong sleep habits.

Carol Couchman, tanned, attractive Poly High and Long Beach State College graduate, approves of the standard eight hours of shut-eye a night.

However, she believes it should be broken into two four-hour periods. This, she contends, would increase efficiency, permit more effective round-the-clock utilization of workers and ease the peak-hours traffic problem.

—Staff Photos

EIGHT HOURS OF SLEEP is good—but two four-hour naps are better, say Carol Couchman and her mother, Mrs. Elsie Cole, both psychologists.

• • • •

CAROL AND HER MOTHER, Mrs. Elsie Cole, also a research psychologist for the aerospace firm's Space and Information Systems Division, occasionally form a mother-daughter team at NAA.

The pair, plus Carol's sister, Virginia, all attended Long Beach State at the same time several years ago. Virginia now teaches speech at Buena Park High School.

One project on which Carol and her mother worked together was a recent experiment to test the ability of men to work effectivly in a simulated space station environment.

Four men entered the imitation station and remained for seven days. They were given various tasks to perform similar to those which would be required by a space station crew while their behavior was monitored through closed-circuit television.

• • • •

THE 24-YEAR-OLD psychologist noted then that the men on the split-sleep regimen displayed more efficiency than those who slept a full eight hours.

She had previously tested her theory to her own satisfaction a year previously while combining work with a course of studies at Long Beach State.

"I never felt better—or accomplished so much—in my life," she says.

Carol, because of her youth and attractiveness, is often mistaken for a secretary by other NAA scientists, who, in this belief, occasionally ask her to type letters for them.

She has a simple answer to their request.

"I can't type," she tells them truthfully.

Wade and Kealer Main Prospects for Mayor

Observers Uncertain of Winner

By GEORGE WEEKS

Two days in advance of the election by the nine city councilmen, Mayor Edwin W. Wade and former Mayor Raymond C. Kealer are the main prospects for a new three-year team as Long Beach's chief officer.

Most councilmen professed to be uncertain of the result. And none was revealing how he will vote.

Following the expiration of the old council's term at midnight tonight, the city will get along without a mayor until the triennial election shortly after 9 a.m. Tuesday.

City Clerk Margaret E. Heartwell will be the acting mayor and will preside over the balloting.

If precedent is followed, the voting will be done secretly on small slips of paper distributed to councilmen by the clerk.

• • • •

The change in councilmanic terms will take place quietly, the new or re-elected members assuming office Monday without ceremony. Most of them have already been sworn in individually.

This year's re-election of seven incumbent councilmen is a contrast with the 1960 outcome, when five new members were chosen and were able to control the election of a mayor and vice mayor. They did so at an informal caucus prior to the official vote.

Unlike many cities, Long Beach pays its mayor exactly the same salary as other councilmen — $200 monthly. He does get perquisites such as a private office, a staff and a $600 annual expense allowance (seldom enough to cover his costs).

The mayor is also a member of five county sanitation district boards which pay $25 fees each for attendance at semi-monthly meetings. Wade, however, has not attended such meetings, delegating that duty to Vice Mayor Bond.

• • • •

MISSING from the council table Tuesday will be two former members of strikingly contrasting types.

Virgil H. Spongberg, quiet but active, has served 14 years in all and nine years continuously. He has been generally regarded as the stabilizing influence during periods of councilmanic stress.

Councilman Andrew Baird, defeated by Hayes, triggered many of those hectic moments. His flamboyant dissents and frequent verbal assaults on other officials produced uproars at nearly every session. He is the only councilman ever to be fined by his colleagues.

At the last meeting of the term on Tuesday, however, they apparently forgave him, adopting a motion wishing him well. It was an afterthought to a formal resolution of praise and a standing ovation for Spongberg.

SHE'LL INVITE ATLANTIC CITY

Puff Derby Champion Envoy of World Fair

Fran Bera, seven-time winner of the Powder Puff Derby, officially will represent the California World's Fair at Long Beach in this year's race from Bakersfield to Atlantic City, N.J., starting July 13.

As good-will ambassador for the fair, she will carry a plaque for presentation to Atlantic City's mayor, inviting him and other residents of the city to the 1967-68 Long Beach event.

Mrs. Bera, chief pilot for Belmont Aviation at Long Beach Municipal Airport, has won the derby—formally known as the All-Woman Transcontinental Air Race—six times as pilot and once as copilot. No other entrant has won more than twice.

• • • •

FLYING a new Beechcraft Bonanza, she will compete without a copilot in the 47-plane field.

Also flying alone will be Mrs. Judy Wagner of 2516 Via La Selva, Palos Verdes Estates, likewise in a Bonanza. Mrs. Wagner, who holds a commercial license with 800 hours flying time, flew in the derby last year for the first time.

Others in the race from this area include Doris Eddy, 3927 Cerritos Ave., and Treasure Zimmerman, 7151 Atlantic Ave., in a Piper Comanche.

Mrs. Eddy, also an 800-hour commercial licensed pilot, will be flying in her second derby. Her copilot, Mrs. Zimmerman, holds a private pilot's license with 54 hours logged.

• • • •

BETTY HICKS, former Long Beach resident and nationally known woman golfer, will be among participants. She will act as copilot for Dee Thurmond of Santa Clara who, with an airline transport rating and 17,000 hours, will be the most experienced pilot in the race.

The derby is flown only in daylight hours and aircraft are carefully handicapped to give all entrants an equal chance. Take-off time from Bakersfield's Meadows Field will be 8 a.m., with entertainer Danny Kaye as honorary starter.

Following take-off of the racers will be an air show featuring the Navy's aerobatic team, the Blue Angels and Army parachutists.

The 8646th's subordinate unit, the 9624th Air Force Reserve Recovery Squadron, commanded by Lt. Col. Lee Clingan, Downey, also will be at the Oxnard fighter base Aug. 4-17.

Personnel of the two recovery units will be intergrated with regular personnel at the Oxnard Air Force Base for "on-the-job" training.

• • • •

ADMINISTRATIVE and personnel facilities at the Long Beach Base, Spring St. and Redondo Ave., will remain open while the units are in Oxnard.

There are some openings for airmen with prior service in the Long Beach units. Men are on pay status and drill one weekend monthly. Information may be obtained from the personnel office which is open Tuesday through Saturday from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Baker President of School Board in La Mirada

James B. Baker, 1962-63 vice president of the Norwalk-La Mirada City School District Board of Education has been named president for the coming year.

Baker first was elected to the Board in 1958 and was re-elected for a four-year term last April. He succeeds Leonard Delk who retired from the board on July 1.

Warren Escobar, a member of the board since 1958 also, was elected vice president for the 1963-64 term.

Asks Brown to Restore College Cuts

I. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—Gov. Brown Saturday was asked by a Long Beach State College spokesman for the Association of California State College professors to resubmit all budget cuts affecting state colleges.

The request came in a telegram from Howard E. Kimball of LBSC, president of the association. Kimball said:

"The Association of California State College Professors requests that your budget for the special session include all state college items contained in your previous budget . . . especially crucial are salary increases and funds for research libraries and student health services."

In final legislative action on the budget last June 21, $1.2 million for state college program expansion was slashed. Other cuts: $589,814 in capital outlay, $418,000 in student health services, $500,000 in state college research funds and all recommended salary increases.

RONALD REAGAN
Speaks Wednesday

Reagan Will Address Rally Here

Actor Ronald Reagan will speak on 'A Time for Choosing" at a free public meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Long Beach Arena.

The meeting is sponsored by the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, headed by Mel Mould.

Mould said Reagan's address would be a "patriotic message at a time when all Americans should reaffirm their faith in America."

STATE AID COMMENDS CITY

L.B. Is 'Outstanding' in Shelter Program

Long Beach has been cited as an "outstanding example" for the state in developing a fallout shelter program for protection of the public.

Charles Manfred, administrator of the California Disaster Office, presented Mayor Edwin W. Wade with a certificate of commendation "in acknowledgment of your city's considerable contribution to our nation's preparedness program."

The city has signed license agreements for 114 fallout shelters with a capacity of almost 119,000 persons. The shelters have been stocked with survival supplies for 59,000.

In charge of the continuing program is the Long Beach Civil Defense Office, headed by City Manager John R. Mansell and Evar P. Peterson, assistant director.

Sheriff Restricts Badges to Genuine Officers Only

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Sheriff's badges no longer will be issued to any person who is not "directly concerned with executing the policing functions" of the department, Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess announced Friday.

Pitchess said his order is based upon "numerous court decisions and the legal advice of the Los Angeles County Counsel."

Pitchess said the policy of issuing sheriff's badges to persons not engaged in police work is "inconsistent with the requirements of professional law enforcement."

WESLEY BOLLIGER
Appointed

Pick Bolliger to 'Y' Post

Wesley Bolliger has been appointed assistant general secretary of the Long Beach YMCA, serving in the area of program development and leadership training. He also will serve as executive secretary of the Camp Oakes branch.

Bolliger came from the YMCA of San Francisco where he served for eight years as program secretary. Previous "Y" duties included assignments in Richmond and San Jose.

Bolliger, his wife Jean, and their three children reside at 330 Linares Ave.

Brown Signs Ban on False Petitioners

I. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—Gov. Brown has signed into law a bill by Assemblyman John Moreno, D-Santa Fe Springs, on false statements by petition circulators.

The Moreno bill makes it a misdemeanor to make false statements to obtain signatures on an initiative, referendum or recall petition.

The governor also signed a bill which makes persons who teach adult classes for 10 hours or less a week ineligible for permanent classification and tenure rights—by Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves, D-Artesia.

Mangled Skier 'Satisfactory'

Condition of Dan P. Lewis, 14-year-old water skier whose left hand was severed in an accident in Marine Stadium, was reported as "satisfactory" by Community Hospital Saturday.

The boy, slashed by the propeller of a hydroplane after he fell in the water, also suffered deep gashes to body and legs.

The hydroplane, driven by Leslie John Watson, 20, of 1602 Orangewood Ave., Anaheim, rammed a motorboat operated by the boy's father, Thomas, as young Lewis was trying to climb aboard.

Red Cross Sets Canoe Safety Class

Instruction to the general public in handling a canoe with skill and safety will be offered for the first time by Long Beach Chapter, American Red Cross, from 9 a. m. to noon Saturday at the lifeguard workshop on Santiago Street off Colorado at the Marine Stadium.

Entrance requirements, outlined by Jerry Carver, director of Red Cross safety services, are ability to jump into deep water, fully clothed, swim 100 yards to safety, also self maintenance in water 10 minutes. Pre-registration by telephone to Red Cross Chapter, GE 7-2921, is required.

Mrs. Mickey Dyer, instructor, holds a Red Cross instructor's certificate in canoeing.

Illinois, Michigan Picnic July 21

Illinois and Michigan State Societies of Long Beach will have their annual picnic at Bixby Park, Cherry Avenue and Broadway, on July 21.

The picnic will last from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Stars of Tomorrow will entertain at 12:30 p.m. A Municipal Band concert will be presented at 2:30 p.m.

CC Forum on Freeway Set

The first of a series of town-hall forums to be sponsored by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce will be held next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Jefferson Junior High School Auditorium, Seventh Street and Euclid Avenue, according to Dr. Orville Cole, chamber president.

Topic of the July meeting will be the Pacific Coast Freeway, stated Charles Evett and Dr. John Harris, cochairmen.

The first program's speakers will present various viewpoints regarding the "cross town freeway" including those of the State Division of Highways, municipal government, businessmen, and property owners.

Other subjects to be covered in a series of free forums in the coming months include socialized medicine, abolishment of capital punishment, banning of books in public schools, and legalized lotteries.

New Styling for Long Beach Beauty Pageant

THE WAYS of the world change. What was considered high fashion yesterday appears rather quaint today.

Yesterday's beauty show, essentially the parading of a flock of good-looking girls back and forth across a platform was fine for its time, but the style is changing; the "beauty contest" has to put some flowers in its hair and learn a song—or go out of business.

SO LONG BEACH'S International Beauty Pageant has added the word "Spectacular" to its name. There'll be as much beauty as there has ever been, but much more pageantry, a new style. Under the expert guidance of its new director, Wayne Dailard, it will be a spectacular event with an entertaining show interwoven with the beauty contest itself.

Heretofore, the entertainment features have been inserted as interludes between contest activities. Dailard plans a logical integration of the two, giving the event unity, balance, and a satisfying harmony such as is achieved in a musical show produced around a central theme.

The best dramatic use will be made of the beauty talent; there will be music suitable to the international theme, professional dancing, ballet. The show each night will be different. Judging of contestants will be merged with the show to save time.

TIME, IN DAILARD'S view, is an important consideration in sustaining public interest. In the past, nightly contest events have run for as long as three and one-half hours. After two and one-half hours interest begins to diminish in almost any show. Dailard hopes to hold this year's pageant to the two-and-one-half-hour length, giving the audience more for its money than ever before—but not too much.

TO SOME persons accustomed to the old format these ideas may seem too drastic and revolutionary. We don't think so. They promise new dimensions of interest just at a time when the traditional "beauty contest" is fading as a serious promotional event for a modern community.

The new format can make Long Beach's annual beauty pageant a bigger and more successful event.

GOP Rx: Mix Necessity and Strategy—Instant Heroes

QUICK, IF NOT INSTANT, heroes are needed by the Republican Party in California if it's going to score in '64. This is the view of some GOP professionals chatting here off the record within the past few days.

Here are some of their opinions on the party today:

HOUSER

The GOP will be at a disadvantage next year. They have fewer seats in Congress as a base of power, no president to lead their ticket and we are a divided party. We should start rebuilding now.

The party in California is without leaders (heroes) and no party works without heroes. The giants of our party have disappeared through one process of self-mutilation or another. There's no one to follow so the troops fight among themselves. We need to do a temporary job of building up quick heroes.

Where does the GOP turn? Obviously to its office holders who have some built-in prominence. In Los Angeles County we have five congressmen since Del Clawson's election in the 23rd District to replace Clyde Doyle. The others are H. Allen Smith, Glenard P. Lipscomb, Alphonzo Bell and Craig Hosmer of Long Beach.

ADVANTAGES of Democrats in a greater power base of elected officials and an incumbent president will make it easier for them to do a rerun of 1962 unless the GOP builds now. One way would be a minimum strategic effort to prepare a war chest for next year.

What about former Sen. Bill Knowland? "I think his main—perhaps only—objective is to lead an uninstructed delegation to the 1964 GOP Convention."

Ronald Reagan, film and TV personality and now a high-demand ultra conservative speaker? "I think Reagan is the 'sleeper' in the whole GOP potential in this state. I'm speaking of the governorship in 1966."

Who will challenge Demo Sen. Clair Engle in 1964? "I see no one at the moment ready to jump in against Engle. Study the history of California U. S. Senators and you have to go a long way to find where an incumbent was beaten by a challenger. They're in either by appointment, as with Knowland and Tom Kuchel, or elected when no incumbent is running, as with Richard Nixon and Engle."

WOULDN'T former governor candidate Joe Shell go for Senate? "He exposed himself as a poor sport after his loss in the primary to Nixon. And that's one quality a hero can't have."

Hosmer's name is getting a lot of play currently. "I think Hosmer might very well go for Senate or for Governor in '66 if circumstances build toward him in the natural chain of events but I don't think you'll find him pushing for these offices without very favorable party rebuilding. He has a good equity in his national position on the Joint Atomic Energy Committee.

"In fact, if Goldwater won the 1964 presidency or even ran a strong enough race to give Republicans control of the House, Hosmer would wind up as chairman of the Joint Committee in 1964."

KUCHEL, "He has prestige in the East, is big nationally but apparently is a prophet without honor in his own state—many people in his own party at his heels here."

Don't think for a minute, said the GOP chatters, that the Democrats don't have their problems in the state. Remember Speaker Jesse Unruh's remark about people leaning to the right after the Clawson victory over Assemblyman Carley Porter?

"And where was Unruh in that contest? Did he want to keep Carley in the Assembly or did he want him to become a congressman for JFK? Unruh, and Democrats generally, apparently did not seriously undertake victory in that race. Oh no, we're not the only ones in trouble!

Russ Infer JFK Cuba Deal on NATO-Warsaw Pact

WASHINGTON—The American people don't always read the fine print in the contracts that their chosen representatives make with foreign governments. Then, a few months later, the clarifying truth sometimes emerges.

Despite the denials last October that any "deal" was made by President Kennedy with the Soviet Union to secure the withdrawal of Soviet missiles from Cuba, it turns out that the Moscow government at least construes it that way now and announces that it intends to hold the American government to its promises—allegedly a recognition of the Communist-bloc countries, including East Germany, as a military alliance confronting NATO.

LAWRENCE

The chain of events has all the earmarks of a carefully planned maneuver in diplomacy. First, Premier Khrushchev made a speech at East Berlin on Tuesday of last week in which he said that a test-ban agreement by itself couldn't lessen the danger of a thermonuclear war, and then added:

"That is why the Soviet government believes that already, at the conclusion of a test-ban agreement, it is necessary to take also another big step toward easing international tension and strengthening confidence between states: to sign a non-aggression pact between the two main military groups of states—the NATO countries and the Warsaw treaty states. . .

• • • •

"A TEST-BAN agreement, combined with the simultaneous signing of a non-aggression pact between the two groups of states, will create a fresh international climate more favorable for a solution of major problems of our time, including disarmament."

American officials were at first said to be "puzzled" by this linking of the two things—the test-ban treaty and the pact with the Communist-bloc countries, including the formal recognition thereby of the puppet regime of East Germany. But it wasn't until First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan made a statement during a Fourth of July reception at the U. S. Embassy in Moscow that the Russian game was disclosed. He said that all conditions for the signing of a partial nuclear-test ban—that is, one not covering underground tests but prohibiting other tests and bypassing inspections—have been met and that it is now up to the West.

News dispatches from Moscow stressed that Mr. Khrushchev had demanded a "simultaneous" signing of the two agreements, and Deputy Premier Mikoyan pointed out that Mr. Kennedy had, in effect, agreed to this concept in a letter which the President wrote to the Soviet Premier last October during the Cuban missile crisis. It read as follows:

"I would like to say again that the United States is very much interested in reducing tensions and halting the arms race; and if your letter signifies that you are prepared to discuss a detente affecting NATO and the Warsaw Pact, we are quite prepared to consider with our allies any useful proposals."

The foregoing was sent by the President on Oct. 27, 1962, and the very next day Mr. Khrushchev announced that he would withdraw Soviet missiles and troops from Cuba.

• • • •

TAKEN literally, Mr. Kennedy's note agreed only to "consider" any useful proposals. He spoke of a "detente," which the dictionaries of diplomacy define, not as meaning any formal agreement; but "a relaxing, as of strained relations between nations."

Mr. Khrushchev says he wants the same thing, but American officials called the ambassadors of Britain, France and West Germany to the State Department in Washington on Wednesday evening to tell them that the United States does not intend to sign a test-ban agreement at the price of recognizing the Warsaw Pact.

• • • •

IT COULD be, of course, that Mr. Khrushchev is stating his highest price now—just before the big conference between East and West on the subject of a test ban opens on July 15 in Moscow—and that he will be willing to accept some variation of the whole plan later on. But it is evident that he construes Mr. Kennedy's letter of Oct. 27, 1962, as a concession and that, if the "deal" isn't lived up to as he wants it—a recognition of the Soviet conquest of the countries of Eastern Europe—then perhaps there will be a slowing down, if not an abandonment, of the promised withdrawal of the 10,000 or more Soviet troops still stationed in Cuba.

All this could mean a choice between two evils—the continued defiance of the Monroe Doctrine, or American acceptance of an unreliable agreement to ban nuclear tests, together with formal American approval of the Soviet occupation of Hungary and the other Communist-bloc countries that once were independent.

Reform Likely if A.R.A. Is Approved

By the I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The House may possibly approve expansion of the Area Redevelopment program the second time around, but the program's administrator, William L. Batt, seems to be on the way out.

While the vote was cast largely on party lines—with the exception of Southern votes which were cast against the program at its inception—many Democrats fell into line with some reluctance.

It seems to be a generally bipartisan opinion here that the ARA has been administered badly. Liberal Democrats admit that GOP criticism of the program were well justified and that reform is needed.

And some Capitol Hill sources say that the reform is going to start at the top, with Batt. In situations such as this, with an expensive program in disarray, the blame has to be pinpointed somewhere, and there is no likelier candidate.

Actually, the blame should be shared by Congress. Batt evidently has been too accommodating in some instances, for example, providing projects for politicians to take home and show the folks. But the agency itself helped create demands by drumming up business.

In any case, the list of nonsensical horrendous or doubtful projects is long and varied, and is recognized by Democrats as well as Republicans.

SEN. HUBERT HUMPHREY, running five minutes behind schedule as usual, breezed into the Senate television studio last week to make a 15-minute television broadcast. Such senatorial performances are usually given on an immaculate set. The senator sits at a walnut table with a set of leather-bound volumes lending a proper and sober touch to the surroundings. While waiting for Hubert to arrive, however, the camera crew succumbed to a devilish urge. They swept aside the weighty tomes and replaced them with a slovenly display of empty whisky bottles filled with colored water and ashtrays heaped with cigarette butts. Bursting with energy, Humphrey sprinted into the room, seated himself behind the table, smiled into the camera and said, "Let's roll, boys!" The smile slowly froze as he noted for the first time that bottles had replaced books and then Humphrey roared with laughter.

JUST BEFORE DEPARTURE on his recent trip to Europe, President Kennedy held a Cabinet meeting. Obviously with thoughts of the Profumo case in Great Britain on his mind, as he left the Cabinet room, he turned around and addressing his advisers said: "And gentlemen, I wish to thank you for your exemplary moral behavior.

IF YOU ARE interested in statistics, we can tell you that there now reside in Washington some 27,000 diplomats from foreign countries. Don't ask us what they all do, but here they are. We can believe the figures. Sometimes it seems as if all 27,000 are using their diplomatic immunity to park illegally during the afternoon rush hour, thus splendidly slowing traffic.

'Ornery' Sen. Ellender Could Short-Circuit Electric Line

WASHINGTON—Sen. Allen Ellender, gnarled and sallow, from the bayous of Louisiana, was sitting in a meeting of the Senate Appropriations Committee. Suddenly he blurted:

"I am not for it. I tell you I am going to stop it."

The Louisiana Democrat was protesting against a government inter-tie electric line extending over a thousand miles from Oregon to Southern California to carry surplus power when melted snows give more power than the Northwest can use.

PEARSON

Ellender's blunt objection illustrates two handicaps from which the people of the United States suffer when it comes to making democracy work:

1. One senator, if he is persistent and ornery enough, can stop a project of benefit to great sections of the nation.

2. The Soviet government, which pioneered the inter-tie system, has pushed ahead of us with long range planning and in hooking up its power plants. The United States, handicapped by the Ellenders in the Senate and lack of long range planning, has not yet built one single inter-tie.

• • • •

THE PEOPLE of New York City are now protesting the building of an atomic power reactor by Consolidated Edison within a mile of downtown Manhattan. Over 8 million people in the radius of this reactor would be vulnerable to radioactive poison in case of an accident.

Construction of the reactor is proposed in order to prevent extensive transportation of coal from Pennsylvania and West Virginia to New York. However, an inter-tie high-power transmission line, if built from West Virginia and Pennsylvania to New York City, could save the risk and expense of the Con Ed nuclear plant, and at the same time would give new prosperity to the depressed coal areas which could burn bituminous coal at the mine mouth and transport the power over the inter-tie to the heart of Manhattan.

• • • •

THIS IS the same principle which Secretary of the Interior Udall proposed with the inter-tie line from Oregon to California.

Senator Ellender came to Washington under the wing of the late Sen. Huey Long, who battled against the big utilities. Since Huey's death, his protege has drifted more and more to the side of the big companies which once opposed him, and they have not been unkind to him.

During the battle over sugar, Ellender purchased four acres of extremely valuable residential-oil land on the edge of Houma, La., his hometown, for only $2,500 an acre from the South Downs Sugar Company. The company had refused to sell the land to others at that price. The South Downs Sugar Company was actively engaged in lobbying for a new sugar bill at that time, and its president, Wallace Kemper, had testified before the Senate Agriculture Committee of which Ellender is chairman.

Andy's Challenge to Marshall Court

EDITOR:

In a recent article written by Mr. William H. Harris that concerned the Supreme Court's second decision on the abolishment of the Lord's Prayer in public schools, Mr. Harris quoted correctly the statement that President Kennedy remarked after the Supreme Court's first decision.

However, I would like to know the primary source where Mr. Harris found his second quoted statement when he remarked that had President Kennedy been the Abraham Lincoln type of American, he would have said to the court: "You made the decision, now let's see you enforce it." As far as my history background is concerned, the person who came nearest to saying such a statement was President Andrew Jackson who is reported to have said: "John Marshall has made his decision; now let him enforce it."

Incidentally, I might add that Andrew Jackson became President in 1828, some 32 years before Abraham Lincoln was to become President.

Inequality By Accident

EDITOR:

I am an American, a little better off than my father, who is somewhat better off than his grandfather, which all takes us back around 100 years, and so goes the history of my family.

I do not now and perhaps never will live in the kind of house I admire in a certain area. For all of that I may never even live in a house like those routinely offered in the newspaper real estate pages. I may never be capable of holding down a job like my smarter older cousin, and I'll bet I won't find a mate among the elite, take a world cruise, have tailor made clothes, own a prestige car or dozens of other coveted things.

But Henry Ford's grandchildren can have all of those things and most anything their hearts desire, including welcomes from Presidents, Princes and Popes. Now what's equal about such inequality?

"By accident of birth" is as good a reason as any to retard my entry into many realms. This, and the logic that we haven't all advanced at the same rate, and to the same stage, I accept as fact.

My color? I am white, lower middle class, but I'm not looking for a Champion to plunge Society into a whirlpool. Most of us still need water-wings to stay afloat even in a placid pond.

A Third Way to Be 'Buried'

EDITOR:

One would think from your editorial, "The Aims Are the Same," that there were only two ways that communism can "bury" capitalism: 1) militarily and 2) by something you call "coexistence" which was undefined in your editorial but which was presumably very bad.

But there is a third way: the Russians can "bury" us by out-producing us—and they fully intend to do so. Communism's main claim to superiority over Capitalism is the claim that it can outproduce Capitalism and will therefore win in a peaceful world by the sheer example of its greater efficiency in production. Unfortunately for the Russians, this is not working out in practice.

It is the U. S.—not Russia—which is producing enough to keep its people living in Olympian luxury while having enough to send overseas to succour the less fortunate.

But the American nation has been brainwashed into forgetting that Capitalism has not always enjoyed such high production. Especially the younger citizens have been victimized into thinking the Great Depression of the 1930s never happened. There was starvation in this land, then; and production was—well, inconspicuous.

If we ever return to the "Let Business alone" days of the pre-Roosevelt era; if the many laws passed to regulate cut-throat business practices are ever repealed; and if laws protecting the working man and his job are ever repudiated—and these are the announced aim of the Goldwater-Rightist forces today—then we can count on the same result as before: Depression . . . and the Battle of Production will have been won by Russia.

Information from a reader:

"Based on your column about the meaning of Arab names, I should like to submit that the two California senators have their names from Engel (angel) and Kuchen (cake); so, if you put them together, it means "angel cake." S. Musafia, Long Beach, Calif.

A good observation, although we are of the opinion that Mr. Kuchel's name is the Bavarian word for "kitchen." Therefore, the combination would be "angel's kitchen" (where, undoubtedly, angel cake would be made).

Question from a reader:

"Why are the French-speaking people in Louisiana called 'Cajuns'? P. Gomez, Baton Rouge, La.

"Cajun" is a corruption of Acadien or, in English, Acadian. The ancestors of many French-speaking Louisianans were transported, or driven, by the British away from Acadie, a section of Canada which they had named and which was subsequently settled by Scots and renamed Nova Scotia. The majority of the refugees found haven along and near our Gulf Coast. A peculiarity of the Canadian French accent is to make the d sound somewhat like a "zh", comparable to the sound of "s" in "pleasure." Hence, "Cajun."

ROYAL BALLET SCHOOL FOR COLLEEN

Mother's War-Ruined Dream Brought to Life

By MARK CLUTTER

A young Irish ballet dancer was on wartime nursing duty in London when the Nazis bombed her hospital.

A rescue squad dug Anne Roche out of the rubble. She lived, but part of her died. Injuries had terminated her career as a dancer. The Nazis had killed her dream.

But dreams have a way of coming to life again.

Starting in September, the dancer of long ago will spend two years very close to ballet.

* * * *

WITH HER then in the British Isles will be her red-haired 16-year-old daughter, a Long Beach ballet student who has auditioned and been accepted by the Royal Ballet School in London.

The mother, also red-haired, now is the wife of Col. Paul Cool, Air Force chief of configuration and control in the Minuteman missile program. The daughter, appropriately named Colleen, is a student of the Audrey Share School of Dance, 1122 E. Wardlow Road.

The Royal Ballet is on tour of the United States and has auditioned between 50 and 60 would-be ballerinas. Colleen is the third to be accepted.

The Cools have a home at 27628 Warrior Road, Palos Verdes, but after the fashion of service personnel, they get to spend little time in it.

—Staff Photo
ELFIN COLLEEN COOL PRACTICES BALLET

They now are stationed in San Bernardino.

THE WORD "home" means something else to Mrs. Cool. "I hope we can leave by August," she said. "I want to go home. That's Dublin, of course."

Until the transfer, Colleen was a student at Marymount School on the Palos Verdes Peninsula. She attended Ramona Convent School in Alhambra more recently. But changing schools is old stuff to Colleen. She was born in Kansas, but has lived in China, Japan, various parts of the United States and Europe.

"I guess you're rather proud of your daughter," someone said to Mrs. Cool.

"I guess so," she said. She likes understatements.

Covenant on Homes Set Today

An "inclusive housing covenant" recently adopted by directors of the Long Beach Council of Churches will be read at a mass meeting today of the United Civil Rights Committee.

The meeting, second of its kind to be held here, is set for 3 p.m. in St. John Baptist Church, 10th Street at Olive Avenue.

* * * *

COUNCIL members instructed that the covenant be sent to member churches as start of a campaign to eliminate discrimination in housing. An accompanying letter recommends presentation of the document to congregations beginning the weekend of July 26.

The directors emphasized that they are "commending the statement and recommending implementation, realizing that the decision on such action must be made at the local church level." It was stated that methods of soliciting signatures will be decided by individual congregations.

* * * *

THE PLEDGE:

"We, the undersigned homeowners and or renters believe in an open and inclusive community, and would be happy to welcome into our neighborhood with personal interest our fellow citizens regardless of their race or creed."

The directors said the covenant statement "will offer opportunity for individuals to register their willingness to welcome into their neighborhoods all persons on an individual basis, regardless of their race, their color or their creed."

Business Group Plans Meet for Red China Trade

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A group of West Coast businessmen plans to meet with Red China leaders in Hong Kong in mid-November to discuss trade relations.

Ernest T. Nash of Woodland, Calif., and Charles O. Porter, of Eugene, Ore., are co-chairmen of a group called "The Committee For A Review of Our China Policy." Porter is a former Oregon congressman.

Nash said the meetings would be the first between citizens of the United States and Communist China to be recognized by the State Department since the two governments met in 1958 at the Warsaw Conference to discuss Formosa.

William Lambie Last Rite Set for Tuesday

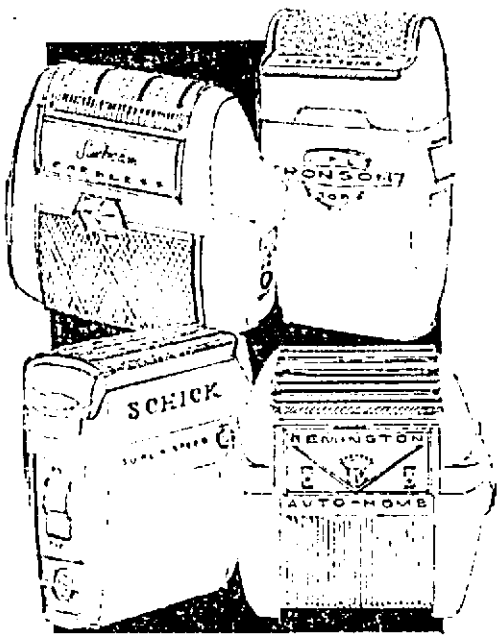

Service for William Lambie, 76, founder and owner of the Lambie Propeller Co., will be Tuesday at 10 a.m. in Calvary Presbyterian Church, Wilmington.

Lambie, of 306 E. M St., Wilmington, died Thursday. He had been a resident of the Harbor area 47 years, and was widely known as a naval architect and marine engineer.

He was a member of the Bilge Club and of A.F.&A.M. Lodge 198. He was a native of Scotland.

Lambie is survived by his wife, Marion; son, Robert; daughters, Marion Burleson, Mary Margaret Lambie, and four grandchildren.

Burial will be in Green Hills Memorial Park. McNerney's Mortuary, Wilmington, is in charge.

NAVY PROMOTES HARRY FRISHMAN

Raised to Captain in Reserve

Promotion of Harry B. Frishman from commander to captain in the United States Naval Reserve has been announced by the Secretary of the Navy.

The promotion is dated back to Nov. 1, 1962.

Capt. Frishman currently is serving as commanding officer of Naval Reserve Officers School 11-4 with central offices at Long Beach State College and satellite units at Santa Ana Naval Reserve Training Center, San Pedro Naval Reserve Training Center and Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

The unit (NROS 11-4) is one of the largest in the nation and is ranked No. 1 in the 11th Naval District. A total of 546 reserve officers completed courses offered by the unit in the past school year.

CAPT. HARRY FRISHMAN
Promotion Announced

Although approximately 90 per cent of the student officers are in the Naval Reserve, the unit also serves offices in the Marine, Coast Guard, Air Force and Army Reserves. Twenty-two courses ranging from guided missiles and space technology to oceanography and nuclear power are taught in the school, whose object is to keep reserve officers combat-ready and update training by providing instruction in areas that have undergone rapid advancement in the postwar period.

Prior to taking command of NROS 11-4, Capt. Frishman was chief of staff and commanding officer of Naval Reserve Surface Battalion 11-1, which trained reserve recruits for active duty assignments with the Navy, and is located at the Long Beach Naval Reserve Training Center.

Frishman is director of publications for the Long Beach Unified School District.

ELECTED

George Toll, manager of the Long Beach office of the California State Employment Service, has been elected president of the International Association of Personnel in Employment Security at the annual convention of the organization in Chicago.

Bandit Robs Buena Park S&L Firm

A well-dressed bandit held up the Home Savings & Loan Association branch office in Buena Park Saturday afternoon, police reported.

Officials at the firm were unable to say exactly how much money was taken at the Beach Boulevard and La Palma Avenue office, but police said the loot may have run as high as $1,000.

Zoo Giraffe Kills 80-Year-Old Man

CINCINNATI (AP)—The second victim of Champ the giraffe, 80-year-old Fred Liermann, died Saturday in Christ Hospital.

Liermann suffered a skull fracture Friday when he stepped over a chain fence in the Cincinnati zoo and tried to pat the animal. The giraffe swung his head, knocking Liermann into an eight-foot deep dry moat. Zoo officials said Champ killed his mate shortly after he was brought here years ago.

ST. MARY'S HOSPITAL

Keeps Pace With Modern Medicine

By BEN ZINSER
I, P-T Medical Editor

St. Mary's Hospital, long a bellwether of medical progress in Long Beach, looks forward to keeping pace with the march of modern medicine.

First in Long Beach with a heart-lung machine, first with the artificial kidney, St. Mary's now is either shaping or already conducting programs involving data processing, nuclear medicine, electronic diagnosis and research.

This scientific medical mix does not neglect the emphasis on personal patient care. It merely enhances it, hospital officials says.

NEWEST ADDITION to the personal touch is an extension of patient care known as bibliotherapy. Reading aids are to be given to patients.

New invasions of surgery's last frontier—repair of the heart—are envisaged in St. Mary's plans. Soon to be scheduled: placement of two artificial valves in a single human heart.

Also upcoming: new-type studies of the coronary arteries, with the hope they will lead to additional salvage of heart-attack victims through surgery. More than $100,000 is being sought to implement this one program.

THE ARTIFICIAL KIDNEY, now used to save lives of those afflicted with acute kidney shutdown, may be called into use soon to treat persons with chronic kidney failure.

The hospital's heart-lung machine, which enriches oxygen-poor blood and then pumps it through the body while surgeons repair the natural heart, will continue to be used in conjunction with protective "deep freeze" procedures in the operating room. Even now, three to four heart operations are performed monthly at St. Mary's.

Starting Oct. 1 all medical records will be coded and fed into modern data-processing machines. Speedy retrieval of medical information under this system will provide new diagnostic aids and strengthen medical research programs.

A FULL-TIME physicst. Clayton Douglas, is now on the hospital staff, to augment the hospital's nuclear medicine program. Douglas says 18 diagnostic tests involving the use of radioactive materials now can be performed at St. Mary's.

One of the newer tests—the T3—makes it possible for a patient to be tested for thyroid abnormality without the necessity of swallowing radioactive material. A sample of blood is drawn, and the test is performed outside the patient's body.

A piece of radioactive cobalt costing $12,000 was placed recently in St. Mary's cobalt "bomb"—a powerful device used in the treatment of cancer.

ST. MARY'S LABORATORY continues to add electronic gear to provide rapid, precise test determinations. These instruments, says biochemist H. O. Carne, are enabling the hospital to hold down the cost of laboratory tests.

Expansion of research activities is foreseen by Dr. H. Richard Casdorph, director of medical education. A research lab is in the early planning stage, he says.

Medical education continues to be a big item on the hospital's agenda. St. Mary's has expanded its intern program and also is continuing to train X-ray and laboratory technicians. There also are training programs for student nurses from Long Beach State College, surgical clerks from California College of Medicine and radiology students from UCLA. The pathology department trains physicians.

Outstanding authorities in various fields of medicine are guest lecturers once a month at St. Mary's.

ST. MARY'S, now a 355-bed facility, last year served 16,984 inpatients and 41,000 outpatients—biggest patient load in the hospital's 40-year history.

In the works are a new and larger laboratory, an expansion of the X-ray department, enlargement of physical therapy facilities, new quarters for the pharmacy.

Under the direction of Sister Mary Laura, administrator, the hospital is operated by 28 Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word. The work force totals nearly 800 full-time employes.

Tremendous strides have been made in the expansion of St. Mary's medical library. This facility has doubled the scope of its operation in a year's time.

HEADED BY Mrs. Pauline Kelvin, former chief of the cataloging department for the Mayo Clinic medical library, the St. Mary's library receives 250 scientific journals each month. Bound volumes—books and journals—now are approaching the 4,000 mark.

PAULINE KELVIN
Medical Librarian

A new study room, with 12 individual reading lamps and locked bookcases, is being readied for doctors working on special research projects. It's located off the main reading room.

A permanent exhibit case, containing books and journal articles by upcoming guest lecturers, is located just outside the library's main entrance.

Mrs. Kelvin's enthusiasm is unbounded. She likes to quote the famous physician Sir William Osler: "It is hard for me to speak of the value of libraries in terms which would not seem exaggerated."

In her opinion a medical library is not just for doctors. As a consequence a special section has been set up for nurses. And now a new role for a medical library is being explored: bibliotherapy for patients.

PHASE I, for children, already has been put into operation. Selected books are sent to young patients—"to take their minds off pain."

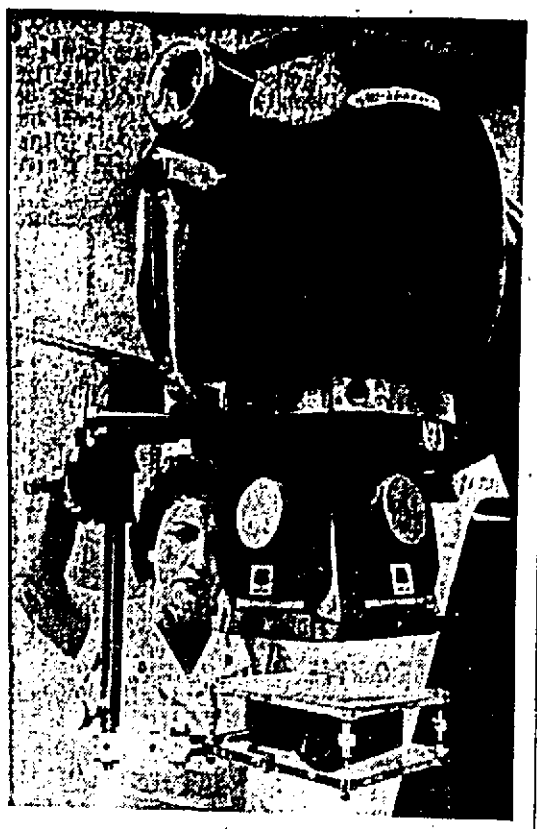

These include "books they can tear up."

Soon to be initiated is a reading program involving adult patients and parents of young patients. Special publications will be provided to doctors for distribution to these persons.

They will include pamphlets telling what to do for the preschool child who is blind, or for children afflicted with cleft palate, epilepsy, hearing impairment, rheumatic fever, mental retardation.

For the adult patients there will be publications to aid the amputee, the cancer victim, the new coronary patient.

St. Mary's aim: better patient care, whether it be achieved through bibliotherapy, computer, radioactive medicine or a better-trained nurse.

IN TEXAS, LOUISIANA
Mosquitos Plague Bathers, Kill Stock

HOUSTON (UPI)—Growing swarms of pesky mosquitoes ranged across Texas and Louisiana Saturday, attacking anything that moved.

Farmers in Louisiana claimed the hordes of bugs had killed millions of dollars worth of livestock. The holiday weekend in both states was ruined for thousands.

Gulf Coast sunbathers smeared on thick coats of insect repellent along with their sunburn lotions.

• • • •

RECENT heavy rain was blamed for the suddenly huge mosquito population in most areas. Wet weather produced ideal conditions for both fresh water mosquitoes and their larger salt-marsh cousins. Both varities are considered simply pests. Neither is a disease carrier.

"Our subdivision has been established two years," said a resident of Houston's Dumbarton Village neighborhood. "This is the first time we've ever had our backyard barbecue broken up by clouds of mosquitoes."

The mosquito nuisance was spotty around Houston. The county health department has received many complaints from some areas. But the city sanitation office said the total number of complaints it has received is about normal for this time of the year

Mosquitoes were pesky in the Amarillo and Lubbock areas of the Panhandle and plains, but a survey showed they were losing out to a combination of spraying and receding water.

• • • •

THERE WERE four suspected cases of encephalitis (sleeping sickness) in the Lubbock area, but Dr. David Cowgill of the county health department said three were determined to have been caused by other carriers than mosquitoes. There was no report on the cause of the fourth case.

At Port Arthur, it was a dry spring rather than a wet early summer that produced the biggest mosquito hatch.

"Because of the dry spring, lots of farmers irrigated their pastures as well as their rice fields," an official of the Jefferson County Mosquito Control District explained.

This increased the breeding area for rice-field mosquitoes.

2 Lobbying Firms Set for Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate investigators will hold public hearings next week on the lobbying activities of two New York public relations firms on behalf of foreign interests.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which is looking into lobbying by Americans for foreign governments and business, has tentatively planned two days of hearings.

In addition, the group also expects to make public testimony by officials of both firms taken at closed-door sessions earlier this year.

The firms are Hamilton Wright Organization, Inc., and Selvage and Lee.

• • • •

THE COMMITTEE has been digging into activities of the Wright firm in representing the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa and the Union of South Africa.

Several officials of Selvage and Lee have been questioned in closed sessions about their firm's lobbying for an organization known as the Overseas Companies of Portugal.

The committee, headed by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., is tentatively planning to question Hamilton Wright, Sr., founder and head of the Wright firm, and his son, Hamilton, Jr.

James Cope, chairman of the board of Selvage and Lee, and Morris Lee, president of the firm, probably will be called to testify publicy on their agency's activities.

Chinese Reds Exterminating, Eating Dogs

ROME (UPI)—Communist Chinese authorities who launched a war of extermination against sparrows a few years ago, are now killing dogs to save food for the people, the Italian news agency Continentale reported.

Dogs which are not killed are being raised in cages and will be eaten, it said.

The idea, it said, was that all animals which are not useful should be wiped out because they consume precious food.

$65,488 for Plowing Under Billboard Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first bonus payment to a state for prohibiting billboard advertising along interstate highways will be presented Monday to Kentucky.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges will make the presentation of the $65,488 check to Gov. Bert C. Combs.

Kentucky is the first state to comply with the provisions of the law which allows a bonus of one-half of 1 per cent of the Federal grant on interstate highways to any state which prohibits billboard advertising along interstate highways.

Nineteen states have indicated that they intend to comply with the bonus provisions, and have signed agreements with the Bureau of Public Roads.

Youngster Admits Setting $35,000 Blaze

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—An eight-year-old boy admitted setting two multiple-alarm fires that inflicted $35,000 damage to a complex of warehouses and wharves along the Buffalo River Friday night, police said Saturday.

The boy, not identified, was picked up as he gazed at the second fire, a three-alarm blaze, which broke out about three hours after the first, a five-alarm fire, police said.

50 to Seek Valuation Reduction

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Fifty Los Angeles County property owners are scheduled to appear Monday before the Board of Supervisors when it opens its annual hearings as a board of equalization.

Proceedings will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the hearing room of the Hall of Administration, 500 W. Temple St., Los Angeles.

Property owners who object to the valuation placed on their property by County Assessor Philip E. Watson may appear before the board and seek an adjustment.

• • • •

GORDON NESVIG, clerk of the board, emphasized that the hearings are not for the purpose of protesting high taxes.

Only basis for changing an assessment is that it is not comparable to that placed on similar property in the county, Nesvig pointed out.

Petitions for assessment hearings this year have been running somewhat less than in 1962. Slightly over 100 petitions had been received by closing time Friday. About 120 were received during the same period last year.

Total of petitions heard last year by the board of equalization was 1,026. The number is expected to be under that this year.

• • • •

ONE OF the major equalization petitions will be that of Walter O'Malley and the Los Angeles Dodgers baseball club. O'Malley has objected to the $8.3-million assessment placed by Watson on Dodger holdings in Chavez Ravine.

Supervisors set July 24 for hearing on this petition. The whole day has been allocated for the arguments.

Most petitioners, however, are expected to be handled on an average of about 10 an hour.

Petitions for equalization will be accepted until 5 p.m. Monday, July 15. Date and time of an individual's hearing is set when his petition is filed.

Hearing Just Can't Be Heard

A hearing scheduled for Monday before the City Bureau of Franchises on a proposed taxicab rate increase won't be held at least on that day.

Reason: no bureau.

Because the terms of city councilmen expire at midnight tonight, the council-appointed agency will be dormat if not actually out of existence until new members are named, possibly Tuesday. Four of the members are councilmen, among them Virgil H. Spongberg, whose term is expiring.

• • • •

ACTING ON advice from the city attorney's office, City Manager John R. Mansell, bureau chairman, announced that the hearing has been called off. Most likely new date is Aug. 12.

The original hearing date was set two months ago before bureau members had consulted the calendar for the change in councilmanic terms.

Diamond and Yellow Cab companies are seeking to boost rates for longer rides by charging 10 cents for each additional quarter-mile instead of one-third mile. They are asking for no change in the 50-cent charge for the first quarter-mile.

Purse Thief's Victim Sought

Have you been robbed?

Somebody was, and Long Beach police wish they knew who. They've got a couple of suspects in custody but no victim.

Two Torrance men, Roy L. Presley, 20, of 22715 Nicolle Ave., and Frank M. Brace, 18, of 21008 New Hampshire St., reportedly have admitted grabbing a woman's purse.

But officers were unable to find the owner when they were summoned to the 1400-block of Long Beach Boulevard Thursday morning. The suspects still were there, though.

Their car had stalled. Police arrested them, and the purse was recovered from a nearby yard.

The case is ready to be closed, except for the missing victim, who may have thought the whole business wasn't worth the bother.

Her purse, police said, contained only a single penny.

Cancer Claims Veteran Pilot Edmond Kelly

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Veteran pilot Edmond (Ted) Kelly, 54, died of cancer Friday at his home in Playa del Rey.

He was a barnstormer in the days before World War II and was a pilot for T. Claude Ryan, founder of Ryan Aeronautical, San Diego, and for Vultee Aircraft Corp. He entered the Air Force when the war came and rose to major.

In recent years he was an executive of the Flying Tiger Line, Los Angeles, and developed the Kelly aerial tow target used by the Air Force and Navy in areial gunnery practice.

Bookies Say No, But Moffitt Confident of Victory Monday

WIMBLEDON, Eng., (UPI)—Heavy rains Saturday postponed until Monday the Wimbledon women's tennis final between American "upset queen" Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., and heavily-favored Australian Margaret Smith, but Miss Moffitt refused to let the delay get on her nerves.

It was the first time in 27 years and only the third time in the 77-year history of the famed tournament that play has not been completed within the scheduled two weeks.

The officials tried their best to get in at least the Moffitt-Smith match as a crowd of 17,000 waited despite the downpour at the courts of the All-England Club. As hour after hour passed with no letup in the rain, many in the crowd became convinced there would be no action Saturday and went home. The rain finally ceased at 5:55 p.m.

But at 6:07 p.m. All-England Club secretary Mike Gibson announced to the waiting thousands: "Owing to the fading light and unsafe conditions of the court, and the weather forecast, there will be no play today."

There were a few ironic cheers, and the crowd began to leave.

Miss Moffitt, 19-year-old bespectacled student at Los Angeles State College, refused to become upset either by the delay or by the fact that English bookies consider the top-seeded Miss Smith such an overwhelming favorite that they won't even quote a price on her. Miss Moffitt is rated at 5 to 2.

But Billie Jean, who has become the darling of the galleries as a result of three straight wins over star players, was calm and cool as she posed for photographs. She said the weather didn't bother her "in the least."

Asked if she was nervous, she said, "No—should I be?"

Will she win? "I'll have a good try."

Whatever the result of Monday's match, it will be a "first" for this historic tournament. If Miss Moffitt can confound Miss Smith, the seedings committee, and the bookies all in one swoop by scoring what would be a stunning upset, she will be the first unseeded women's champion.

If Miss Smith wins, she will be the first Australian to win a Wimbledon singles crown — although Aussie men have been dominating their division in recent years.

Miss Smith has a score to settle with Miss Moffitt in this tournament. Last year, Billie Jean made Margaret a victim of one of her patented surprises, beating the Aussie star in an early round.

Miss Smith also has her eye on a "hat trick" of championships. She also is in the final round of two doubles competitions — with Robyn Ebbern of Australia against Darlene Hard of Los Angeles and Maria Bueno of Brazil in women's doubles, and with Ken Fletcher of Australia against Miss Hard and Bob Hewitt of Australia in mixed doubles.

Y Flash Nips Get Around in Derby

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

A Nevada-bred colt was as hot Saturday as the dice tables in his home state—and that's why Y Flash is the undisputed three-year-old champion of the West today.

The 11-1 shot bided his time like any good gambler, then poured on the coals when he found running room in the stretch and got up in the last second to bag the $124,100 Hollywood Derby before 49,426 witnesses.

The colt from one of the hottest stables in the country—the J. K. Houssels string—inched his nostrils barely ahead of the sport's travelling salesman (and race favorite), Get Around, who previously had rubbed manes with such social figures as Candy Spots and Chateaugay.

Olympiad King was third, with Three Links next in the dramatic four-horse blanket finish. The margin between the first and fourth colt was a half-length.

Y Flash supporters were rewarded with a $25.20 win payoff.

Going off at less than 2-1, Get Around seemed to have the rich classic wrapped up until his gas tank sprung a leak a few dozen yards from the wire. Considering that the colt has raced on seven different tracks in his eight lifetime outings, one would have to think seriously his transmission needs rest.

Three Links and Viking Spirit set all the pace for the first mile of the mile and one-quarter chase before encountering any serious challenges.

Then—after a steady advance around the stretch curve—Get Around hooked the pace-setters as they straightened out for the long straightaway home.

At this point, Y Flash was running fourth—after being way back in the No. 8 slot a furlong earlier—and then the pit boss in the saddle, Eddie Burns, made the move that won the race. Eddie moved his colt to the outside of the other three animals, found the necessary running room and dug in with his spurs.

The chase to the wire was a ding-dong affair with Olympiad King moving almost with Y Flash and Viking Spirit giving up the ghost. Maybe Get Around moved too early . . . maybe Y Flash was too strong . . . but in the final strides, the Nevada colt caught the traveller and lunged to his narrow triumph.

Y Flash had won only one race this year—in his last outing, a division of the stepping-stone Cinema Handicap. His last previous triumph was a year ago at this same track—when he won a division of the $100,000 Juvenile Championship and his stablemate, now-deceased Noti, sacked the other.

Both Burns and Manuel Ycaza (astride Get Around) thought Y Flash had a big chance, even though the betting public let the colt get away at a fat price.

"I was happy to get the mount because I really like the colt," commented Burns. "He's got guts—and every jockey likes that."

"It's a funny thing," declared Ycaza, "talking with the trainer this morning we settled on Y Flash as the horse to beat, since we thought he was the only tough one at the distance."

Burns expounded further:

"I've never seen a horse sharper than this one. He has speed, but when you use it early he hangs in the stretch. So I laid back and waited. There were four of us going about head-and-head and I started around the others along the curve. But a horse was going out, so I headed back to the inside. Once we swung to the outside for running room in the stretch he was flying and I knew at the eighth pole we had them. But, boy, when he did get to the front a few jumps from the wire he started pricking his ears and pulling up, and I had to get after him to get the job done."

YCAZA OFFERED NO EXCUSES:

"Everything went perfect for us early. I was moving up slowly, saving every ounce of energy I could for the drive. When we got head-and-head with the leaders, I got into my colt and he moved a neck clear. Then he began to tire and I knew if something was running from behind, we'd be in trouble. He kept trying when Y Flash came to us, but he couldn't hold him."

The win was noted as "the greatest thrill of my career" by owner Houssels, who has been racing horses for 30 years. Outside of the old favorite, Bymeabond, Houssels has boasted few class horses until this year. Now, he's captured five stakes at Hollypark alone and his stable of stars is young enough to keep winning for the next three years.

Disaster almost struck a few yards from the wire when the longest-priced entrant, Lak Nak (82-1), stumbled. Jockey Bud Giacomelli was unseated, but managed somehow to hold on under his colt's neck before falling off 80 yards further. The rider's pride was the only thing injured.

GET AROUND moved to outside going down backstretch, advanced strongly on stretch turn to take command a furlong out, finished stoutly but was unable to resist winner's closing charge. OLYMPIAD KING raced close to leaders from beginning, moved up between horses on stretch turn to make a bid, held on with determination to finish. THREE LINKS was sent into command in first sixteenth, drew out going down backstretch, then gave way in last furlong under strong pressure after having set pace. SKY GERTH was within striking distance of leaders to far turn then gave way while on outside. SOLAR SPECTRUM weakened after showing good speed to far turn. REAL LUCK was in fight quarters in early stages. VIKING SPIRIT forced pace to last quarter then tired. LAK NAK stumbled near finish, unseating rider who held on under his neck for a sixteenth before falling off. QUITA DUDE was never prominent. MISSILERY was in fight quarters for first half mile.

Dodgers' Goofs Cost Big D Again

By GEORGE LEDERER

When they handed out luck, Don Drysdale must have thought they said "duck," because he did and thereby forgot to get in line.

Saturday was another one of those days when Drysdale couldn't have won at solitaire with a marked deck of cards. As a matter of fact, the deck was stacked against him as Cincinnati ended a five-game Dodger winning streak, 3-1.

Not even 3,000 nuns, guests of the management, could keep the Dodgers in the winning habit.

• • • •

THE CINCY runs were cheaper than Roman candles three days after the Fourth of July and, were it not for misplays afield, Drysdale would have pocketed his second successive shutout victory.

Instead, Drysdale receipted for his 10th loss and the Dodgers saw their National League lead shaved to two games over the Giants.

Of small consolation was that Drysdale managed to reduce his earned run average three decimal points to 2.74 in eight innings during which he dispensed but three legitimate hits.

Three other hits in the fourth inning had all the authority of being stroked with a wet Sporting News, yet these cost Drysdale two runs and the ball game.

With one out in the fourth, Bob Skinner blooped a handle hit to center and Vada Pinson followed with a broken-bat single to left. Both runners advanced as Frank Robinson grounded out and when Gordy Coleman popped up near second base, Drysdale could hold his head high for a remarkable job of clutch pitching.

DODGER OF DAY

MAURY WILLS Singled three times as Dodgers lost to Cincinnati, 3-1.

The trouble was, however, that Jim Gilliam couldn't follow suit, although he tried. When Gilliam looked skyward, he saw only the bright sun and lost the ball, which dropped behind him. Both runners scored and Coleman was credited with a double that would be considered short even by Joe E. Lewis.

• • • •

GILLIAM had no excuses. He had his sunglasses on and simply admitted, "I lost it in the sun."

The second defensive mishap occurred in the eighth inning with the Reds leading 2-1. With two out and Pete Rose on first base, catcher John Roseboro was guilty of a passed ball, allowing Rose to move into scoring position for Skinner's second single. It was the 13th unearned run of the season at Drysdale's expense.

The Dodgers were guilty, also, of a gross offensive blunder after Maury Wills drag-bunted for a base hit to start the sixth inning.

Gilliam, out to make amends, followed with a double to the right field corner, but Wills, trying to score from first with none out, was tagged out by catcher John Edwards, who had the plate well blocked.

• • • •

MANAGER Walter Alston did not explain why coach Pete Reiser waved Wills home, but did admit "we should have won it 2-0."

Even after the base-running error, it took one of three outstanding catches by Robinson to hold the Dodgers to one run in the inning. Robinson crashed hard into the right field wall while retrieving Wally Moon's liner, but

Greta Andersen Set Again

Indefatigable Greta Andersen, Long Beach's athlete-of-the-year in 1958, is ready for action again.

The 32-year-old housewife, who may outlast Warren Spahn or Ben Agajanian, is getting ready for 125 miles of competitive swimming over a three-week period.

The gal who has conquered the English Channel, Catalina Channel and a few thousand other bodies of water leaves Long Beach in 10 days for Atlantic City, N. J., where she will compete in a 25-mile grind July 23.

Her second appearance is set for Aug. 4 at Lake St. John, Quebec, a 25-mile route. If she isn't water-logged, she'll then compete in the Canadian National Exhibition (15 miles) Aug. 16, while four days later comes the gruelling 60-mile Lake Michigan swim.

No rest for the wicked. Even though the above swims constitute her planned itinerary, Greta has more action in mind, i.e., the Strait of Messina between Sicily and the Italian mainland, the Mackinac Straits in Michigan, the Bosporus (Istanbul) and the Dardanelles (off Turkey).

"A person who claims to be a marathon swimmer has recently completed a number of short, well-known channel swims over a period of one year. They were all first-time swims and therefore claimed as records. My ambition is to better all of them—and to accomplish this within a FEW DAYS."

This should serve as a warning to other would-be pretenders: Never challenge the world's greatest long-distance woman swimmer!

ON EACH OF HER four planned journeys, Greta has these comments:

Atlantic City—"The best I ever did there was second to the Dutchman, Herman Willemsie. Last year I was hit against the rocks, cutting myself badly and bleeding for most of the swim. But this year I'm determined to stay up with the Dutchman—and, if I miss the rocks, to beat him."

Lake St. John—"The water in this Canadian lake is very cold and dark brown. It gives you a strange feeling when pulling through this water and being unable to see your hands or arms. Few people in this town speak English, but everyone is very friendly."

Canadian National Exhibition—"This race is held on a triangular course of one mile, so that 200,000 people—which they reported watched the swim last year—will have a perfect view of the whole thing."

Lake Michigan—"This 60-miles from Chicago to Benton Harbor will be the biggest challenge of my life. Yes, even bigger than the English Channel or swimming Catalina both ways non-stop. As I found out last year, this could be a very treacherous swim as I'll be in the water BETWEEN 30 AND 50 HOURS, and in that long period of time conditions cannot be predicted. But the $15,000 first prize (Note: Which Greta won last year) makes it worthwhile."

GRETA IS MORE CONFIDENT this year than she has been at any other stage of her 15-year career. She credits the confidence to the help of three men—Frank Sullivan, athletic director at the Pacific Coast Club; Dr. Wilfred Slater, himself still a noted marathon swimmer at the age of 55, and her timer, Bill Beggs.

"Coach Sullivan helped me increase my strength and speed by lifting weights and doing sprints in the Coast Club pool.

"Dr. Slater plans to accompany me on my swims. He has been checking me out regularly since October to see that my diet and physical condition is at its best all the time."

The Danish-born mermaid always has been strict in her training routines—10 hours sleep per night, and absolutely NO smoking, drinking or parties—but this year she has regimented herself even more.

"I learned a lot from that Lake Michigan swim last year," explains Greta. "When I completed the 50 miles I was completely exhausted and had to stay in a hospital for two days to recover from the effects of exhaustion. I was in good shape then, but am even better now."

NOT A BIT BASHFUL, Greta compares herself to an astronaut.

"They probably feel the same loneliness I experience on my long swims," she believes. "The only difference is that they gamble their life, but usually walk out in good condition . . . and I walk out 20 pounds lighter, my fingers and hands shrivelled, and my face so swollen that my eyes are almost shut."

Greta admits to only one obsession—hatred of people who claim female swimmers aren't glamorous . . . and if you'd desire a swollen face yourself, mention this to Greta sometime!

Rig Talks in Vain, Angels Lose Again

By ROSS NEWHAN
I.-P-T Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Ken McBride proved his elbow is again healthy Saturday but the Angels remained in critical condition.

Not even a pre-game clubhouse lecture during which manager Bill Rigney pleaded for greater hustle on the field and conformity to curfew and club regulations off the field could stir the Angels out of the lethargy which has produced six consecutive defeats—the longest wrong way streak since 1961.

McBride wiped away the question mark behind his All-Star Game nomination by tolling a brilliant eight and one-third innings. He deserved to win his seventh straight, but considering the way the Angels are hitting he was fortunate to come away with no decision.

Art Fowler sustained his first defeat of the year as the Senators sent 6,411 faithful away happy with a 3-2 decision in 10 tense innings.

* * * *

FOR THE "streaking" Senators, it was their fifth victory in a row, matching the longest such streak of the last nine years. The capitol crew's capers crashed the Angels 11 games out of the league lead and left them with only two victories in nine contests on this trip.

Leon Wagner reappeared to slug his 20th homer, but the Angels collected only three other hits off a quartet of Senator pitchers who reduced the Cherubs' runs-per-game average during this losing streak to 2.6.

Ex-Angel Ronnie Kline picked up his first victory against three defeats as he retired his former mates in the 10th inning. Felix Torres rapped Kline's first pitch for a single, but Charlie Dees, with only one hit in his last 19 at-bats, then bounced into a double play after first missing the sacrifice sign and then missing on a bunt attempt.

* * * *

FOWLER (3-1) opened the fateful frame by walking Jim King. Chuck Hinton forced King at second, but All-Star Game catcher Don Leppert sliced a drive which dropped just inside the rightfield line. The fleet Hinton wheeled around third and just nosed out Joe Koppe's relay from Lee Thomas.

The extra-inning defeat was only the Angels' third in 10 overtime contests.

The Senators drew first blood two batters into the game when Dick Phillips cracked his first major league home run. The Angels finally tied it in the fifth which Thomas opened with a double off Steve Ridzik, who came on to pitch in the second when starter Dave Stenhouse developed elbow trouble of his own.

Ridzik's wild pitch advanced Thomas to third from where he scored on Koppe's sacrifice fly to deep left. The tie lasted only into the bottom of the frame as Don Blasingame, Phillips and King laced back-to-back singles to give the Senators a 2-1 advantage. King's single was to be the last Washington hit until Leppert's payoff blow.

* * * *

WITH TWO away in the Angels' sixth, Ridzik hurled a hummer into Wagner's wheelhouse and Daddy Wags belted it off the rightfield scoreboard to again tie the game. Ridzik and Claude Osteen then retired 10 Cherubs in order until Torres' wasted single in the 10th.

McBride tired and gave way in the ninth with two on, one out and a 3-1 count on Blasingame. Jack Spring took over and two pitches later Jim Fregosi erred on a double play grounder, leaving the bases full. Spring induced Phillips to hit to Torres who this time got the double play, keeping the Angels momentarily alive.

While McBride displayed a sound elbow, distraught Rigney indicated his elbow may get a test of its own later in the evening.

* * * *

ANGEL ANGLES. Dean Chance (6-6) and Paul Foytack (1-2) will oppose Bennie Daniels (2-2) and Jim Duckworth (0-1) in this afternoon's road trip finale. McBride, Albie Pearson, Wagner, Fred Haney, traveling secretary Tommie Ferguson and three Angel writers leave immediately following the double exposure for Cleveland and Tuesday's All-Star Game. The rest of the team returns home to enjoy the three-day break and prepare for a 12-game home stand which opens next Thursday against the Yankees.

ANGEL OF DAY

KEN McBRIDE
Pitched strong 8⅓ innings in Angels' loss to Washington.

Dodger Skein Snapped at 5

recovered quickly and was able to hold Gilliam at second.

Gilliam finally managed to score on Tommy Davis' single to left field, thus averting the Dodgers' eighth shutout.

Although restricted to seven hits by Jim Maloney (13-3), the Dodgers seldom hit the ball harder. Maloney's best pitch obviously was the at-'em ball because practically every line drive was hit directly at a Red.

* * * *

ROBINSON speared sinking liners by Ron Fairly (in the fourth) and Roseboro (in the fifth) and shortstop Leo Cardenas must have been surprised to see Drysdale's liner stick in his glove to end the fifth.

The Cincinnati outfield probably hasn't worked harder since spring training. There were 13 putouts in the outfield, eight by Robinson in right.

Maury Wills, picking up eight points to .319, led the Dodgers with three singles. Gilliam had two hits. The bottom five men in the order were blanked, however, as Maloney achieved his second victory over the Dodgers in six career decisions.

* * * *

THE LOSS was only the second for Drysdale during the month of July in the past five seasons.

The series and Dodger home stand conclude with a doubleheader today, matching Sandy Koufax (13-3) and Bob Purkey (3-4) in the opener, followed by Nick Willhite (1-2) vs. John Tsitouris (4-2).

GIANTS TAKE OVER SECOND

McCovey Continues Homer Binge; Cards Still Sliding

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie McCovey crashed his fourth home run in four games, breaking a seventh-inning tie Saturday and leading San Francisco past St. Louis 5-3.

The blast off Ray Sadecki with Billy Pierce aboard plunged the Cardinals to their seventh straight defeat and pulled the Giants into second place behind Los Angeles in the see-saw National League race.

Until McCovey smashed his 22nd homer of the year, the game had been almost a personal battle between Willie Mays, who scored two Giant runs and drove in one, and Charlie James, who homered twice for St. Louis.

Mays walked and scored in the second. His two-out single to left drove home Harvey Kuenn in the third. St. Louis tied the game on James' fifth inning 2 run homer.

Braves Sweep Colts With Shaw's Shutout

HOUSTON (UPI) — Lee Maye drove in both runs and Bob Shaw fired a six-hit shutout to give the Milwaukee Braves a 2-0 victory Saturday night over the Houston Colts to complete a sweep of a twi-night doubleheader. The Braves won the opener, 7-1.

Maye doubled home Dennis Menke in the sixth and singled across Del Crandall in the eighth for the only runs off Hal Brown, who suffered his fourth loss against two wins while allowing six hits.

Shaw, now 4-6, walked three and fanned six, leaving eight Colts on base. For the day, the Colts left 16 on base compared to only five for the Braves.

Two Homers by Demeter Spark Phils

CHICAGO (UPI) — Don Demeter backed up Cal McLish's three-hitter Saturday with two home runs in a 6-0 victory for the Philadelphia Phillies which ended a Chicago Cubs winning streak at five games.

The Phils sent Bob Buhl down to his sixth setback of the season in a hurry, scoring all six runs off the seasoned righthander in the first three innings. Demeter drove in five runs.

Bucs Pounce on Mets for 11-3 Splurge

NEW YORK (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates paraded seven runs across in the eighth inning and pushed the New York Mets to the ninth straight loss Saturday night, 11-3.

Bill Virdon's three-run homer was the deciding blow in Pittsburgh's big splurge against loser Al Jackson and rookie Larry Bearnarth. Nine Pirates batted before the first out was made, and 13 went to the plate over-all.

HOAK SPIKES HUBBS; AVERT RIOT

CHICAGO (UPI) — Don Hoak, peppery third baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies, admitted Saturday he tried to kick the ball from Ken Hubbs in a spiking incident that almost touched off a free-for-all.

Hubbs, Chicago Cubs second baseman, held his hand up for several minutes after he tagged Hoak out in the eighth-inning play.

In the ninth, players from both benches ran to the plate where Dick Bertell, Cubs catcher, and Hoak squared off for a fight.

No blows were struck and order was quickly restored.

Hoak said he ran from the dugout when Bertell dared him to come out.

Man to Man

LAKE

By JERRY WYNN

A $20 bill which grew into a $10,000 jackpot . . .that is the success story of the Southern California Professional Golfers Assn. Championship which for the 22nd successive year will be played at Recreation Park this week.

The man, miffed at the $20, who helped build the tournament into the largest and richest pro match play event in the nation is George Lake, host pro at Recreation Park for 27 years and Mr. Golf to thousands of Long Beach fairway faithful.

"In 1940, we played the championship at Riviera Country Club," Lake recalls. "I got hot and made it to the quarterfinals. But all I received was $20 of a paltry $200 purse.

"I figured the tournament should be worth a lot more than that, and offered to underwrite it for $500 myself if the PGA would bring it to Recreation Park. They agreed, and it's been here ever since."

Was the first tournament a success?

"Yes, and it had a great finish. Olin Dutra, a former National Open and PGA champion, was defending champion and a heavy favorite in the finals against a young fellow from Texas, Bud Oakley. But Oakley birdied seven of the 11 holes in the afternoon round and whipped Dutra, 8 and 7."

Did you continue to put up the money for the tournament?

"No. The City of Long Beach sponsored it for the next two years, offering $1,000 in war bonds each year. I underwrote it again in 1944 for $1,000 provided the PGA would give its support by establishing a championship fund. Since 1945, the purse has increased steadily to the $10,000 high of this year."

What do you consider the most exciting match in tournament history?

"The most sensational was between Lloyd Mangrum and Zell Eaton in 1947. Mangrum, then the U.S. Open champion, was 1 up on Eaton with five holes to go. Both players birdied the next four holes. Eaton birdied the 18th to tie and then won the 19th and the match with his sixth straight birdie. For the regulation 18, both players shot 64."

What was the greatest oddity?

"That's easy. In 1959 Eric Monti forgot to bring his golf clubs with him for a quarterfinal match against Bud Holscher. Monti was defending champion and had a streak of 18 match wins. I lent him my son Jeff's clubs, and he beat Holscher. But then Eric's wife delivered his own clubs, and he got beat by Jimmy Thompson in the afternoon semis."

What was your personal top thrill?

"In 1945, I was paired against the defending champion, Clayton Aferidge. He had beaten Olin Dutra, Ralph Guhdahl and Harry Bassler to win the year before, and I was considered something of a bye for him. But I sank a curling 20-footer to birdie the 18th hole and tie him, and then holed another 20-footer on the 19th to beat him.

"I also enjoyed playing against Tommy Bolt in 1959 only he sank all the 20-footers in that one. I lost, 6 and 5."

Who would you rate as the "big men" to play in the tournament?

"Dutra, Mangrum, Guhdahl, Bolt, Jerry Barber, Paul Runyan, Jack Fleck, Jim Ferrier, Johnny Bulla, Jimmy Hines, Willie Hunter. All were major tournament champions."

The National PGA changed its championship from match to medal play a few years ago. Are you in favor of keeping match play for the SC-PGA Championship?

"Definitely. Match play is far more colorful and exciting and it gives every player a chance to beat the top players and win money and recognition. I honestly believe that if Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus were playing here this week, I don't think they would be a cinch to beat some of our top men such as Barber, Monti and Holscher in an 18-hole match play on this course."

Who is your choice to win this year?

"I'd give an edge to Eric Monti. He's won four times, and always plays Recreation Park as if he owns the course."

A great tournament is the Southern California PGA Championship, and an outstanding host professional is George Lake.

120 Pros Set for $10,000 Battle at Park

Golf's little giant is Long Beach bound.

Jerry Barber will play in the $10,000 Southern California PGA Championship at Recreation Park Thursday through Sunday.

Champion in 1959 and a defeated finalist in 1962, Barber was not expected to compete in the tournament this year. He gave up his club position at Wilshire CC at the end of last year to devote full time to playing the PGA circuit.

The 5-foot-5, 135-pound marvel has been a consistent money winner and captured the $25,000 Azalea Open in April. In the Canadian Open which ended Saturday, he took home a check of $900.

Barber was a strong favorite against Emil Scodeller in last year's SC-PGA finals only to have the young Annandale CC pro topple him by stealing some of Jerry's patented putting thunder. Emil sank putts of 50, 40, 30 and 10 feet on the final nine holes to score a 1 up on the 36th hole triumph.

Regarded as the game's foremost putter, Barber won the 1961 National PGA Championship by canning putts of 20, 40 and 60 feet on the final three holes. He also holds the Tournament of Champions scoring record of 268 set in 1960.

This week, Jerry will battle a field of about 120 of Southern California's "stay-at-home" pros including such outstanding shotmakers as Eric Monti, Bud Holscher, Paul Runyan, Mac Hunter, Jack Doss, Ed Merrins, Zell Eaton, Smiley Quick, Dale Andreason, Mike Austin, Ralph Blomquist, Jimmy Thompson, Ronnie Reif and Scodeller.

There will be two rounds of match play daily leading into 36-hole finals on Sunday. The winner receives $2,000; the runnerup $1,200.

Season tickets, costing $2 for all four days, are on sale at all golf shops. Daily tickets cost $1 for the first three days and $2 on Sunday.

2 Strokes Ahead in Final Day

By JERRY WYNN

Ed Korylak and Bob Howe, a pair of space-flight engineers from the Rancho Golf Club in West Los Angeles, blasted off into birdie orbit at Meadowlark Saturday.

Korylak carded a three-under par 68 for a 36-hole total of 138 and a two-stroke lead heading into today's final round of the 54-Hole Medal Championship.

Howe, a former USC star, turned in the tourney's low round of 67 to vault into third place at 141.

Sharing second place at 140 are John Richardson of Lakewood, who fired a 71, and Ben Babcock of Alondra Park, who matched Korylak's 68. Howard Coleman, the first-round co-leader with Richardson, dropped out of contention with a 75.

• • • •

AN AMATEUR version of Jerry Barber at 5-foot-5, 135 pounds, Korylak made five birdies and two bogies Saturday. He birdied holes No. 5, 6, 12, 16 and 18 on putts of 5, 10, 2, 20 and 8 feet and bogied No. 7 and 15.

"I'll be happy if I can shoot around par tomorrow," said Korylak, an employee of Hughes Aircraft.

Howe bagged four birdies, all on the back nine, and 14 pars in a flawless round. He birdied holes No. 10, 14, 16 and 18 on putts of 14, 3, 8 and 5 feet, and called a 6-iron hit from a divot to the green on the 10th his best shot of the day.

• • • •

THERE WAS another 67 fired Saturday, but oddly it did not come from a player in the championship flight. Whitey Stanford of Meadowlark, a Class A competitor, was the pistol-hot shooter.

GEIBERGER HOT

Ford Coasts to Canada Tee Win

Compiled from Wire Services

TORONTO, Ont.—Veteran Doug Ford of New York birdied the 17th hole with a 16-foot putt Saturday for a one-stroke victory in the $50,000 Canadian Open golf championship.

Ford, who won the Canadian Open in 1959, stood off a challenge by lanky Al Geiberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., that included an eagle and a five-under-par 30 on the back nine.

Geiberger, 25 and shaped like a 1-iron, finished with 65, the day's best round, and 281, one stroke back of Ford.

• • • •

THE 40-year-old Ford, who has won both the PGA and the Masters title and is one of the fastest players in golf, had a one-under-par 70 for the final round.

Ford had rounds of 69, 67 and 74 before his final 70 over the par 71, 6,738-yard Scarboro Course. He walked through the last round holding the hand of his eight-year-old daughter.

Top prize for the tournament is $9,000.

Several players made a run at Ford in the pressure-packed final round and a gallery of 10,000 was sure it would be treated to a sudden-death playoff. Australia's Bruce Crampton and Geiberger each tied Ford at one point.

Ford, whose last PGA tour win was in the 1962 Eastern Open, had an unspectacular 32 putts although he three-putted only once. He said later he had played for pars although he knew Geiberger was even with him.

ORTEGA WINS SPLIT VOTE IN TV FIGHT

Ortega of Mexicali, Mex., threw too many punches, although, in this battle of left-hook specialists, 20-year-old Bello seemed to land the harder blows.

ALTHEA ASKS FOR CARD AS LADY PRO

SUTTON, Mass. (AP)—Althea Gibson, 34, former Wimbledon and U.S. singles tennis champion, has applied for membership in the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. LPGA tournament, director Len Wirtz said Saturday.

Miss Gibson switched to golf about four years ago and has a four-stroke handicap as an amateur. She is a resident of Riverdale, N.Y., and is employed in the public relations field.

Wirtz said Miss Gibson must play as an apprentice golfer for one year, taking part in 60 percent of the LPGA tournaments. After that, he said, players will vote on acceptance of her application.

PALMER 2-1 BRITISH PICK

ST. ANNES, England (AP)—Arnold Palmer, top money winner on the United States golf circuit, has been made a 2-1 favorite to win the British Open for the third straight time over the Royal Lytham and St. Annes links Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The only player in modern times who has collared the historic title three straight is Australian Peter Thomson. He did it in 1954-55-56.

Famous old-time Scottish golfers like Tom Morris, Jamie Anderson and Bob Ferguson also captured three straight. But they did it between 1867 and 1882 when the championship was an all-British affair.

Palmer, a great favorite with British galleries, appeared to be slipping a few weeks back. Then he came back with a brand of golf reminiscent of his great days.

Now the bookies, as shrewd as they come when betting money is involved, have made Palmer the favorite followed by American Jack Nicklaus and South African Gary Player at 7-1, Thomson at 8-1 and Kel Nagle of Australia at 10-1.

The British Open, a prestige tournament, also carries a vast cash incentive to the winner—in addition to the $4,200 first prize for the winner.

The World Series of Golf at Akron, Ohio, Sept. 7-8 will match champions of the British Open, the U.S. PGA, the Masters (Nicklaus) and the U.S. Open (Julius Boros). The winner of that exercise will get $50,000, the second $15,000 and the next two $5,000.

The 6,836-year Royal Lytham and St. Anne is the layout where Bobby Jones won his first British Open Championship in 1926.

The hard winter has made the Lytham greens tricky and club members have not played them for several weeks.

RAMBO HEADS FOR LONG BEACH STATE
Coach Dick Perry has hit the jackpot now that John Rambo has announced he will attend Long Beach State this fall. Rambo, an outstanding basketball player at Poly High and LBCC, also ranks as one of the nation's finest high jumpers. The 6-7 athlete cleared 7 feet this season.

STRONG CAGE SLATE SET

L.B. State to Make Tracks in '63-64

By AL LARSON

Long Beach State College's 1963-64 basketball schedule, announced Saturday, features a heavy diet of intersectional play.

Coach Dick Perry's 49ers will make their first swing into the Southwest when they tackle Texas Western, Tulsa, Phillips 66 and Oklahoma State.

In addition to this rugged December trip, LBSC's cagers engage Creighton and Baylor Dec. 20-21. UCLA will share billing in the choice doubleheader at the Long Beach Arena.

Other non-conference foes on the 26-game schedule include Chapman, Cal Poly (Pomona), Orange State, University of San Diego and UC Santa Barbara. The Gauchos have dropped out of the California College Athletic Assn.

• • • •

PERRY is counting on veterans Lyn Hodge, Al Windfield, Bob Roeland, Johnny Johnson, Carl Washington and Tom Dirtch to spearhead the 49ers in their 10-game CCAA slate. Long Beach, which wound up with a 10-15 record last year, opens its campaign Dec. 2 against the Alumni.

Outstanding recruits this year include LBCC's John Rambo and all-conference forward John Barnicoat from Riverside. Barnicoat paced Riverside College to the Eastern Conference championship (10-0) and was voted "player of the year." He stands 6-5 and weighs 200.

The schedule:

However, Bud Bradley of Rancho and Dick Potzner of Griffith Park will join Klabunde on the Long Beach team in the Harding Cup competition for national team honors.

Tenn. State Off, Running in AAU Meet

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Tennessee State's feminine track stars broke away to a big lead in the opening event Saturday night in their attempt to defend their team title in the 1963 Women's AAU Track and Field Championships.

Edith McGuire, the 19-year-old Pan American 100-meter winner, opened with a victory in the 100-yard dash in 11 seconds. Wyomia Tyus, also of Tennessee State and winner of two junior titles Friday night, finished second to give the favorites a 1-2 finish in the opener.

Miss Tyus, whose 10.5 in the preliminary for a record was not allowed because the judges failed to see the starter's gun flash, also was timed in 11-flat in the race into the wind.

Leah Bennett of Hawaii University, defending champion in the 880-yard run, finished third as Sandra Knott of Cleveland Recreation won the event in 2:12.5.

It's Clear Sailing for Dodgers, Yankees

When the major league clubs passed the traditional July 4 milestone last year, it appeared that the Yankees and Dodgers were well on their way to a meeting in the World Series.

According to our "Baseball Trend Chart," the two clubs would win by comfortable margins ranging from three to six games, possibly more.

The Yankees, of course, made it by five games. However the Dodgers lost 10 of their last 13 games to tie with the Giants, and then lost the playoff in the heartbreaking ninth inning of the third and deciding game after it appeared they had it wrapped up.

RALPH HOUK
His Yankees Have Balance

After the games of July 4 this season, the trend chart again points to the Yankees and Dodgers to make it to the World Series.

The Yankees figure to win by at least 10 games this time. Their present potential is at least 104 victories . . . eight more than they registered last year.

When injuries began to cut down several Yankee stars in recent weeks, the rival managers began humming that old tune "this is the year the Yanks can be had."

No other club could survive the rash of injuries that have hit the Yankees so far, yet despite their hospital list they have moved out on the rest of the league and not only held a 4½-game lead on the 4th, but had a solid six-game advantage in the important loss column.

Manager Ralph Houk has been able to use his "regular" lineup only 10 times so far this season, a statistic that confirms earlier estimates that this is the best balanced club the Yankees have had in many years.

CHICAGO AND MINNESOTA right now have potentials of 94 victories. However, baseball men feel that Minnesota may be the biggest threat to the Yanks . . . if a threat develops.

Chicago, for instance, has taken its best shots at the Yanks . . . and still fallen behind. Minnesota, meanwhile, has 13 games left with New York . . . seven of them later this month in a pair of showdown series that will decide whether the Yanks are going to breeze, or must fight it out to the finish.

If it comes down to the wire, New York and the Twins meet in the final series of the season (3 games) at Yankee Stadium Sept. 27-28-29, which would make an interesting climax.

However, unless the Yanks run into unexpected tough going, they should have the pennant clinched by the time they leave Minnesota Sept. 15 after their next-to-last series with the Twins. After that they'll have only 10 games left—four with Kansas City.

AT THE PRESENT TIME, the Yanks are four games ahead of their 1962 start, while the Twins are running even with the pace that earned them second place with 91 victories.

Fourth place is up for grabs among five teams—Baltimore, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Boston and Detroit. Their potential, in that order, ranges from around 84 wins down to 79. But a break here or there could change the whole order of finish from fourth down to eighth place.

Right now, the Angels have a good crack at the first division. Their peak potential at this point is around 82 victories.

Trailing in the American League are Kansas City with 62 wins and Washington with 52.

AFTER A SHAKY start, the Dodgers have come on strong to take command in the National League . . . and although their pitching still appears a little too thin, they should have no excuses this trip unless another important frontliner is injured and sidelined as was Sandy Koufax last season.

The Cardinals appear to have had their best days, although they should hang in there tough right to the end, while Cincinnati can't get a consistent winning streak going. If Joey Jay and Bob Purkey were merely pitching .500 ball, the Reds would be out in front now and favored to take all the marbles.

The Reds still figure to be the top threat to the Dodgers and Giants. Despite their disappointing start, they are only one game off their opening pace of last year when they finished just three games behind the leaders.

Although the Dodgers are running three games behind their '62 pace, they should at least hit their final victory total of a year ago—101. The Giants are six games off and their potential has dropped to 98.

The two clubs, schedule-wise, should have fairly good sailing after this week's All-Star break until mid-August.

MEANWHILE, THE REDS, still hard to figure, have a potential of 93 at present. Despite the fact they haven't made a real run yet, they are still within striking distance of the top.

However, at present it looks like it will be a race to the wire between the Dodgers and Giants with their final seven meetings deciding things—four games at Dodger Stadium Aug 29-Sept. 1 and three games at Candlestick Sept. 6-7-8.

St. Louis is even with its '62 pace when the club finished sixth 17½ back, but should finish at least fourth with around 91 wins. Other potentials at this point: Chicago, 84; Milwaukee, 81; Pittsburgh, 76; Philadelphia, 75; Houston, 60, and New York, 46.

SPORTS BEAT

The San Francisco Giants, seeking to give third baseman Jim Davenport a rest, will start Jim Hart, a new arrival from Tacoma, at the position against St. Louis today. . . Frank Lary, the Detroit Tigers' former "Yankee killer," will get his first test in today's second game against Kansas City since curing a sore arm in the minors. . . Russia has selected its 57-member track team for the dual meet with the U.S. in Moscow July 20-21. It includes 26 men and seven women who competed in last year's meet at Palo Alto. . . Sonny Liston forced one sparring partner to throw in the towel while ex-champ Floyd Patterson also got in some good licks in workouts at Las Vegas Saturday. . . Admiral's Voyage has headed East and will pass up the $167,200 Hollywood Gold Cup July 13. . . The commissioner of the Canadian Football League, Sydney Halter, will allow the Ottawa Roughriders to keep end Ted Watkins of the University of Pacific, whose coach, John Rhode, protested that Watkins had eligibility remaining. . . The Green Bay Packers have quit selling tickets for their three games in Milwaukee to save some for late public sale. . . Three Jaguar sedans beat out an entry of Ford Galaxies through torrential rains in a six-hour stock car race in England Saturday. . . Welterweight champion Emile Griffith will meet middleweight Holly Mims in a 10-round non-title match at Saratoga Springs, N.Y., Aug. 19. . . Top-seeded Jan Develas of Santa Monica advanced to the finals of the 47th La Jolla tennis tournament by defeating Forrest Stewart of L.A., 6-0, 6-4. Hugh Stewart of South Pasadena will be his title foe. . . Chris McCarthy of Chicago dethroned defending champion Ronald Laird of New York in the National AAU Senior Division 50-kilometer walk in 4:44:35.0. That's 31.4 miles. . . Germany's top heavyweight, Karl Mildenberger, outpointed New York's Wayne Bethea in 10 rounds. . . Two lieutenants and a Pfc. from the U.S. Armed Forces modern pentathlon team won the three-weapon team event in the U.S. National fencing championships in Los Angeles. . . Denver's new team in the Western Hockey League will be known as the Invaders.

Want Stars to Play—Houk

Dark to Use Best for Win

CLEVELAND (UPI)— Alvin Dark can go for broke if he likes, but Ralph Houk said Saturday he's more concerned with "giving everyone a chance to play" in Tuesday's 34th All-Star game.

Dark, who will handle the National Leaguers, has made it clear that winning the game is paramount with him.

"The starting lineup will play most of the game," said the San Francisco manager, "and the chances are Willie Mays and Hank Aaron will play all the way in the outfield."

Houk, managing the American Leaguers for the second straight year and on the scene here already because his Yankees wind up a four-game series with the Indians today, is as anxious to win as Dark but claims there are other factors to be considered.

* * * *

"I WANT to win the game just as much as he does," said Houk, whose Yankees defeated Dark's Giants in the World Series last October. "I've never gone into a game that I didn't honestly feel we could beat the other side.

"But let's face facts. The All-Star game actually is an exhibition. Every player picked for the game knows it's a real honor to be in it. If that's the case, why shouldn't as many of those players as possible get into the game?

"When you get right down to it, there isn't too much difference between one All-Star player and another," Houk added. "Ordinarily, a manager doesn't hurt himself too much by taking one player out and putting another one in."

* * * *

THIS YEAR there will be only one All-Star game, instead of two as has been the practice since 1959, and the majority of players are happy to go back to the old arrangement.

Houk and Dark both have one common problem—which pitcher to name as starter for Tuesday's game?

"It all depends on who pitches over the weekend," Houk said. "You can't very well ask a pitcher to start with only a day or two of rest."

Air Academy Honors Ex-Rabbit Jagerson

Todd Jagerson, who was captain of Poly High's CIF championship football team of 1959, has been named to the commandant's list at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo., for his "demonstrated excellence in performance of cadet duty."

Jagerson is a starting guard on the Falcon team and will graduate in 1964.

BERRA TOUCHES OFF SPLURGE

Yanks' Downing Whiffs 14 as Mates Unload, 11-6

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Southpaw Al Downing struck out 14 batters, coming within one of the New York team record, but still failed to finish the game as the league-leading Yankees downed the Cleveland Indians, 11-6, Saturday on the strength of a seven-run rally in the second inning.

Downing, a 22-year-old fireballer, gave up four runs, including solo homers by Max Alvis and Willie Tasby, before being relieved by Hal Reniff in the eighth with the bases loaded and two out. Reniff ended the threat by getting pinchhitter Fred Whitfield to fly out but he gave up a two-run homer to Mike de la Hoz in the ninth.

* * * *

THE LATE inning trouble cost Downing a shot at the Yankee record of 15 strikeouts for a nine-inning game set by Bob Shawkey in 1927.

Player-coach Yogi Berra ignited the Yankee second with a three-run homer against starter Barry Latman.

Downing hit a two-run double against Allen in the fifth and Roger Maris slammed a two-run homer, his 19th, against Jerry Walker in the sixth to account for the other New York runs.

Red Sox Top Chisox, 6-2, Jump to 2nd

BOSTON (UPI) — Rookie Dave Morehead, 19, pitched a brilliant three-hitter Saturday night to lead the Red Sox to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox and jump Boston from fourth to second place in the American League.

The win was Boston's 30th in 44 home games.

The Red Sox scored four runs in the fourth, all off rookie Joe Shipley and all of them unearned because of a passed ball by catcher J. C. Martin.

2 Homers Trigger Tigers' Fifth in Row

DETROIT (UPI)—The ninth place Detroit Tigers reeled off their fifth straight victory Saturday, hanging out 12 hits including Norm Cash's three-run homer and a solo homer by Rocky Colavito to down the Kansas City Athletes, 8-4.

The Tigers were playing without star outfielder Al Kaline, who was sidelined with a pulled leg muscle.

Cash hit a three-run homer in the third to overcome a 2-0 A's lead and the Tigers put the game away with a fourth run in the fourth and three in the fifth. Colavito added his homer in the eighth.

Hannum Won't Go With Nats

Alex Hannum, coach of the Syracuse Nationals in the National Basketball Association, said Saturday he will not coach the team in Philadelphia.

Hannum, contacted at his Palos Verdes Estates home, said:

"The sale and transfer of the Nats to Philadelphia has nothing to do with my decision," Hannum said.

"I spoke with Ike Richmond, one of the Philadelphia owners and told him it would be impossible for me to stay with the Nationals."

* * * *

HANNUM, coach of the Nationals for the past three years, said increased business activity forced his withdrawal from the NBA.

"I'm very active in a general contracting business," he said, "and right now we're building apartments in West Los Angeles."

The leading contender for the job is reported to be Dolph Schayes.

Downey Gains Softball Final

By CHUCK MEDICK

EL PASO — The Downey Impalas recorded another upset in the Southwest Softball Classic here Saturday night as they turned back Pomona, 2-0, to gain the finals.

Downey will play the survivor among the other three teams remaining in the double elimination — Arlington, Tulsa or Pomona — for the title.

Milt Stark homered for Downey in the fifth and Chappie Wheeler accounted for the other run on a double and a two-base error in the sixth.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Artificial or Not, It's Home

The Department of Fish and Game took $5,500 in Los Angeles County fish and game fine money last January, bought some quarry rock, dumped it 2,000 yards off the Redondo Beach Pier and then quietly awaited the results.

Last week DFG diver-biologists Charles H. Turner and Earl Ebert, who originally selected the site and supervised the installation, reported that fish by the thousands have been attracted to the artificial reef.

They found kelp bass running from two to four pounds, halibut up to 30 pounds, rockfish, sculpin, sheephead, perches and ocean whitefish.

After those observations, the DFG decided to mark the spot with buoys. There are four separate piles of rock about 100 feet apart on what had been a perfectly smooth bottom.

The buoys, each 12 inches in diameter, are 700 feet apart and mark the extreme outer extremities of the reef which runs north and south. The words, "artificial fishing reef" are printed on the buoys.

The DFG had kept it unmarked for six months to permit the fish populations to build up for the sportfishermen. Let's hope that more artificial reefs can be built along the Southland's coast.

IF THE OPENING of trout season falls in the middle of the week instead of on Saturday next year, you can blame Assemblywoman Pauline Davis, who, even though indirectly, put a snag on the regulatory powers of the Fish and Game Commission.

It was her action in the Assembly that killed a once-routine Senate bill to grant the usual powers to the commission. When she amended the bill to suit her own purposes, the Senate, in turn, let it die.

It was thought that Gov. Pat Brown might ask the special session to restore the commission's powers. However, on Friday he said that he would not permit the Legislature to consider the FGC's powers because such action might lead to "another full-blown session."

He added that should he do so, solons might want to reconsider 200 other bills. He wants the legislators to consider just the state's fiscal condition.

The commission's powers formally expire in September. Regulations governing fishing and hunting then must remain in effect until action by the Legislature. No opening and closing dates of any seasons can be changed until that is done.

IT'S TIME FOR grunion again. The little silvery fish are scheduled to visit Southern California's beaches (where, I don't know) for the next four nights to go through their spawning routine.

Runs lasting about one hour are expected to begin at 10:45 p.m. Monday, 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, 12:15 a.m. Thursday and 1:15 a.m. Friday. Times are approximate; the runs could be later—or not at all if you insist on shining flashlights into the surf.

All you need to catch grunion—if you see any—are optimism, old clothes, a fondness for getting wet, a quick pair of hands and a gunny sack or other kind of container for the fish. Oh yes, you also need a fishing license if you are 16 years or older. You may use only your hands.

Speaking of licenses, it might be well to remember that your hunting license has expired. New licenses, covering the period from July 1 through June 30, 1964, are now available from 3,300 license dealers throughout the state.

Once again, it will be one of those self-serve deals. You fill out the application, the agent affixes a stamp and that becomes your hunting license. The archery deer season in the coastal area starts July 13 and continues through July 28. The regular shooting season for coastal deer runs Aug. 3 through Sept. 22.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA will become the archery center of the world this month with the national indoor archery championships slated for July 20 in Covina and July 21 in Downey.

The National Field Archery Association's annual tournament follows at Enchanted Forest July 22 through 26. Then comes the big one—the 79th National Archery Association tournament at UCLA, July 29 through Aug. 2.

Registrations for the indoor events are being accepted through July 19 at Golden Arrow Archery Lanes, 5136 N. Citrus, Covina. For the Enchanted Forest NFAA tournament, write to NFAA, Route 2, Box 514, Redlands, Calif. Registrations for the NAA already have been completed.

If you are interested in archery, you will have an excellent chance to see two of the best archers in the nation in action at the Downey Archery Lanes. They are Don Cavallero, Pasadena, who broke nine records to win the 1962 archery championship, and Matt Yurich, Woodland Hills, current national indoor free-style champion. They are rated as top contenders in the scratch singles event.

However, Bob Kelley, executive secretary of the NIAA, makes it quite clear that an average archer will have a chance of winning a portion of the $5,000 prize money because of the equalization handicap system which is being used on the indoor lanes.

RAMS TRY TACKLE FOR TWO

Ram quarterbacks Roman Gabriel (left) and Ron Miller, who usually are on the pitching end, showed skill at catching 'em, too, in excursion from Pierpoint Landing. Training camp opens at Orange next week.

ONLY 4 RAMS UNSIGNED FOR '63 CAMPAIGN

The Rams announced Saturday that four more veterans from last year's starting lineup had signed their 1963 contracts and only four players remained to be signed before preseason training starts July 14.

Assistant general manager Elroy Hirsch said the latest to be signed were defensive backs Carver Shannon and Eddie Meador, offensive lineman Joe Scibelli and end Carroll Dale.

Still to be signed are linebackers Mike Henry and Marlin McKeever, defensive back Charley Britt and fullback Art Perkins. Of these, Britt had agreed to terms and was expected to sign next week.

Peterson '9' Posts Rout in Ninth Win

Peterson Post continued its winning ways Saturday by trouncing Alamitos Bay, 14-4, at Long Beach City College to run its American Legion Harbor League record to 9-1.

Jerry Flynn, Bob vonEps and Jim Smith each had three hits for first-place Peterson.

In the other Harbor League game, Buster Smith fanned 11 and Manuel Canteu doubled home Willie Fox in the eighth inning to give Wilmington a 1-0 win over San Pedro.

DESTROYER AND BLASSIE TO CLASH

Freddie Blassie and The Destroyer, wrestling's top attractions whenever they tangle, headline this week's card at Municipal Auditorium.

They meet Tuesday night in a non-title bout as the Destroyer attempts to qualify for a chance to regain the heavyweight crown.

Ocean Race Won by Smallest Boat

By JIM McCORMACK

When the going gets rough, the rough get going.

This was the story of the second annual Redondo Beach-around-Catalina 100-mile rough water race—sponsored by the Redondo Beach Chamber of Commerce Saturday in conjunction with the Redondo Beach Neptune Days.

Gardena's D. C. Owen and H. Lou Hensel guided the African Queen across the finish line in 2 hours, 41 minutes, 40 seconds, one minute ahead of Santa Monica's Frances Weinberg and Bob Riggs in the New Job. Starfire was third, skippered by Steve Salem and Carl Tobin from Manhattan Beach.

• • • •

THE African Queen, a Boston Whaler and the smallest boat in the race (16 feet), was powered by a single 75-hp Johnson outboard. Only eight boats finished after choppy waters had cut the field from 22 at starting time.

Weinberg and Riggs ran a 30-foot Trimaran powered by two 345-hp Oldsmobile engines. But after leading to the mid-way point, New Job couldn't handle the job of keeping up with the Queen.

Tobin and Salem drove a 25-foot Overnighter propelled by a 275-hp inboard but trailed throughout. Bob Crow, the early favorite, blew one of two Corvette engines in his Catamaran cruiser and dropped out at the halfway point.

The African Queen was well off the record of 2 hours, 19 minutes, 17 seconds set in 1962 by television star Ronnie Burns.

Cornell Beaten in Henley Final

HENLEY - ON - THAMES, England (UPI) — The United States was shut out in the Royal Henley Regatta Saturday when the Cornell University heavyweights, the Amlong Brothers of Philadelphia and Rollins College of Florida all were beaten on the final day of competition.

The biggest surprise on this miserable, rain-swept day was the defeat of Cornell in the grand challenge cup final. The Big Red, trying to duplicate its victory here six years ago, trailed all the way against the University of London and was upset by three-quarters of a length despite a late rally.

L.B. Girls in Tourney

Jo Ann Nation of Lakewood and Sandy Small of Virginia CC will be among title contenders in the Junior Golf Assn. of Southern California Girls Championship at California CC Monday through Friday. Ann Wilson of San Diego is defending champion.

O'Day Sail Series Ends in L.B. Today

Earl Elms of San Diego took a first, second and third in dinghy racing here Saturday to gain a 62¾-point lead in the O'Day trophy races.

The last two of the 10 races in the sailing championships will be run Sunday. The races will decide who will be the two California contestants in the North American single-handed sailing championships here July 17-20. Second is Jim de Witt, Richmond, with 58 points, followed by Fred Miller of Newport Beach with 53½ points.

The contestants sail the 15-foot Finn dinghies used in Olympic competition.

Miss Thriftway Tops Gold Cup Field Today

DETROIT (AP) — A dozen unlimited hydroplanes, the fastest fleet of boats ever assembled, will thunder over the Detroit River today in pursuit of the Gold Cup.

Bill Muncey's Miss Thriftway is the queen of the fleet with a qualifying time of 116.464 set Wednesday.

Lamb Chop, Wise Ship, Cicada Win

OCEANPORT, N. J. (AP) — William Haggin Perry's Lamb Chop took another big step towards the 3-year-old filly championship Saturday when she registered a head victory over Eleanora Sears' Spicy Living in the $56,100 Monmouth Oaks at Monmouth Park.

The finish of the 1⅛-mile Oaks was a replica of the $100,000 Coaching Club American Oaks at Aqueduct two weeks ago when Lamb Chop won by 3½ lengths over Spicey Living, and Mrs. Russell L. Reineman's Smart Deb ran third. Smart Deb was third again, by a length and a quarter this time.

Lamb Chop was timed in 1:51 3-5 and paid $6.60, $3.40 and $2.40. Spicy Living paid $3.60 and 2.60, and Smart Deb $3.20.

STANTON, Del. (AP) — Breaking his own world record, Milton Ritzenberg's Wise Ship carried top weight of 123 pounds to a nose triumph in Delaware Park's $28,500 Sussex Turf Handicap Saturday.

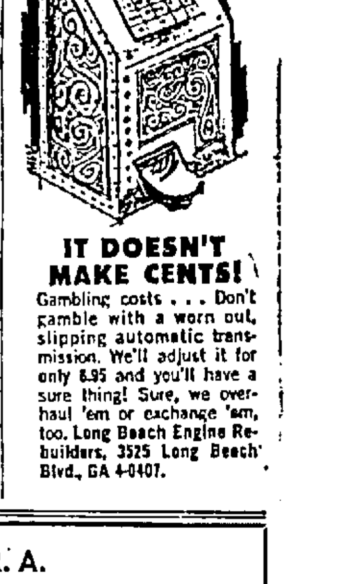

Wise Ship paid $7.60, $3.60 and $3. Vimy Ridge returned $2.60 and $2.20, and Shield Bearer $3.60.

NEW YORK (AP)—Meadow Stable's Cicada, world's leading money winning race mare, carried top weight of 128 pounds and held on gamely Saturday to capture the $28,050 Sheepshead Bay Handicap by a neck over Nubile before a crowd of 44,262 at Aqueduct.

Cicada paid $4.90, $3.60 and $2.60. Nubile returned $5.50 and $3.90, Doll Ina $3.70.

Oil Demand Will Dwarf Use in Past

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Demand for petroleum products for the next two decades is expected to dwarf consumption of the past.

Experts estimate total demand between now and 1980 will approximate 270 billion barrels. World consumption since the start of the industry more than 100 years ago has totaled only 140 billion barrels.

Participants in last month's 6th World Petroleum Congress in Germany were confident this sharp increase in consumption can be met.

M. J. Rathbone, the keynote speaker and board chairman of the Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), said some people might be concerned because the 270-billion barrel estimate is not far below current world reserves of 300 billion.

"I do not share this concern," he said. "Every since petroleum became a major fuel, proved reserves have been rising from one year to the next, through new discoveries and better methods of recovery, even faster than the increase in oil production."

* * * *

RATHBONE said there were 14 barrels of proved reserves for each barrel of production in the 1930s.

"Today the ratio is better than 30 to 1," he said. "It seems certain enough new proved reserves will be developed to provide for the rising oil consumption which we anticipate for many years to come."

Rathbone said new fields will be discovered and the percentage of recovery of oil in fields already known will be increased. He said refining technology will keep pace with production and meet product requirements of the future.

"We are constantly finding ways of 'squeezing the sponge' a little harder and recovering a greater percentage of the oil which we know is there," he said.

The world industry currently is recovering only about 35 percent of the oil in existing reservoirs but scientists at the Frankfurt conference expressed hope research projects under way and being developed can boost this to as high as 60 percent.

* * * *

"THIS PROGRESS already has come to a point where the industry might well claim reserves one half again as great as those now stated," Rathbone said.

"Even this may be conservative in view of the still more advanced recovery techniques that will be developed."

Rathbone acknowledged however, the distant future probably will require use of petroleum which can be extracted from the oil shale and tar sands deposits of such areas as Colorado and Canada. The Canadian tar sands alone are believed to hold from 100 to 300 billion barrels of oil.

"Competitive extraction methods are sure to be available when they are needed, indeed such methods are well advanced even now," Rathbone said.

"All this will make continuing demands on our research, as well as our capacity to invest, but these are challenges which the industry is prepared to meet."

For Want of a Washer---

WASHINGTON (AP) — A worn out washer that cost less than two cents may have caused the failure of the $10 million Ranger 5 lunar spacecraft last fall, space agency officials report.

A spokesman at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Pasadena, Calif., said tests showed that deterioration of a washer could have caused a short circuit and overheating.

Ranger 5 failed to generate power after its launching from Cape Canaveral Oct. 18 and it missed the moon by about 450 miles Oct. 21. Its radio signal was lost nearly nine hours after launching.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Second Half of 1963 Outlook Is Favorable

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Business headed into the second half of 1963 this week with the outlook favorable and only a few dark spots showing.

It was a time when business men put their heads together to look back at the first half and into the future.

The first six months were notable for a remarkable gain by the stock market and booming production in the steel and automobile industries.

What the second half holds for the stock market is anybody's guess but many Wall Streeters expect it to reach new all-time highs. The outlook for steel isn't so good. The automobile industry anticipates continued high output and sales.

* * * *

A PANEL of experts assembled by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce predicted a moderate climb in economic activity during the second half.

They foresaw an increase in the gross national product—total of all goods and services—not quite matching that of the first half. They also envisioned a rise in capital spending by business and an increase in government spending.

But, in their view, the problems of high unemployment and the deficit in the international balance of payments will remain.

* * * *

ANOTHER group of industrialists polled by the First National Bank of Chicago expressed more confidence in a high level of business for the entire year than they had felt six months ago.

Among them, Joseph L. Block, chairman of Inland Steel Co., said, "Although steel production in the second half will be depressed by liquidation of excess customer inventories, it appears to us that steel consumption should be somewhat higher than it was in the first six months of the year."

Austin T. Cushman, chairman of Sears Roebuck & Co., said he expected a 4 per cent increase in retail sales in the second half as compared with a year earlier.

* * * *

IN A separate statement, M. Monroe Kimbrel, president of the American Bankers Association, commented:

"There are good reasons to be optimistic about the outlook, and it is obvious that business sentiment has improved considerably. The prospects are that the American economy will expand through this year and into next year, perhaps even more than moderately."

Steel production declined again last week and another sharp drop was inevitable this week. Output last week fell 4.7 per cent to 2,313,000 tons from the previous week. Buyers were holding down orders because, with the new labor contract, there was no further need to build inventories.

* * * *

THERE WAS some cutting back of employment. Pittsburgh Steel Co. said it would furlough 750 to 1,000 workers in the next three months.

The Federal Government indicted eight steel firms and nine of their executives on charges of price-fixing in the $75-million-a-year castings industry.

Companies accused were Bethlehem Steel, Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp., Blaw-Knox Co., Erie Forge & Steel Corp., Textron, Inc., General Steel Industries, Inc., Birdsboro Corp. and Penn Steel Castings Co.

* * * *

THE FOURTH of July holiday cut into automobile production with output estimated at 124,600 cars, compared with 168,713 last week and 112,327 a year ago.

Production schedules for July call for assembly of about 625,000 passenger cars, which would be the highest for the month since 1955. June output of 689,519 cars was the highest for that month in history.

The time of decision drew near in the railroad industry. The railroads said they will put into effect next Thursday work rules changes which the unions have said would mean a strike. In that event, Congress is expected to act to avert a nation-wide railroad strike.

Spending on new construction rose in June to an annual rate of $63.74 billion, about $350 million above the original estimate. The June increase of 6 per cent over May was more than seasonal.

Briefly around the business scene: The F. W. Woolworth Co., variety store chain, will acquire the 570-store G. R. Kinney Corp. shoe chain . . . Major producers raised the price of lead ¼ cent a pound and of zinc ½ cent a pound . . . Higher dividend payments were made by 668 companies in the first half of this year than a year earlier . . . About 141 million Americans had some form of health insurance coverage at the end of 1962.

Horton, 'Father of Sonar' to Retire

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — Dr. J. Warren Horton, hailed by many as the father of sonar, will retire Oct. 19 as technical director of the Navy's Underwater Sound Laboratory.

Horton, 73, pioneered in the development of the underwater detection device during World War I, as the submarine menace became increasingly apparent with the activities of German U-boats.

New Grant for Birth Control Study

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Ford Foundation announced it had earmarked $7,558,500 for research, training and experimentation in birth control. This will bring the total of Foundation money spent on the problem since 1952 to $24.2 million.

The money is to go to government agencies, universities, and scientific laboratories in the United States, Britain, India and Tunisia.

ARTESIA

LIKE POETRY?
Like the old lady that lived in the shoe,
If you look at this house, you'll know what to do.
A kitchen with bit-ins, nice breakfast nook,
with very large bedrooms and the slanting roof.
1 real big bathroom, & one kinda small,
But with the large front room, you won't mind at all.
Like the old woman that lived in a shoe,
You can purchase this house for Fifteen Two.

UCDA says:
Meet Your
USED CAR MANAGER
DON SWANSON
Cormier Chevrolet
Used Car Department
601 Long Beach Blvd., L.B., HE 6-5291

"I have been very happily associated with the CORMIER BRAND of used cars for eleven years," says Don. "We have almost two city blocks of sales, service, and courteous salesmen — bustling with activity. I've noticed that customer satisfaction has brought many hundreds of our customers back to us. They are pleased to say, 'I bought my car at Cormier Chevrolet.' I do insist that our most valuable assets are those customers who return for later model cars — the repeat buyer."

Don is a native son of Long Beach. Wife, Syndey, Don Jr., Wendy, Christine, and Don Sr. are a happy family on wheels ready to roll off to the mountains or beach for a frolic — when Don Sr. can get away.

SWEDEN'S CENSORS

Liberal on Sex, but Strict on Violence

By F. H. TREESH

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Sweden, which enjoys an international reputation for its liberal views on sex and free expression of ideas, has one of the world's more aggresive motion picture censorship boards.

It may surprise American moviegoers to learn that the majority of the films banned or cut by the Swedish censors were U. S.-made. The reason is that the things the Swedes find most objectionable is violence.

"I believe we are considerably more liberal than the State Boards of Censors in the United States when it comes to passing sex scenes in motion pictures," said Erik Skolund, director of the Swedish Film Censorship Board.

"That doesn't mean, however, that anything goes in Sweden. We are definitely turning thumbs down on movies where the more intimate sequences touch or pass the line of pure pornography."

"Sex is not banned, but there must be no excess 'petting'" seduction or homosexual behavior," Skolund said.

* * *

SWEDEN'S CHIEF censor said the fact that the majority of the films cut were American does not mean that they were the worst; only that U. S. production is so much greater than other countries.

The Swedish Film Censorship Board consists of four permanent members appointed by the Crown for five-year terms. One of the four is designated director.

"We take a very dim view of excessive violence or brutality in motion pictures. Young people are too easily influenced by what they see on the screen and we don't want to encourage that sort of behavior among them."

During 1962, Skolund said, 24 films were forbidden in Sweden. Thirteen of them were American gangster or horror films. Numerous other U. S. productions yielded considerable footage to the censors' shears.

* * *

SKOLUND said recent U. S. films to be severely cut included:

"Spartacus"—regarded by the censors as most profuse in vicious cruelties.

"Cape Fear" — Several violent sequences were clipped, among them a long drawn out fist-fight.

"Premature Burial"—A horror film showing open coffin, blood-stained corpses and "a bestial iron-bar murder scene."

IN ADDITION to banning or cutting molon pictures, the Swedish Film Censorship Board places them in one of three categories — one for persons 15 or older; one for children in the 11-15 year age bracket, and one which may be seen by all children.

Sweden, under its constitution, enjoys full freedom of speech and of the press. There is no censorship of the theater or the arts generally, the only exception being motion pictures.

Film censorship began in 1911 and only minor revisions in the original law have been made since. Censorship came into being in an era when films were exceptionally violent and brutal and local police efforts to control them were not uniform and occasionally ridiculous.

One small town police chief, for example, became famous for censoring all pictures in which China was broken. In his opinion, "the maids of this city known well enough of their own how to cause that kind of damage."

GERALDINE PAGE

3-Time Oscar Loser May Get 4th Chance

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The talk's around that Geraldine Page, the three-time Oscar loser, will be nominated for a fourth time . . . Therefore, one day recently, I asked her if it's true that she's conducting a campaign in reverse, hoping never to win.

GERALDINE

"A little bird — a 'Sweet Bird'—told me that you hoped you'd never win . . . but would just keep going on being nominated," I said.

"You cannot trick me into saying I don't want it . . ."

Miss Page was sitting in the Algonquin lobby drinking a toast to a friend's birthday and she was very pleasant as she answered.

"The story is," I said, leading her on in the Celebrity Quiz game, "that you think winning an Oscar would take a little shine off your incentive."

Miss Page sipped her drink and just as firmly replied, "I figure that if I have longevity in film-making, then I've got a long time to get an Oscar—and I'm very willing to wait."

It was just a few weeks before that she'd lost the Oscar to Anne Bancroft in "The Miracle Worker." Now the forecasters were saying she would be nominated for "Toys in the Attic," which would be her fourth nomination in four starts.

Q: But you couldn't have been very happy losing?

A: I was so pleased for Annie—she being a member of our Actors Studio—so I considered that it was all for our side anyway.

Q: Now you're going to do a movie with Glenn Ford?

A: Oh yes, and it's delicious. "The Out-of-Towners," and I play a little lady postmistress who goes to a postmasters convention in New York.

Q: Are you happy you took off so much time for so little money to play "Strange Interlude" on B'way?

A: I'll say so! The way audiences react, with their shouting and "bravos," make us think we're in ballet or the opera. It's especially gratifying when we did it all by ourselves.

CELESTE HOLM . . . Likes Off-Broadway

Stars Moving Off-Broadway

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The stars are moving off-Broadway, for change and challenge.

As Shelley Winters, one of the latest recruits to the trend, remarks:

"The miracle of Off-Broadway is the excitement that you're free to do something different.

Celeste Holm, another prominent rover from the Main Stem, finds the movement the answer to a player's prayer.

* * * *

THE LATE-season arrival of Miss Holm, in Turgenev's "A Month in the Country," and Miss Winters, in a new playwright's work, has done more than merely enhance glamor along the byway theatrical circuit.

Occasionally in the past, name players have briefly ventured into little playhouses, but in the last six months an impressive array has lined up. Among them have been Eli Wallach, Anne Jackson, Michael Allison and Melville Cooper.

Also Elisabeth Bergner, a famous lady from Vienna, was content to make her first New York appearance in 15 years in a small German-language production. And accompanying Miss Winters in "Cages" by Lewis John Carlino is Jack Warden, a busy TV and film performer.

Both ladies report several identical reactions to Off-Broadway activity: a sense of greater communication with spectators, a feeling that audiences are more willing to express their emotions.

They also found that opening-night jitters aren't reduced by being in a peewee playhouse. "I was green," confesses Miss Winters. And Off-Broadway's double performance schedule on weekends has them mentally panting.

"You get the feeling that you've just said each line a second ago," remarks Miss Holm.

"You don't work this hard for money," declares Miss Winters.

Graph of City on the Rise

STEEL STRUCTURE of Pacific Holiday Towers under construction at 1900 E. Ocean Blvd. forms artistic chart of Long Beach high-rise development. Towers will soar 21 stories from beach, topping Breakers Hotel (b) and Villa Riviera, silhouetted in background. There will be 17 floors above Ocean Boulevard level. The $6 million rental apartment hotel is designed for elder citizens. Steelwork graph typifies trend to high buildings. One being planned will be 33 stories.

New Industrial Building Started Near Airport

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Program Editor

Ground was broken the past week for a 32,000 square foot industrial building to be for lease at Palm Drive and Hathaway Avenue, according to the Economic - Industrial Development Committee of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Industrial contractors Millie and Severson will construct the all-purpose structure for James Herley and the Security First National Bank, representing the Herley oil interests; and the T. F. Merrick Co. is the leasing agent.

Herley, 37, a native of Long Beach, an independent oil producer and active in civic affairs, lauded the City of Signal Hill and the Long Beach Chamber for increased progress in industrial development.

• • • •

SITE of the new project is in an area near the Long Beach airport and in Signal Hill. It will be serviced by the San Diego Freeway and it is expected to boom as an industrial center.

The building, on a 3½ acre site, will be adaptable for manufacturing or distribution, with a portion available for office space. Carl Hart, structural engineer, designed the project.

There will be parking for 60 cars. Completion is scheduled in about 60 days.

COMMENTING on the development, Robert L. Irvin, chairman of the Chamber Economic-Industrial Development Committee, said:

"We are pleased to see this type of activity in the Signal Hill-airport area. We've been working closely with the City of Signal Hill as well as Long Beach and other nearby interests to achieve our long-range goal of continued industrial development of these strategic areas."

Orange Co. Rural Area Booms in '63

Orange County's building boom in its unincorporated area leaped ahead of last year for the first half of 1963.

The county department of building and safety reported that during the first six months of this year it issued 3,702 building permits with a total valuation of $55,469,534.

Total number of permits for the comparable period of 1962 was 2,782, with a valuation of $32,609,077.

The county office said in June alone this year 883 permits were issued with a total valuation of $16,022,195.

This included permits for 569 apartment living units with a total valuation of $5,744,390 and 383 single family dwellings with a valuation of $8,428,398.

Memorial Hospital to Expand Facilities

Dramatic plans for expansion at Memorial Hospital of Long Beach, 2801 Atlantic Ave., have been disclosed—plans to keep pace with the broadening concept of Long Beach as an International City.

In November, part of this expansion will be physically evident with completion of the hospital's new laboratory facility, a four-story, 12,000-square-foot addition which will give the hospital the largest lab of this type in the West, and containing the only virology lab in Southern California.

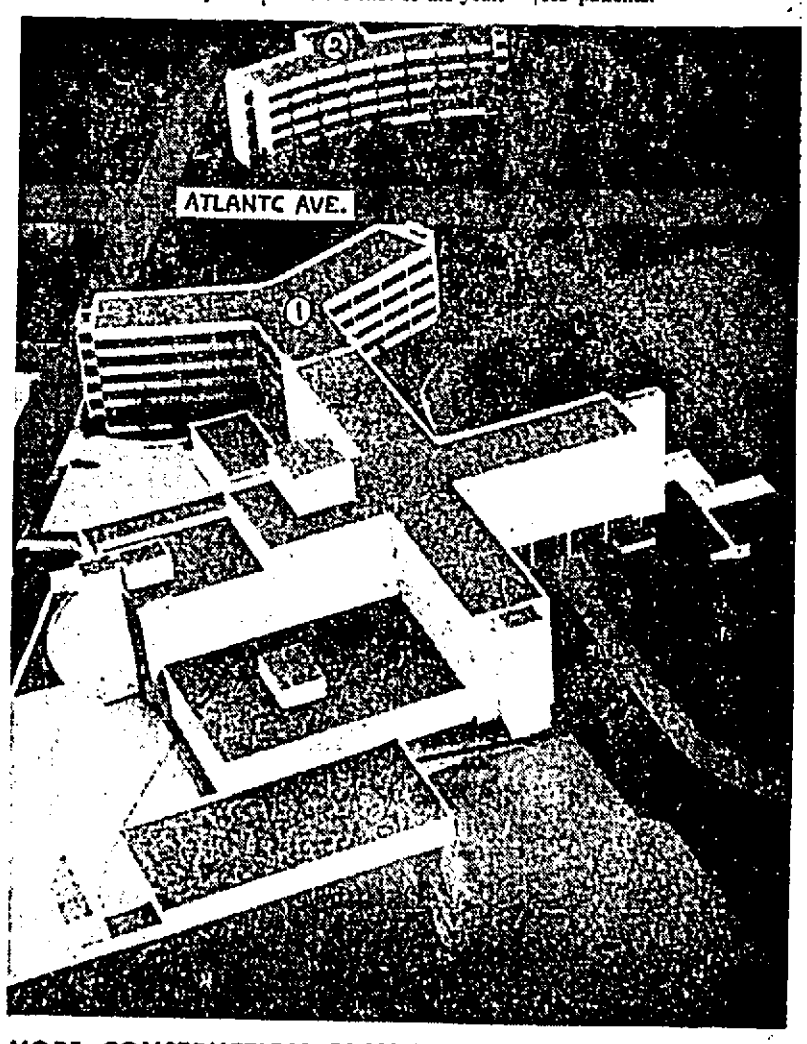

• • • •

ABOUT the same time, planning will be completed for the most recently announced expansion—a women's and children's wing separate from but attached to the east wing of the institution.

This will be a structure three to five stories high (undetermined at this stage of planning) which will add 150 to 200 needed beds. The project will be up for bids before the end of the year. The contract will be awarded and ground will be broken about the first of the year.

THIS NEW addition also will provide space for expanded physiotherapy and cardio-pulmonary facilities which already have outgrown their presently allotted space.

Almost from the day the hospital first was occupied in June of 1960, the need for expansion was evident, and on February 11 of this year, the 440-bed hospital was taxed with a peak load of 465 patients.

MORE CONSTRUCTION PLANNED

Maloney Now Heads Shipbuilding Yard

A. J. Maloney has been appointed manager of the San Pedro Yard of Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Shipbuilding Division. The announcement was made by T. C. Ingersoll, general manager, west coast yards and is effective immediately.

Maloney succeeds W. A. Harrington who retired after 41 years with Bethlehem's Shipbuilding Division.

Prior to his appointment, Maloney was assistant manager at the San Pedro Yard.

Maloney attended the University of Southern California and majored in industrial engineering. He came to work at the San Pedro Yard in 1941 in the production control department and was appointed junior test engineer in September, 1942. He became sales engineer in November, 1945 and was appointed assistant manager in 1962.

Maloney is a member of the Propeller Club and the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers.

He is married and has two children and is a long-time resident of Long Beach.

$1,606,710 Multiple Dwelling Project to Be Built at Stanton

STANTON — A giant multiple dwelling development boosted construction in Stanton to $1,626,492 during the past week.

Permits for 94 buildings valued at $1,606,710 were issued to MRC Developers, Inc., of 511 Wilkin Way, Anaheim. The buildings will be erected in the 8100 and 8000 blocks of Cerritos Ave.

The development includes 17 duplexes, each costing $21,440 for a total of $364,480; 20 studio duplexes, each $21,700 for total of $434,000; three triplexes at $31,500 each for total of $94,500; a $14,550 recreation building; 18 triplexes at $35,010 each for total of $630,180; 34 carports at $2,000 each, $68,000; and one carport for $1,000.

Las Vegas Building Boom Is Continuing

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

A $9 million construction program involving Wilbur Clark's Desert Inn and also the Stardust Hotel to attract additional visitors to Las Vegas has helped inspire an unprecedented building boom in the Nevada resort.

Deluxe suites, large rooms, added food facilities, new theater-dining rooms and lounges are being added to the hotels.

A nine-story addition of 120 deluxe rooms and suites and four penthouse apartments has just been completed at the Inn.

Construction of a 175-room, 12-story structure of comparable quality and design has just begun at the Stardust Hotel and is scheduled for completion near the end of the year. This building will contain deluxe accommodations in double occupancy rooms, suites and penthouse apartments giving the Stardust a total of 1,500 guest rooms, far and away the most imposing total in the area.

Also scheduled at the Desert Inn is a new theater-dining room more than double the size of the existing Painted Desert Room and to be equipped with the most modern staging devices and equipment available; a gourmet dining room featuring the ultimate in haute cuisine, and an enlarged and completely revamped Sky Room Lounge atop the hotel.

Buena Park Plant Gets Army Job

BUENA PARK — Imperial Electronics, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Imperial Thermal Systems, Inc., 6450 Dale St., Buena Park, has been awarded a $2,863,913 contract by the Chicago Procurement District of the United States Army, Congressman Richard T. Hanna of Fullerton has announced.

Hanna said he had been advised by Floyd L. Clark, president and chairman of the board of Imperial Thermal, that the contract would result in a doubling by year's end of the 120 workers now employed by the electronic firm.

Builders to Hear Panel Wednesday

Trends in advertising and public relations to meet the needs of the changing market for housing will be the subject of a panel discussion at a meeting of the Residential Builders Council of the Building Contractors Association of California Wednesday evening at Rodger Young Auditorium, Los Angeles.

Approximately 200 builders from throughout Southern California are expected to attend the dinner meeting which will be preceded by a social hour at 6:30 p.m.

Effective means of generating interest and buyer acceptance for new homes, income units and remodeling will be described by Jack Frost, Frost & Shaffer, Hollywood advertising agency; William Gray Jr., C.M.D. Sales Developers, Bell; and N. Richard Lewis, Lewis & Associates, Hollywood public relations specialists.

Newport National Bank Authorized

NEWPORT BEACH—Establishment of a national bank here has been approved in Washington, D.C., by James J. Saxon, comptroller of the currency, it has been disclosed.

The bank will be capitalized at $1.5 million and will be called the Newport National Bank.

Rohr Buys Plant at Fullerton

CHULA VISTA—Rohr Corporation has announced purchase of the former Sylvania Electric Products Company plant at Fullerton as a facility for its wholly owned subsidiary, Modular Components Corporation, for the manufacture of its line of Modubilt houses.

In addition to manufacturing equipment now being installed, a pilot plant in which research and development has been carried on for the last three years will be moved from an area adjacent to the Rohr plant at Riverside to the new location. No other Rohr activity is involved.

• • • •

THE FULLERTON facility, the announcement said, includes 18 acres of land, a 106,000 square foot factory building, 10,000 square feet of office space, and paved and fenced parking area for 200 cars. The plant was built in 1955 and 1957, of concrete tilt-up construction, and has docks on two sides, and a railroad spur.

Rohr Corporation was represented in the purchase of the property by the San Diego office of Coldwell, Banker & Co., and Sylvania by the Chapman Avenue Realty Company of Fullerton. Purchase price was $950,000.

Delivery of the first order of 148 houses to a development in Borrego Springs is scheduled to begin in September.

Volume production, at a rate of 65 houses a month, is to be reached by January, 1964, and peak employment at the new facility will approximate 150 persons.

AT TORRANCE GROUND-BREAKING

McKelvie Joins Richards & Sons

A local insurance firm, George A. Richards and Sons, Inc., has announced a new associate, C. Ross McKelvie, a veteran of 13 years' experience in the insurance profession.

A native Californian, McKelvie was graduated from San Jose State College where he belonged to the Sigma Nu Fraternity. He and his wife have four children and he is an officer of Long Beach Elks Lodge No. 888.

The Richards firm is located at 647 E. Fourth St.

New Shopping Center Started at Torrance

TORRANCE—A new $500,000 shopping center to be known as Sepulveda Plaza is under way at Cabrillo Avenue and Sepulveda Boulevard.

A project of the Kergan Development Co., the center will feature a large, air-conditioned Alpha Beta supermarket as its primary structure.

The center, which is being built by Ernest W. Hahn, Inc., general contractors, of Hawthorne, features 27,500 square feet of stores in its initial increment on a 3½-acre site.

Located in a burgeoning residential area, the center is designed to serve the neighborhood shopping needs of more than 25,000 people.

• • • •

THE ALPHA BETA market will be a full-service store featuring convenient shoulder-height merchandise counters, wide aisles, extensive frozen food cases and complete delicatessan and meat departments.

Hugh Gibbs, A.I.A., of Long Beach is the architect of the project.

Provisions also are being made at the site for future commercial additions. A drug store and coffee shop are being contemplated for the second construction unit.

Parking spaces for 170 cars at Sepulveda Plaza will be surrounded by perimeter parkway plantings.

Completion of construction is expected within four months.

Torrance Firm's Sales Hit Peak

TORRANCE — George S. Wing, president of Hi-Shear Corporation, has announced operating results for the fiscal year ended Feb. 1963, and for the three months ended May 31, 1963.

For the fiscal year ended Feb. 28, net sales totaled $6,310,643, highest in the company's 20-year history, and a 10 per cent increase over sales of $5,721,519 for the previous fiscal year.

Net earnings, after taxes, for the fiscal year just ended were $146,115, or 28 cents per common share, based on 515,340 shares outstanding, as compared with net earnings of $206,576, or 39 cents per share on 528,840 shares outstanding for the prior fiscal year.

Backlog of orders stood at $1,403,800 on Feb. 28, up 42 per cent from the figure recorded on Feb. 28, 1962.

Famed Times Tower In N.Y. to be Rebuilt

One of manhattan's most famous landmarks soon will have a new look.

Times Tower, the triangular-shaped building for which Times Square is named and the focal point for New Year's Eve televiewers across the nation, will be almost completely rebuilt by its new owner, Allied Chemical Corporation.

The exterior of the 26-story building that cleaves Broadway and Seventh Avenue in the heart of New York's theatrical district will be refinished in modern architectural design.

Allied Chemical Corporation plans to use the 58-year-old landmark as a complex of exhibit and display areas and a location for some offices.

• • • •

A PUBLIC restaurant will be located on one of the upper levels—overlooking Times Square. Radio and television broadcasting facilities, areas for receptions and other functions also are contemplated.

In announcing Allied's acquisition and plans for the building—which is located on a site familiar to New York visitors as "the crossroads of the world" — Chester M. Brown, company president, said Allied will strive to make the area also the crossroads of chemistry.

Two of the world famous traditions associated with the building will be continued.

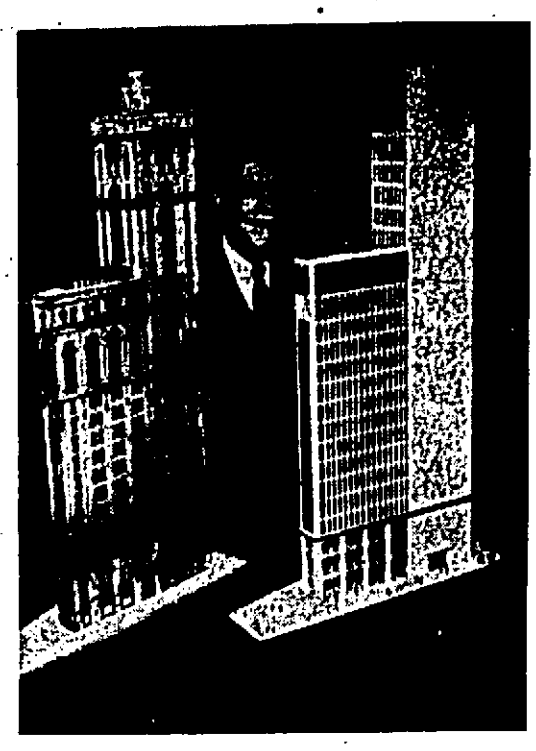

The New Year's Eve tradition of lowering an illuminated ball down the flagpole at midnight is a spectacle that annually attracts huge throngs of celebrants to Times Square area and is familiar to the nation's New Year's Eve televiewers.

• • • •

THE ELECTRIC news bulletin girdling the building will be lighted again to flash its headlines to the 1.5 million people who pass through Times Square each day. About one-third of them are visitors from all corners of the world.

The bulletin has been darkened since shortly after the New York Times completed moving the last of its personnel in 1961 to the present location a few blocks away. Life Magazine will operate the sign and service the news.

Allied Chemical acquired the building from Douglas Leigh, Inc., for an undisclosed sum. The Leigh organization obtained the property from the New York Times, March, 1961.

THERE'LL BE SOME CHANGES

Chester M. Brown, president of Allied Chemical Corp., stands between a model of the Times Tower, left, famous New York landmark, and model of how the building, just purchased by Allied, will look after its face is lifted. The building, located at 42nd Street and Broadway, on the corner known as Times Square, will be completely reconstructed, according to Brown.

The Conference featured a tour by bus of 93,000 acre Irvine Ranch.

Salaries of Bank Officers Increase, Survey Shows

A recent national survey of bank officers' salaries by Cole & Associates, a Boston consulting firm, showed bankers' salaries hitting new highs and increasing at a rate faster than those of their industry counterparts.

The annual increase among bankers as a group was more than 5 per cent last year and was 60 per cent greater than the average raises received by management personnel in industrial companies.

The survey, which included banks in the east, south, midwest and far west, indicated that banks are overhauling their institutional image to compete more effectively for professional manpower through aggressive recruiting and improved wages.

• • • •

BEST-PAID bank officers among the 36 professional classes surveyed were vice presidents for investments, who averaged $19,107 a year, and top loan officers, who averaged $18,000 a year. Within the latter group, the range was from $15,000 to $50,000-a-year.

Other average salaries revealed by the 1962-63 Bank Officer Salary Survey were: vice presidents, installment loan, $18,333; vice presidents, public relations, $17,781; trust investment officers, $13,320; bookkeeping managers, $8,032; income tax officers, $10,862; international trade specialists, $13,531; data processing managers, $9,971 and auditors, $10,682.

During the past year, bank officers' salaries have increased an average of 5.8 per cent, the survey showed. Individual banks showed increases ranging from 11 per cent to 3 per cent.

Fullerton Man Transferred to Palo Alto Post

Appointment of William G. Newton as manufacturing manager of the Spinco Division of Beckman Instruments, Inc., has been announced by Robert J. Baumann, manager of the Palo Alto based division.

In his new position, Newton will be responsible for all manufacturing operations of the Beckman division which specializes in the development and manufacture of biochemical and medical instrumentation for hospitals, research laboratories and clinics.

Newton replaces John F. Murray, who was named manager of operations of the company's Offner Division, Chicago.

A member of the Beckman organization since 1955, Newton served most recently as corporate industrial engineering manager at the company's Fullerton headquarters.

U. S. AIR FORCE contracts totaling $25,467,650 have been awarded to Hughes Aircraft Co. for engineering and production of two new versions of Falcon air-to-air guided missiles, a company official announced.

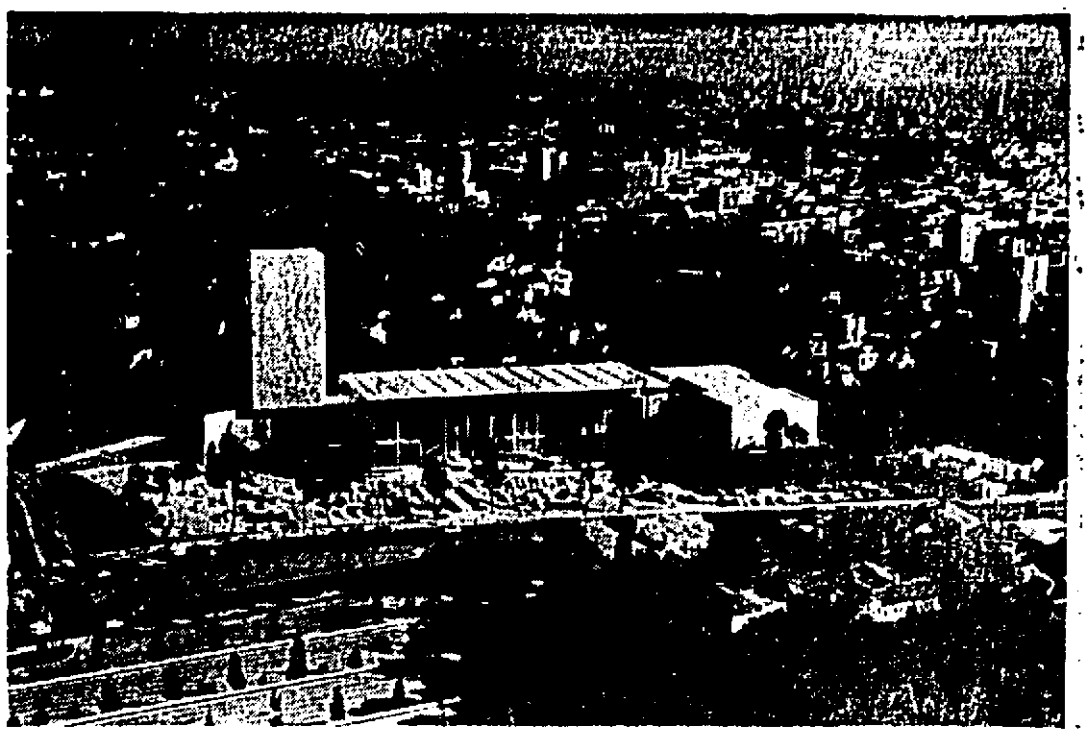

John W. Black, Hughes vice president and manager of aeronautical systems division, said the GAR-11 nuclear-armed Falcon will be adapated to carry a conventional warhead. The new version, designed GAR-11A, will be interchangeable with the GAR-11 and will provide greater flexibility of deployment, Black added.

The second missile is the GAR-2B, which has been given increased infrared sensitivity and more versatile capability, the official said.

Both missiles will be manufactured at the company's Tucson facility, according to Black.

Moore Luau to Celebrate Sales Boom

E. T. Moore, president of Moore Realty, has invited his entire sales staff, including wives and husbands, to a luau July 25 at the Palms restaurant, Anaheim, to celebrate a record sales volume for the first half of 1963.

For the six months, the company's real estate sales exceeded $13 million, Moore has announced.

This resulted in more than 100 transactions per month and represented a 98% increase over the first half of 1962, Moore said.

• • • •

THE COMPANY has nine offices, in Lakewood, Long Beach and Orange County, with more than 100 on its sales staff.

Moore attributes this growth to a "constant effort for better service to the client through more modern facilities; continual educational conferences for associates, such as the recently completed clinic on investment properties; and a new profit sharing type of compensation for top associates with the firm."

Seal Beach Man Will Talk at San Pedro

Start Lake Park Plaza Shop Center

Ground was broken recently for the $2 million, 12½-acre Lake Park Plaza shopping center at the corner of Ball Road and Valley View Avenue, Buena Park.

Turning first earth were Eugene Rose, general manager, Larwin Fund, the center's developers, Mayor Richard Crenshaw of Buena Park, Wayne Sheppard, president-elect of the Chamber of Commerce and Art Lucey, assistant to the president, Alpha Beta Markets.

• • • •

ROSE SAID that the facility eventually will encompass 120,000-square-feet of buildings, with parking for 600 cars.

First unit of the new center will be a 21,000-square-foot Alpha Beta supermarket, 85th in the company's chain.

In addition, Rose said that plans include a restaurant, bank, major variety store, drug store, clothing store and specialty and service shops.

Opening of the center is scheduled for December, 1963.

• • • •

LARWIN FUND, headed by Lawrence J. Weinberg and William Weinberg, is an affiliate of Larwin Group companies, the west coast's largest builders and developers of homes and shopping centers.

Larwin Company, another affiliate, is building the neighboring $40 million, 2,000-home community of Lake Park, near Lakewood.

Lake Park Plaza, said Rose, will be one of Larwin Fund's major shopping centers.

Orange Co. Developer Eyes European Styles

The search for newer, better building technique and architectural design is a never-ending quest for Orange County builder-developer E.L. Rafferty, who has been studying modern construction methods employed in European countries.

The busy executive, his wife, and son, David, 15, were to return to their Balboa home today after touring Spain, Italy, France, Denmark and Portugal. David joined his parents in Spain following completion of his semester at the Army-Navy Academy in Carlsbad.

Genisco, Inc., developers and manufacturers of aerospace system components, environmental test equipment, data acquisition and processing systems, and electronic controls for industry, has moved into this 101,000-square-foot Dominguez Industrial Park plant at 18435 Susana Road, Compton. Genisco is a 15-year-old company formerly located at 2233 Federal Ave., West Los Angeles. E. C. Burkhart, chairman and president, said the move was necessitated by the company's increased business volume and continued diversification of product lines.

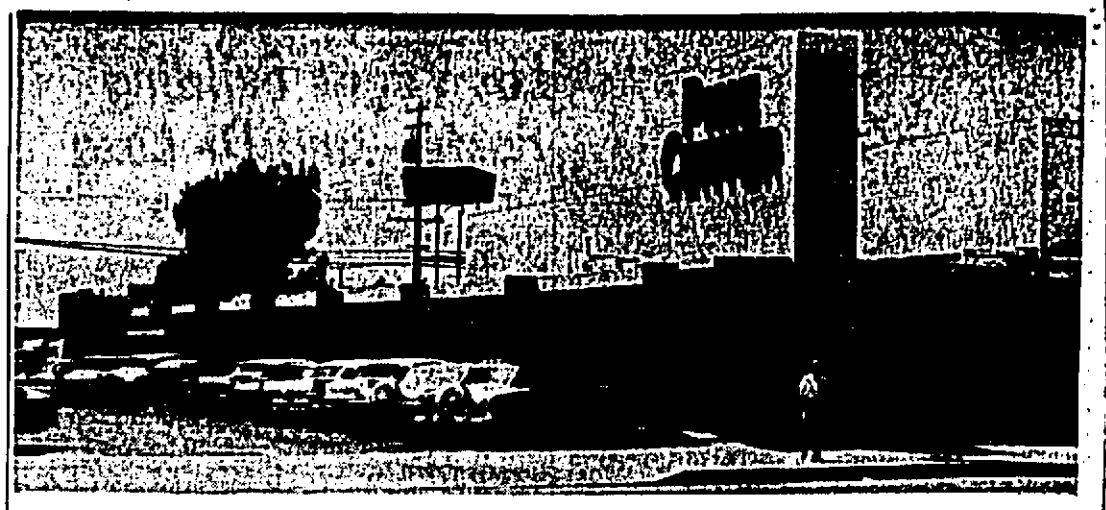

Time Service Now Sponsored By Loan Firm

The time of day by telephone has a new sponsor—Coast Federal Savings and Loan Association—for this service in Long Beach and vicinity, according to A. F. Schmidt, downtown Long Beach manager for General Telephone Co.

The number to dial for correct time, day or night, is 437-0211.

Time of day service is made possible through an ingenious recorder device, the Audichron, which plays three separate records simultaneously and continuously 24 hours a day.

When the number 437-0211 is dialed, the caller hears a brief commercial message followed by the exact hour to the minute. The instrument has the capacity of accommodating a great number of calls at the same time.

ANOTHER SHOPPING CENTER IN PARAMOUNT

With a pine tree in the background, this new shopping center area in the heart of Paramount has been named Pine Center. It is one of a half dozen new business zones in the growing city, and is located between Paramount Boulevard and Colorado St., south of Monroe. One of its features is a new restaurant operated by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Goodwin, long prominent restaurateurs in this area. The past week, the city's Chamber of Commerce started holding its meetings at the restaurant. The Chamber is in the midst of a shop-at-home campaign and is pushing for more industries in Paramount.

L.B. Group Seeks 1967 Convention

Actress Maureen O'Hara recently presented an award to Perry Griffith, president of the Advertising Club of Long Beach, after he had invited the Advertising Association of the West to hold its 1967 convention in Long Beach.

The presentation was made at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles at the association's recent '63 convention.

Invitations for the '67 session also were extended by the cities of Sacramento, San Francisco, Portland and Salt Lake City.

New president of the association is Walter E. Terry of San Francisco.

CREA President Talks in Long Beach Thursday

Mayors of Long Beach, Signal Hill, Lakewood and Seal Beach have been invited to attend a 22nd District realty meeting at 8 a.m. Thursday when principal speaker will be L. H. Wilson of Fresno, president of the California Real Estate Association.

Wilson, according to Melvin L. Mould, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, is traveling through California and has made several trips east in an effort to determine real estate business trends and to study tax problems.

• • • •

WILSON is reported to feel that dwindling loss of property owner rights and spiraling taxes affecting real estate are of high concern to Realtors in the state. This will be the topic of his speech at the Thursday breakfast program in the California Room of the International Breakers Hotel.

The Long Beach board and others in the district are hosting the event, open to Realtors and guests. Wilson will be accompanied by H. J. Pontius, CREA executive vice president, and Robert Allred, 22nd District regional vice president.

Americans Saving More, Banks Show

NEW YORK (UPI)—Americans added $1.45 to their accumulated long-term savings last year for every dollar of increase in their personal debt, one of the best such showings on record, says the Institute of Life Insurance. Savings in life insurance and other long-term thrift media rose by $31.5 billion, nearly a third more than the year before.

Banks Reporting Many New Accounts

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Bankers Association reports that more than 331,000 new accounts were opened in commercial banks in New York state last year. This included 130,000 special checking accounts, 110,000 savings accounts and 90,000 regular checking accounts.

Total savings in commercial bank, savings banks and savings and loan associations reached a record $34.4 billion.

Foreign Cars

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Imported cars snagged nearly 10 per cent of all new car sales in California in the first three months of this year.

SALES AND PROFITS

Records Set by Top Corporations in U.S.

Sales and profits of America's 500 largest industrial corporations set an all-time high in 1962. The combined sales of the 500 were $229.1 billion, 9.5 per cent above those of the previous record year of 1961. Combined profits for the 500 totaled $13.5 billion, 12.5 per cent ahead of the previous record set in 1959, and 16.1 per cent above the profits of 1961.

These figures are revealed in Fortune magazine's annual Directory of the 500 Largest U.S. Industrial Corporations just published.

• • • •

THE 10 BIGGEST industrial companies, according to Fortune's ranking by total sales, are the following (in all cases sales are exclusive of excise taxes):

1.	General Motors	$16,648,241,808
2.	Standard Oil (N.J.)	7,334,577,808
3.	Ford Motor	8,049,417,808
4.	General Electric	4,772,733,808
5.	Socony Mobil Oil	3,733,346,000
6.	U.S. Steel	3,448,528,808
7.	Texaco	3,372,134,808
8.	Gulf Oil	2,836,392,000
9.	Western Electric	2,761,449,808
10.	Swift	2,491,333,000

Some other highlights of the Fortune compilation:

The 500 firms account for more than half the sales of all U.S. manufacturing and mining companies, and for more than 70 per cent of their profits.

The company with the best sales gain was Mergenthaler Lintotype (340 per cent); the biggest proportionate loss was shown by National Sugar Refining (23.9 per cent).

Forty-nine companies now have sales of more than $1 billion a year; last year only 41 companies were above that mark. The newcomers are: ITT, Cities Service, Monsanto, American Motors, Eastman Kodak, Republic Steel, Burlington Industries, U. S. Rubber.

• • • •

WHAT BIG industrial firms were the most profitable last year?

The top 10 in the U. S., ranked according to their 1962 profit after taxes as a percentage of sales, are these:

Company	Net Profit (% of Sales)
1. Amerada Petroleum	27.4%
2. DuPont	16.5
3. Smith, Kline & French Labs	16.4
4. Gillette	16.4
5. Libbey-Owens Ford Glass	16.3
6. Superior Oil	15.8
7. Kern County Land	15.0
8. Texaco	14.7
9. Standard Oil of California	14.6
10. Champion Spark Plug	14.4

Spacious Apartments on Ocean Attract Laguna Royale Buyers

"What features led to your decision to purchase an apartment at Laguna Royale?"

(1) The magnificent ocean-front location offering panoramic views of sky, ocean and shore line from every window;

(2) Unusually spacious soundproof apartments with choice of eight floor plans;

(3) Two elevators directly to a beautiful gradual sandy beach and heated pool;

(4) Large private balcony and terrace areas;

(5) Generous subterranean parking with 24-hour attendant service;

(6) The high quality of construction and elegant appearance of the whole building;

• • • •

(7) REASONABLE PRICES for ocean-front location, and generous financing;

(8) Independent title insured apartment ownership;

(9) Central location for Laguna's resort activities, and

(10) Access to superb fishing grounds.

The $4 million development features 78 resident-owned apartments, each with private balcony and terrace area enjoying panoramic views of ocen and rock-bound shoreline.

Built by St. Pierre Investment, Inc., the soundproof building is 11 stories high from the beach side with six penthouse apartments on the beach. Reflection pools and hanging screens have been employed by George Bissell Jr., architect, to dramatize the approach to the building from Coast Highway.

DANCING ON THE TERRACE
With the rolling waves of the Pacific close by, a couple enjoys dancing on the terrace at Laguna Royale, 78-unit luxury apartment in South Laguna.

• • • •

At the beach level rock gardens provide a dramatic backdrop for a palm-fringed, heated pool.

Laguna Royale residents independently own their own title-insured apartment homes entirely carefree of all building and grounds maintenance.

Two-bedroom apartments at Laguna Royale are priced from $38,500 and three bedrooms from $58,000. There are six penthouses on the beach priced from $62,900 to $74,500.

New Banks to Be Built at Downey

DOWNEY — A strong indication the 1963-64 fiscal year will bring continued record-breaking commercial development here was given the past week as Ray Lake, building department director, announced issuance of a permit for a new $90,000 building for United California Bank.

The structure will be located at 8300 E. Firestone Blvd. It will be the second unit in the multi-million-dollar Downey Exchange Center.

• • • •

ALTHOUGH plans have not been submitted to the city for final check, officials of the U.S. National Bank recently announced plans and started site preparations for a $400,000 branch facility at the northeast corner of Downey Avenue and Third Street.

Permits for construction valued at $12,016,419 were issued by the city department during the first six months of 1963. This is nearly $5 million more than were issued during the comparable period in 1962 Lake said.

Notes Her 40th Year in Telephone Industry

Helena M. LeManquais of 246 E. San Antonio Drive, Long Beach, recently noted her 40th anniversary in the communications industry.

She is a staff assistant in Pacific Telephone's traffic department at Los Angeles.

Mrs. LeManquais supervises a group responsible for switchboard and teletypewriter practices, methods and service.

• • • •

HER ENTIRE CAREER, dating back to June of 1922, has been in the traffice department, both in San Francisco and Los Angeles. She began as a long distance operator.

Mrs. LeManquais has been active in organizations both in Long Beach and on the Palos Verdes Peninsula. She was matron of Palos Verdes Amaranth in 1942-43, prophetess of Ladies of the Oriental Shrine in 1956-57-60 and has belonged to Palos Verdes Eastern Star, Calvary White Shrine, Daughters of the Nile and the Pilot Club.

• • • •

SHE ALSO BELONGS to Telephone Pioneers of America, an international organization of nearly 230,000 persons with at least 21 years in communications.

Mrs. LeManquais has lived in Long Beach since 1935 and for the past 10 years has resided at the San Antonio Drive address. Her husband, Hal, is recorder for El Bekal Shrine Temple in Long Beach and a retired Navy warrant off.

Sales of New Cars Continue Fast Pace

DETROIT (UPI)—The car market continues to be a bustling one, auto manufacturers report.

Chevrolet again led the industry with sales of 81,228 new cars and trucks during the second 10 days of June, Larry Averill, general sales manager, said.

The June 11-20 total was the second highest for any similar period in Chevrolet history, exceeded only in 1962 when a special sales campaign was in progress, Averill said.

The 68,790 new cars and 12,438 new trucks brought Chevrolet new vehicle sales since Jan. 1 to a record 1,301,737.

• • • •

PRELIMINARY Ford reports showed dealers sold 49,902 cars in the mid-June period for a record 5,545 units daily. Truck sales were 12,469 or 1,385 daily.

The Chrysler-Plymouth division reported its dealers delivered 17,438 new cars during the period. Sales for the model year totaled 412,143, a 33 per cent hike over the same period of the 1962 model year, according to C.E. Briggs, vice president and general manager.

Dodge car sales were the best on record for that period in the firm's 49-year history. Dealers sold 12,486 new Dodges in the second 10 days of June.

Pontiac reported more than 19,800 Pontiacs and Tempests were sold, surpassing by 24 per cent the previous mid-June sales mark of 15,999 set a year ago.

• • • •

THE STUDEBAKER Corp. sold 1,690 cars in the period, compared to 2,312 a year ago. In the first 10 days of the month, dealers delivered 1,633 cars.

Lincoln-Mercury dealers continued to show gains with preliminary reports showing they sold 9,600 cars in the second 10 days, up 19 per cent from the first 10 days.

Cadillac deliveries reached 4,434 new cars, beating the old record of 4,084 in 1956 and are more than 15 per cent ahead of the same period last year.

Investors Need 'Savvy' on Income Tax Procedure

Regardless of whether the amount of money involved is large or small, the individual investor should be aware of the income tax laws affecting the taxation of his investment capital gains and losses, according to the California Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Likewise, says the society in a release on tax suggestions applicable any time during the year, he should be aware of the opportunities for tax savings in this area. Even a small investment portfolio can and should be managed with the minimization of taxes as one objective.

• • • •

FOLLOWING are portions of the society's tax tips—

Special rules apply in the taxation of capital gains and losses. Only 50% of the excess of net long term capital gain over net short term capital loss is included in income.

The maximum tax rate on the entire amount of such excess is 25%.

The excess of net short term capital gain over net long term capital loss is taxed in the same manner as ordinary income. Net capital losses are deductible in full, subject to a maximum annual limitation on such deduction of $1,000 per return.

Losses in excess of this limitation may be carried forward for the succeeding five taxable years and, when carried forward, are treated as a short term capital loss.

• • • •

Exceptions are property held for sale in the ordinary course of a trade or business (inventory), accounts and notes receivable arising from the sale of inventory and the rendering of services, depreciable property and land used in the trade or business, governmental obligations issued at a discount (Series E bonds, for example) and copyrights or the like in the hands of their creators.

Where the total gains from sales or exchanges of depreciable property and land used in the trade or business and held for more than six months exceed the total losses from sales of such property, the net gains are taxed in the same manner as long term capital gains.

However, if the total losses from sales of such property exceed the total gains, they are treated as ordinary gains and losses.

• • • •

IN THIS connection the Revenue Act of 1962 has introduced a "recapture" rule. Under this rule, gains from the sale or exchange after 1962 of tangible depreciable personal property will be treated as ordinary income to the extent of depreciation deductions taken after 1962.

The holding period of a capital asset determines whether gain or loss from the sale or exchange of the asset is long term or short term. If this holding period is more than six months, the gain or loss is long term, otherwise, it is short term.

In determining the beginning and ending of the holding period of securities traded on exchange, the trade date—that is the date an order to buy or sell is filled—is used. This date is usually four or more days before the settlement date, which is the date one pays for securities purchased or is paid for securities sold.

• • • •

CAREFUL timing of sales of capital assets can result in substantial tax savings.

However, income tax consequences are only one element to consider.

It is much better to realize short term capital gain and pay tax rather than watch a gain turn into a loss while waiting for the six months holding period to run its course and pay no tax at all.

NOT LIKE THE OLD DAYS

Fancy Apartments Put New Slant on American Way of Life

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Fancy, new apartment developments are springing up in the nation's suburban belts, and they are giving the builder of homes a run for his money.

Some of the customers looking for shelter seem to be pretty impressed.

Once the issue was pretty clear cut. Only the very old and the very young were attracted to the apartment, and the younger couple moved out just as soon as they could get together a down payment for a house.

But this was in the days when the apartment was a stack of concrete cubicles surrounded by honking autos and wire-fenced playgrounds.

• • • •

SOME OF them going up today radiate the architectural dignity of a college campus. Many have swimming pools and tennis courts and often a shopping area in the basement where the apartment dweller can buy his groceries, drop off his dry cleaning or even sip a cocktail.

This new atmosphere of convenience is taking some of the glow off that once universal dream to own a home.

The builder of homes still feels that psychology and economics is on his side, and he's probably right. But there's no question that the competition from the apartment is stiffer than it was in past years.

The Nationaal Association of Real Estate Boards commented on this in a recent study of the real estate market, based on information supplied by 157 realtors from all sections of the country.

• • • •

"THE LARGE number of good quality apartment buildings that are being erected, particularly in the suburbs, are attracting and holding tenants who otherwise would probably have acquired a house of their own," the study said.

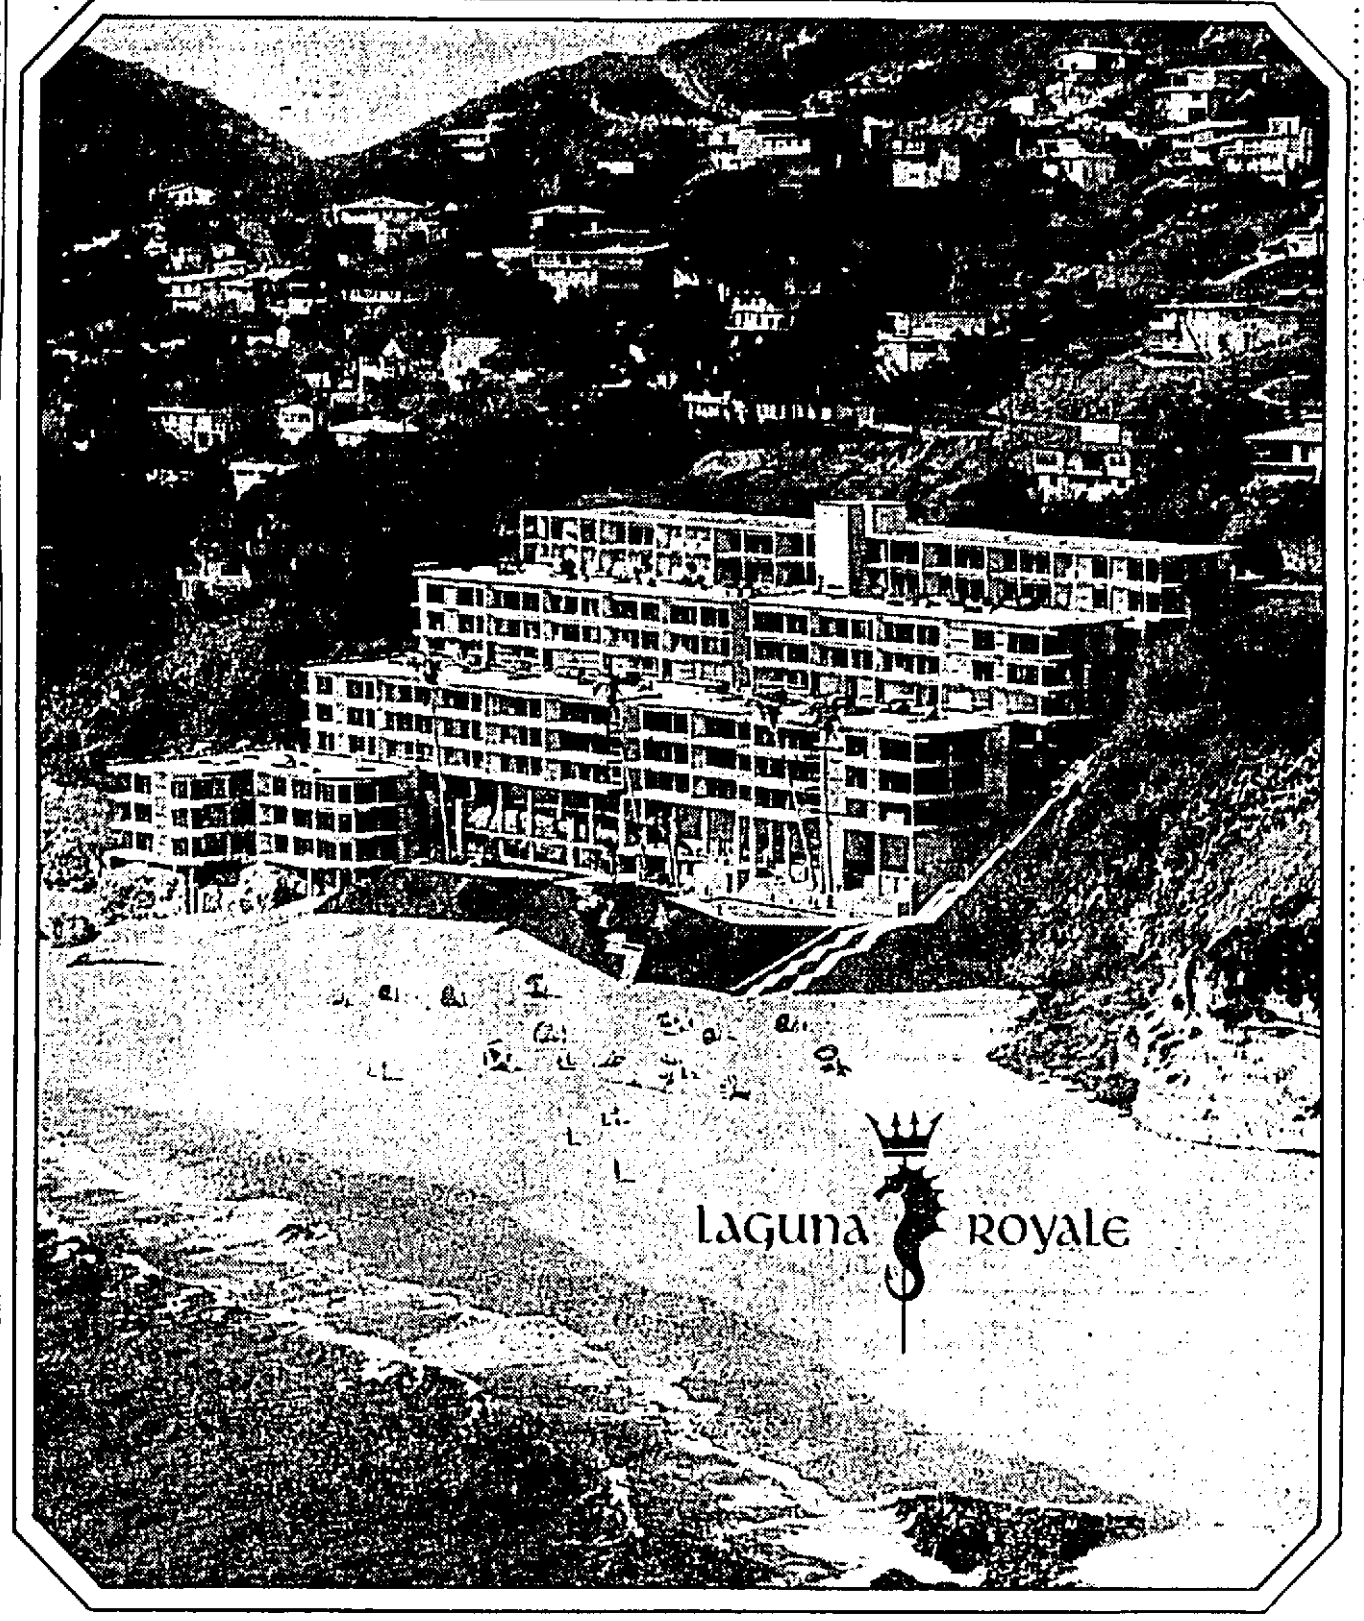

However, it stressed the conviction that home ownership is so imbedded in our way of life that no appreciable trend away from it was expected.

Realtors approached about this upsurge of apartment building feel it will not make any serious inroads into the business of the home builder.

Home ownership still has a lot of strong arguments going for it. One of the strongest is the fact that the home buyer gets some equity out of his investment.

Huntington Village Prestige Homes Will Open Sales Today

NEW HOMES SHOWN

The first unit of the new Huntington Village one and two-story Prestige Homes, in Huntington Beach, will be open to the public today. The three, four and five-bedroom homes are priced from $21,200.

The first unit of Huntington Beach's newest, and finest, family-sized homes—Huntington Village Prestige Homes—will be open to the public today, according to the builders, Doyle and Shields Development Co., Inc.

Six superbly decorated model homes emphasize and display the fine workmanship, the attention to styling and the wife-saving convenience built into Prestige Homes. The one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes are open daily for the public's convenience.

Prestige Homes are available in 22 new exterior elevations and six new floor plans to offer a wide variety of selection to the home buyer and to remove the stigma of a "tract" appearance.

• • • •

INNOVATIONS deserving of highlighting in Prestige Homes include a big overhead full size door (in one of the 3-bedroom models) from the garage to the patio area for safe and simple storage of a boat or trailer; an indoor barbecue facility in the family room of another style three-bedroom home; veranda-balcony on many of the two-story homes; a pantry in the five-bedroom two-story home, and the extra-large master bathrooms in all the homes. Many of these master baths feature a built-in dresser and have a door directly to the patio. A massive and magnificent floor-to-ceiling stone or brick fireplace, specially designed to complement each home, is still another attraction to be noted.

All-electric Westinghouse kitchens with built-in range, double oven with glass door, dishwasher with special top, overhead luminous lighting and ample cabinet space have made Huntington Village Prestige Homes especially attractive to early-bird shoppers that have toured the models.

• • • •

NYLON CARPETING, extra closets and shelves and large wardrobes will also please the discriminating home buyer.

FHA and convential and Cal-Vet financing are all available on the homes, which are priced from $21,200.

Prestige Homes are located just a short drive from the new $78 million Douglas Space Center facility in Huntington Beach; several neighborhood shopping areas; a new high school, several grade schools and the fabulous Orange County coastline of beaches and small boat harbors.

To visit the new Huntington Village Prestige Homes from the Long Beach area, drive east on Seventh St. to Golden West St., then right to Edinger, then right to Springdale .9 of a mile to the models.

Expect European Cars to Use More Automatic Transmissions

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) A more rapid increase in the use of automatic transmissions in European automobiles is forecast.

Scientists from Great Britain and the United States said the increase will be steady but will stabilize at a lower level than in the United States.

The forecast was placed before the final technical session of the Sixth World Petroleum Congress. More than 6,000 oil and gas experts from 62 nations participated in the international forum on scientific and technological developments.

The council authorized its executive committee to meet in January in Mexico City to select the site for the next congress in 1967. Mexico City, Moscow, London and Tokyo have been mentioned.

• • • •

THE EUROPEAN trend toward automatic transmissions was reported by a group of Socony Mobil Oil chemists and engineers.

They said about 85 per cent of the automobiles being manufactured in the United States have such transmissions but the number of European vehicles so fitted probably is less than 1 per cent of the total car population.

"It can be expected that in Europe there will be a wider variety of transmission types because of the smaller and more diverse factory units," the report said.

"It is only comparatively recently that automatic transmissions have become available for the smaller size of engines which, mainly for fiscal reasons, are popular in Europe."

• • • •

THE SCIENTISTS said the rate of increase will be tempered by initial cost of the transmissions. At present these are considerably higher in Europe than in the United States.

They said the additional cost of an automatic transmission for a low to medium-priced vehicle in Great Britain is equivalent to 12.4 per cent of the total price of the same type automobile with standard gearshift. They placed the comparable U. S. figure at 7 per cent.

"The rate of increase as a percentage of the total car population can be expected to be slower in Europe than in the United States as the average age of cars is greater," the report said. "Individual owners retain their cars for a longer period."

Credit Union to Build State Offices at Pomona

Working drawings are being completed for a new $300,000 California Credit Union League headquarters building to be constructed in Pomona.

Architects of the sweeping, one-story structure are Balch-Hutchason-Perkins, A.I.A., of Los Angeles. The 13,000 square foot building will be erected on an 8.75 acre site on South Garey Avenue.

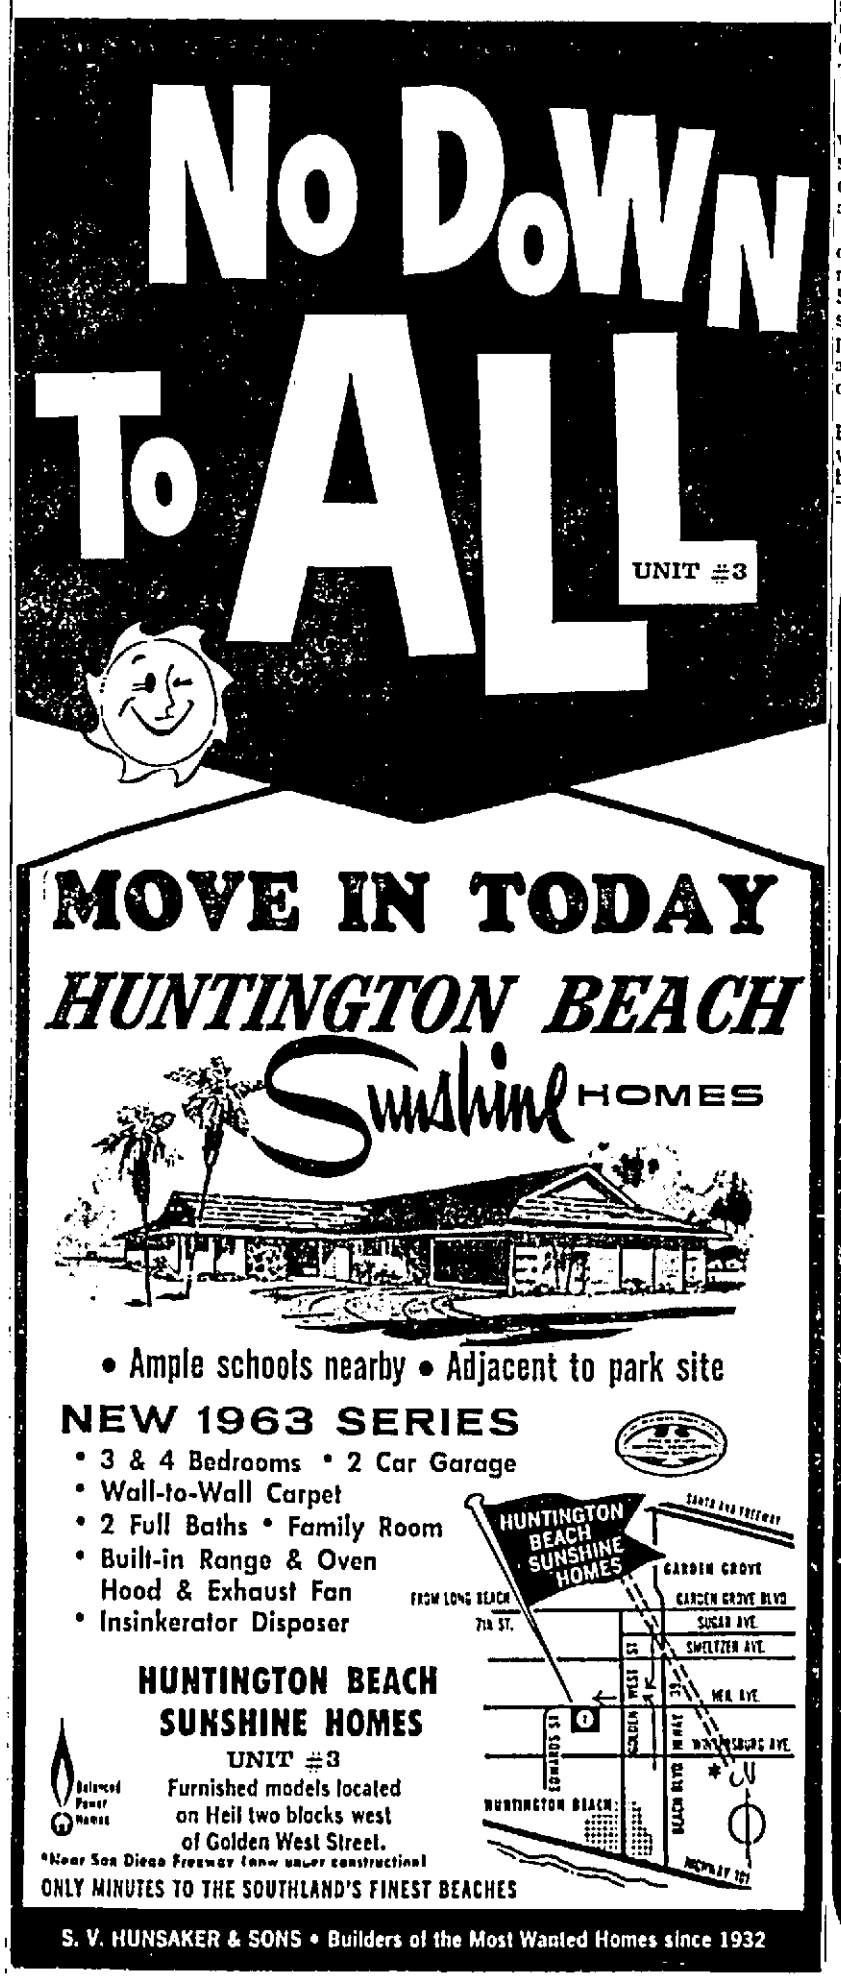

Construction is expected to begin in August, according to league president Harry L. Rodney of Orinda.

• • • •

SINCE 1933 when 25 credit unions joined together and formed the California Credit Union League on a voluntary, dues-supported basis, Oakland has been the headquarters city. The league has occupied its present leased offices at 2910 Lakeshore Avenue, Oakland, since March 1961.

Clarence E. Murphy of Piedmont has served as the organization's managing director since 1942.

At the annual meeting held in Los Angeles in November 1961, the members voted to construct a headquarters building and to relocate it in the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

ALCO-PACIFIC HONORED

Al Solomon, president of Alco-Pacific Construction Co. (left), receives General Telephone Co.'s "Telephone Planning Award" from Hans Y. Kraepelien, vice president of marketing and sales for the utility. Considerable screening took place before Solomon's development, the International Home Fair in Westminster, was selected to receive the award.

'Telephone Planning Award' Goes to Sol Vista Home Fair

Al Solomon, president of Alco-Pacific Construction Co., today received General Telephone Co.'s "Telephone Planning Award" for the Sol Vista International Home Fair in Westminster.

The plaque was presented to Solomon, who was honored for his foresight in planning today, for tomorrow's communications, by Hans Y. Kraepelien, vice president of marketing and sales for the utility.

"To meet General's stringent 'Telephone Planning Award' qualifications, considerable screening took place before Solomon and his firm were selected to receive this award," Kraepelien pointed out.

• • • •

A CONCEALED wiring plan with built-in telephone outlets to allow for the immediate installation of regular or portable phones and a pre-installed wiring plan designed for the resident's current requirements as well as future needs, played a major part in General's consideration of the Sol Vista International Home Fair for its coveted award.

"To qualify for General's award," said Kraepelian, "larger homes must have at least six telephone outlets, distributed in the living, working and sleeping areas. Smaller residences must have at least five outlets, located in the same areas."

• • • •

THE 565 master planned balanced power homes in Alco-Pacific's new community are priced from $22,695 to $28,300. Cal-Vet, FHA and conventional terms are available.

An exotic group of five furnished models and a sales pavilion are on display daily at the corner of Westminster Boulevard and Bolsa Chico.

Will Direct Two Offices for Farrow

Dave Rams, 49, has been appointed manager of Farrow Realty Corp's Buena Park and Fullerton offices, Jerry Farrow, owner of the 22-year-old pioneer Orange County real estate firm, announced.

Farrow Realty, with headquarters in Garden Grove, operates eight Orange County offices with residential resale, tract sale, commercial, income, land, business opportunity and property management departments.

DAVE RAMS
Manages Two Offices

Rams will direct all phases of the Buena Park and Fullerton offices and supervise Farrow Realty Corp. operations in the north Orange County area, Farrow said.

• • • •

BEFORE JOINING the Farrow firm, Rams served as district manager in Long Beach for a Long Beach firm.

Rams is a member of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, Lakewood-Los Altos Multiple Listing Service, California Real Estate Association, National Association of Real Estate Boards and Brokers Institute. He also belongs to Long Beach Optimists Club, Plaza Branch. He was graduated from Ferguson Institute, a business college on Long Island.

He lives at 6731 Stearns St., Lakewood Plaza.

Man to Blame, .. Not Machines

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dictating machines are more reliable than the business executives who use them, Buyers Laboratory said today. After testing many makes of machines, the Laboratory said the big problem in their use is executives who don't take the trouble to spell out names or even to enunciate them clearly.

Big Home Comfort Offered in Cypress

ATTRACTIVE KITCHEN

Planned to save steps and lighten work, kitchens in Cypress Sunshine Homes stress the ultra-modern in built-in equipment. Featured is a Wedgewood Holly built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan.

Prime factor in the sales appeal of Cypress Sunshine Homes, a residential home development by S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, builders and developers, is the provision of "big home comfort at an affordable price," according to Thomas Richey, sales manager for the firm.

Richey stated that the low down payment of $195 and small monthly payments make it easy for the average income family to own a Cypress Sunshine Home featuring three and four bedrooms, two full baths, family room, and oversize two car garage. The home buyers receive free a completely fenced rear yard and front yard landscaped.

• • • •

LOCATED in the smog-free south coast locale close to schools, churches and shopping centers, and readily accessible to industrial areas, these quality homes feature wall-to-wall carpet, silent forced air heat, metal sliding windows with screens, and plenty of closet space.

Featured is a Wedgewood Holly built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan. Also provided is an Insinkerator disposer, plenty of roomy natural finish cabinets, and burn resistant Formica counter tops.

Furnished model homes are open daily for inspection and may be seen on Cerritos Avenue between Miller and Holder Sts.

New Problems Seen for Industrial Realtors

Steadily increased competition between men and machines in today's age of mechanism will have a marked influence on industrial location, construction and design of buildings, according to a prominent Southland member and new leader of the Society of Industrial Realtors.

H. R. Hudsen of Los Angeles, 20th national president of SIR, says:

"Mechanization is contributing to the obsolescence of existing industrial buildings, making it hard to compete with today's new one-story facilities with ample parking space."

He saw this as "a challenge to help owners of outdated multi-storied plants to decide what to do with them." He added:

"The choice of whether to . . . find another industry more suitable to the plant, rehabilitate the building for non-industrial use, or tear (it) down to put the land to another use is difficult to make . . . a problem that only a specialist can solve."

Hardware Man Gets Certificate

L. G. Schumacher of Dooley's Hardware Mart, Long Beach, has received a Certificate of Achievement for completion of the Fourth Annual Yale Builders' Hardware Training Course at Tarrytown, N.Y.

Awarding the certificate was Leo J. Pantas, vice president and a director of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co. which sponsored the two-week course, held at the Hilton Inn in Tarrytown.

The course is designed to enable its graduates to qualify, with further study, for certification by the American Society of Architectural Hardware Consultants.

Lower Farm Net

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The farmer's share of the retail food dollar is shrinking. In the first three months of this year it was 37 cents, two cents less than a year earlier. Rising marketing costs, including processing, packaging and shipping, are blamed.

Huntington Beach Home on None Down

Top quality construction and high grade materials are among the benefits offered home buyers at Huntington Beach Sunshine Homes, Unit 3, located in one of the fastest growing sections of Orange County, according to Thomas Richey, sales manager for S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, builders and developers of homes in Southern California since 1932.

Huntington Beach Sunshine Homes may be purchased with no down payment and the owner can have immediate occupancy, according to Richey.

• • • •

OFFERING THE home buyer a choice of three or four bedrooms, two full baths, a family room, and a large two-car garage, these quality homes offer a choice of several distinctive exterior elevations and convenient floor plans. Shopping centers, schools, churches, and recreational facilities are close by.

BUILT BY HUNSAKER

Outstanding values in three and four-bedroom homes, with two full baths, are offered at Huntington Beach Sunshine Homes, unit 3, by builders and developers, S. V. Hunsaker & Sons.

Thoughtful planning of these spacious homes stresses built-ins, and many roomy closets. The ultra-modern kitchen has built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan over range, Insinkerator disposer, Formica counter tops, vinyl tile, and natural finish cabinets.

Furnished model Huntington Beach Sunshine Homes are open daily for inspection. Unit 3 homes, located adjacent to a park site may be seen on Golden West and Edward Streets.

DIAMOND HEAD SERIES HOME
Here is one of the models in the new Diamond Head Series of Springdale South Homes which may be purchased without down payment. Full price ranges from $17,495.

The Diamond Head Series, newest unit of Springdale South in Huntington Beach, has met with unprecedented buyer response, reports Sy Bram, executive director of Sunkist Plaza Builders.

This is due to the added value built into the homes, which, in turn is possible because of the company's mass buying power, Bram added.

The company, builder of several quality home developments throughout the Southland and one of the most respected building firms, has a huge mass buying power which has resulted in "something that catches the discriminating homebuyer's eye."

• • • •

THIS DIAMOND Head Series is the newest unit by the builders of Sunkist Plaza Homes, whose residences have been referred to as some of the best home values in Huntington Beach.

Occupancy is offered within 30 days on a no-down-payment basis to all and $100 costs. Full prices are from $17,495.

The homes contain three and four bedrooms, family room and two baths. As an extra incentive to buyers, the builders offer the bonus special of a fully fenced rear yard.

The quality homes include Waste-King-Universal built-ins in color and disposer. Modernaire range hood and fan, formica counters, ash cabinets and separate utility room.

Also included is Custom Aire forced air heat, decorator lighting fixtures, spacious stall showers, luxury Pullmans and deluxe medicine cabinets. Furnished models are open daily.

Artz Building Rates Award

Orville M. Artz recently was given Southern California Edison Company's "Award for Electrical Excellence" for his new office building at 5929 Cherry Ave.

Edison's Long Beach district manager, A. L. Code, made the presentation.

The award was established by the electric company to recognize built-in electrical quality in commercial and as the Medallion Home Award is the electric industry's honor in residential construction, Code pointed out.

Edwin H. Ripperdan, A.I.A., Long Beach, designed the building.

Artz's building has been chosen as one of the outstanding examples of architecture in Long Beach by the Long Beach Music Council for its recent "Four Centuries Festival."

Pacific Tel Project in Final Stage

A $146,000 Pacific Telephone project making facilities available for new housing and industrial development near Avalon and Sepulveda boulevards is in its final stage.

Splicing has been completed and "mop up" work is being done in connection with the placement of 21,150 feet of major feeder cable extending north from Pacific's central office on Broad Avenue, according to exchange manager A. B. Smith.

• • • •

THE CABLE runs along Lakme Street and Sepulveda to Avalon. A second link runs along Lomita Boulevard to Wilmington Avenue, then North to Carson Street.

"Numerous residential units and several large industrial plants are under construction in the area to be served by these facilities," Smith said.

"We expect continued growth in the next few years as large pieces of agricultural land are being made available for development into living quarters, trailer parks and industrial uses."

Fire Company Operates Cheaply

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI)—Perhaps the only fire company operated for profit in the United States is Rural Fire Protection, Inc., which serves three local communities. R-F-P assembles its own firetrucks, uses part time help and claims to operate more cheaply than a municipal department.

I, P-T Fashion Editor Covers New York's Fall-Winter Showings

HIGH FASHION look in knit jersey goes sportive. From Oleg Cassini's fall-winter collection.

AS SUN worshippers throng California beaches in the scantiest attire possible, I, P-T fashion editor Mary Ellis Carlton is in New York this week to report the latest in cover-up fashions for fall and winter.

Word from the fashion capital is that clothes for the coming season will be shifty, sportive and sexy—overstated with a capital "Oh."

Straws in the fashion wind whisper of turtlenecks and boots, country style hats and cable knit stocking, pantaloons and zany at-home pants. For evening: jewels and furs and floor-length gowns that slither and slink.

For what's in, what's out this fall, follow the women's pages this week. The first wire story from New York will appear Tuesday.

FOR EVENING . . . the high neck, sleeved, long Empire dress (left) from Arthur Jablow collection.

NOT ONLY NEWS, but smart and comfortable is this long evening coat in stretch fabric by Originala.

It Could Happen to You

Dear Fashion Editor:

Although my husband says he's satisfied with me—I definitely am not!

I am 46 years old, not too much overweight (140 pounds on a 5'6" frame), my hair is beginning to show some grey and the wrinkles aren't too noticeable, yet I feel doudy and dumpy.

Don't you think I could be improved by remodeling? I do!

MRS. ROBERT J. ARNOLD
3152 Monogram Ave.

SAME DAY, four hours later . . . this is how Mrs. Arnold looked after "do-over" at Wilma Hastings agency. Notice more flattering hairstyle (created by Rafael), livelier makeup, more figure-flattering, up-to-now clothes.

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I, P-T Fashion Editor

In most every other department of her life, housewife-mother-grandmother-to-be Alli Arnold is happy, well-adjusted and has few complaints.

But when it comes to fashion, her hue and cry echoes that of thousands of would-be glamorites from Long Beach to Long Island.

Her lament: "I feel dowdy and dumpy!"

This despite her natural assets.

Which are numerous: vibrant, honey brown hair that responds willingly to a hair dresser's every whim . . . a youthful vitality that defies her 46 years . . . good facial features . . . a curvy figure that could be easily pared to size. . . .

Also a natural interest in all things fashionable.

"I know my appearance can be improved," said she, "But how? Where do I begin?"

MRS. ARNOLD'S before and after pictures on this page were taken at the same place, same day—during her "New Model You" one-day redo under supervision of local fashion expert Wilma Hastings.

The day started with an evaluation of her beauty-fashion problems, thusly outlined by Mrs. Hastings:

A too-flat hairdo that didn't flatter . . . dress silhouette uncomplimentary to the figure, skirt slightly too short . . . dark black mascara and down-pulled brows that gave a tired look to the eyes . . . a lack of flair in choice of accessories and textures.

Examples of the latter: no hat or gloves, uninteresting handbag ("elegance and quality in accessories are important to the total look"). . . mink collar with crepe dress ("unlikely textures and winter-summer looks should not be combined").

AFTER THE evaluation, then came the transformation.

Mrs. Arnold's dazzling do-over was accomplished with simple and fundamental principles of beauty and fashion—the kind that can help any woman, anywhere with her own beauty problems.

BEFORE: Aili Arnold as she arrived for one-day re-do in I, P-T's "New Model You" fashion-beauty series.

Says Mrs. Hastings: "For the beginner, the simple chord to beauty harmony is a pleasing figure outline (the experts call it silhouette) plus interesting, becoming colors and the proper balance of head and figure via the right hairdo and/or hat.

MRS. ARNOLD'S beauty program started, quite logically, with a new hairstyle created, in this instance, by Rafael at his salon, 4705 E. Anaheim.

"I'm weary of the same old hairdo," said Mrs. Arnold. "Maybe it was all right for other years, but now it's tired, old-hat

Don't Let 'em Burgle You Blue

By MARY NETH

Burglars have a real holiday this time of year.

While the rest of the town goes on vacation, they go to work.

According to Lt. Maurice Wishon, detective Long Beach Police Department, residential burglaries rise a good 6 per cent in the summer.

When you take into account that there was a burglary committed every 36 seconds (day and night) in the state last year, any upswing is something to worry about.

• • • •

IS THERE ANYTHING you can do to keep your home from being ransacked?

"Yes," says Sgt. Robert Hill, LBPD residential burglary division. "A few precautions can really pay off."

"First of all, if you plan to be gone for an extended period, call the police department and let them know the date of your departure and return.

"They'll send a patrol car around to check on the property. It's also wise to give the name of a neighbor or friend with whom you'll leave a key and an address where you can be reached in case of emergency."

• • • •

BUT, THE POLICE can't do it all. To be completely effective they would have to be everywhere at once—a physical impossibility.

You can help them by taking a few simple steps yourself to discourage unwelcome callers.

To begin with, don't walk off without locking-up. Open doors and windows are an open invitation to trouble. They can let in more than a cool breeze.

And, if you are going to be gone for the night—leave a light burning.

According to Sergeant Hill this is one of the most effective means of foiling a would-be thief.

"Burglars often prowl neighborhoods looking for dark houses as likely places to rob. A light left on in the bathroom is often enough to deter them. If possible, leave a light on in the backyard, too."

But, better still, if you will be gone for more than a few days, invest in an automatic timer switch. One of these switches will turn on a lamp in the house at dusk—turn it off a few hours later.

• • • •

LOCKS ARE A BIG safety factor, too. Most homes have good locks on their front doors, but often a flimsy device on the rear entrance that can be opened with a hair-pin.

Substantial pin-tumbler locks should

REACHING back a bit to Rotary Club's grand president's party—it was done in A No. 1 cream of the crop style.

Done in collaboration with Japanese Airlines, the champagne dinner was given at Elks' Club and airlines personnel served as hostesses a la as if in flight. Happi coats were given as favors and worn. Note incoming president Darry Neighbors and wife, "Marky" being served at head table by June Kawai, ground hostess of the airlines.

Happy smiles in happi coats for Neighbors.

Instead of saki and in consideration of American taste buds, champagne was served on the patio prior to dinner Marvelous teriyaki was cooked and served from glowing hibachis. A huge iced trough of chilled champagne bottles kept things popping out there, I tell thee true.

Dinner was eaten by chopsticks and, as far as I could see, nobody welched and insisted on silverware. Other most honorable honorees were outgoing prexy, Odie Wright, and wife, Lois, plus the Japanese Consul General of Los Angeles.

Major praise to Marvin and Margaret Davis for putting the lavish affair together. And they, in turn, give bows to helping handers of committee members Betty and Larry Hunt, Melba and Lowell Clark and their lovely, blonde daughter, Linda, Sally and Dick De Golia, Helen and Lathe Brightman, Ruth and Gordon Dougherty and . . .

You better believe it, this was a big one and the list continues—Louise and Ernie Belcher, Helen and Doug Newcomb, Carrie and Al Vignolo, Lou and John Walter, Audrey and Neil Phillips, Norma and Bill Becker,

Lorraine and Max Becker, Margot and Henry Meyer and a very large bow indeed to Joseph and Mary Ishii who brought marvelous array of Japanese flower arrangements and potted trees to grace the entrance area.

A FUNNY THING happened to Barbara (Mrs. Jack) Enloe on the way to the shower—a baby shower being given for her by Lucille (Mrs. Marvin) Garvin, 3904 Rose Ave., at her home and co-hostessed by Flo (Mrs. Ron) Krebs and Judy (Mrs. Dave) Klein.

It was a surprise affair. And I mean, it turned into the biggest surprise of the year. Husband Jack was in charge of delivering Barbara to the party-site on some pretext or other.

On that same day he had a test to take in Los Angeles in the afternoon (he'd made one trip up earlier in the ayem). Well, he forgot all about the shower and suggested to Barbara that she make the trip up with him. He compounded his error by telling her it was hot in L. A. and to wear something old and comfortable. Which she did.

At 2 p.m.—the hour of the beginning of the party—his gargantuan mistake dawned on him. He called Lucille in a fluster, said he'd have Barbara there late. Then, mumbling an excuse to his wife that the test had been called off, he rushed her home to th party by an incredible 2:30. And you can imagine how she felt in that "loose, comfy" dress when she finally found out the truth.

Well, Jack rushed back to L.A. to take the test. Whatta ya' expect. He flunked it, natch.

LIFE'S LITTLE miseries. Joan and Julio Bescos went to Pebble Beach (stayed at Del Monte Lodge) for the Men's Amateur State Golf Tournament. Julie was among 63 golfers, state-wide, who qualified, made the championship flight. Then he had to come home for business reasons before he could play in the finals!

Also qualifying for the championship were Ernie Combs (he and Ruth stayed at Svengaard in Carmel) and John Richardson, up for the tourney with wife, Wina.

ANOTHER PROUD moment in the lives of Celestia and Harry Whipple, 441 Nebraska Ave. They just returned from a trip to Washington, D.C. to be present when their local-boy-makes-good (and how!) son, Dr. Fred L. Whipple received his award for Distinguished Federal Civilian Service from President Kennedy.

Fred is professor of astronomy at Harvard and director of Smithsonian's Astrophysical Observatory. He was one of five to receive such an award from JFK in varying fields. After the presentation the Whipples visited in Des Moines before returning home.

A TERRIFIC GUY and his wife, Dr. Guy and Alice Frank, are houseguesting at Rose and Gene Bishop's home. Guy, for the record, is Rose's most talented brother. They are from Shepherds Town, W. Va., where he is chairman of the Fine Arts Dep't. at Shepherd College and an arranger and composer of note and great talent.

He has collaborated with a Dr. Charles Cooper on a musical, "Bon Marche," which has high hopes of hitting Broadway. Anyway, Rose and Gene entertained for Guy and Alice and invited good old-timer friends from charter membership of Singers' Workshop, now Civic Light Opera Co.

Guy played "Bon Marche," then asked the talented gang to take turns on the numbers. Wonderfull Among those "on stage," sans rehearsal, were Pat Zeig (there with Bob), Laura Killingsworth (as usual, Ed listened, enjoyed), Jackie and Harvey Waggonner, Marvin Cloyd and date, Jane Lewis, Sid Cullum (present with wife, Pat), Jim Boyd there with Joyce Dixon, Betty Kimber, Henri Scanlon and Art Carrah.

Happy as a people.

STARTED to say Lorraine Moore is happy as a lark or carefree as a bird in flight. Then got to thinking, for all we know, those poor little things may be worried sick about what's going on back in the nest. So forget it. Let's just say Lorraine is bound to be having real peoples' kind of fun . . . and that's not for the birds.

She's pictured aboard the North German Lloyd flagship, "Bremen," as it sailed from New York. She'll be gone on a two-month tour of Europe.

Currently renting her home on Treasure Island are Madelyn and Doug Nance and their sons, Douglas and Jon-Todd, enjoying their fifth summer "on the beach here" from their home in Palm Desert (they love us here, honest).

SMASHING success, very large, they tell me was Poly High's 1953 class reunion party of last week. Joint jumped (the International Ballroom at Lafayette) as at least 350 old grads got together.

A do-it-yourself affair, far as the committee work went, duties were intermingled and shared by Sidney and Dan Nichols, Peri and Travis Jackson (she coordinated), Bobby and Joe Kirkpatrick, '53 class prez Ray Cummings, wife, "Sandy."

Also on the workside of the party ledger, Binnie and Jack Berro, Roxy and Kent Bingham, "Tootsie" and Jim Gregory and Bonnie and Jim Hanson. Bonnie, still in a wheel chair from an accident in January, was undaunted—did more than most anybody.

Bill Warch was emcee. Imagine his embarrassment when, handing out the door awards, he had to give his own wife, Connie, the main one. She won, fair and square, a make-up case.

THIS TOWN is getting artier and artier, of that there is no doubt. Now it's going to be real kooky arty (one day only) with gusto and paint flying in all directions next Thursday.

With tongue in cheek and all members and guests welcome to join the fun, Yacht Club Ladies Day will feature the First Annual Long Beach Yacht Club Art Exhibit. Elaine (Mrs. Jack) Kirschke is chairman with co-chairmen Norma (Mrs. John) McIntire and Juanita (Mrs. George) Heinrich. Anything in art will go, from abstract to cartoons to doodles. Materials—paints, brushes, charcoal, even pencils, will be provided.

To give you some idea of what you're apt to run into on the docks as the gals have at it, note below Margaret (Mrs. Frank) Mansuy and Norma McIntire illustrating what a merry it will be.

Drawing a dock or a ship or maybe just a blue sky will be such gals as Darlene Coultrup, Norma Herster, Jeannine Mullender, Joie Jacomb. Then there will be stiff competition from real paint-thumbers (i.e. like green thumbers) Loyce Carhart, Polly Merrill, Gladys Crum and Ellen Kapp.

Down to the sea with paint brushes they'll go.

Charity Game to Open Bridge Championships

Opening with a charity game, the 15th annual Midsummer Contract Bridge Championships will be July 18-21 in the Lafayette Hotel. The championships traditionally attract 5,000 players.

All proceeds of the first session, beginning at 1:30 p.m. July 18 will go to charity, according to Marshall Ketchum, tournament manager.

In addition to the capital prizes for first and second place over all winners in all championships, prizes will be offered for the first place winners in all sections and for every session. The only knockout event in this area at the sectional level will be for the Bixby cup. This will be a team-against-team contest with international match point scoring.

The Long Beach sectional committee includes Erik Paulsen, chairman, Kelsey Petterson, Paul Taylor and Robert Sterett. Lou Ryel will be in charge of partner pairing and Robert Dischner will be tournament director.

Manager of Fair to Speak

Loren McCannon, administrative vice president and assistant general manager of the 1967-69 California World's Fair, will talk at the Altrusa Club meeting Monday.

The event will take place in Boulevard Room, Lafayette Hotel, with dinner at 7 p.m. following a social meet at 6:30.

The program has been planned by Myrtle Seiler and her public affairs committee.

Audrey Stevens will introduce McCannon who will illustrate his talk with slides showing plans for the fair and development of its Pier J site.

WAL to Meet

Long Beach District, Women's Architectural League, will meet in the home of Mrs. Richard O. Prior, 6281 Marita Ave., Monday at 8 p.m.

Barbara Kummer Says Nuptial Lines

Mrs. Donald Richard Soukup

Barbara Ann Kummer, daughter of Assistant Police Chief and Mrs. William Edward Kummer, 2315 Maine Ave., became the bride of Donald Richard Soukup in a mid-afternoon ceremony Saturday in St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of satin lined Alencon lace with panniers of satin forming a cathedral train. Her veil of illusion was caught with satin roses and she carried a Book of Common Prayer topped by a shower of butterfly orchids and stephanotis.

Marilyn Gerrard attended as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Coula Paulos, Linda Sadler and Mrs. Jerry Sands.

Bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Soukup, 1345 E. Ninth St., asked his brother, James H. Soukup, to be his best man. Ushers were John E. Rigby, David West, Thomas Alcock, Berry Blythe and William T. Kummer.

• • • •

A RECEPTION in the church Biblical Garden was followed by a champagne buffet for family and close friends at the home of the bride's parents. The newlyweds are honeymooning at Lake Arrowhead prior to motoring to Northern California and their first home in Arcata.

Both young persons were graduated from Polytechnic High School. The new Mrs. Soukup was graduated in June from Long Beach State College and will teach this fall in the Arcata area. Her husband attended Long Beach City College and will enter Humboldt State College in September with a major in forest management.

It Could Happen to You, Too

and doesn't do a thing for me."

Raphael's answer: A fluffier, higher hairstyle with camouflaging bangs that allow some forehead to show through, thereby lengthening facial features.

He calls it "the longer look in shorter hair," a new sportive approach with the fresh look of natural youthfulness, also a touch of sophistication.

The result: added height, updated appearance, more pleasing over-all balance.

THEN CAME the wakeup with makeup techniques, executed by Mrs. Hastings, which gave new face value to Mrs. Arnold's over-all charm.

The prescription: a more natural, more complete makeup to create subtle flattery and more youthful radiance.

A creamy beige foundation gave needed color and facial highlights. Heavy black mascara was replaced with medium brown, applied to the underneath side of the lashes. The mascara, along with green shadow and dark silver eyeliner (extended beyond the eye), brightened her blue-green eyes.

Brows were plucked from underneath (raised a good half inch) to create a prettier arch. By extending the brow line slightly, and ending it in a soft upward sweep, a lift was given to the face.

A peach tone lipstick (softer than the color Mrs. Arnold had been wearing) was the final bright touch.

IN MRS. ARNOLD'S before picture, she wears a crepe dress that, in Mrs. Hastings' words, "is nice enough, but not right for her figure type."

WRONG: Waistline too high (accentuates over-ample 40-inch bust), quality of fabric not high fashion, lines of dress not elongated enough to be flattering.

In a one-woman fashion show at the Wilma Hastings Modeling and Finishing School, Mrs. Arnold tried on a variety of styles in different colors and fabrics (any woman can do this in a store).

By studying them carefully, on herself, she was soon easily able to see how one outfit could be dull and unflattering, while the next could be dramatically devastating!

SHE LEARNED these fashion do's and don't's for her 5-feet-6, top-heavy (40-inch bust, slim hips), now 135-pound (and still going down) figure. Similar figure types take note:

1. A carefully chosen dress can fool the eye as to figure proportions. The trick: lower your waistline to look slimmer through the bust. Longer jackets, tunics, three-quarter coats give better balance than short jackets or crop tops.

2. Full skirts are not flattering to the top-heavy figure, ditto puffed sleeves, large collars and bunchy necklaces. Gravitate to the new collarless coats and suits.

3. Don't add bulk with thick tweeds and gaudy "fattening" prints. Tailored lines, restrained colors, hardweave fabrics are best.

4. When buying accessories: simplicity, restraint, proper scale in relation to you—all are important.

So are these primary rules: buy quality not quantity; don't mix tailored and dressy effects . . . DO splurge on good shoes and gloves to enrich the over-all look.

Add them all together and you have fashion at its best.

The main point to remember, says Mrs. Hastings, is that elegance is important: an uncluttered, unhurried look that is a combination of the right clothes, the right makeup and the right amount of faith in yourself.

RAFAEL CREATES new hairstyle for Mrs. Arnold. The result: added height, updated appearance, better over-all balance.

How to Out-Plot Burglars

be installed on all outside doors.

Don't forget to call the dairy, cleaners, newspaper, etc., to stop any deliveries that might be made during your absence.

Talk to your postman or neighbor to hold your mail until you return. A bulging post box is an indication that the family is away.

Also, ask your neighbor if he'll look after things—pick up circulars that might be left on the porch, etc.

Don't close those curtains or blinds completely. Closed blinds keep the sun out and also make an effective screen for burglars.

Of course, be sure there isn't any cash lying around. Keep it in the bank. It's also a good idea to place securities and other valuables in a safety deposit box.

THOUGH BURGLARS prefer doing their dirty work under cover of darkness, many break-ins occur during the afternoons, too. And, it isn't always just the home vacated by vacationeers that's hit.

Some robbers plan their hauls to coincide with the housewife's shopping trips. While she's gone they work undisturbed.

This is why it's important to always lock doors when going out, even if only for a minute. It's also important to keep an eye out for suspicious looking characters. Report door-to-door salesmen without proper credentials to the police department at once.

Coming home to a torn-up house minus TV, fur coat, other valuables can be quite a let-down. Don't let it happen. Take all the precautions you can.

IN THE SWIM

Kicking up a storm, Tommy McNamara, 5, a post polio patient, demonstrates for fellow swimmers, Johnny Pedretti, 4, and Carrie Alba, 2, with instructor Mrs. Evelyn duPont lending a helping hand. Students of Mrs. duPont will appear in a swim show Saturday to benefit a fund to build and maintain a pool for the handicapped.

New Pool Goal of Benefit

Cerritos Communities Pool for the Handicapped, Inc., whose motto is "New Horizons For the Handicapped Through Swimming," will have a first fund raising event Saturday at 3 p.m. at a "Swim Capade" at the pool at the Lafayette Hotel.

Handicapped children, students of Mrs. Evelyn duPont, vice president of the group, will be featured in the show, including an armless and legless swimmer.

The event will benefit a fund to build and maintain a pool in Long Beach for the use of mentally retarded and crippled children, physically handicapped adults and senior citizens.

• • • •

MRS. DUPONT has been teaching the mentally retarded and physically handicapped to swim without remuneration for ten years at her own pool at her Lakewood home. The exercise strengthens muscles, creates good blood circulation and is an important safety measure, according to Mrs. du Pont.

"They have so much fun," she said. "They are just like little barracudas."

Other officers of Cerritos Communities Pool for the Handicapped, Inc., include Donald K. McLaughlin, president; Norman Kreitzer, Frank C. Finch, Donald K. Hobbs, M. E. Lewis, Austin Wilson, Mmes. Marian Gardner, Kenneth Fleming and William Harland.

Miss Fisher Is Wed to Henry L. Meier Jr.

Honeymooning on the Island of Kauai are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lake Meier Jr., whose marriage was solemnized in an afternoon ceremony at Los Altos Methodist Church.

The bride is the former Bobbie Jeanne Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elwyn Fisher, Long Beach. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lake Meier, St. Louis, Mo.

• • • •

MRS. KEITH VICTOR GAHAN attended her sister as matron of honor and Eva Wilhelmina Kilger was maid of honor. Mrs. Thomas Potter and Nancy Lou Jackson were bridesmaids.

Adolph Frederick Hanser performed best man duties; Derek Ivers Meier, John Randolph Wielandy, Lt. Robert A. Colaizzi, Charles W. Caspari and Keith Victor Gahan ushered.

After the ceremony, the new Mr. and Mrs. Meier received felicitations from their 200 guests at a champagne reception at Long Beach Yacht Club.

• • • •

THE BRIDE was graduated from Polytechnic High School and, in 1961, from Long Beach State College. A member of Delta Delta Delta, she was named in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," and was a founder member of the women's division of Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Henry L. Meier Jr.

• • • •

THE BRIDEGROOM is a graduate of Yale University and was a member of Bachelor Club of St. Louis. He recently completed a two-year tour of duty with the U.S. Navy as a lieutenant (j.g.), stationed in Long Beach.

After July 14, the couple will reside in St. Louis.

Geigers Reveal Troth

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Geiger, Long Beach, have announced engagement of their daughter, Susan Nancy, to William Richard Wilmer. The betrothed pair will wed on Aug. 3.

The bride-elect was graduated from Polytechnic High School where she was president of Caprice Welfare Club and received the Jeweled L for campus activities.

Her scholastic record earned for her the gold seal of the California Scholarship Federation and honors at entrance to UC, Santa Barbara. She served during the past year as president of her residence hall and has been selected by the dean of student residents to serve as a resident assistant next year.

• • • •

HER FIANCE is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Wilmer, also of Long Beach. Until recently his residence was divided between California and Venezuela. After attending Occidental College for two years, where he was affiliated with Phi Mu Alpha music fraternity, he transferred to Long Beach State College where he received his bachelor of arts degree. He currently is a candidate for his master's degree in psychology at State.

Ladies of Elks

Ladies of the Elks will have a noon luncheon followed by business meeting and card party Wednesday in Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St. Mrs. Thomas J. Davis will preside.

Bennets Celebrate 40th Year

Mr. and Mrs. Armond M. Bennett will be honored on their 40th anniversary today from 2 to 4 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Barrett, 5581 Lemon Ave.

The open-house will be cohosted by Mr. and Mrs. Barrett and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Tomich, the son-in-law and daughter of the Bennetts.

The Bennetts, who reside at 6758 Lemon Ave., were married in Long Beach July 7, 1923. They have resided at their present address for 35 years, and have four grandchildren.

• • • •

BOTH have been active in North Long Beach Lions Club. They are members of North Long Beach Methodist Church and he served on the Armed Services Commission of the City of Long Beach from 1956 to 1957 and is a member of Monte Vista Masonic Lodge. They both belong to Samuel Thomas Post American Legion 326.

Writers Invited to State College

Long Beach Writers Club members will be guests at Long Beach State College on Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., according to director John Frisch.

Professor Dixon Gayer of the journalism department, a former student of Frisch, will be host and main speaker.

Manuscripts by members will be criticized constructively during the afternoon. Luncheon will be served in the college cafeteria.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harris

50th Anniversary Honors for Harrises

Long Beach residents for more than 35 years, Mr. and Mrs. George Harris today are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house in their 3020 E. Fifth St. home.

Arranging the party are their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Harris, and daughter, Mrs. Virginia Burton, assisted by their grandsons, Bobby Harris and Larry Burton.

• • • •

THE COUPLE was married on July 9, 1913 in Los Angeles, and Mr. Harris pioneered the development of the oilfields in the Brea area before their move to Long Beach. Prior to retirement in 1955, he was a security officer for Craig Shipyards. Both are members of Colonial Tabernacle.

Travelogue on Mexico Slated

Fred Luther will present a colored slide travelogue on Mexico when he speaks at Lakewood Area Fuchsia Society Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Lakewood YMCA. Potted plants will be given as door awards. There will be a plant sale and refreshments. The public is invited.

Golden Day Honor for McConahays

Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. McConahay, 1324 E. Artesia Ave., will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary today at an open house from 2 to 6 o'clock in the home of their eldest son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard McConahay, 2941 Cedar Ave.

Assisting in party plans are the couple's four other children, Messrs. and Mmes. Paul McConahay and Clyde McConahay, all of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Henri Pernot of Walteria, and Mr. and Mrs. Orval Cheesebro of Orange. The elderweds also have 14 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren.

THE McCONAHAYS were married July 6, 1913 in Watonga, Okla., and have been Long Beach residents since 1929. Prior to retirement, they were active in the grocery business and are members of North Long Beach Methodist Church.

Pat Walker Answers Your Personal Letters

DEAR MISS WALKER:

I have been reading about you for some time, and on several occasions I have started to call you to see if maybe there was something you could do to help me.

I have worked hard all my life until recently. During those busy years I did not have much time or money to spend glamorizing myself. I am retired now with time on my hands, and I don't exactly like what I see in the mirror, but what can I do about it?

I am 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 130 pounds. Not only am I overweight, but my weight is poorly distributed. Unless I wear a long, closely fitted bra, I carry a big inflated spare tire around my middle, but if I do wear a close fitting bra, flesh spills out over the top on either side of my shoulder blades at the back in a way that is positively indecent.

Maybe some people think a woman approaching 60 shouldn't care how she looks, but I feel there is lots of living left for me yet, so why junk it? Besides, I always feel so much better when I look my best. Furthermore, I am, comparatively speaking, a newcomer in Long Beach. Back in Iowa where I used to live, people liked me because they had known me a long time. They were not critical of my appearance. Here people can judge me only by the way I look.

I want to be liked and admired—I want to attract interesting, worthwhile friends. To do this I must have poise and self-confidence and an appearance that looking her best gives to a woman so that I may project that radiant, interesting, vibrant self I really am to those with whom I come in contact, causing them to become interested in me.

PLEASE, what shall I do? I thank you for your courtesy,
Mrs. H. A., Long Beach

Miss Pat Walker, the nationally known figure authority, spends one full day each week in her private office on Wilshire Blvd. in Los Angeles. Here she conducts the business affairs of her salons and personally replies to the many letters she receives. Printed here is a letter telling why many women want to reduce.

DEAR MRS. H. A.:

I thank you for your delightful letter, and I shall start this letter off by saying that you are absolutely right in thinking that any woman, regardless of her age, should care how she looks. As for your feeling that there is still "lots of living left for you yet," you are absolutely right and also in thinking that you are just as young as you appear.

Through the years, as the National Director of this Company, I have met and talked with thousands of women, and it is always refreshing to come in contact with a woman who has the mental outlook that you have, because truly, you are only as young or as old as you appear and feel you are.

I am sure that you will have no problems attracting interesting and worthwhile friends. There are lots of wonderful people of your age in the area that you live in, and since you feel that you are radiant, interesting and vibrant, you should be leading a more active life than you are.

You ask for help, and it pleases me greatly to be able to write to you and sincerely say, that any woman, regardless of her age, regardless of how long she has had her "inch and weight" problems, can come down to her bone structure and lose it where she needs to lose it. With this comes many fringe benefits such as feeling better, a more confident outlook on life, and the pride of realizing that you had a problem and did something about it.

Again, thank you for taking the time to write me regarding your problems, and I sincerely hope this letter will be instrumental in helping you make a decision to have a "new figure," combined with the fringe benefits that it will bring about.

Sincerely yours,
PAT WALKER
National Figure Authority

Widow, 60, Reduces to Start a New Life

Mrs. Nellie Campbell felt depressed, lonely and unwanted because her husband passed away a year ago. She became nervous, over-ate and as a result neglected her figure and appearance. Here you see her, with Pat Walker the figure authority, after only a couple of weeks she has reduced 6 pounds and her slacks show the weight loss.

Here you see Mrs. Campbell after only 6 weeks. She has reduced 16 pounds and a total of 37 inches. Since this picture was taken she has reduced 22 pounds and has lost 46 inches where she needed to lose to make her a perfect Size. 10.

As told by
Mrs. Nellie Campbell, Lakewood

My name is Nellie Campbell and I live here in Lakewood. I lived here for many many years with my dear husband who just passed away a year ago. We were so happy while he was alive — he was so good to me and I leaned on him and depended on him so much. I worked at the Lafayette Hotel in Long Beach as the head folder in the laundry room until he died and had enjoyed my work very much.

When my husband died I faced all the responsibilities alone and being alone was almost more than I could bear. As a result I ate too much, became very nervous and so despondent and then I read about that lady in the paper one morning and it just took all kinds of courage to muster up enough nerve to call Pat Walker Stauffer System Salon to see if there was any hope for me.

That morning became for me the start of a new life and a new way of thinking. They were so nice on the phone and made an appointment for me to go in and talk to them. I was sure nervous when I got in my car and drove to see them. In fact I drove around the block 4 times before I could get the nerve to park and go in. Believe me when I say they were so nice to me and put me at ease.

Well when I found out what they could do for me even when I told them I was 60. I just prayed it would come true because I felt despondent, lonely, unwanted and self conscious. I told them about selling my house and that I was going to Santa Cruz to live and they worked out the time so I could get in the treatments I needed before I left. Just being there made me feel better.

It had been a long time since I cared how I looked (nothing looked good on me anyway). I had really let myself go and mentally I knew I was a real mess. After I set up my first appointment I began thinking as I drove home about clothes, hair and all the things women think of and prayed I wouldn't be disappointed and not have it come true. When you're 60 sometimes you think life is going to pass you by.

Well I will be a lifelong friend of Pat Walker. I didn't meet her that first day. One of the managers took care of me, but I've met her and talked to her many times since. She gave me all the self confidence I lacked and made me feel so important and I have lost 16 lbs. in 6 weeks and a total of 37 inches. I can't keep my slacks on. I'm proud 'cause I'm losing it where I needed to and I'm not all flabby and nervous like some people I've seen who tried to do it on their own. If only I could, I would talk to every other lady who has problems like I did and tell them to just go see them at Pat Walker Stauffer System Salon and their troubles will be over. It's what I did and I'm a happy, more confident woman because of it!

—Nellie Campbell

What Others Say:

I wish I had a photo of how I looked before I went to reduce with Pat Walker's system. I don't have one because I looked so awful for so many years that any time anyone took a picture of me, I made a point of hiding behind my husband and anyone else who was near me because I was ashamed of how I looked. My hobby is raising beautiful flowers and my favorite is bird-of-paradise. I love to garden. Now when I stoop over to cut my flowers, I don't huff and puff getting up. That alone is worth a lot. Besides my husband and children are pretty proud of me because somehow my whole personality has changed. — Mrs. Lillian Polak, Long Beach.

For many years, it seems like forever, I was hiding my figure under a boxy suit or coat, huge handbags and full skirts. My problems were all from the waist down. I had given up slacks and told everyone I didn't like the beach when the real truth was I was ashamed to wear a bathing suit. I'm proud to say I'm finished with my treatments. Now I wear a size 10 dress. Before I wore a 16. I had to because my hips and thighs were so bulgy. I lost 7 inches in my hips and 5 inches on each thigh and my legs look decent again. — Mrs. Jackie Stevens, Seal Beach.

GIRL SCOUTS CAMP OUT

Skyland Rates High for Fun

Rest Period. Time for Writing Home (See Letter Below) or Reading

DEAR MOM,

Camp is great. We hiked up Black Mountain trail today. It goes straight up. Thanks for the card. I miss you and Daddy and Rover and I'm having lots of fun. Even doing the dishes is fun. We take turns and call it pearl diving. We are out doors just about all the time. The food's great. Did you send the Brownies?

LOVE, JENNY

A 'Pearl Diver'

Registration . . . Still Open

School girls go all out for the great outdoors.

They are especially keen about camping. That's why reservations for Skyland Ranch, the established camp of the Greater Long Beach Girl Scout Council, go so quickly.

This week Girl Scout Headquarters, 4040 Bellflower Blvd., is taking the last registrations for its 12 and 14 day July and August sessions.

Any Long Beach area girl, from the fifth grade to 18 years of age, is eligible to take part in the program. She need not be a member of the Girl Scouts.

The camp, located in the San Jacinto Mountains, offers a full program of activities: hiking, cookouts, conservation and nature study, arts and crafts, singing and dancing. More than 500 girls will take part in the camping sessions this summer.

A camp nurse and infirmary are provided for health care and counselors are on hand at all times.

IN ADDITION to established camping, the council (a service of The United Way) provides day camping for 3,000 girls at in-town sites. The program is similar in that the Girl Scout program of camping is used. However, the girls are in camp only five or six days from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. The in-town sites are close to home and city parks are used in addition to El Ranchito camp grounds.

Some of the older campers spend two or three nights at a troop camp site. All unit counselors and camp directors are volunteers.

Wrong Card No Mistake

Any time you find things running badly it should cheer you to meet my friend, the unlucky expert. He never makes a mistake, but unfortunately his opponents never make mistakes against him.

It is even more cheering to listen to his stories in his own words.

"Maybe I shouldn't open 12 point hands, but I can't imagine anyone passing this one. And maybe my partner should have bid only two no-trump. But who can blame him for jumping to game? He had 12 good points and a nice five-card suit. Anyway, the three no-trump contract was a good one. Give West the king of diamonds and I have nine easy tricks against any defense. However, finesses never work for me when I need them and I had an extra line of play at my disposal, in case West had opened from a five card suit. I grabbed the first heart in dummy and led the three of clubs.

"AS YOU can see, if East plays a low club I can't lose the hand. I play any one of my clubs. If West ducks, I go after diamonds and even if the finesse loses I have nine tricks. If West takes the ace I simply duck one heart and nothing bad can happen to me. Furthermore, East was not a good enough player to go up with the king of clubs. But look what happened.

"He played the king of clubs and then looked at it as if a rattlesnake had bitten him. He started to apologize for pulling the wrong card, but after the king held it was a different story. He led a heart and when I took the diamond finesse I was down two."

Ensembles to Perform on Monday

A program entitled "Theatrically Yours" is scheduled for the Community Program at 8 p.m. Monday sponsored by Long Beach Recreation Department in Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

Ensemble numbers will include "Elephant Walk," baton twirling novelty; "Hey, Look Us Over," featuring the teenage Carpenterettes. Soloists will include Roseann Galiote, Jerilyn Jorgenson, Louann Martello, Diane Ramirez, Kathleen Turrish and Donna Wright.

Among the children performing will be Kristine Sanders, Debra and Thomas Acherman, Brenda Sue Summers and Candy Dee.

• • • •

THE PROGRAM will be directed by Bebe Carpenter and Barbara Gill, who also will be the mistress of ceremonies.

Carl H. Robertson will lead community singing to open the program at 7:30 p.m. with Regena Beam as accompanist.

The Tyo Orchestra will play for the old time and square dancing which follows the stage show. Joe Marshall will be the caller.

The public is invited to this free civic program.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Return Visit Discouraged

DEAR ABBY: We have just returned home from a week-end with some friends who have a beautiful, expensive, push-button home. The guest room was unbelievably furnished. There was one three-quarter-sized bed. (The room was large enough to accommodate one large double bed or a pair of twin beds.) There was one small, decrepit straight-back chair, a tiny hooked rug and one thin blanket. The mattress sagged in the middle, and to top it off, there was NO mirror in the room. My husband said that they intentionally furnished the guest room poorly to discourage guests from returning. Considering that the rest of the house was so elegantly and comfortably furnished, could my husband be right? — NO NAME PLEASE.

ABBY

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: Somewhere in a modest home is the luckiest woman alive, and I'm sure she isn't even aware of it. The "Other Woman" usually writes a tale of woe. I am the "Other Woman" but I have no "tale of woe" because of a decision I have just made. This wife I speak of is lucky because her children are healthy and well-behaved. They have a pleasant, middle-class home, with good food, good clothes and a good car. Their lives are secure. Her husband is with her, and he always will be. If I could tell this wife one thing, it would be to LOVE her husband and let him know it. He wanted me, and I wanted him, and only God knew how much. But when people are basically good, they refuse to hurt innocent people. Especially children. He's the man I've been searching for all my life. I love him and he knows it. But he is HER husband, and THEIR father. And he has integrity. I wish he were mine. But he's not and he never will be. Thank you, Abby, for letting me say this. I feel better now.—TOOK AN OATH.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: We have neighbors who do not have a telephone, but they have given all their friends OUR telephone number, and we have to run and get them when they get phone calls. When they first moved in, we told them they could use our telephone for emergency calls, but so far they have been using it for gossip and gabbing and we are getting tired of this. How can we tactfully get our point across?—FED UP.

DEAR FED: Don't waste your energy with "tactful" cover-ups. Tell your neighbors that you will be glad to deliver an "emergency" message, but if they want the use of a telephone for social chitchat to get their own.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: There is a darling boy who collects tickets at the theatre in my neighborhood. The last time I was there he gave me a special look that he never gave me before. I have secretly liked him for a long time and think he likes me a little. My problem is that he is on the shy side and so am I. How can I let him know I like him without being forward? — TIRED OF POPCORN.

DEAR TIRED: There is NO way a girl can let a boy know she likes him without being forward. The quickest way to kill your chances with a shy boy is to let him know you like him. Let HIM blaze the trail—if there is going to be any.

Robert F. Lichtenhan

CHEF OF THE WEEK

These Natives Not Growing Restless

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L. P-T Food Editor

The 3500 block on Cerritos might well be distinguished by the name "Lichtenhan's Corner."

His grandmother lives in one house—several houses down in the home of his mother and dad. Just up the street lives today's Chef of the Week, Robt. F. Lichtenhan and his family; while, all you need do to meet his sister, is take a turn around the corner.

Lichtenhan is general manager Long Beach Convention & Visitors Bureau, Inc.

Bob first saw the light of day at Seaside Memorial Hospital in Long Beach, as did his wife, Janet. Their son, Bob, nearly five, chose St. Mary's Hospital for his debut. Daddy Bob attended Freemont and Longfellow Elementary schools, Franklin Junior and Poly High before enrolling at Long Beach City College. His own father formerly managed the Blackstone Hotel and the Imperial Inn.

• • • •

LICHTENHAN vividly remembers the earthquake of '33—the mink-coated women lined-up for food, and his own family, complete with belongings in a wheelbarrow, heading over Signal Hill to camp in Houghton Park.

Bob first entered the food brokerage business after graduation. Then, one day, he attended a Long Beach Food Sales Clinic at which Howard Jones was the speaker. Howard did such a good job of selling Long Beach as a convention city, that Bob conceived the idea the City of Long Beach would be great to sell. He applied for the job, and got it. Eight months ago he succeeded "Chef" Howard Jones as manager of the bureau.

Since that time one might say that his dedication has been all-for-the-cause . . . the Convention Bureau. He can be seen having breakfast with a labor leader luncheon with a minister, and perhaps dinner with a group of school teachers. Each guest, you may be sure, is being boned-up on the virtues of our city.

• • • •

BOB PREDICTS a bright future, "new people wise," for Long Beach. His reasons? . . . new facilities already built, the drawing and planning of three more major ones for early completion, and, of course, the Worlds Fair.

A member of the Long Beach Rotary Club, Lichtenhan has been active in Community Players as an amateur Thespian. He is probably best known for his role in "Mr. Roberts."

Bob and his wife are equally well known as collectors of antiques; and he for his choice of paintings and etchings. He even has a faked Rembrandt to prove his ability as a collector. Possessing excellent taste, he can find one in the oddest place and at the best price. In fact, they're even sharing them with friends.

• • • •

THEIR OWN home is Colonial type, and boasts a front porch especially purchased and shipped from San Jose. They have bought, stripped and refinished all their furniture.

When it comes to cooking, our "chef" thinks what grandma did was great. His recipe today is for Nanny's Old Fashion Chicken.

NANNY'S OLD FASHIONED CHICKEN

Breast of Chicken.

Sprinkle with salt, coarse ground pepper and 3 to 4 slices of garlic over each piece of chicken.

Place on dish, cover with foil and let stand over night in refrigerator.

Preheat over 350°. Brush melted butter over each piece of chicken. Sprinkle both sides with corn flake crumbs. Place in roaster. Cover and bake 2 hours. Remove bones. Return to oven for ½ hour.

He's Marrying You, Not A Decorator

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

I'm not what you would term a truly feminine woman. I've spent much of my life helping my father with his law practice and being like a son to him because he was crippled and needed me.

Two years ago he died and about six months ago I became engaged. My fiance and I will be married in September. Several little things worry me.

First of all my aunt who is helping me with the plans (my mother died when I was two) insists that I have to be married in a white dress. Now I am in my middle 30's and I would feel out of place in such an outfit. I would much prefer picking out a flattering cocktail dress in a flattering color. My aunt feels that friends will question my virtue unless I am in white.

But aside from this problem there looms one much larger to me. I have little or no creative sense when it comes to picking our china, silver or crystal and I'm completely panic-stricken at being expected to decide on furnishings, tile and wall coverings, etc. (We are having a home built.)

My husband-to-be, who has supreme confidence in my ability to do anything, is leaving everything up to me. At home the things I chose for my father's home were cold and unfriendly. I don't want our home to look uncomfortable. Should I take a course in interior designing, hire someone else to do the house or let my aunt take over as she is dying to do? (She is the fussy Early American type). I do want to make a good marriage.—BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR BRIDE-TO-BE:

Your fiance is marrying you—not your aunt and not an interior designer.

He wouldn't have asked you to share his home unless he like what he saw and that includes your surroundings.

I agree with you that a flattering cocktail dress would be a better choice for several reasons. White is a difficult color for anyone to wear particularly when she reaches her mid-30's. You want to be at your best on your wedding day and in an ensemble that is alien to you and one which you feel is unsuited you cannot be yourself.

Pick a dress — and it doesn't have to be a new one if there is one you enjoy wearing—and splurge on sime smart accessories and a good-looking trousseau.

White no longer is a sign of your purity. There's many a bride who walks down an aisle in white that from that angle shouldn't and many many girls married in colors who could wear white.

As to your decorating problems. Find out what this man of yours likes. Perhaps you can window shop and get an inkling. Decide what you are going to use the house for. Are you going to do a lot of entertaining? Is it to be a quiet retreat for the two of you or what?

After you establish the pattern of your life think in terms of what would fit in with the pattern and if you need help in picking pieces within the framework don't hesitate to ask for professional help.—M.M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am 52 and want to marry a girl who is 17 years younger than I am. Friends tell me that is too big an age gap at my time of life. I spent all of my life seeing that my four sisters were settled and caring for my mother. Last year she died.

I've known this girl for two years. We have dated, find that we enjoy many of the same things. She is a widow. I have not told her of my intentions because of the violent reaction from my friends and business associates.

Am I being foolish?—DEPRESSED

Age is a relative thing. Some people are old at 20, other never. If you genuinely want to marry the girl ask her. If she feels differently she will tell you. But after all at 35 this woman is a mature individual. You are not robbing a cradle nor is it a May and December romance.—M.M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

In years I'm old and I've gone through a few adjustments in my life. I can't remember when I've been so riled before. I thought I was shock-proof — that is until today.

I do not approve but have grown accustomed to women of ages, sizes and shapes gadding around the city in shorts. But today something snapped!

I was on my way to a meeting and stopped at a large shopping center. There was this woman of between 30 and 35 in the family way and I mean big in the family way. She was wearing short short shorts with a blouse that just touched the bottom of the shorts.

I was shocked and pained to think that anyone could think so little of themselves and family to appear in public in such a way. Am I being old fashioned? — NOT SHOCK PROOF

DEAR NOT:

You better steel yourself because summer and the tourist season are in high gear and judging from last season you will be seeing a number of pregnant women similarly attired.

It seems to me that shorts have a place in one's own backyard but not on the public streets and not on pregnant women. Our rising crime rate has been blamed in part by many doctors and law enforcement officers on the way in which girls and women dress.

But what should be equally important to women — shorts emphasize all a woman's worst features.—M.M.

They're Off to the 'Wizard of Oz'!

GLINDA, THE GOOD witch, keeps benevolent watch over the little company of friends who meet obstacle after obstacle on their way down the yellow brick road.

By ELISE EMERY

When Frank Baum created the Wonderful Land of Oz in 1900, he conjured a magical world that has entranced generations of children and their parents.

The musical version of the beloved "Wizard of Oz" will be produced for the first time in the Harbor Area by Long Beach Civic Light Opera Company, opening Thursday.

Performances will be given in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium nightly at 8:30 through Sunday and again July 18, 19, 20, 21, 23, 24, 25 and 26.

Baum, an American writer of children's books, was born in Chittenango, N. Y., in 1856.

"The Wizard of Oz" was an immediate favorite and only a year after its publication was made into a musical comedy.

BAUM IS CREDITED with being the first to construct a fairyland from purely American materials.

Capitalizing on the enduring charm of the story about Dorothy, the little Kansas farm girl, and her friends as they adventure in Oz, producer Mervyn LeRoy and director Victor Fleming put together a film that is a motion picture classic.

Judy Garland starred and the cast included Bert Lahr, Ray Bolger, Jack Haley, Billie Burke and Frank Morgan.

The songs became tradition—"Over the Rainbow," "Ding Dong, the Witch Is Dead," "If I Only Had a Heart," "We're Off to See the Wizard," and many others.

IN CASTING the modern musical stage production, Civic Light Opera sought types as nearly like the creators of the roles as possible.

Lovely Lois Beane is Dorothy, who, when a cyclone suddenly strikes, is knocked unconscious by a flying window and awakens in Munchkinland in Oz.

She finds herself a heroine because the house in which she arrived has struck and killed a wicked witch.

With new-found friends she starts down the yellow brick road to search out the Wizard of Oz in the Emerald City.

The Tin Woodman (James Short) wants a heart, the Scarecrow (B. J. Ross) wants a brain, the Cowardly Lion (Chuck Nix) wants courage and Dorothy wants to go back to Kansas.

Their venturesome way is hindered by the wicked Witch of the West (Valerie Hobbs) and aided by Glinda, the good witch (Nancy Sawyers.)

The exciting climax comes when they finally reach the Wizard (Phil Poppler).

The magic of the fiction and film versions comes alive on stage with lavish sets, spectacular costumes, dissolving witches and legerdemain.

The most difficult character to cast in the company of 85 was Dorothy's little dog, Toto.

Finally, a rag doll, Gwendolyn, was written into the script to replace him, but Miss Beane determinedly continued the search.

After visiting 25 animal shelters, she found an abandoned black and white puppy, Toto himself, in Compton Dog Pound. Suddenly, he's a star!

WITH THE "Wizard of Oz," planned especially to delight children and grown-ups, Civic Light Opera closes its 15th season.

The entire production is directed and choreographed by Bill Roberts, with Kathy Davis as co-producer and Jack Kroesen as musical director.

Their purpose—to transport audiences, for an evening, over the rainbow to the happy world of make-believe.

Tickets for the trip are on sale at CLO offices, 518 E. Fourth St.

WICKED WITCH casts spells to defeat the Cowardly Lion, Dorothy, Tin Woodman, Scarecrow—and Toto—as they valiantly seek the Wizard of Oz. But when they reach him, more surprises and magic are in store.

Bay Shore Program Thursday

Bay Shore Branch Library, 195 Bay Shore Ave., begins its summer film festival Thursday at 7:30 p.m. with the "Silent World," full-length 16mm color films of underseas adventures. It is narrated by Capt. Jacques-Yves Costeau, one of the inventors of the aqua-lung. Costeau shares honors for direction and underwater photography with Louis Malle.

The voyage of the Calypso and the discoveries made by its crew beneath the Persian Gulf, Red Sea and Indian Ocean, provide a beautiful and scientifically accurate documentary. The film, three years in the making has won many awards.

July Films at Library

"Movies Learn to Talk," one of the Long Beach Public Library's 16mm July circuit films, may touch the oldster with nostalgia and the younger generation with laughter as it traces the development of sound movies beyond the fondly remembered "Jazz Singer" of 1927, back even to the turn of the century. In the film, clumsy sound systems of that era are sharply contrasted with today's sophisticated sound techniques.

• • • •

OTHER FILMS available this month for a small service charge area: "Above the Timberline — The Alpine Tundra," "Atom in the Hospital," "Lincoln" Parts 1 and 2, "Mr. Europe and the Common Market," "Mother Goose Stories," "Nature's Half Acre," "St. Lawrence," "Stars in Stripes," "Talking Hands," and "Tocatta for Toy Trains."

'Patio Pop' Set Tuesday

The patio of Burnett Branch Library, 560 E. Hill St., will be the scene of the season's second free Patio Pop Concert Tuesday at dusk.

"The Ancient World," a feature-length documentary film, is accompanied by music composed especially for it by Memelaos Pallandios. It was photographed in color and produced for the Egyptian government and the Harmon Foundation by Ray Garner.

A comprehensive and beautiful film, "The Ancient World" covers Egyptian arts, architecture and politics from the beginning at Skara to the Pharaohs.

'My Uncle' First

The summer foreign film series at Long Beach State College will open Saturday in the Little Theater with Jacques Tati in "My Uncle."

Exciting Variety in LBAA Juried Show

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The current juried show at Long Beach Art Association's Villa Riviera Gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd., is bright, well-hung and of high quality. Authoritative juror, Lorser Fietelson, selected 67 from the 187 works entered. The prize-winners represent a wide range of styles, point of view and proficiency.

Fran Soldini, awarded best-of-show for "Several Forms," is represented by two other works. The winning work is small, 8 inches by 8 inches, and in delicate harmonies of lavender, brown and blue suggests great depth in a quiet vignette. Her large oil, "Window Imagery," is in quite a different mode with a Dalieseque palette and the feeling of looking toward the sea.

• • • •

DR. EUGENE WALLIN received second best-of-show for "Untitled," a water-color, in which six dancing forms of black and burnt umber cluster toward the center of a large white sheet. These could be men, animals or things, and provoke the imagination. His drawing, "Locomotive," is very exciting.

Though not a prize-winner, Marie Boucher's "The Hybrid" in oil is a beauty and so different from the work she did before her studies abroad as to be rather amazing. This is a Lascaux-type leaping animal of blue and white resist on a terra cotta ground. It is fresh and utterly original.

• • • •

PRIZES FOR FIRST and second were awarded in five categories: oil, watercolor, graphics (which included drawing), mixed media and sculpture. While the last category has only four pieces in it, they are all most attractive. Ralph Tarzian's "Genesis" is a fetal form of brazed sheet metal which in itself suggests the birth process. "Suzanna" is a terra cotta female form by Ina De Can of elegant simplified, compacted, sculptural form.

• • • •

THE STABILE "Ulalume," balances on a pivot. Constructed by R. M. Hetrick, it is of welded wire and paint-impregnated paperboard. An insouciant turtle of wood, hand rubbed, is by Helen Fayler.

Another exciting work is "Valve" by David Denevan, which won the first award in mixed media. The valve is large, done in marigold with black ink resist, alone, in a dark sky. It suggests the strangeness of every-day objects if they are isolated and examined.

While there are many other works of interest in the show, it is impossible to summarize as each work is an individual.

BEAUTY IN THE COMMONPLACE

MICHENER SPONSORED CONTEST

Japanese Print Show at LBMA

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

When James A. Michener decided to write on the art of Japan as seen in the modern print, he and the Charles E. Tuttle Company sponsored a contest open to all Japanese artists.

Michener selected the works of Sempan Maekawa, Sadao Watanabe, Un'ichi Hiratsuka, Yoshitoshi Mori, Masaji Yoshida, Tamami Shima, Haku Maki, Reika Twami, Tomio Kinoshita and Umetaro Azechi for his book.

Twenty-four of the contest entries go on view today at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., in an exhibit, "The Spirit of the Japanese Print." Friends of the Museum will host a public reception from 2 to 4 p.m.

Some of the prints are concerned with traditional Japanese subject matter, others are representational works of landscapes, animals and people, and still others are non-representational.

First shown at the Japan Society quarters in New York, the exhibit is being circulated nationally by the Smithsonian Institution.

Being shown concurrently at the museum are selections from the museum's permanent collection including water colors, graphics, and crafts. Among the artists represented are Eugene Berman, John Manship, D. Phil Morris, Abraham Walkowitz, Edgar Ewing, George James and Richard Ruben.

• • • •

SOME 30 OIL paintings by Jack Kay will be shown at the Veltman Gallery, 5604 E. Second St. through Aug. 7. The show opens with a reception Saturday from 7 to 10 p.m. and may be seen daily, except Sundays, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Kay, 26, is a native Californian who has studied at the Art Center School, Otis Art Institute and for several years in the Netherlands and Southern Germany.

Last year he isolated himself in the Bitterroot wilderness area in Montana, painting and writing a book.

Says he, "I choose to paint familiar objects, places and people, attempting to show the beauty and fascination in commonplace things.

"In combining the lessons of the French impressionists with the concepts of nonobjective expressionism, I try to produce a contemporary but figurative art with strong design and definitive color."

Kay has exhibited in the Los Angeles area, at Long Beach Museum of Art and in several one-man shows. His subjects include oil derricks, construction lines, landscapes, bridges and street scenes.

STANLEY MILLSTEIN has his first California show at Atelier 7 Gallery, 3316 E. Seventh St., where it will hang through July 27. The gallery is open from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. seven days a week.

Millstein was born in New York City in 1924 and has resided in Southern California for three years. He studied at the Art Students League in New York and with the New York portrait artist, David Lax.

LAKEWOOD ART ASSOCIATION will present the third annual open show at Dutch Village shopping center, South Street and Woodruff Avenue, Monday through July 14.

Fran Soldini and Robert McMenomy will serve as judges. Cash awards totaling $395 will be presented to winners.

Artists may register entries Monday between 10 a.m. and 9 p.m. in these categories: Land and seascapes, still life and portraits, abstracts, mixed media, copy, and gallery by popular choice. Judging will take place Wednesday.

MORE THAN 2,700 amateur and professional artists in the Los Angeles area—500 more than last year—have registered for the 11th annual All-City Outdoor Art Festival in Barnsdall Park.

The work will be displayed from Saturday through July 21 in 90,000 square feet of space in the Municipal Gallery and park.

Hawaii Vacation Enchanting

By RACHEL MORTON
I-P-T Music Critic

I have recently returned from a vacation spent in the Hawaiian Islands—a paradise set down in the mid-Pacific, sun-drenched and flower fragrant. So spellbinding was this visit that I am impelled to share with my readers for the next few weeks the wonders I saw and experienced in Hawaii.

We left Los Angeles by jet plane and in five-and-one-half hours we were landed at the beautiful new airport of Honolulu. In true Hawaiian fashion we were greeted with lovely flower leis made of orchids, fragrant tuberoses and plumeria, placed about our necks by a friend, who then drove us to our hotel, The Princess Kaiulani.

• • • •

WHO CAN describe that thrill of wonderment on first beholding Hawaii? Our little balcony looked out over the broad Pacific, gently lapping the white sandy beach of Waikiki in waters of opalescent blue and green. Far out, in the deep purple waters, the intrepid surfboard riders rode the white-crested waves and catamarans with colorful sails plied lazily by, skillfully avoiding the outrigger canoes.

The mountains all about were lush and green and high and impressive. Old Diamond Head, a rugged fellow, stands alone at one end of Honolulu, an enduring rock-guardian of all that is beautiful and serene.

Major and Minor Notes

AFTER FEASTING our eyes on all this incomparable beauty, we freshened up and strolled along the lovely Kalakaua Avenue, the main street of Waikiki where there are fascinating shops and intriguing restaurants. We dined the first night in the famous Polynesian restaurant of Duke Kahanamoku in the quaint International Market, itself a browsing area of all kinds of shops.

The Plantation Steak House on the same premises, charges 50c an ounce for steak, grilled before your eyes (if the tears of extravagance do not bedim them!). At the Pearl City Tavern we dined a la Japanese, some sitting on the floor at little tables. The food was all served in little dishes on a large tray and ranged through sea-weed soup, raw fish, crabmeat in egg roll, to a gelatine-like dessert.

THE WILLOWS Restaurant, although indoors, is built around graceful willow trees, through which a little stream flows. The Salvation Army has a charming restaurant called The Waioli Tea Room set in a lovely garden and the La Ronde Restaurant, high up, revolves slowly around as one dines leisurely and gazes out over all Honolulu. This large and attractive city is the industrial center of the Island of Oahu.

• • • •

HERE ARE the great factories of the pineapple growers and the sweet smell of pineapple from the huge Dole plant permeates the whole city. Sugar cane and fishing are important industries of Honolulu and the city bustles with activity. The largest shopping center in the world has lately been completed here and is called Ala Moana. It is fabulous.

Next week, in this column, I will tell you of our delightful excursions on the Island of Oahu, which is 245 miles in circumference and on which is the city of Honolulu.

Royal Ballet Ends Run Tonight

The Royal Ballet of Britain winds up its Los Angeles engagement tonight at Hollywood Bowl with a performance of Tchaikovsky's "Swan Lake." The ballet will be given in its full four acts.

Principal roles will be danced by Nadia Nerina and David Blair. On both sides of the Atlantic and in Russia, Miss Nerina has been cited for technical virtuosity. Blair's versatility has earned him the title of premier danseur.

Soloists in the cast will include Gerd Larsen, Stanley Holden, Leslie Edwards, Merle Park, Georgina Parkinson and Graham Usher. John Lanchbery will conduct.

Two Off-Broadway Plays to Star Talman

Actor William Talman returns to the Long Beach stage Thursday starring in a double bill, Jean-Paul Sartre's "No Exit" and Noel Coward's "Ways and Means," at the Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave.

Appearing in "No Exit" with Talman, who recently concluded a successful run of "Born Yesterday" at Magnolia Theater, are Adele Wolkow, recently seen in "Sweet Bird of Youth;" Norma Crowley, and Richard Moore just out of "The Devil and Daniel Webster" for Community Playhouse.

• • • •

CAST FOR "Ways and Means," the curtain raiser, includes Barbara Crooker of Community's "Third Best Sport" and Magnolia's "Send Me No Flowers," Doris Parenteau of "Where's Charlie?" and "The Devil and Daniel Webster," Jim Daugherty, Frances Richman, Ruth Forsythe and Jack Lackman.

William Talman

Talman, in addition to appearing in "No Exit" directs the existentialist work which is laid in a room in Hell where three failures are doomed to each other's company.

• • • •

"WAYS AND MEANS," one of the one-acts from Coward's "Tonight at 8:30," is directed by Colin Ford, of England, visiting professor of English Drama at Long Beach State College. It is a sophisticated comedy of high society manners and morals. Kenneth Rugg assists Ford. Sets are designed by J. K. Krause, of the State College art department.

The double bill is scheduled to run Thursdays through Sundays at 8:30 p.m. through Aug. 11.

Singing on Bills at Bowl

Singing will predominate on all first-week programs in Hollywood Bowl, which will open its 1963 season of Symphonies under the Stars Tuesday with a Viennese concert featuring opera prima donna soprano Elisabeth Schwarzkopf.

Roger Wagner will conduct the Philharmonic, his own Chorale and soloists Thursday in a program honoring the 150th anniversary of the birth of opera composer Giuseppe Verdi. Soprano Martina Arroyo, tenor Chris Lachona and baritone Robert McFerrin will sing excerpts from "Otello," "Aida," "Rigoletto," "La Traviata," "Falstaff," and "La Forza Del Destino."

• • • •

TUNES FROM Rodgers and Hammerstein musicals will be played and sung Friday and Saturday nights, under the baton of John Green with soloists Jean Fenn, soprano; Peggy Coburn, contralto; Chris Lachona, tenor; and Richard Fredericks, baritone; and the Roger Wagner Chorale.

INSTANT PLEASURE PACKAGE

Mercury Discovers Oasis

By BILL EMERY

Combine the magic of a valley climate, a South Sea island escape and a new outlook for big driving pleasure and there you have our latest motorlog.

The place—the Wonder Lodge on Highway 99 in Bakersfield. The car — a showroom-fresh Mercury Monterey custom two-door hardtop from Marshall Duffield's "grand opening" Continental-Mercury-Comet agency at 1940 Lakewood Boulevard at the traffic circle.

This Merc has a new brand of beauty and driving pleasure with its slant rear window that operates electrically. And it's functional as well. Drop the window all or part way and you have an instant breezeway to whisk out smoke and in fresh air. Rain won't splash or fall in and passengers in the rear have more protection from the sun with better vision.

But this is the only the beginning of this car's pleasure package. The new push-button AM-FM 10-transistor radio puts two worlds of entertainment at your fingertips. Traveling along the newly-competed San Diego freeway, a non-stop express from Long Beach connecting with the Golden State freeway near San Fernando, FM radio performed like a living-room console.

In the mountains the AM set was much more practical. Inland where the temperatures began to rise to 80 and 85, we put the Merc's air conditioning to work. In seconds cold air flooded the car under the high-speed third setting. It wasn't long before we turned it down to second and eventually to one, which is the slowest speed.

This custom two-door sedan was equipped with full power including a 6-way seat for an added touch of quality and luxury.

* * * *

Exotic Polynesian and American dishes are served in the authentically South Sea Island atmosphere. Art treasures from the Islands decorate the rooms, and even the waiters are imported.

An outrigger canoe of gigantic proportions is wheeled out to the pool from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. evenings to serve cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. From 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. the canoe is used as a chuck wagon in the Tahitian room.

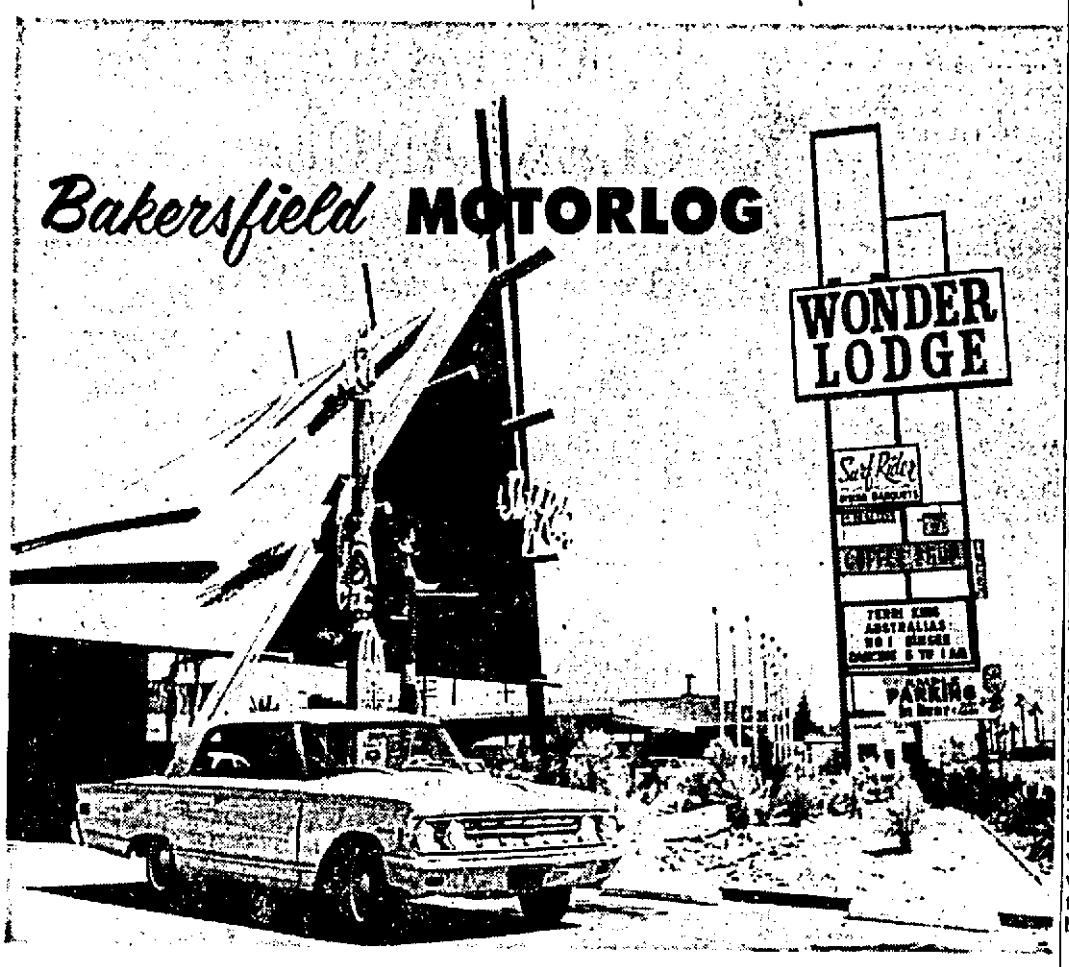

A new feature in the Tahitian room is Bakersfield's first and only charcoal broiler. Next to it, set in lava rock and glassed in, is a rotisserie large enough to make two turkeys look like two chickens in a family-sized unit.

A new feature out by the pool is a redwood Sauna steam room which produces a dry heat (7 per cent humidity.

Guest accommodations include attractive bedrooms or studio rooms all with enclosed private patios, free TV and direct dial telphone service. Rates were from $10 to $14. All in all, it seemed to be a lot of comfort, hospitality and atmosphere for the money.

Heading back to Long Beach straight in on 99 to pick up the San Diego freeway, we decided to hit the freeway at the peak traffic hour, just before 5 p.m. Apparently, few motorists are aware that this freeway is now completely open all the way to Long Beach as we were able to make this leg of the tour in less than one hour.

The Mercury Monterey performed excellently. We recommend you get acquainted with one during Marshall Duffield's kick-off in his new location.

George Has Eight Million Cameramen

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

George Fenneman has eight million cameramen working with him in producing his new television show.

The show is "Funny Funny Films" and it makes its weekly debut 8:30 p. m. Monday on channel 7.

The cameramen are you and you and you and several million others just like you.

Just like you in at least one aspect—you're all home-movie buffs.

Buffs to the extent that you love to take you're own home movies although you may not be quite so enthusiastic about watching others.

Fenneman expects to increase your enthusiasm about others.

HIS NEW program consists entirely of home movies.

Will sophisticated televiewers, used to the acme of professional drama and acting, go for amateurish home movies?

You bet your life they will, according to Fenneman.

"These movies are people," he said. "They're great. They're funny.

"We've shown them to audiences and the reception has been most gratifying," said Fenneman.

The "most gratifying" reception included an emphasis on laughs.

"We won't have a laugh track," said Fenneman. "If the live audience doesn't laugh, it's not going to be any funnier to the viewers at home by adding a laugh track."

FENNEMAN, who came into TV prominence as an announcer for Groucho Marx, will host the production.

The hosting duties will include ribbing the maker of the home movie.

"It's a softer kind of humor than Groucho," said Fenneman. "We're not going to hurt anybody's feelings."

Then, lest he hurt Groucho's feelings, he explained: "The Groucho thing gave me an image with the public.

"I was the underdog, a nice young man whom the other fellow was taking advantage of.

"I knew it was a joke—after the first year or so."

THE "GROUCHO THING" is still paying off with re-run checks for Fenneman. And the re-run checks are what put him in the position of producing the upcoming series.

"As a matter of fact," said Fenneman, "Groucho and I not so long ago did a week of 'Tonight' show together.

"It was just as terrifying as ever."

So far, there haven't been any really "terrifying" home movies. Although there's one which Hy Freedman, writer and show co-owner, and Fenneman are doubtful they'll use.

A woman made a home movie about the fable of the country and the city mouse.

"The trouble is," said Fenneman, "that she used the rats in her own home."

ONE HOME MOVIE which will be used was made by a 12-year-old boy.

The youngster got together 12 other children, then wrote, produced and directed "The Lost Battalion." The 27-minute home movie has been cut to five minutes for airing on "Funny Funny Films."

Another home movie buff specialized in taking pictures of walking girls—good-looking girls.

But he was diverted from his specialty long enough to accompany his wife on her first water-skiing expedition.

His films show his wife taking off, falling off and bobbing helplessly in the water.

Then the scene suddenly shifts.

Several good-looking girls walked down the beach and the man behind the camera went back to his specialty.

HOWEVER, Fenneman reassured, the man's wife didn't drown while her husband was focusing elsewhere. Someone else pulled her to safety.

There's a 10-second shot showing two youngsters with shoe-shine kits. They're busy polishing the refrigerator.

For every sequence used on the program—even the 10-second ones—there are 200 home movies screened by Fenneman's editors.

"I don't look at all of the 200," said Fenneman. "Believe me, that's why it's nice to be an owner."

But he's an owner with sympathy for the 199 home movie makers whose product won't hit the TV screen.

"You see," said Fenneman, "I would almost rather be a photographer than anything else."

SPECIAL

ISSUES & ANSWERS—Newly-appointed FCC chairman E. Willam Henry is questioned on various phases of the broadcasting industry at 2:30 p.m., ch. 7. Henry tells his ideas of his position, ratings, option time, political coverage, Madison Ave.

REHEARSAL FOR A TOUR—The California Youth Symphony, under baton of Aaron Sten, prepares for its 30-day, 10-city summer tour of Japan. The 100 students, aged 11 to 18, are seen at 3:30 p.m., ch. 7, in a San Francisco-produced special.

SHOW OF WEEK—Original drama, taped in London, stars Jack Hawkins, Pamela Brown and Nigel Davenport, at 10 p.m., ch. 4. When a brilliant politician is repeatedly passed over for a deserved ministerial post, his wife feels sure it is because there is some bleak incident in his past which no one will explain.

CLOSE-UP!—Simon Gutter, former inmate of several Nazi concentration camps, revisits Europe in 1961, more than 15 years after his escape from Buchenwald, and retraces his steps through Holland, West and East Germany and Poland. The repeat news special is at 10:30 p.m., ch. 7.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE—Premiere. KTTV's new owner, Metromedia, debuts its own 2-hour discussion series at 10:30 p.m., ch. 11, as pink slips go to the more controversial "Open End," along with Tom Duggan and the Saturday Dan Smoot outings. Archibald MacLeish, John Dos Passos, Sen. Eugene McCarthy and Elmo Roper are among the participants in the opener, which in various segments explores "the American mind and mood."

SPECIAL

YOUR FUNNY, FUNNY FILMS — Premiere. Amateur home movie enthusiasts explain their films, for fun and for prizes, as George Fenneman hosts a new weekly series at 8:30 p.m., ch. 7. Opener shows boys learning to skate, a World War II epic with 12-year-olds and a 40-year-old 9½ mm. film, followed by a regular "short shorts" segment of humorous gems too brief to classify.

TELEVISION MOVIE TIPS

SUNDAY

TUNES OF GLORY—8:30 p.m., in color, ch. 7. Alec Guinness, John Mills (British-1960). Tough, hard-drinking commander of Highland Regiment is replaced by disciplinarian. Mills received best actor award at Venice Film Festival for his role.

BEAU GESTE—11:15 p.m., ch. 2. Gary Cooper, Ray Milland, Brian Donlevy (1939). Exciting tale of the Foreign Legion, an all-time classic.

ETHEL BARRYMORE co-stars with Maurice Evans in the 1951 movie "Kind Lady" at 8 p. m. Friday, channel 11. It's about a suave murderer.

MONDAY

THE BROWNING VERSION — 2:10 p.m., ch. 5. Michael Redgrave, Jean Kent, Nigel Patrick (British-1951). Stuffy professor learns of his wife's affair with another teacher as he prepares to leave for a new post. Brilliant performance by Redgrave.

BOY ON A DOLPHIN—7:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Sophia Loren, Alan Ladd, Clifton Webb. Discovery of centuries-old statue on sunken galleon sets archaeologist against greedy millionaire. Filmed in Greece.

I WAS MONTY'S DOUBLE—10:30 p.m., ch. 9. John Mills, Cecil Parker (British-1959). Well done war drama about a great plot involving an actor impersonating a General to confuse the Germans in African campaign.

THURSDAY

STORMY WEATHER — 11:30 p.m., ch. 2. Lena Horne, Cab Calloway, Fats Waller, Bill Robinson (1943). First run. All-Negro musical, with typical plotline but excellent musical performances.

FRIDAY

CORNERED — 10:30 p.m., ch. 9. Dick Powell, Walter Slezak, Michleine Cheirel (1945). Fast-moving melodrama of airman who goes seeking those responsible for the death of his French wife during the war.

GLASS KEY — 11:30 p.m., ch. 2. Alan Ladd, Brian Donlevy, Veronica Lake (1942). Henchman sets out to clear politician wrongly accused of murder.

SATURDAY

THE SUN ALSO RISES — 9 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Tyrone Power, Ava Gardner, Errol Flynn, Mel Ferrer, Eddie Albert (1957). Ernest Hemingway's poignant story of the "lost generation" of Americans in Europe after World War I.

SERGEANT YORK—11:45 p.m., ch. 13. Gary Cooper, Walter Brennan (1941). Tennessee hillbilly becomes the greatest hero of World War I as he single-handedly captures over a hundred Germans.

Sports Today

ALL-STAR BASEBALL, 9:45 a.m., in color, ch. 4, has Vin Scully and Joe Garagiola at Cleveland Stadium for the 34th annual NL-AL classic (and only one this year). Al Dark (NL) and Ralph Houk (AL) are managers, with the Dodgers' Tommy Davis and Angels' Leon Wagner and Albie Pearson among the starting players.

ROLLER SKATING championships, 8:30 p.m., ch. 5, with Elmer Anderson filling in for Dick Lane at the Olympic.

SPECIAL

HOT SPOTS '63 — Hour-long news special of world crisis areas is repeated at 8 p.m., ch. 13, with special film segments in color. Harold Fishman and Gunther Less are commentators, with highlights including commando raid by anti-Castro guerillas and films of the tension at the Brandenberg Gate.

REPORT FROM . . . — Premiere. Tokyo is the first of 11 leading cities to receive a close-up visit this summer, each explored by the NBC newsman assigned to that area, and sampling the thoughts and actions of its people. Opener, at 10:30 p.m., ch. 4, finds John Rich viewing Tokyo's preparations for the 1964 Olympics, and following the Western-type activities of Japanese teenagers.

FOCUS ON AMERICA — Third season premiere. Don Goddard is host for the first network showing of outstanding documentaries produced by ABC affiliate stations, at 10:30 p.m., ch. 7. Detroit-filmed opener documents the emergency treatment of a seriously injured auto accident victim. All hospital personnel and surgeons are actual members of the receiving hospital staff.

SPECIAL

TOWN MEETING of the World—One of America's oldest institutions, the town meeting, is introduced to Europe as a brain child of CBS president Frank Stanton and used to mark the first Telstar anniversary. By "hot switching" of transatlantic facilities via Telstar II, leading world figures in Denver, London, Brussels and Cologne will question each other on the Common Market, NATO, multilateral nuclear forces, German unity and the prospects for a test-ban treaty. Walter Cronkite will be anchor man for the historic global roundtable, in which Dwight D. Eisenhower, Sir Anthony Eden, father of the Common Market Jean Monnet and former West German foreign minister Heinrich von Brentano will participate, seen on ch. 2 from 11:25 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and rebroadcast at 7:30 p.m.

WILLBANKS...Sells Quality Carpet for Less!

JULY Clearance Sale

THE WILLBANKS STORY:

The Willbanks Carpet Co. is a departure from the usual carpet specialty shop. It was founded on the premise that quality carpet, backed by expert installation, could be sold at a minimum mark-up in sufficient volume to be profitable. The extension of this premise was to operate without frills and costly fixtures from a low rent and thus low overhead location in a factory warehouse on a side street in Signal Hill. By eliminating high rent and other cost-raising features, the company decided it could afford to pass on to its customers the substantial savings by giving more carpet at less cost.

100% HERCULON PILE

It's Here! The First New Carpet of Herculon—Polypropylene

Continuous filament fiber made by Hercules Powder Co.—one of the strongest man-made fibers known today—fashioned into beautiful broadloom that is amazingly soil resistant and easy to clean . . . absorbs less moisture than any other fiber . . . lovely colors are locked in. Will never fade, never change. Rugged, durable and strong . . . takes years of hardest wear.

OUR COVER

It's the season of the campers, and up and down the coastal playgrounds, and far back into the camp sites of the hinterlands, families of happy tenters will be camping tonight—and for many nights all through the summer. Camping out is "the top" for its devotees, a delightful way to commune with nature—to get the "feel" of the great outdoors. For those looking for a big rest, camping is a way to relax. For those looking for scenery, hiking, riding, swimming and fishing, there's a camp site right where all these activities take place. You name it and there's a camp ground somewhere, not too far away, that has it. To help Southland's readers with camping plans there's an interesting roundup article about this favorite activity today on Page 7.

NEXT WEEK

"Fishy, fishy . . . look so good; Papa carved him out of wood!" That parody of the old nursery rhyme fits the hobby of W. S. (Bill) Keith of Long Beach to a "T." In fact, Keith has a whole aquarium of wooden fish that he has carved, painted and set into an underwater scene. Keith is a fisherman, too, and another fisherman, Donnell Culpepper, Southland's outdoor editor, describes his hobby of fish carving next week in Southland Magazine.

Exclusive Anthony Equipment

Anthony is the exclusive manufacturer of many pool accessories that you may want to add to your "Flipper" pool. The Anthony Automatic 290 Heater, Hydra-Sweep Automatic Pool Cleaner, clock controlled to clean any time night or day, and Antho-Pure the new Automatic Purifier that dispenses daily. Keeps pool constantly pure, ready for a swim.

USE GUARDEX® AUTOMATICALLY

So dependable is the pool maintenance protection provided by GUARDEX® Dry Chlorine Concentrate that it is the only product recommended for use in the new Antho-Pure Automatic Purifier. The new Anthony Automatic Purifier will hold an average six months' supply of GUARDEX.

GUARDEX, the effective modern method of pool chlorination, is available at leading pool supply dealers everywhere. GUARDEX reduces eye irritation so effectively that most users mention this advantage. Bleaching and color fading of swimwear is noticeably less when GUARDEX is used rather than liquid chlorine.

Ask your pool supply dealer about the many additional advantages of a GUARDEX Pool Maintenance Program for your swimming pool.

Bells from Shells

Swinging from a bit of driftwood, seashell bells are unique when hung in patio breeze.

By Edna Ward Hicks

FOR AN interesting pastime, try making a set of shell wind bells.

You'll need shells, a few yards of string (but nylon monofilament 10-pound test fishing line is better, it is strong, durable and almost invisible), an 8 or 12-inch stick, bamboo slip or skewer, an awl or ice pick if you don't have an electric drill. The awl or ice pick can be sharpened to a needle point, by rubbing it briskly on a sidewalk.

On a flat wooden surface stand a scallop shell on end and drill with a slight pressure a pinpoint hole in the cup end.

Cut each string about 25 inches along so you won't be crowded when tying knots.

START BY TYING a volcano shell on the end of each string, then place four large scallop shells at intervals (see photo). You can drill holes in the stick support or notch them every inch or two inches apart, so the strings won't slip and spread apart in the wind.

Tie each strand of shells to the stick. When finished clip the loose ends of the strings and you're ready to swing the wind bells.

They will give an interesting crisp cling clang sound in the breeze.

TIPS FOR CARPET CARE:

To control Moth and Carpet Beetles check to see if your carpet is labeled Moth-proofed. If not, cleanliness is one of the best defenses against insect damage. Employ regular vacuuming and use a professional rug cleaner's service at least once a year. This will insure you against Moths and Carpet Beetles.

Food stains and other fatty or greasy substances should be removed as soon as seen; by using a good dry cleaner followed by a mild detergent solution. Never over wet. Under no circumstances roll up a rug and place it in an attic or cellar — without first having it cleaned and possibly moth-proofed by your professional rug and upholstery cleaner.

Season of the Campers

By Harry Karns

Carpinteria Beach State Park is small but well equipped seaside site, popular for fishing and surfing. A number of coastal camps are maintained by the state for vacationers who wish to get away from the busy and noisy pace of life in the cities.

ON THE BEACH at San Clemente the kids build sand-castles just beyond the reaching fingers of the surf while Mom and Dad lie baking in glorious serenity under a clear blue sky. Beside a giant redwood in Yosemite a family sits at a camp table in the cool of evening, eating supper and dreamily watching the Merced River riffle over the rocks. Nature has called the city-bred back to the outdoors, and they have answered.

Tiring of the smog, the traffic stink and noise, the eight-to-five regularity of their lives, thousands of California families answer that call about this time of year, packing tents and kids and hitting out for the beaches and the mountains. It's the season of the campers.

And no one anywhere has a greater variety of camping facilities within easy driving distance than the Southern Californian. If he so desired, he could break camp at a desert state part in the morning, pitch his tent at noon in the mountains, and bed down that night on a Pacific beach.

CALIFORNIA has approximately 25,000 camp sites. Thousands of these sites are in or near the Los Angeles Basin, and many of them are not far away in two magnificent national parks, Sequoia and Yosemite.

The fame of the national parks tends to overshadow the state parks, but some of the finest scenery and recreational activities and 5,300 of the campsites are located in the California State Park system.

The state-built camp sites are noted for their spaciousness. Families have indicated through the years that they don't want crowded sites but would rather wait a day or two for a site where a degree of privacy exists. California camp sites are built with that in mind. The standard California State Park camp site has a parking place, a level spot for pitching a tent, a table with benches to seat six to eight persons, a food locker, and usually a cooking stove. Nearby are water faucets and rest rooms; in most parks showers and laundry facilities are also available. Some of the beach parks have fire rings on the sand of the beach itself.

IN ORDER that more families may enjoy them, the parks impose camping limits. These limits are from seven to 30 days, depending on park and season. The fee per car with or without trailer for camping overnight in all state parks with established camp sites is $1.

(This applies to state park units operated by the Division of Beaches and Parks. Some local agencies operate beach state parks, and charges and fees in these are established by the agencies under an operating agreement with the state, but they are in all cases quite reasonable.)

Families which usually spend their vacations driving cross-country to visit relatives, staying in motels along the way, greet the idea of a camping vacation with two big questions: "What do you do with all that time?" and "Doesn't the equipment cost a lot of money, and isn't it complicated to operate?"

There's plenty of variety in the state parks, too. This scene at Pismo Beach is an example of the change of pace from mountains to the coast.

Taking the second question first, the equipment costs but a fraction of the motel bill for a two-week car trip. Tents used to be complicated, bulky affairs, but today a light-weight tent big enough to sleep a family of six can be lifted easily and erected by one person. It is reasonable in price, as are camp stove, lantern, and cooking kit. Add one sleeping bag per person, with perhaps an air mattress each for Mom and Dad, and you're ready to go. If all this equipment takes up too much space in the trunk or the back of the station wagon, a light-weight luggage rack to fit on your car top can be purchased or rented cheaply.

AS FOR THE USE of time, don't worry. There's plenty of camp fire wood to be hauled and food to be cooked. In the mountains, you go exploring, find hidden, quiet places, watch the animals. At the beach you fish, surf, hunt for shells. Mainly, though, you do nothing—a very constructive occupation for a vacationer; one which may make you nervous at first, but which you will adapt to if your try.

More and more families are trying it each year and finding in the cool mountain woods and the sun-bathed

Scenic mountain parks such as Palomar, where this family is finding relaxation, add variety to vacationing. Palomar also offers hiking, horseback riding, camp fire programs and fishing for those looking for more active ways of changing the tempo.

Wayne Dailard, executive director of the International Beauty Pageant, explains the new stage setting for the 1963 contest. A long career in show business and in presenting spectaculars lies behind Dailard as he tales over here.

Wayne Dailard
. . . impressario

The Man Behind the IBC

By Bob Sanders

WAYNE DAILARD, the impeccable impressario of the International Beauty Pageant, is a man of many parts.

One of the top showmen of the country, he has launched into a brand new career this year as executive director of the IBC Spectacular, coming Aug. 8-18 to Long Beach. Behind him is a mounting progression of successful careers in the theater. Dailard, whose distinguished appearance of 59 lends an air of cosmopolitan elegance to this year's pageant even as he is putting it together in its new shape, began his professional life as a musician.

Way back in 1920, fresh off his father's Nebraska cattle ranch, young Dailard landed a spot playing saxophone with the old Ted Lewis aggregation. He was 16.

A SCANT four years later he gave up the saxophone to become a publicity director (they were known as press agents in those days) with the Orpheum Theater chain. At 27 he was the youngest division manager in the organization.

From there it was just a short jump into producing and directing light opera and stock company dramatic productions. Referring to this period of his life, Dailard drops vintage names that sound like a roster of the show business era.

"I worked with most of the famous ones," he says. "I directed May Robson in the old favorite, 'Mother's Millions,' Estelle Taylor, who later married Jack Dempsey, in 'Street Scene' and I don't remember who in 'Front Page.'

"I ALSO TOOK Lionel, John and Ethel Barrymore on the first vaudeville tour they ever made."

A long-time Southern California resident, Dailard came here with Fox West Coast in 1933 but left two years later to become managing director of the California Pacific International Exposition—otherwise known as the World's Fair—in San Diego in 1935 and 1936.

Juggling 65 different productions, including drama, light opera, symphonies, spectaculars, California's first outdoor ice show and a review starring Sally (the fan) Rand of Chicago World Fair fame, gave him his first experience with the "many shows in one" concept.

After a short stint packaging productions of various expositions around the world, Dailard began booking big name bands, such as the Dorseys, Guy Lombardo, Glen Miller, Kay Kaiser and Artie Shaw, around the country. When the big band wagon slowed down Dailard went into what he now calls "semi retirement."

EXCEPT FOR OCCASIONAL efforts, like Santa Barbara's Old Spanish Days, Dailard concentrated on one of the great loves of his life—polo. From 1946 through 1950, when he quit playing, the slim, muscular showman advanced from a two-goal player to a four-goal man and was described by the polo magazine, "Tanbark and Turf," as the "best mounted man on the West Coast." He is still extremely proud of the string of polo ponies he got together at that time.

In 1950, he came out of "semi retirement" to produce—with Meredith Wilson and the late Lionel Barrymore, both of whom were close personal friends—"The California Story," commemorating this state's 100th anniversary. First produced in Hollywood Bowl, the gigantic pageant of history proved so popular that Dailard took it to San Diego where it played to nearly a million people in 1956, 1957 and 1958.

Combining pageantry, ballet, opera, symphony and drama into a sweeping historical story line, Dailard put together a new format of entertainment.

CAPITALIZING on this success, Dailard has since produced the Oregon Story to celebrate that state's 100th year in 1959 and the Kansas Story which drew 60 per cent of that state's 2,178,611 population in 1960-61.

Utilizing the experience he picked up with this form, the is determined that this year's International Beauty Pageant spectacular will change the entire concept of beauty contest from here on.

The greying Dailard, whose quiet manner belies a restless energy, dresses conservatively, thinks in big terms but is not given to snap decisions.

His ability to capitalize on a good thing was illustrated in 1936 when he offered fight promoter Mike Jacobs $1 million to bring the first Joe Louis-Max Schmeling fight to the San Diego exposition.

WHEN THE DEAL fell through because of legal entanglements and Dailard was accused of pulling a publicity gimmick, he promptly produced a certified check for $500,000 he had intended to put up as a down payment.

This quelled the rumors—and the exposition already had the publicity.

"The day of pretty girls in beauty contests parading around a stage like so many cows at the county fair is over," he predicts. "When I get finished with this pageant, every other beauty contest in the universe, or at least the world, will have to make some drastic changes or go out of business."

And if past performances are any criteria this is what may happen.

Wrong-Way Flight Right Way to Fame

"Wrong Way" Corrigan is shown here in test pilot work after famed flight.

Doug Corrigan: 25 Years Later

By Ev Hosking

Corrigan had other than flying talent; turned to successful orange production.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago Monday, a rickety, $900, 10-year-old monoplane took off from Long Beach Municipal Airport.

And as the ancient crate soared into the eastern sky, so lifted the spirits of a depression-weary America.

The people were about to have a new hero—the original backward boy.

Tugging at the controls of the old plane was a chunky, cocky Irishman who 10 days and one gas stop later was to land in Ireland "by mistake."

Douglas (Wrong Way) Corrigan gave the country a new kind of idol. One wearing a battered leather jacket and a boyish smile. And one who carried his total wealth in his pocket, $69.

BANNED BY AVIATION officials from over-water flying in the vintage plane, Corrigan blithely navigated his way to fame with little or no trouble.

Blaming compass error, he blandly told the authorities he hadn't intended to make the Atlantic crossing to Ireland—that he had really meant to fly west to Long Beach again, saying "my compass froze . . . instead of flying the right heading I went the opposite way . . .

"I knew I wasn't in Long Beach when I dropped out of the overcast over Dublin," he continued. "The place was greener and some of the houses had hay roofs."

The flying Irishman's plane took 23 hours and 13 minutes to make the 3,150-mile flight to Ireland. The old Robin's top speed was somewhat less than the landing speed of the modern jet airliners that today span the Atlantic.

TEXAS-BORN Corrigan was one of the few who barnstormed his way through the depression years in a series of rickety planes, most of which were held together with baling wire.

In 1927, Corrigan was working as a mechanic in a San Diego aircraft plant helping to tune up a Ryan monoplane that belonged to a lanky pilot who was later to become Corrigan's idol.

A few weeks later that plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis" flew non-stop from New York to Paris. At the controls was the lanky pilot—Charles A. Lindberg.

Corrigan likes to recall that his Curtiss Robin plane was smaller and had less horsepower than "The Spirit of St. Louis."

He also points out that his only instruments were a dollar wrist watch (which stopped) and the famous "wrong way compass."

THE PINT-SIZED Lindberg's adventures began shortly before noon on Friday, July 8, 1938. Schneider Air Service filled the Robinson's oversized gas tanks with 252 gallons of gasoline and 18 gallons of oil and Corrigan was off on a non-stop flight to New York. He made the trip in little less than 27 hours.

A few days later, at dawn, Corrigan eased his plane out of New York's Floyd Bennett Airport virtually unseen except for the airport manager and attendants.

Later, in explaining how he flew a westerly course and arrived in Ireland, Corrigan had this to say:

"There had been a haze near the ground, and when I was 500 feet high there was fog below the plane, and when I started to turn west I noticed the top compass was not working right, due to the liquid having leaked out. I had seen that in the dark the night before. There was another compass down on the floor that I had set to fly a westerly course, so now I turned the plane until the parallel lines matched, and flew over the fog."

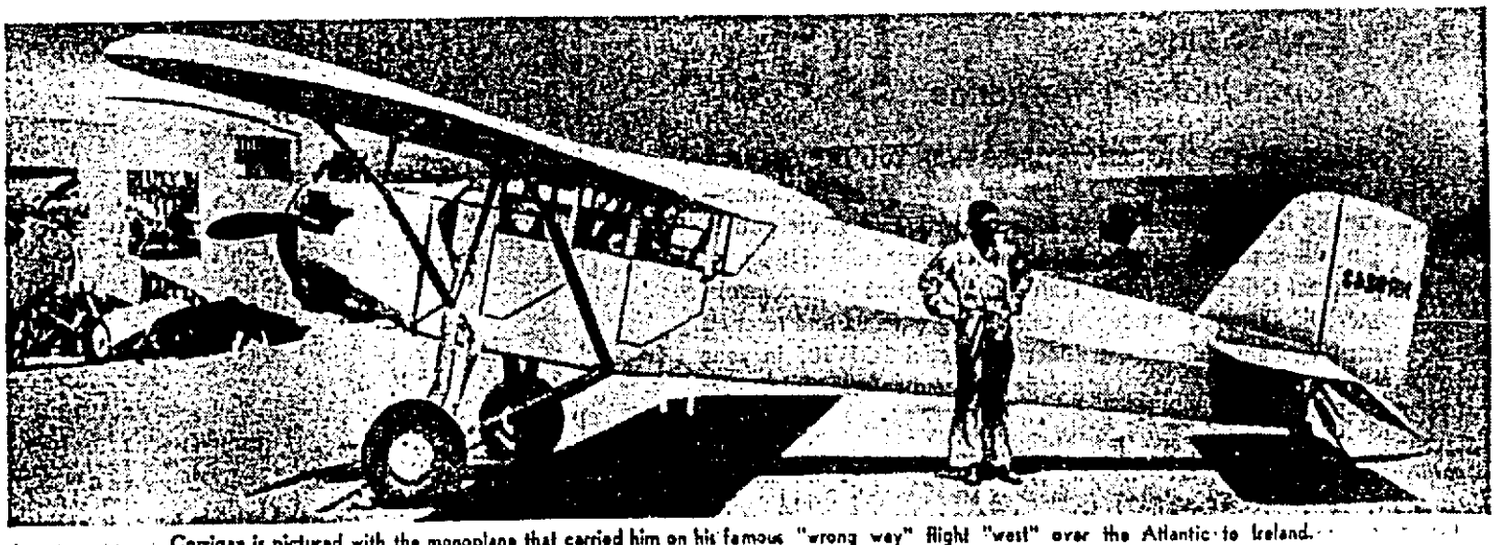

CORRIGAN would flash his famous grin and amplify his tale a little.

He would point out that after being out 20 hours he found it strange to be flying over water since he didn't figure he had yet reached the Pacific Ocean.

"I looked down at the compass, and now that there was more light I noticed that I had been following the wrong end of the magnetic needle on the whole flight. As the opposite of west is east, I realized I was over the Atlantic Ocean somewhere. . . I flew on straight ahead, hoping to strike land some place if the gas held out long enough."

A frustrated Civil Aeronautics Board, not knowing what to do about the smiling Irishman who apparently had a plausible excuse for flaunting the law and who had now become a national hero, punished him by restricting him from flying for

Hawaii Guide

The 50th state—dreamed about by those who have never been there and a haunting memory to those who have—is constantly changing. That is, you're liable to find a glamorous hotel on the site of a lagoon you admired a couple of years ago because it was so beautifully secluded.

This ever-changing land is brought up-to-date for prospective travelers in "Bob Krauss' Travel Guide to the Hawaiian Islands" (Coward-McCann, $5.95). Author Krauss, a talented columnist for the Honolulu Advertiser, not only gives the lowdown on hotels, food, fun and frolic and the 1963 price tag; he also gives the latest information on tours, festivals, sports, shopping and all the other island attractions visitors will want to know about. And he tells it all interestingly.

Your aloha will be a happy one with this guide.

Rhythmic curves of three gracefully trimmed palm fonds emerge from a bit of yucca. Bird adds interest to base.

With a Touch of Palm

By Edna Ward Hicks

THE palm tree is one of the West's most plentiful trees with enough fronds for all who seek the beauty in nature's graceful formed sprays.

When trimmed, the fronds give a touch of elegant beauty to a mantle, table or wall ornament.

The tips can be left long and exaggerated, trimmed symmetrically, tapered to form a crescent, or snipped close and stocky with abbreviated spires. When the dried branches are difficult to bend, just soak them in cold water for several hours. When they are flexible tie them with a strong string, then let them dry thoroughly. One who isn't fortunate enough to "cut" a palm frond can purchase them at stores specializing in dried flowers and foliage. The accompanying photos show three ways to experiment with a single palm frond.

Photos by the Author

Crescent-shaped palm fronds produce frames to outline figurines, providing attractive arched embellishment.

Dr. Strangelove and the H-Bomb

Co-stars George C. Scott as an Air Force general and Peter Sellers as the president do some heavy thinking in Stanley Kubrick's comedy of a world H-bomb crisis.

"LOLITA" has just about finished that lollipop in most theaters around the world. Did they know how good they had it—those unsung stalwarts of the motion picture industry who stand on high ladders in wee hours playing scrabble or marquees?

Stanley Kubrick, the man who gave them six letters to arrange for his last film, is about to hand them 51.

Kubrick is busily completing a film in London called "Dr. Strangelove or: How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb"—with Peter Sellers (in four roles), George C. Scott, Sterling Hayden and Keenan Wynn.

Strangely enough, the outsize title is probably the least strange thing about "Dr. Strangelove, etc."

COLUMBIA Pictures won't be releasing the film till October, but the word is already around London that it could be the most original and controversial American movie since "Citizen Kane."

Item: The story deals with the terrifying possibility of nuclear annihilation by accident.

Item: It is a comedy.

A preposterous, irresponsible mixture? Producer-director-writer Kubrick doesn't think so. In fact he thinks quite the opposite.

"Most strategists agree," says Kubrick, "that the chance of nuclear war by accident, miscalculation or madness is infinitely greater than the possibility of the bomb being dropped deliberately by either side. Now this is an absurd situation. It's presumed that if something goes wrong people will act coolly and rationally to correct it in time. It seems to me that the fallacy of a lot of the thinking in this field is the assumption that emergency steps will run smoothly, that the safety valves will work in an actual crisis the way they do on paper. Realistically, we're confronted almost daily with bizarre happenings—the wrong patient is operated on in a hospital; a postage stamp is printed upside down; a U. S. airman goes berserk right here in England and tries to set off an H-bomb (the base psychiatrist had been treating the man but hadn't been able to find out his job because it was so classified).

"WHAT THE FILM does is exaggerate the possibilities of foul-ups and dramatize the potential absurdities. That's why I call it a 'nightmare

Best of Class

Just what, precisely, does this mean?

In dogs the answer is quite obvious. In organs, something very different, to be sure. Hammond consistently breeds "best of class" instruments, from our $495. F-100 to our magnificent $3895. concert organ.

Take our Concert Organ, for instance. It is unparalled, surely "best of class". You can pay more . . . but you will not find its equal in tremendous tonal resources, its simplified means for producing an unbelieivable variety of sounds and tones. And all Hammond Organs are unique in their dependability: Hammonds can never get out of tune nor change pitch, never are affected by changes in temperature or humidity, almost never require service.

If you're organ-minded, be sure to see the Hammond Organ. And you can see all the Hammond Organs only at the Hammond Organ Studios of Long Beach.

A BEAUTY SECRET

ACTS LIKE A MOLECULAR SPONGE

Modern skin specialists know that "skin scraping" —removing the lifeless outer cell layer—enables the living cells beneath to produce 4 or 5 times the growth of new skin. They use a surgical treatment, which though effective, is expensive and not exactly pleasant, but listen!

Instead! Wouldn't you like to find a completely natural method of lifting the lifeless cells from the hair and scalp . . . a method so safe that it involves little more than plain water . . . a method so inexpensive it costs less than 5c a treatment . . . a method time-proved by hundreds of years of use by men and women the world over?

This method lifts cell-clogging debris from hands, face, hair, the entire body, leaves Nature's system free to grow, "breathe" again. The most delicate skin, no problem!

Use for one week. Tell no one! Then, if your friends aren't asking about your New Look, tell us and we will gladly refund your money!

It costs only $3.00 for a full gallon, which you make in your own home from ingredients we supply. Dozens of uses, complete instructions. Expect something unusual, a conversation piece! Do not miss this opportunity. Made only by Albert E. Holland Company, Dept. MB, Box 2281, Gardena, Calif.

Despite exterior appearances, the home of the Charles Treffry family is surprisingly roomy. Above, living room.

Here's "after" view of Treffry home . . .

. . . and this is "before."

House With an Inside Story

By Stella George

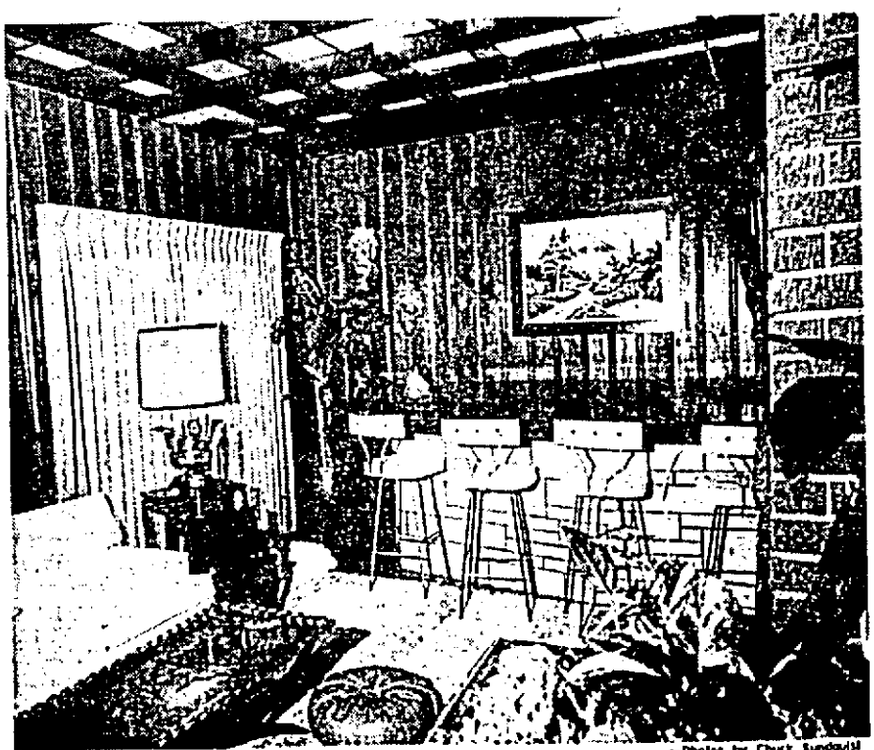

THERE'S more to the home of the Charles Treffry family, 109 Park Ave., than meets the eye — an inside story, and it's a tale of unsuspected roominess. Location, too, is part of the story, since the dwelling is near the recreational advantages of beach and sea. And since the family consists of father, mother, grandmother, seven children of 3 to 19 range of ages, and assorted pets, that play area is important.

The house is deceiving from the exterior insofar as the size of the interior is concerned. Few passersby notice that there is a second story at the rear. Too, since most homes in the Belmont Shore area are small (apartment and duplex dwellings excepted), it is natural to assume that this one is also on the petite side. This being the case, a visit to the Treffry home provides surprises in its capacity.

The front door opens into an entrance hall with a filigree divider directly in front and access to the living room at the left. Here a sense of spaciousness is created. The room is about 20 feet long and 16 feet wide. At the far end the wall is entirely covered with a mirror which seems to double the entire area. Furnishings include a curved, off-white couch facing a grand piano in the corner; twin green-blue chairs at one side; a purple velvet occasional chair; a coffee table in front of a large picture window. Another surprise: a table that was made by Mr. Treffry from a brass plaque, glass covered and with inexpensive table legs obtained at an outlet store. Carpeting is off-white.

THE DINING room is formal and graceful, furnished with an extension gold-leaf dining table for large dinner parties. Choice silver pieces adorn the buffet, including out-size candleholders. The gold theme is carried out in the wallpaper.

The kitchen is small, but well designed for the ever constant use which it receives. An island bar seats the entire family for quick meals, and serves as a work area for the chef.

A long hall leads from the kitchen to the rear of the home. The first bedroom on the left is designed for two girls. Lavender spreads complement the blue-green-lavender curtains. The suite is complete with an adjoining bath.

The first room on the right on the hall is a small bathroom with an indirectly lighted ceiling.

The bedroom at the far end is designed for two. Color accents are orange. Built-in closets and cupboards provide ample storage space, and low, matched chests of drawers custom the room.

Steps down on the far left of the hall lead to the family room. Oriental accents are the key to the decor. Expertly designed and furnished, the room has everything — from the entertaining and family points of view. There is a large fireplace. The couch, long, white, and comfortable, faces a coffee table. The bar is out-sized, with a half dozen white stools. Oak colored paneling provides a background for shelves that hold bric-a-brac. A door in the room leads to the garden. (The owners purchased the adjoining lot when they bought the home, thus doubling the size of their property).

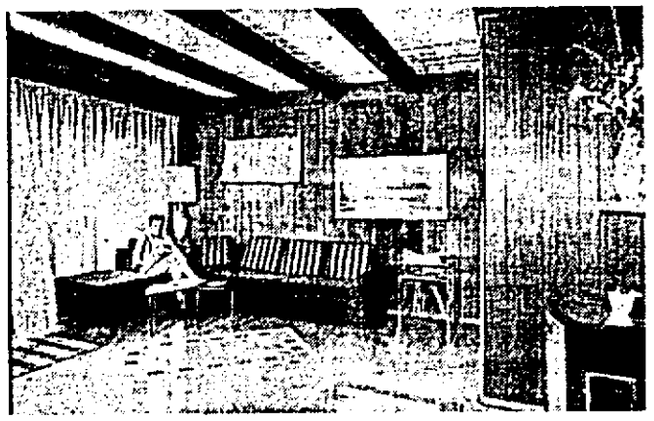

STAIRS AT the second story are at the left of the family room, with a filigree separation on the right and rainbow blue-green drapes on the windows on the upper left and in the bedroom area above. In the second floor suite of rooms, busy parents can retreat from the busy downstairs area. Lavender is the color accent. Furnishings are in clean, contemporary lines with crystal chandeliers on either side of the bed, a gold TV, an off-white chest of drawers and a glass door leading to a small balcony.

Adjoining the bedroom is a study. The Oriental motif is again carried out (as in the family room downstairs), with a mural on the wall, handsome chest in one corner, and knick-knacks here and there.

Also adjoining the bedroom is a dainty and feminine dressing room and bath. Lavender accents are bright and colorful.

This is an impressive home, particularly so when it is realized that, when the Treffrys purchased it, it was a tiny, Spanish-style, two-bedroom stucco house that might adequately accomodate a family of three (plus, perhaps, one pet). The Treffrys designed the additions and Mrs. Treffry did the interior decorating.

Before (below) and after (above) photos from dinette area of Wayne Fitzgerald home show how wall in the "before" picture was removed and new center island installed.

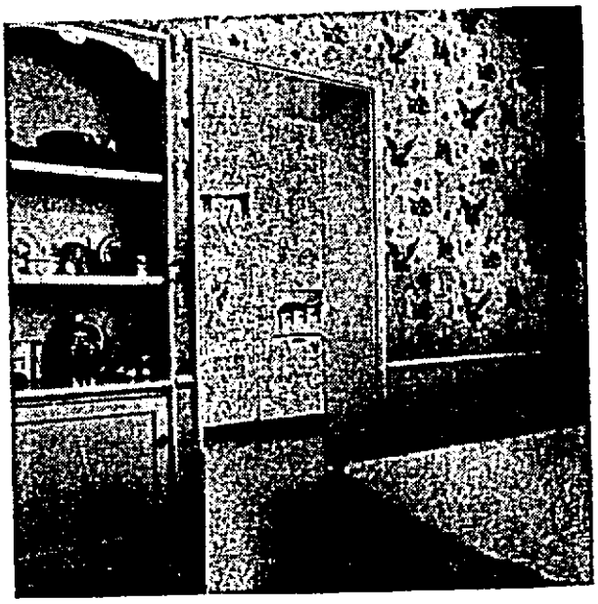

Problem Kitchen Yields to Change

TWO PROBLEM rooms—a kitchen and a dinette—presented a troublesome aspect in the otherwise enjoyable home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Fitzgerald, 245 Park Ave.—that is, they did until a few months ago.

The problems: the kitchen lacked work area, had too few cupboards and was poorly arranged; an archway led from dinette to kitchen and, in addition, the route to a bedroom located beyond the kitchen was through the archway, around the refrigerator and exit through a door in the opposite end of the kitchen.

The solution: purposeful remodeling.

The Fitzgeralds called in Kay Langen, an expert in such assignments, who evolved a solution.

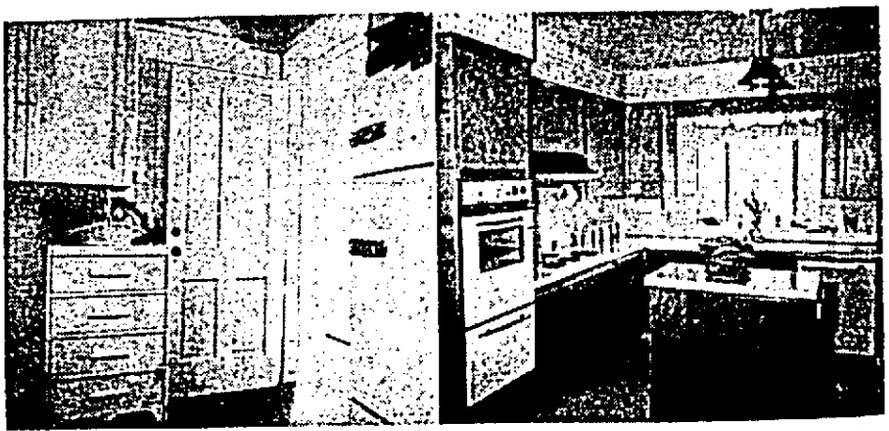

THE WALL between the dinette and kitchen was removed, thus creating a feeling of wide open space in the area. Old, inadequate cupboards were removed to be replaced with spacious ones, the shelves of which are staggered to give even more space.

Complete rearrangement of appliances added several feet of work area. Gay, yellow formica is carried up the wall, a decorative and functional idea. Rome shades adorn the bay window above the sink.

A center island unit was installed and serves many purposes. It is topped with yellow formica and cupboards one one side have adjustable shelves, one of which is large enough to hold a sewing machine. On the kitchen side of the unit there are drawers for silver above and cupboards below.

FLOORING is beige as are the new curtains in the windows of the dinette. Storage tricks are everywhere.

—STELLA GEORGE.

Left, wall back of refrigerator and door to left were removed in merging dinette and kitchen. Same purposes still served, but better and with greatly improved facilities.

Dr. Strangelove

comedy.' Comedy can be more 'realistic' than a straight drama because it takes into account the bizarre."

Between camera set-ups in the mammoth "War Room" set at Shepperton Studios, Kubrick outlined the plot of the film: "A psychotic Air Force general unleashes his wing of B52 H-bombers to attack Russia. It develops that for various and entirely credible reasons the planes can't be recalled, and the president of the U. S. is forced to cooperate with the Soviet premier in a desperate attempt to save the world."

If this doesn't seem a likely framework for comedy—even of the nightmare variety—let it be noted that the mad general (Jack D. Ripper by name) pushes the button because he believes that fluoridation of water is a vile communist conspiracy to pollute and sap our precious bodily fluids.

Other absurdities include a brainwashed hand, an armed assault on a soft drink machine, and a pie-throwing sequence involving more than 3,000 custard pies (precisely how this fits into the movie is a closely guarded secret).

But perhaps the best indication of the nightmare comedy style is the "hot-line" phone call from "President" Sellers to the Soviet premier in the Kremlin (this scene was "in the can" a full week before the Geneva announcement that Russia had accepted the U. S. proposal for a direct link between Washington and Moscow).

SAMPLE DIALOGUE:

"Hello? . . . Hello, Dimitri . . . Yes, this is Merkin. How are you? . . . Oh, fine. Just fine. Look, Dimitri, you know how we've always talked about the possibility of something going wrong with the Bomb? . . . The Bomb! THE HYDROGEN BOMB! . . . That's right. Well, I'll tell you what happened. One of our base commanders . . . well, he went a little funny in the head and . . . ordered his planes . . . to attack . . . your country . . . Well, look, let me finish . . . Let me finish . . . Let me finish, Dimitri! Uh-huh . . . Thirty-four planes. They won't reach their targets for at least another hour . . . I'm positive . . . Uh-huh . . . Well how do you think I feel about it? . . ."

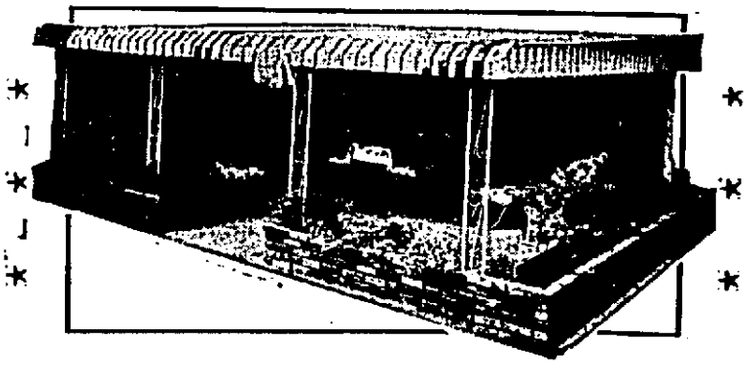

In the "War Room" of the Pentagon, bigwigs ponder an impending nuclear disaster, touched off by a military official who is "funny in the head," and how to stop it.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Heavy Smokers True Addicts

By Ben Zinser
Southland Magazine Medical Science Writer

FEVERISH illness, such as a cold or the flu, may increase the effect of the drug guanethidine, used to lower blood pressure in persons with high blood pressure.

As a result, dosage of the drug may have to be reduced when the patient contracts a virus infection, say two doctors in British Medical Journal.

The doctors describe three hypertensive patients who caught a cold or the flu while under treatment with the drug. The patients became giddy and one lost consciousness because blood pressure fell too low.

Drug dosage was reduced while the patients were ill. It was restored to former level when they recovered from their virus ailment.

A NEW FORM of the drug phenyramidol has proved an effective muscle relaxant and pain-killer in the relief of low back pain, strains and sprains.

The compound is known as Analexin Injectable.

Fair to excellent results were obtained in 68 of 72 patients (94%). Only one intramuscular shot of the drug was required.

Sixteen of the 72 had temporary lightheadedness for a few minutes after receiving the drug. But this side effect was so minor that few patients mentioned it at the time.

Trials of the injectable form of the compound are reported by Dr. Max C. Igloe of Los Angeles in Industrial Medicine and Surgery.

A POTENT pain-killing drug which appears to be non-addicting has been described to the Illinois State Medical Society.

The drug, given by injection into a muscle, is pentazocine.

Dr. Max S. Sadove, professor of anesthesiology at the University of Illinois College of Medicine, described use of the agent in 155 postoperative patients.

Patients got pain relief as early as 20 minutes after injection, and this relief persisted up to three hours.

ADULTS who have not had the measles can take the new live-virus measles vaccine without undue hazard, a new study shows.

In older adults a fever reaction to the vaccine is moderately severe—but no more so than in young children who take the vaccine. In young adults the fever reaction is milder.

However, a shot of gamma globulin, a blood fraction, given at the same time the vaccine is administered, can reduce the frequency, duration and level of fever in adults.

Vaccine trials were conducted among adults in remote areas of Iceland where the population has had little exposure to measles. The study was carried out by Yale University and the Institute for Experimental Pathology in Reykjavik, Iceland, and is reported in Lancet.

HEAVY CIGARETTE smokers are true addicts, Boston University doctors report in the American Journal of Psychiatry.

Yet with appropriate motivation, heavy smoking can be stopped, the researchers say. On the other hand, it can be resumed readily.

"The habit is notoriously persistent and recurrent," say the researchers.

One patient who had abstained from smoking for 6½ years confessed he still dreamed occasionally of smoking. However, during his waking hours he was completely unaware of any desire to smoke.

HOW DO DOCTORS rate recent drug developments?

A poll conducted by Medical Research Digest discloses:

Type III Sabin oral vaccine to protect against one type of polio infection was voted the most significant advance in therapy.

Sansert, a medication to prevent migraine, was named the most effective drug in easing the course of illness.

Prostaphlin, an oral penicillin effective against resistant staph germ infections, was chosen as the most useful new drug in medical practice. Persantin, a drug indicated in certain coronary heart ailments, was awarded second place.

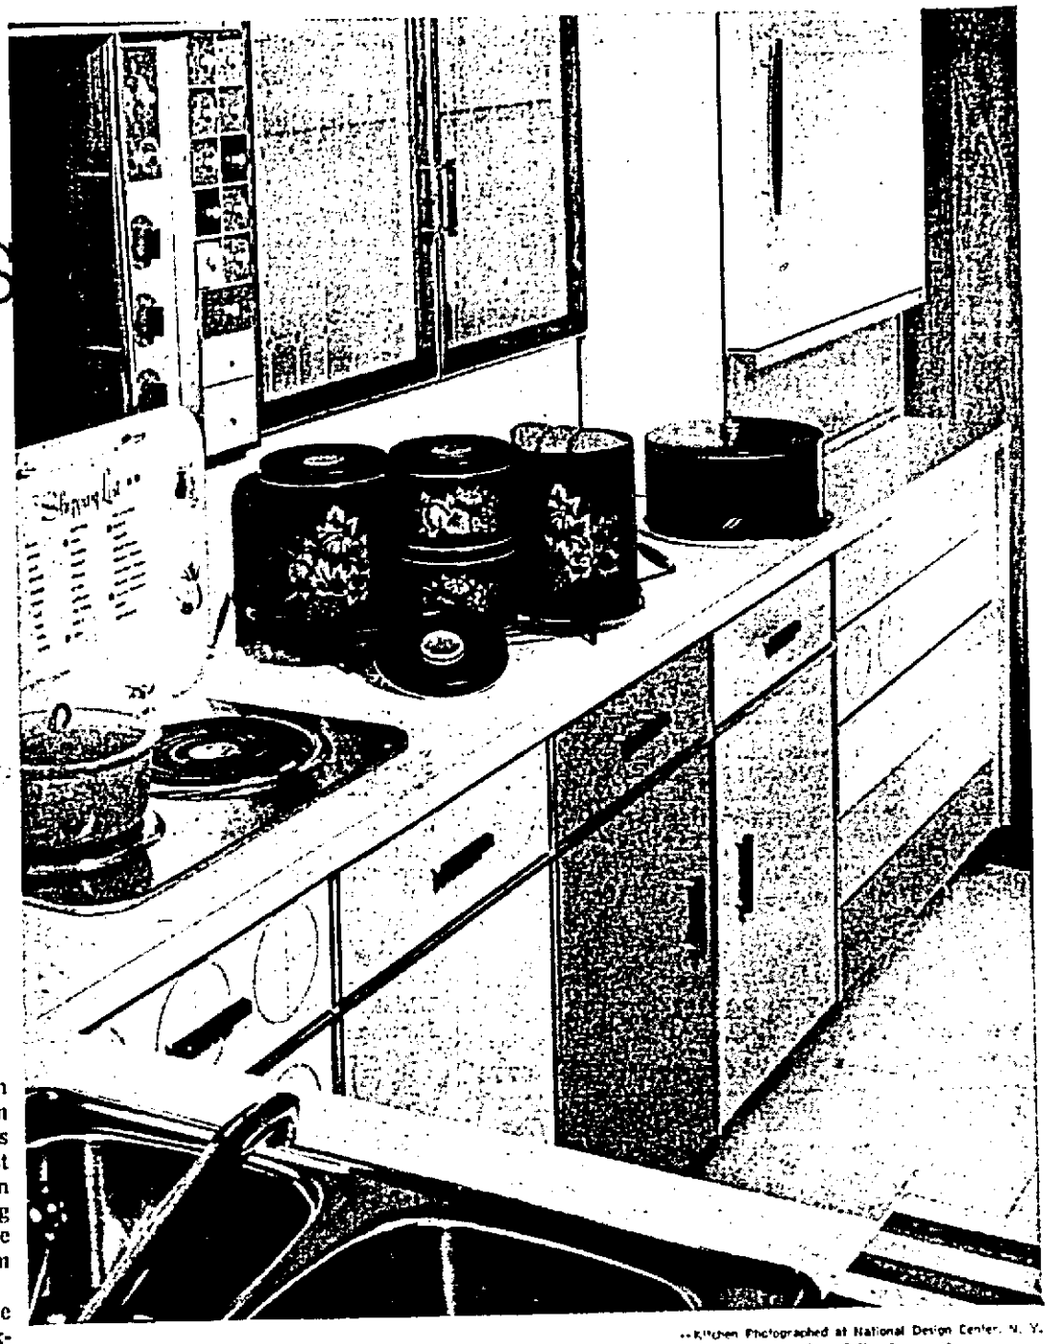

Prostaphlin rated second in the first two categories.

Canisters of an original design are part of a complete set of kitchen accessories, cheerfully decorative as well as efficiently useful for cakes and cookies, a large serving tray and a small but handy waste basket.

Today, with our renewed interest in creative cookery and with the new open floor plan, the kitchen is again taking its place as a "living center" rather than just a domestic laboratory for the preparation of meals. Once again, women are learning that a cheerfully decorated kitchen can be the most wonderful, heart-warming room in the house.

"This doesn't mean that spending more time in the kitchen necessarily involves expensive redecorating plans. In making the kitchen more livable, it's little things—inexpensive things—that make a big difference," says Freda Diamond, internationally known design consultant. Miss Diamond puts theory to practice in her role as design director for the Decoware line of Continental Can Co. This vibrant, dynamic woman creates the "little things" within the economic reach of millions of homemakers that enliven the rooms in which they live.

Miss Diamond feels that beautiful metal kitchen accessories, for instance, involve little cost and make the difference between a cold, sterile-looking room and a room that has a warm, decorative look. The canisters in the photograph, for instance, are in the Hitchcock pattern, the same fruit-and-leaves design to be found on classic Hitchcock chairs. The set features four canisters in a metal caddy, matching "sta-fresh" for cakes and cookies, large serving tray, and a waste basket. Just these inexpensive accessories, spotted throughout the kitchen, add a perky, cheerful note that can give the whole room character.

"One of the ways to make your kitchen more livable is to give it your own distinctive ideas. The Hitchcock accessories, for instance, would obviously look handsome in a kitchen decorated in colonial style—but why not use them, too, for a contemporary kitchen?" More and more decorators, says Miss Diamond, are learning to mix periods harmoniously for unusual attractive effects.

Other kitchen decorating tips:

Use your pretty accessories imaginatively. The canisters that generally hold coffee, tea, flour and sugar can be used for a number of purposes. They can hold cookies, potato chips, pretzels, candies, cereal, dried beans, or a variety of other foods. Or they can serve as attractive containers for hardware, sewing accessories, and so on.

If you have a handsome tray, use it as a "message center." Buy small magnetic weights at a hardware or dime store, use them to attach memos and messages to the tray. It is far more attractive than a bulletin board, serves as a novel conversation piece when guests are shown the kitchen.

If your kitchen is large enough, try adding one or two pieces of upholstered furniture from one of the other rooms. An easy chair in the kitchen is a new idea, extends a silent invitation to members of the family to read or keep you company while you work.

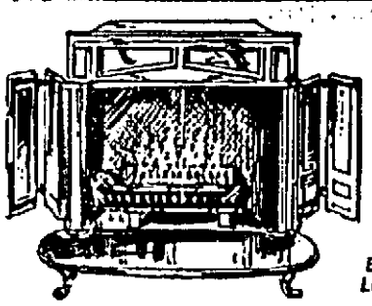

If your home has a second TV set, radio, or hi-fi speaker, try having it in the kitchen.

If you have children of school age, install a special "homework corner" in the kitchen. If the youngsters use the table you work on or eat on as a homework area, they will be disturbed from time to time. But if you set up a special corner, their books and working materials can remain permanently undisturbed.

Help your kitchen to achieve a dramatic, unified color scheme by hanging art work on the walls.

More and more families are enjoying the idea of eating their meals in the kitchen, using the dining room area as a special den or family playroom. They enjoy the worth and coziness of eating in the kitchen—and it saves mom many a step. Properly decorated, the dining area in the kitchen can be so attractive you could use it to serve informal company dinners.

A kitchen is a fine place to display anything you collect. If your hobby is antique banks or tiles, for instance, a display unit will be as much at home in the kitchen as in the living room.

Shortcake: Year Around Treat

By Mildred K. Flanary
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

STRAWBERRY shortcake is now a year-around treat, what with frozen berries always available, but this queen of American desserts always tastes best in early summer when the local luscious, plump and sweet berries flood the market.

Enjoy the luscious berries with wheat germ-nutrified shortcake biscuits—the old-fashioned kind made with flaky dough. Fashion it into fat biscuits to be split, lavishly buttered and filled and topped with the tart-juicy fruit. Cap them with whipped cream, of course.

Wheat germ added to the dough (which in this instance can be made from your favorite packaged biscuit mix) adds a pleasing nut-like flavor and crunchiness to the biscuits, beside bolstering them with lots of essential nutrients. Sprinkle wheat germ flakes on the whipped cream, too. This can be optional with those around the festive board if a bowl of wheat germ is placed on the table.

Nut-like flavor, nutrition and crunchy quality are added to these shortcakes by including a half cup wheat germ.

Wheat Germ-Strawberry Shortcake

- 2 cups biscuit mix
- ½ cup wheat germ
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 egg
- ½ cup milk (about)
- 2 tblsp. butter or margarine
- 1 quart strawberries, sliced and sweetened to taste

Combine biscuit mix, wheat germ and sugar. Beat egg; add milk; stir into dry ingredients. If necessary, add more milk to make a soft dough. Roll out ½-inch thick on lightly floured board. Cut with 3-inch round cutter. Place on ungreased baking sheet; dot with butter. Bake at 450° for about 15 minutes or until golden brown. Split biscuits; spread cut surfaces with additional butter or margarine; put together with strawberries between and on top. Garnish with whipped cream. Pass wheat germ flakes to sprinkle ad lib on whipped cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Recipe of the Week

SOMETHING for a sweet tooth—candy, that is—wins this week's best recipe prize of $5 for Mrs. Mary King, 100 Atlantic Ave., Apt. 701, Long Beach 2. The recipe:

Opera Creams

½ cup cream or half and half
2 cups white sugar (granulated)
½ square butter (no substitute)
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 tsp. vanilla

Combine cream, sugar and butter and cook slowly. Do not stir when it boils until it forms a soft ball in water. Take from stove without stirring and let it cool. Then beat until it starts to firm and then add the ½ cup of chopped walnuts, and 1 teaspoon of vanilla. Mold for cutting when desired.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address, to: Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Fragrant Trio for a Gift Idea

Round deodorant cakes encased in white, plastic doilies with ribbon ties and hangers form neat gifts.

By Lorena Fleissig

ROUND CAKES of deodorant that contain antimoth ingredients are wrapped in sparkling cellophane. The pink, orchid and green of the cellophane contrasts interestingly with the opaque white plastic doilies which may be applied to cover both sides of the cake.

It is best to measure the deodorant to be sure the doily will extend barely enough to accommodate a narrow ribbon. The ribbon, same color as the cellophane, may be satin, ribbozene or cellophane. It is woven over and under through the matching doilies with very pretty effect. Each sachet is finished with a bow and a loop for hanging in the clothes closet or bathroom.

In order to release the scent, the cakes must be pin pricked through the cellophane when they are in use.

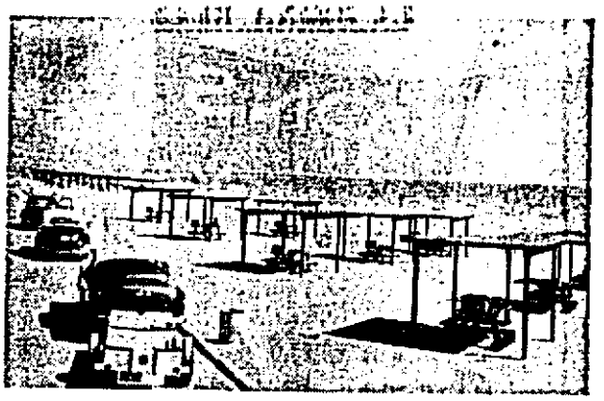

Given singly or in a set, the deodorant makes an inexpensive and useful prize.

Lawn Remedies

Sloping lawns often go thirsty in spite of frequent watering. The reason, of course, is that the water runs off before it has a chance to sink in to any degree. The California Association of Nurserymen suggests several remedies for this situation.

First and best is a canvas soaker which can be put at the top of the slope and left to dispense water so slowly that it sinks in before it runs off.

Second, mist sprinklers are helpful for much the same reason. Lacking either of these, try watering in spurts —soaking, then holding off for an hour, then soaking again, and so on until the water works itself in.

Salton Sea brings still another kind of holiday into being, offering water sports in a desert atmosphere.

Season of the Campers

beaches a cure for the spiritual disease of elbow-to-elbow urban existence. A week by the camp fire, a week of hiking and swimming, and they go home ready for what city life can throw at them and prepared to endure it—until the next camping season.

Here are some of the state parks, both mountain and beach, within easy driving distance of this area. The list is offered with a word of caution. Sometimes a period of waiting is involved before a camp site is available. To find out when crowding is most likely to occur, write the Division of Beaches and Parks in Sacramento or the park in question.

Carpinteria Beach State Park. A relatively small but well-equipped ocean beach park 12 miles east of Santa Barbara on U.S. 101 in Santa Barbara County. Has 92 camp sites. Surfing, fishing. Rangers, lifeguards.

Doheny Beach State Park. Ocean-beach park, 115 camp sites. Swimming, fishing. Ranger, lifeguard. One mile south of Dana Point, U. S. 101-A, Orange County.

Morro Bay State Park. Ocean-beach park, 96 camp sites. Boat rentals and launching facilities. Rangers, lifeguards. Thirteen miles north San Luis Obispo on State Route 1, San Luis Obispo County.

Palomar Mountain State Park. Mountain recreation. Hiking, trails, corrals for horseback riding, camp fire programs, fishing. Scenic with lush foliage and Sierra-like atmosphere. Thirty-five miles northeast of Escondido, off State Highway 76, San Diego County.

San Clemente State Park. Ocean-beach, 48 camp sites, swimming, fishing. Ranger, lifeguard. Camps on high bluff overlooking expanse of splendid beach. Located at the edge of San Clemente on U.S. 101, Orange County.

Also:

Cuyamaca Rancho, a mountain park, 50 miles east of San Diego on State Route 79.

El Capitan Beach State Park, 20 miles west of Santa Barbara on U.S. 101.

Mount San Jacinto State Park in Idyllwild, 54 miles east of Riverside.

Pismo Beach State Park, three miles south of Pismo Beach, State Route 1, San Luis Obispo County.

La Costa Beach State Park, three miles south of Carlsbad, U.S. 101, San Diego County.

Dos, Don'ts

SOME Dos and Don'ts that will make your camping trip to the mountains or the beach happier for you and others.

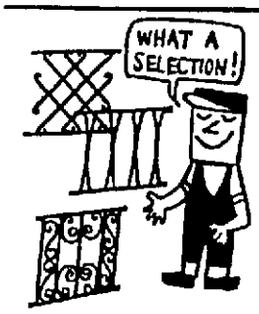

DO:

Confine fires to approved stoves and fireplaces. Avoid getting too much sunshine too soon. Observe restrictions on boating and surfing. Clean up the campsite when you leave.

DON'T:

Remove natural, historical and archeological objects. Bring loaded firearms. Venture beyond marked swimming limits. Make unnecessary noise. Smoke in posted fire hazard areas.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on PYE. —Mrs. R.S., Garden Grove.

R.S.: PYE goes back to the reign of King Henry I of England, from A.D. 1100 to 1135, making this name among the earliest surnames adopted. Before this time people were known only by their given-names. The family ancestor in the 1100s was Hugh Pye, Lord of Kilpec Castle in Herefordshire. Pye originated as a nickname taken from a shop sign identifying the place of business with a picture of a "Pye" or Magpie bird. The Pye coat-of-arms has a diagonal stripe composed of red diamonds lying across an ermine coated shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain JOINER. — I. W. J., Long Beach.

I. J.: JOINER is a derivation of the English surname Joyner. This designated a carpenter whose specific work was termed "joining," a man who dovetailed and glued the joints of fine furniture and wood paneling. An ancestor, Thomas Joiner, was married at London in 1743. The Joyner coat-of-arms from Sussex has a black eagle with outspread wings on a diagonal silver stripe across a blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the background on MADARY. — R. M., Torrance.

R. M.: MADARY is one of several variations of the German surname Madry, which had its inception in the ancient warrior hero name Matto-Heri. This title had the unusual meaning "warrior-member of an assembly." Matto-Heri evolved into Mattery, then Madry and Madary. Another source of Madary was the old French word "Madiere" for "timber worker."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on CHERRY. —H. P., Long Beach.

H. P.: CHERRY forebears were owners of a cherry orchard. The oldest spelling of this name was that used by William Chery on tax lists of King Henry VI of England in 1443. Chery was adopted from the old French word "cheryse" with the same meaning. The Cherry shield is silver, emblazoned with three red rings. The earliest abode of this lineage was in Derbyshire. Cherry is also traced to the old Anglo-French word "cheri" meaning "beloved one."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on BURN and BURNS.—A. W., Mishawaka, Ind.; M. B., Long Beach.

A. W., M. B.: BURN and BURNS originated from the English term "bourn," a name for a "small stream." Resultant surnames used by "dwellers on a small stream" were Bourne, Burn, Bournes and Burns. Burns was made famous by the 18th century Scotch poet Robert Burns. The Burns shield from Scotland has three black stars and a black hunting horn on a gold shield. The Burn shield from Perthshire is similar to Burns, with a black crescent between two black stars at the top of the shield and a black hunting horn at the bottom, with these emblems on a gold background. The clan motto "Tendit ad astra fides" translates from Latin as "Faith extends to heaven." Burns can also be Irish, originating in Kildare, where the clan O'Broin, whose name means "sons of the raven," modernized that name to Burns.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on MONTEVERDE. —D. M., Lakewood.

D. M.: MONTEVERDE may be either Italian or Spanish. Proud ancestors in Italy adopted this descriptive name from their home, located on "Monte verde," or "Green mountain." In medieval Spain the meaning was different, since "monte" referred to "forest." This resulted in the definition, "from the green-forested place." No shield is accessible for Monteverde.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly publish the origin of SENTMAN. — H. S., Norwalk.

H. S.: SENTMAN originated in medieval Germany as the phrase "Sande-Mann," meaning "follower or adherent of the True-one." No other data is accessible on Sentman.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze SKILES.—R.E., Long Beach.

R.E.: SKILES is an American phonetic formation of the German surname Schiles. This name was a dialectical alteration of Schild. Both Schiles and Skiles have the same meaning as Schild, that is, "son of the shield-bearer."

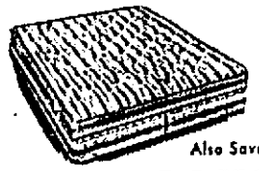

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like to hear about SCHLAGER.—P.S., Long Beach.

P.S.: SCHLAGER has two divergent meanings. Schlager was primarily a term that individualized "expert swordsman." The secondary meaning, from "Schlag-er," eulogized "owner of land cleared from the forest." No shield is available to Schlager.

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you give genealogy on McGREGOR and GREGORY.—L.G., Montebello; I.M., Long Beach.

L.G., I.M.: McGREGOR and GREGORY are famous Scotch Highland clan names that were formerly the Gaelic MacGreagair, meaning "sons of the watchful one." The first recorded clan estate, at Glenorchy in Argyllshire, was granted this family by Alexander II of Scotland in the early 1200s. The proud clan slogan "'S rioghal mo dhream," means "Royal is my race." Their plaid has narrow green and brown stripes crossing a scarlet background. The MacGregor-Gregory shield from Scotland is silver, decorated with a green oak tree below a blue sword. In England the Gregory family is recorded as early as the 1200s. Their shield is gold, emblazoned with two blue bars below a blue lion.

WHAT HAPPENS when a scientist breaks the speech barrier between man and animal? Specifically, what happens when he finds Penelope, a porpoise who can talk (with a Southern accent), and who gets into zany situations with the big brass, bikinis and a drowning astronaut? Col. William C. Anderson, Air Force pilot and author of the zany novel "PENELOPE" (Crown, $3.95), poses here with his heroine.

Intellectual of the Renaissance

By VERA WILLIAMS
Southland Magazine Book Editor

FRANCIS BACON himself would appreciate his new biography.

His strengths and his weaknesses and the strengths and weaknesses of his period are probed by Catherine Drinker Bowen in "FRANCIS BACON, the Temper of a Man" (Atlantic-Little, Brown, $6). The reader understands Bacon better than ever before, and also gains a clearer understanding of Elizabeth I, Shakespeare and the era which blended the medieval and the burgeoning revolt against dogma and tradition.

She says "Here was a Renaissance man, as many-sided as da Vinci." She presents him as an intellectual with a mind as sharp as a scientist's, with the insight of a poet. "It was Bacon's forte to ask questions; the largeness of his anticipation was his genius."

And she presents him as a statesman, who for years made little headway with Queen Elizabeth, then rose to lord chancellor under James I, was tumbled into oblivion by his political enemies, and spent his last five years in brilliant writing.

It's a dramatic portrayal of a dramatic character by a searching and efficient writer.

FOR FIVE WEEKS in the year 1606, the ship, Susan Constant, with 60 colonists between decks, rode out a storm off the English Coast before embarking for the New World and Virginia.

Every passenger had a special reason for escaping to an unknown land and Peter Bourne tells their stories, keyed to the England of James I, in "SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE" (Putnam, $4.50).

Capt. John Smith moved calmly through the emotional and quarrelsome atmosphere on the anchored ship, but most fascinating are the tales of a young artist who painted a masked, nude woman; an aristocrat who killed a king's musketeer, a soldier who spoke of the slaughter of Turkish women; and a gentleman farmer who got involved in the Guy Fawkes plot to blow up Parliament and assassinate the king.

Bourne's technique is masterful although his material is not outstanding.

GRAHAM GREENE interweaves fantasy and the conviction that one man's reality is another man's unreality in "A SENSE OF REALITY" (Viking, $3.50). There are four short stories—more exactly, "pieces" instead of stories — in the book. The most compelling is "Under the Garden" about an incurably ill man who returns to the scene of his childhood, finds an adventure story he began as a boy, and finishes it in the light of his adult experience. Another is "Dream of a Strange Land," an ironic account of a retired medical professor and a doomed patient on an eerie night when the professor's country home is taken over by the military.

ZACHARY TAYLOR spent 40 years in military service —first in the War of 1812 and then the Black Hawk and Florida Wars, and finally in the Mexican war in which his distinguished service led him to the presidency.

"ZACH TAYLOR'S LITTLE ARMY" (Doubleday, $4.95) is the first book that begins and ends with the full story of Taylor's campaigns in the 1848-48 conflict with Mexico, and in it author Edward J. Nichols shows why the general's military reputation came off well and won strong support from such army leaders as Grant, French and Reynolds.

The Mexican War often is referred to as the "small war" and Taylor's forces as the "little army." While it is true that he always faced the enemy with inferior numbers, he nevertheless won four major battles in that war, and drove the Mexicans back nearly 500 miles in a year—the first invasion of American troops on foreign soil. Taylor was plagued by jealous politicians, but his able subordinates demonstrated the worth of West Point, an academy in dire jeopardy at the time.

Nichols' book deserves a place on the top row of every worthwhile collection of Americana.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO, who has made the study of espionage a journalistic specialty, has a real shocker in "THE GREATEST PLOT IN HISTORY," the theft of America's nuclear secrets by the Soviet Union (Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $4.95). He shows how Soviet agents, American Communists and their dupes penetrated every phase of the American-British-Canadian atomic bomb project. He shows how close the United States came to catastrophe as a result of opposition to continuation of the nuclear weapons programs—and he discloses that just before the Berlin blockade, America's A-bomb stockpile had so deteriorated that experts considered it worthless.

PENELOPE MORTIMER

A brilliant English writer, Miss Mortimer is author of "THE PUMPKIN EATER" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95), a chilling story about a woman's emotional breakdown.

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

GREECE is one of the last places in the tourist's world where you had better do what the Greeks do for a good time, or you're not likely to have a good time.

The Greeks simply won't do things your way, and when you get right down to it, that's probably just as well. We've been wishing for years there were a few places left in the world where you could not find hot dogs, strip joints and bowling alleys.

There are, for example, few good restaurants in Athens. Outside of the hotels still fewer serve non-Greek food. Greeks don't take to foreign dishes or to restaurants as we know them. Neither do they frequent bars as we know them, and most of those in Athens are dim, grim clip joints peopled by sad-eyed "hostesses."

TO A GREEK, the place to go is a taverna, a social institution whose image is so deeply rooted that the luxurious new Athens Hilton Hotel felt constrained to call its prime gourmet restaurant a taverna, lest Greeks boycott the place.

The taverna—mother of all taverns, pubs, and bars—is the purest distillation of the modern Greek's approach to life.

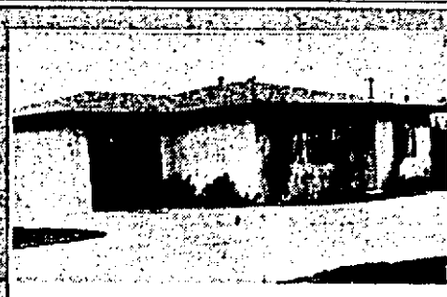

Having gone this far, we are faced with the prospect of defining a taverna, whereupon we will proceed to make fools of ourselves by saying it is a bar, restaurant, social club, night club, day club and whatever else we said it isn't. It may be indoors in winter, outdoors in summer, or both. It may be small or large, have an elaborate menu or none. But what it always is, is a place Greeks go to listen to music, put their feet on the chairs, rage with or needle the waiters and each other, drink ouzo or retsina or beer, eat slowly and heartily, feed the cats (the best food is where the most cats congregate), and dance with each other, with a chair, or alone as the spirit moves them.

AMONG THE beverages, beer is beer. Ouzo is an anise-flavored liqueur similar to the French Pernod. Retsina is an awful-tasting white wine which requires more than an acquired taste: the Greeks say it is an inherited taste.

All tavernas are simply furnished with wooden chairs and tables with oilcloth covers (better places have linen), and rows of wine barrels line the walls.

IF YOU have a week's vacation coming up soon, and are still undecided about where to go, why not consider the Flagstaff-Prescott area of Arizona?

Not only are these cities located in the heart of some of the most beautiful country in western America, they have a bearable midsummer climate (over a mile high), and their calendars are loaded with interesting events. And each is blessed with fine motels and hotels.

Ever since one Fourth of July when pioneers first hoisted a big pine for a flagpole that gave the town its name, Flagstaff — with its scenic setting at the foot of the San Francisco Peaks and its array of attractions from unforgettable Oak Creek Canyon to Meteor Crater — has lured travelers who usually stay longer than they had expected.

IN THE GENERAL area, too, is Montezuma Castle, an imposing monument left by cliff dwellers, about 50 miles from Prescott; the Grand Canyon, 91 miles from Flagstaff; and the new Navajo Bridge, which may be reached through 112 miles of beautiful country north on Hwy. 89 out of Flagstaff.

First of several notable events planned at Flagstaff is the All-Indian Pow Wow being staged this weekend. Also scheduled is the city's 15th annual Square Dance Festival Aug. 2-4, and the big Coconino County Fair, Aug. 23-25.

One spot not to be overlooked near Flagstaff is the Museum of Northern Arizona, always an absorbing showplace. From July 21-28 it will hold its annual Navajo Craftsmen Exhibit with outstanding examples of work by that tribe, and Aug. 15-Sept. 15 it will show the priceless Fred Harvey Collection of Indian Arts and Crafts.

Lowell Observatory, also near Flagstaff, will hold its evening programs July 12-26 and Aug. 9-23.

PRESCOTT holds its world-famous Smoki Ceremonials on Aug. 10, an event staged by white people so expertly costumed that they look like real Indians.

In the area you can take leisurely drives through pine forests to pan gold, explore ghost camps, visit ranch lands and Indian domains, old battlefields and army posts. There are always fine spots to spread a picnic lunch. And if you like the outdoors, you will enjoy every minute of these drives.

This attractive map shows the important scenic attractions, calendar of events, summary of motor vehicle regulations in Arizona, mileage charts, and even pinpoints new highway developments. It's free. Just write to the Arizona Highway Department, Phoenix, Ariz.

PACIFIC Southwest Airlines, with the addition of a sixth Super Electra to its fleet, has increased its weekly flight schedule serving the Long Beach-Los Angeles area by 32 new flights a week.

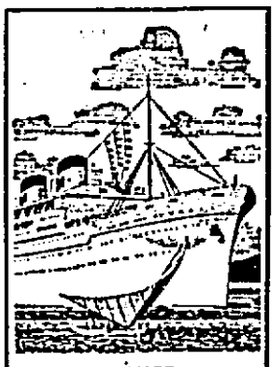

The new weekly schedule includes 16 flights departing Los Angeles for San Francisco and San Diego, and 16 new arrivals. The schedule includes operations at both Los Angeles International and Burbank airports.

VISITORS to Hilo on Hawaii's "Big Island" Aug. 2-3 will see 1,000 paddlers from a dozen or more canoe-racing clubs compete for the Hawaii State Championships. This is one of the big water sports events of the year in the 50th state and will take place on Hilo Bay.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"We enter Europe through Paris next month, go to Geneva and then to Rome. We are thinking of going back through Spain. Any advice, etc."

WEATHER'S the problem. Europe's worst month, I think, is August. Best are June and September. Every Frenchman has decided August is the ONLY month to vacation. Likewise the entire Swiss watchmaking industry, British, Germans and American tourists.

It's the hottest month. The Europeans have long since reserved the beach hotels. That leaves you Rome, Paris, Madrid all right. But a lot of the restaurants are closed.

Even so, a lot of Americans are here in August. And if you can handle hot but dry (90 degrees) weather, Spain is a rewarding country. Filled with rich history: Spain was a suburb of Rome—three Roman Emperors were born here. The Moors held it for 800 brilliant years when the rest of Europe was in the Dark Ages.

All this has given flavor to the food, the speech. Christian churches of Oriental splendor are built on walls of Moorish mosques, in turn built on Roman temples to Roman gods.

ANOTHER REWARD: Prices are very low. You should get excellent hotel rooms at $8 for two. Dinners for two in garden restaurants —$5 with wines and brandy. Madrid is one of the most splendid cities — tree-shaded boulevards and fine stone buildings. Sparkling fountains, narrow cobblestoned streets in the old quarter and pleasant, shady plazas.

Shopping is particularly good in leather goods, mantillas from Seville, tile and pottery from Talaveras, Damascene work from Toledo, ranging from brilliantly inlaid swords to earrings. Tailoring is very cheap. There are some great women designers here. Balenciaga is a Spaniard and has a salon here.

It saves you some heat to know that Madrid, in summer, operates from 9 in the morning until about 2 in the afternoon. Stores reopen about 5 to 8. And most people don't get out until nightfall.

Dinner is about 11. Nightclubs don't open until midnight. If the heat gets you, run for one of the mountain resorts not too far away. The Costa Brava—(the Mediterranean coast from Barcelona to France)—is cooler. However, it is usually loaded with advance reserved British and Scandinavians.

TAXIS are inexpensive. (Tipping is 10 percent to taxis.) Hotels and restaurants add 15 percent service charge. You are expected to add five percent. Cigarettes in American brands are sometimes sold in a relaxed sort of black market or legally in tobacco stores. In either case, they seem to cost 35 cents—probably the lowest price in all Europe.

Gasoline runs about .90 cents a gallon — Rent car services—($7 a day and about 9 cents a mile)—make you pay for your own gas.

Water is good in Madrid. In outlying towns, I drink bottled water—Solares is a tasty brand. Medical facilities are good. The British-American Hospital in Madrid has 24-hour service. Nearly everything is cooked in quantities of olive oil here. But you can ask for it broiled without oil. For anyone on a salt-free diet, it's bad. Whoever sells Spain salt, can surely sell salt.

Traffic is brisk. The pedestrian has no right-of-way unless the lights are with you. Traffic police are very efficient. Keep an eye on their signals.

AMONG good restaurants: Bodegon and the new Las Lancas — both expensive by Spanish standards. Which means dinner for four with cocktails, wines and brandies and tips will be $25. The old quarter in the Plaza Mayor: Eat outside at El Pulpito or Meson de la Corregidora and feel like a Spanish grandee. Also in this area: Botin, Hogar Gallego and Las Cuevas de Luis Candelas. All good.

En route home you are entitled to use your ticket for a stopover in Lisbon. Do it. Another great town with low prices. And your ticket probably takes you home via the Caribbean for very few dollars more. Ask the airline. Buen viaje.

The Man With the Laughs

By Betty Hardesty

THE SITUATION was grim but the young actor joked, "I knew that life had its ups and downs but I never quite expected this," as he pumped the handle of a railroad handcar to drive steel wheels along the tracks. Through a bleak Western Canadian countryside, the rails stretched between banks of windwhipped snow and Keith Houdyshell was cold in spite of his labor.

He spoke to four companion Chautauquans huddled on the tiny vehicle, the only means of reaching their next scheduled theatrical performance. Keith wished the weather had permitted sleds or trucks but he felt better thinking of the warm welcome ahead and anticipating the applause, the tears and especially the laughter of the night's audience.

He had forgotten the name of the last town already, but he'd always remember the biggest building there, a pool hall. For a stage, two covered pool tables were set end to end while blankets were rigged for curtains. Tonight he'd lead the singing of "God Save the King" and stay after the show to dance with the townsfolk and others gathered from miles around to see the Chautauqua.

YEARS LATER, Keith found that handcar trip quite laughable and so did everyone in Long Beach who heard his speech, "Behind the Footlights." After graduating from Kansas State College, he was lured away from his first year of teaching into the Kansas City Orpheum Theater where he appeared with Guy Kibbee. Hopeful of making acting his life career, Keith traveled with stock companies before he "hopped onto the Chautauqua train for five years before it ground to a halt."

After coming to Long Beach in 1938, he was working for a linoleum firm when Harvey Freeman asked him to fill in for a canceled program at the Long Beach Executives Association. Keith consented and spoke casually, giving Chautauquas and his life a comical twist. Recalling his first speech, he said earnestly, "It wasn't supposed to be funny. I planned a talk for Freshman English on 'When the Cyclone Hit Great Bend' and was amazed to find everyone laughing, even the teacher. I don't know why they were amused, I still don't," he insists, "but I do know that I love to make people laugh.

"The way my first speech turned out here in Long Beach, was that I either had to quit giving it or stop work and starve." It is not always what he says but the way he says it that makes Houdyshell popular as a speaker. Last February, he gave his speech, "A Day at Gettysburg," to 24 clubs.

CONSIDERED expert at adlibbing, he modestly confesses that "the best ad-lib is carefully rehearsed."

"There is satisfaction in getting close to people," he says. "After playing three acts at Community Playhouse, I find myself relaxed, rested and refreshed through the appreciation expressed by the audiences."

Houdyshell has starred in a dozen comedies before Long Beach audiences beginning with "Arsenic and Old Lace" in which he played the "nut who thought he was Teddy Roosevelt."

Houdyshell has also played Santa Claus for the Downtown Lions Club party for kids at Christmas, acquiring the role because, he says, belt-wise "the suit now fits." His wife, Maezella, and two teen-age sons take pride in his community efforts as president of Lions and Executives and in the March of Dimes, Heart Fund and Red Cross drives. His flair for comedy has served him well in all, especially the fund drives where he finds those he meets give more easily with a laugh.

Keith Houdyshell: A flair for comedy and a Chatauqua background make life fun. Here he is in the role of an absent-minded professor.

Heavy Feeders

Chrysanthemums are gross feeders and like a good helping of liquid fish fertilizer every three weeks or so right up to the time their buds begin to show color. Stop feeding at this time—usually in late summer — because an overdose of food at bloom time tends to diminish the brilliance of the bloom, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

Jeepers! Creepers!

Palos Verdes Bird Farms Photo By Louise Van der Meid

Common green Iguana is an easy lizard to keep. He will eat mealworms, lettuce and bananas. He enjoys climbing.

By Eleanor Avery Price

IT USUALLY happens sooner or later. An adventurous boy (and girls are not immune) will try to add lizards and perhaps even snakes to the family circle. Fortunate is the child who has a parent, uncle or an older friend who will encourage the child's pursuit of reptile study.

Not too many years ago, Daryl Keener was just such an adventurous lad. Probably his mother's first abrupt introduction to a reptile was when one slithered out of a pocket when she dropped his pants into the wash. But Daryl continued in his love for nature and now, as owner of Kings Pet Shop, he goes frequently to South America to "bring 'em back alive." A few years ago he drove a large van truck 7,000 miles into Guatemala, British Honduras, and the Yucatan Peninsula. Now he flies his plane because, in order to return animals from the above countries, the importer at present is required to use plane or ship. This is due partly because Mexico forbids removal of any living creature except by government permission for zoos, hence no animals can cross the border by land.

ALTHOUGH you should not go hunting for poisonous reptiles, you should be alert for them on excursions. Wear high boots or high shoes with stiff leather puttees. Wear heavy leather gloves when climbing and reaching among rocks, wood, shrubs, etc., and keep your face guarded.

If you really prepare to collect harmless specimens, carry a metal poker or an L-stick such as a golf putter. A forked stick can be used, although the Y seldom is the right size to pin down a reptile. Also, have along some double-stitched, cloth drawstring bags, or some sort of cage. In an emergency, use your sock as a bag to carry home a captive, or a pillow case. Tie the top with string or wire. Keep such containers in the shade or your captives may die.

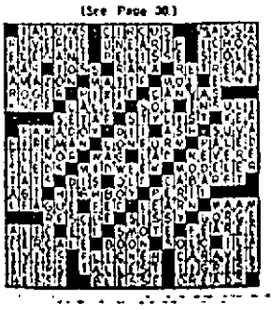

Some reptiles lay eggs in early summer. Should you find little eggs in damp parts of rotted logs, tree bark, lumber piles, etc., put them into a sock or fold a handkerchief around them with a few handfuls of the material in which the eggs were deposited. Keep them out of the sun and, as soon as possible, get the eggs into a warmly located terrarium, flower pot, or wide-mouthed glass jar. Nest them in a depression of the damp material you brought home and cover with a piece of bark or a thin inch of sand. Put glass over the container, but push it aside now and then if the container "sweats." If hatching material dries out, sprinkle it with enough water to keep it as moist as it was originally.

When the eggs hatch, try to identify the creatures. Most poisonous reptiles are live bearers, so the hatched creatures are probably harmless. If possible, return most of them to the place where you found the eggs and keep only two or three healthy specimens so you can house and care for them properly.

Pleasing results of abstract study by plan on black-edged white board using elastic threads shown here.

By Ursula M. S. Dadras

ONE OF the most successful projects ever offered in the Sketchbook series was the "Modern Art" plan last year.

Now you can try "Modern Art—2," an entirely different and more interesting pattern of geometric abstract shapes based on the same methods and materials as its outstanding forerunner.

The size is a 30" by 40" rectangle. The shadow box edge is painted jet black, the background dead white. The eye-catching parabola patterns are formed by winding cotton - covered elastic threads, red and black, systematically back and forth on evenly spaced brads.

Modern Art-2 Plan is detailed, leaves nothing to chance. To order, specify S-115 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Doll House for Happy Child

AN ENCHANTED little girl, completely absorbed in a miniature world, is a rich reward for the time spent in building a beautiful doll house.

The house, pictured here has a handsome Swiss chalet styling. It is particularly appealing to youngsters because each of the four hinged roof panels lift up and out of the way.

TO ORDER, specify Doll House Plan No. 310 (which lists required materials—principally plywood, and gives detailed instructions) and send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

Twins have a ball with this intriguing doll house. They are Karen and Christie Paul, cuties from NBC.

CAMERA ANGLES

Night Time's Picture Time, Too

By Irving Desfor

NIGHT PHOTOGRAPHY is a challenge for camera fans looking for something different to shoot. The results are usually dramatic or offbeat and make fine conversation pieces in a slide show, on display or in any discussion of unusual pictures.

Actually, night shots are not difficult to make. They just take more time, effort and the gumption to tackle such an assignment. It's one type of shooting where a variety of exposures may lead to a variety of effective pictures, especially in color.

Since we're dealing with longer or time exposures, a sturdy tripod is essential. Don't assume that all tripods are sturdy. Check yours by extending the legs all the way and setting the camera on it. If it sways or wobbles when you touch it, it may not withstand some stiff breezes now and then out in the open. Try putting a wedge between the tripod legs for firmness.

A CABLE release is an aid in shooting time exposures. It minimizes the danger of jarring the camera in shooting. One with a locking device is best, especially for those cameras with a "B" (for bulb) setting only.

Do you know exactly how the "B" and "T" (for time exposure) settings work? Open the camera back, before you load up with film, and check the way the shutter works. Check the various slow speeds also. After such tests, you'll know what you're doing outdoors at night on these settings.

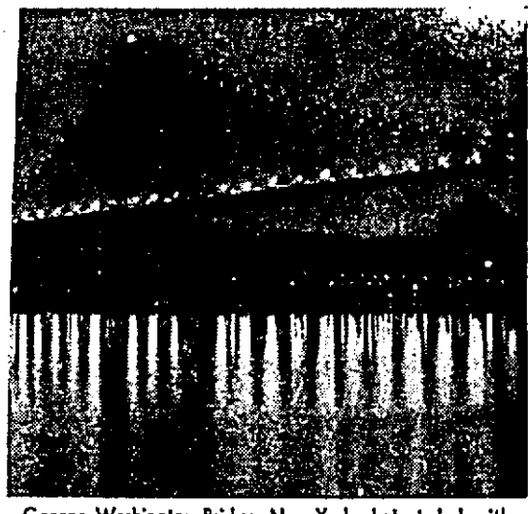

A small flashlight or a penlight is a handy gadget so that you can see the camera markings at night. An exposure meter is a valuable accessory for any type of photography and one that is sensitive to a low level of illumination is better suited for night shots. Its reading is used as a basic exposure. When time permits, other exposures are made of the same scene: one at half the recommended exposure; another at double the exposure.

BY USING the fastest films available in color as well as black - and - white, time exposures are kept to a minimum. Whenever sunsets or twilight pictures are to be taken, use daylight type color films. If all the pictures are to be taken after dark, use the type for artificial or tungsten light. But if and when the opportunity arises to take night pictures, use whatever film you have in the camera or on hand. That's better than waiting to get "the right kind of film."

Here's a favorite photographic trick to get clouds or a lighter sky in a night shot or some detail in the outline of a city skyline, a bridge or a monument. Anchor the camera firmly on a tripod and make a partial exposure of the scene at twilight. After shooting from one-third to one-half the indicated exposure, cover the lens and, without moving the camera or changing film, wait till darkness and the lights come on. Then make a second exposure for the lights.

ANOTHER double exposure trick adds the moon to a night scene. The scene is shot first with allowance for placing the moon where it would be most effective or realistic. Then, on the same film, the camera is pointed up at the night sky for the moon itself. By changing to a longer telephoto lens for the second exposure, the moon will be larger and more dramatic.

The reflections of colored lights on a rain-soaked pavement are very effective so add that to the things-to-shoot list. It'll be a lot easier to wait till the rain stops and safer for the equipment too.

George Washington Bridge, New York, shot at dusk with Zeiss Super-Ikonta B camera and slow pan film. Timing was four minutes at f22, creating an effective photo.

Water Citrus

Young citrus trees benefit more from adequate water than from any other single factor. There is a right and wrong way to water them, however, and gardeners should follow the advice of the California Association of Nurserymen. Make a basin for irrigation around the trees, but leave a ridge of soil right around the trunk and out a few inches from it. This will prevent over saturation at the crown, a condition which can cause trouble if allowed.

Occasional feeding with a high nitrogen fertilizer will also push young citrus trees to their maximum performance.

Here Are Snapshot Contest Rules

First-week winners in the Independent, Press - Telegram and The News Newspaper National Snapshot Contest, for which entries have been pouring in for two weeks, will appear in next Sunday's Southland Magazine.

If you haven't entered, do so this week. Here are the rules:

1—Contest is strictly for amateur photographers. Anyone is eligible excepting employees of this newspaper, or employees of any newspaper participating in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, employees of the sponsors and their families, and individuals who, personally, or any member of whose families are engaged in the manufacture, sale, commercial distribution or professional use of photographic goods.

2—Pictures that have been made after July 1, 1962, are eligible. Black and white and color PRINTS accepted only.

3—Black-and-white snapshots may be made from any brand of negative type black-and-white film, but not from color transparencies. Color prints may be made from any brand of color film. Any make of camera may be used. No prints, enlargement or transparency more than 10 inches in the longer dimensions will be accepted. No art work or retouching is permitted on prints or on the negatives from which they are made or on transparencies. No composite pictures, such as multiple printing or montages are eligible. Pictures should not be mounted or framed.

4—To enter the contest, mail no more than four prints each week as you desire, within the contest dates, to this newspaper's "Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor." On the back of each picture, print your name and address clearly in ink.

5—No black-and-white or color prints will be returned. Do not submit negative with your prints. Keep negatives of color or black-and-white prints until requested by the Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. (Only regular negatives and transparencies accepted.) This newspaper and the sponsors of the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards assume no responsibility for negatives, prints or transparencies.

6—At the close of the contest, this newspaper will submit eight pictures (one in each class) chosen by its judges as the best entered in its contest, in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, where they will compete with entries from other participating newspapers for cash prizes totaling a minimum of $10,000.

7—All pictures shall be judged in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards on general interest and/or appeal. Photographic quality, although important, may not necessarily be the deciding factor. The decision of the judges shall be accepted as final.

8—It is not permissible to enter pictures in the contest of more than one newspaper participating in the Twenty-fifth Annual (1963) Newspaper National Snapshot Awards.

9—Before receiving the newspaper's final prizes in one or more of the eight classifications, the entrant must submit the original negative with print and sign a statement that his picture, or any closely similar picture of the same subject or situation, has not been and will not be entered by him in any snapshot contest, exhibit or salon where prizes are awarded, other than the one conducted by this newspaper, and has not been and will not be offered for publication in any manner.

Agave attenuata, a succulent, is a specimen type plant. It is distinctly different from relative, the century plant.

Plants That Yield a Quick Show of Color

By Joe Littlefield

WHEN quick color is needed in the garden, plant zinnias, asters, petunias and annual phlox. Give them a sunny bed and they'll soon be rewarding you with bright floral beauty.

Agave attenuata also is another somewhat rapid grower that is of the specimen type, rising to 10 feet tall and yielding a showy spike of green and white flowers when it blooms. Plant it in a large outdoor container or among cacti-succulents.

Be sure to keep two things in mind when planting for speed. The tall growers are zinnias and African marigolds, next are asters. Petunias and annual phlox are low.

PLANT THE same kinds of plants, such as zinnias, together, then set a group of African marigolds beside them. Plant an irregular mass of asters in front of the zinnias and marigolds. A row of petunias in front of the asters completes the flower bed.

Zinnias in mixed colors provide a Joseph's coat of many bright flowers, the yellow and orange color of African marigolds yields vivid color masses. Asters with subdued tones and colors add a touch of dignity; petunias provide some colors the other plants lack. Altogether, you'll have a section of your garden come alive with color in such plantings.

Your shade garden, too, can be colorful during the summer. Fuchsias provide lots of blooms, if plants are watered deeply but not kept continually wet. During hot days, plants need early morning quick shower baths to lower heat temperatures and provide humidity.

BEGONIAS, impatiens, and showy leafed coleus provide more needed color and flowers during the summer in the shade garden.

While shade gardening, don't forget to shower-bathe camellias and azaleas, too. Feed camellias and azaleas throughout the summer season.

Fast Grower

California redwood trees (Sequoia sempervirens) grow about four feet in height per year in gardens; one redwood grew 50 feet high in eight years.

Dorothy Digs

Many people become discouraged in trying to grow vegetables in their yard for home use because of the constant battle with insects, so here is a suggestion.

Disinfect the soil before or right after planting with a copper-ether material. This will eliminate all insects and fungus spores in the soil and greatly minimize your pest control problem later on. Your plants will get off to a good start and with the proper care will remain vigorous. A fast-growing healthy plant will help you in staving off pests.

To control the insects that will appear in spite of everything, be very careful in your choice of an insecticide. Take time to read the labels and avoid buying anything that will poison or effect the taste of the food. There are vegetable sprays and dusts on the market that control both sucking and chewing insects that are safe to use on food crops. These state frankly on the label that they are non-toxic.

GARDEN CHATS WITH GORDON

CAMELLIAS

Camellias are the aristocrats of the garden. No other flowering shrub gives so much beauty and elegance for so little care. There are many varieties to choose from in each color class of red, pink, white and variegated.

Camellias should be planted on the north or east side of the house in acid soil, so we recommend the use of Gromulch as a planter mix. It is also beneficial to spray the foliage during the hot summer months but do it early in the day.

Now that the blooming season has passed, camellias should be fed with Bandini Camellia Food. Repeat this every six week until September. Their roots are close to the surface so weeds should be pulled. Do not cultivate.

Spray for aphids as they are the only pests that would dare infest the aristocratic camellia.

We at the GARDEN SHOP NURSERY are interested in your gardening and landscape problems. Come in and see us at 5431 E. Spring St. (at Bellflower Blvd.), Long Beach —phone HA 5-1362.

Research finds new fast way to shrink hemorrhoids without surgery

Recent research reveals fast new way to shrink hemorrhoid tissues, stop pain and itching—all without surgery. It's a combination of six modern medications in one complete formula: The Pazo Formula.

NEW, RELIABLE RELIEF. Pazo is the only leading formula with these six active ingredients to shrink and soothe hemorrhoid tissues. Research shows this new combination brings symptomatic relief even to long-time pile sufferers.

CLINICALLY TESTED BY DOCTORS: Pazo actually proves to do more than just shrink hemorrhoids. It also relieves pain and itching promptly, fights infection, promotes healing, and lubricates membranes.

five days—the number of days he was aboard a ship returning to the U.S.

THE ACCOLADE accorded Corrigan was as intense as that recently accorded astronaut Gordon Cooper when he returned from his 22 laps in orbit around the earth.

He was given the traditional ticker-tape parade in New York and then was rushed to Washington where he was officially greeted.

In the meantime, the City of Long Beach appointed a committee headed by the late S. S. Conklin, newspaper executive, the bring Corrigan back to his starting point for a parade, celebration and to dedicate a plaque commemorating his flight at Long Beach Municipal Airport, starting point of his journey to legendland.

Corrigan, in a book published after his flight, said:

"I arrived in Long Beach on Saturday and as this was the first reception on the Pacific Coast it also was the best. The mayor and his daughter met me at the field and after unveiling a large bronze plaque located opposite the spot on the runway where my plane had taken off on the non-stop flight to New York, the parade started."

TODAY, 25 years after the famed wrong way flight, Corrigan is a successful Orange County orange grower.

And, in front of the administration building at Long Beach Municipal Airport stands the plaque dedicated to Douglas Corrigan who left Long Beach on July 8, 1938, and arrived in Ireland on July 18 by flying due west—

He says.

Not to Be Coaxed

Inexperienced gardeners sometimes think that, by sowing seeds of a vegetable earlier or later than the normal time, they'll get an earlier or later crop. While this is true of the vegetables unaffected by the length of the daylight (or length of the night) like tomatoes which will flower and form fruit at any time of year, providing temperatures are suitable, it is not true of others.

Soybeans, for instance, are short day (and long night) plants and will simply grow good plants, but not flower until late summer when days shorten and nights lengthen. If you want to try an experiment, plant some soy bean seeds early in spring, others a month later. You'll find that plants from both sowings will flower and fruit at the same time.

There are also long day (or short night) vegetables which, like spinach and spring lettuce, bloom as soon as the days lengthen, thus ending their usefulness for the table. Spinach blooms as soon as days are 12 hours long or longer. The plants apparently get a signal to flower then. Seed follows flower and the spinach is said to "bolt to seed."

These facts are well known to seedsmen and account for their instructions as to planting time of vegetables.

Why that extra weight may not be fat!

Pre-menstrual "water logging" can add from 2 to 7 pounds to your weight. If every month your weight goes up, you feel puffy and bloated, you are most likely suffering from pre-menstrual water logging. Your body takes on extra water that puts pressure on delicate tissues causing headaches and nervous irritability. That's when the new medical discovery Pamprin helps your body to adjust to your period by gently relieving it of extra water and weight. It also relieves headaches and cramps during your period. Pamprin contains no hormones, narcotics or harmful sedatives. It is a combination of medically proved ingredients that have helped thousands of women get wonderfully effective relief. Get Pamprin at your druggist.

AL HENDLIN

The Summit of Flavor

AL HENDLIN, owner-host of the handsome Coral Room, 4130 Paramount Blvd., Lakewood, has an excellent descriptive word for the prime rib he serves.

He calls it "pampered."

This implies the quintessence of tenderness, the pinnacle of juiceness, the summit of flavor. It also implies that the beef is of choice eastern quality, aged at the proper cool temperature and roasted by a chef with a gentle, kindly nature.

All of those implications are correct, including the fact that chef Earl Beebe is a gentle, kind man who enjoys winning accolades for the way he prepares his prime rib. High praise is also accorded Hendlin for the way he serves that exquisite beef. It is featured Sundays from 3:30 p.m. on (and also Monday nights) for only $2.35, chuck-wagon style. On their first trip to the buffet, the guests load their plates with 10 fresh salads. On their next trip they receive a 10-ounce cut of prime rib, their choice of au gratin or mashed potatoes, or rice, and bread and butter.

THE CORAL ROOM, which has banquet facilities and vast amounts of parking space, also emphasizes such superb specialties of filet mignon, $3.50; fancy disjointed southern fried chicken, $2.50; barbecued spare ribs with pineapple $2.75; and such sea food pleasures as Nantucket Bay scallops and broiled fresh halibut, both $2.50. All include chilled appetizers, huge fine salad, baked potato, bread and beverage.

Hendlin, long established in Long Beach, recently opened a second restaurant, the swank Vallejo Inn in Vallejo, Calif.

Q. Is it true that Marlon Brando has been the single largest and most secret financial contributor to the cause of Negro integration?—Lemoyne Hill, Birmingham, Ala.
A. Brando recently contributed $5,000 to a Martin Luther King rally.

Q. Has Ingemar Johansson quit boxing, or will he fight Sonny Liston in Paris?—H.T., Philadelphia, Pa.
A. Says Ingemar: "My boxing days are over. I am no longer a hungry fighter."

Q. How old are Ginger Rogers and her fifth husband, Bill Marshall? Doesn't she have him by 10 years?—V.H., Columbia, S.C.
A. Ginger is 52, Marshall 46.

Q. I read recently that President Sukarno of Indonesia has been appointed to office for the rest of his life. Can this be? Who appointed him? What kind of democracy is that?—Penelope Ward, Albany, N.Y.
A. Sukarno, 62, President of Indonesia since its independence from the Dutch in 1949, was just given the life appointment by his own hand-picked congress.

Q. What is the relationship between actress Ann-Margret and George Sidney, who directed her in Bye Bye Birdie? — Florence Lewis, Evanston, Ill.
A. Each thinks the other the greatest.

Q. Is Henry Cabot Lodge our next Ambassador to Spain?—Louis Terrell, Boston, Mass.
A. Probably to Italy.

Q. Is Randolph Scott still making films?—Ben Frank, Charlotte, N.C.
A. After 150 films in 32 years, Scott says, "I've just about had it."

Q. Has Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers taught Doris Day how to steal bases?—T.J. Rawlings, Dallas, Tex.
A. A childhood accident in which one of her legs was badly broken prevents Doris Day from learning the art of base-stealing.

Q. Is Grace Kelly expecting her third child as the rumors have it?—Knox Johnson, Scranton, Pa.
A. Not at this writing, she isn't.

Q. What actually is Averell Harriman's position in the Kennedy Administration, and does he really have anything on the ball?—T.R. Underwood, Atlanta, Ga.

A. Harriman, 71, is Undersecretary of State for Political Affairs, possesses the most impressive and experienced background in world affairs of any man in government today.

Q. Who said: "Power? It's like a Dead Sea fruit. When you achieve it, there is nothing there"?—George Annenberg, Baltimore, Md.
A. Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Q. I would like to know how evangelist Billy Graham did in Paris a few weeks ago.—Ken Pritchard, Asheville, N.C.

A. He found the going tough. Either the French working class is antagonistic to soul-salvation or Graham's "message" suffered in translation from English to French.

Q. Princess Dmitri Djordjadze, 59, once married to Douglas Fairbanks and Clark Gable, put up for auction a stunning 17-carat diamond ring. I'd like to know who gave it to her. Fairbanks or Gable? —Diane Fields, New York, N.Y.
A. Reportedly Lord Ashley, her first husband of 37 years ago.

Q. Where and how did they get the name Chevrolet for the motor car?—S. Swanson, St. Paul, Minn.
A. Louis Chevrolet, a famed racing driver in the early years of this century, was hired in Detroit by W. C. Durant in 1909 to design an engine for a car. Durant later decided to call the car Chevrolet because he liked the foreign and musical ring to the name.

Q. Is Brigitte Bardot happy now that she has a new lover in Christian Marquand?—M. Rosen, Far Hills, N.J.

A. Apparently not. "Everybody thinks I have," says Brigitte, "all a girl could want. But look at what I have lost—tranquility, privacy and liberty."

WASHINGTON'S THIRD PRECINCT INCLUDES THE WHITE HOUSE, 29 BANKS, 8 MILLION TOURISTS AS WELL AS THE SOVIET ENVOY.

World's Toughest Police Job

by FRED BLUMENTHAL

Big headache for Washington's Third Precinct, pickets demonstrate at Soviet Embassy. Policeman tells them to stay back 500 feet.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

One hundred forty men of Washington's Third Precinct have America's most difficult police job. Their 200-square-block beat, in the heart of the nation's capital, contains some of the most important real estate—and most important people—in the world today. Other police have a daily diet of law enforcement and crime detection. Washington's Third specializes in one-in-a-million situations—and it tackles one after another.

What other precinct has the President of the U.S. as a resident? Or Blair House, the nation's guest house for foreign kings, queens, sultans, shahs and presidents? Or the Soviet ambassador, a unique police headache if there ever was one? Washington's Third has all this to cope with—and more.

A great many of Washington's top officials live or work in the Third—including ambassadors, judges, senators, congressmen, cabinet members, department heads. In addition, millions of tourists converge on the district each year, bringing such problems as picked pockets, lost children and traffic jams.

The men of the Third must also guard against assassination attempts—against the President or a visiting dignitary—within precinct boundaries.

Only the other day, for instance, President Kennedy left the White House and made three separate public appearances in the Third. He had, of course, his usual bodyguard of Secret Service agents, but it was officers of the Third who provided the outer perimeter of his protection.

The 1950 attempt by two Puerto Rican nationalists to assassinate President Harry Truman—in which two men died—took place in the Third. In the gun battle on the steps of Blair House, where Truman was living while the White House was being renovated, one bullet went right through the uniform coat of Third Precinct Patrolman Marion Preston.

Like any other big city precinct, the Third has its share of ordinary crime. But more often the men under Capt. Raymond Pyles move in a world of high-level diplomacy. They must be diplomats and detectives all at once.

Take the recent experience of patrolmen John Ronayne and James Croson. They halted a good-looking, well-dressed young man for driving without proper lights and took him before Desk Sgt. Ludwig Lewandowski. The conversation went like this:

Sgt. Lewandowski: "Your name, sir?"

Young man, smiling: "Peter."

Sgt. Lewandowski: "Peter what?"

Young man: "Just Peter. I am a king, and kings are known only by their given names."

Sgt. Lewandowski and officers Ronayne and Croson exchanged knowing looks that said, "We've got a nut here." Then the young man, still smiling, produced his credentials. He was a real monarch—ex-King Peter of Yugoslavia—and he apologized for not having turned on his bright lights. He explained that he always drove with parking lights at home in Manhattan.

In another recent incident, a Third squad car sped to the scene of a collision between two autos. One driver was an angry senator, the other a priest.

"No one was hurt and damage was slight," recalls one of the officers. "But both men were plenty hot under the collar. And they told widely conflicting stories. I'm no Solomon, I persuaded them to continue the argument through their insurance companies, helped them move their cars and left them shaking hands."

One of the thorniest problems for the men of the Third are the laws of diplomatic immunity. Under these laws, foreign diplomats and their families cannot be prosecuted for offenses committed in this country; all that can be done is to ask their government to recall them. Several thousand persons with diplomatic status live or work in the Third—and not all are always well-behaved. Yet a mistake in handling any of them could lead to an international incident.

Most diplomatic misdemeanors are the result of the Washington cocktail circuit, and these call for especially careful handling. The usual procedure is to ask the diplomat his address and help him home. If he cannot remember, he is escorted to the station house and his embassy is called to come for him.

Recently, when a Latin-American naval attaché, three sheets to the wind, created a disturbance in a Washington restaurant, he was taken in hand by Patrolman J. I. O'Connell. He couldn't, or wouldn't, give his address. At the station house, he was tough and abusive. "This means war!" he cried.

The desk sergeant, however, had had long experience with tipsy diplomats. He gave the attaché a chance to sober up. Later, there were "amigos" all around.

Then there was the night Patrolman A. L. Kragh, in the Third's paddy wagon, got a call to go to an apartment building where there was a "man down." A "man down" means just that—it can be murder, mugging, suicide, heart attack or drunkenness. You don't know until you get there.

In this case, it was a drunk, but a baffling one. He was incoherent, had legs like rubber and carried no identification except a tax exemption card which suggested he might be a diplomat.

Briefing patrolmen, Capt. Raymond Pyles of Third Precinct assigns the day's duties providing protection for President.

At the station house, the card was traced. The man was a diplomat—from an Iron Curtain embassy. His superiors were called. An officer who was present that night recalls:

"A top-level Communist official came down at once. You should have seen the fire in his eyes. He wasn't sore at us. He grabbed the guy by the coat collar, marched him out to the embassy car and bawled him out all the way. That's one drunk I really felt sorry for. I figured he was heading for the firing squad or Lower Slobbovia."

Foreign embassies are another problem for the Third. Technically, they're foreign soil and may not be entered, even by police, except on invitation. Iron Curtain embassies are particularly reluctant to open their doors to police. They fear they may be admitting spies in disguise.

One Iron Curtain embassy recently put out its own fire rather than call the Washington fire department. And a Soviet military attaché reported the theft of a valuable camera and watch from his home. Third precinct detectives Bob DeMilt and Edward Thomas recovered both and caught the thief. But to the detectives' frustration, the attaché refused to prosecute, and the thief went free.

"Almost everything to do with an embassy is frustrating," says one veteran officer of the Third. "Embassies don't like headlines."

For instance, there was the recent call to an embassy where a passer-by had found a woman outside the building with a broken ankle. A torn bedsheet dangled from an upstairs window.

"The obvious inference," says an officer, "was that the woman had been held prisoner and had tried to escape. The obvious inference was wrong. The woman was a maid at the Embassy and a favorite of the Ambassador. The Ambassador's wife had come home unexpectedly."

Then there was the case of the wife of former Costa Rican ambassador Manuel G. Escalante. She and her sister were savagely attacked by a knife-wielding burglar. The man held his knife to the throat of the Ambassador's wife, and then, when she freed herself, he lunged at the two women and embedded the knife in the wall. He got away with $5,000 in jewelry and $260 in cash. A few months later the man was arrested, and half the jewelry was recovered. But he was never brought to trial because Ambassador and Mrs. Escalante had returned to Costa Rica and could not spare the time to return to testify.

Pickets and demonstrators are a special problem in the Third. One officer keeps constant watch on the Soviet Embassy, calling in every 15 minutes around the clock to report. During last fall's Cuban crisis, Capt. Pyles assigned six men to prevent demonstrations at the embassy.

However, the White House is a picket's paradise. Any well-behaved person is permitted to wave a placard under the President's nose. And it's also permissible to picket the pickets.

"We get at least one picket line somewhere in the precinct every day," Capt. Pyles says. "We get everything from 'Ban the Bomb,' to the American Nazi Party, to 'Clothing for Animals.' No matter what the cause, the law permits peaceful demonstrations. My men protect the rights of the pickets as well as those of the people being picketed."

To handle these and other ticklish assignments, the men of the Third Precinct are carefully chosen. Washington's highly respected Police Chief Robert V. Murray and Capt. Pyles go to great lengths to screen them. Typical is Patrolman John Harrison, 22 years in the Third, who has won more than 100 citizens' commendations. Harrison carries in his mind a complete map of the precinct down to the smallest alley and building entrance or exit.

Big, powerful, gentle, Harrison lives by a code of policing carefully laid down by Capt. Pyles: "We're not bullet policemen. Guns are a last resort. If you must make an arrest, treat the individual as if he or she were a member of your own family."

And perhaps the supreme accolade to these hand-picked men with the ticklish job comes from Chief James J. Rowley of the U.S. Secret Service, no mean slouch of a policeman himself. "I can testify from 20 years' experience," says Chief Rowley, "that Capt. Pyles and the men of the Third are competent and highly professional. They are a credit to the nation's capital and to American law enforcement." ■

Checking in, Capt. Pyles makes required every-15-minute call from Soviet Embassy. Third Precinct keeps 24-hour watch there.

Pickets in front of White House demonstrate peacefully. Third Precinct men oversee picketing, respect rights of the marchers.

Guarding President, Capt. Pyles leads the way as Mr. Kennedy enters Hotel Statler. Third often helps Secret Service.

WHAT FAILURE HAS DONE TO Jean Seberg

IT'S MADE HER BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER

by Lloyd Shearer

JEAN DOROTHY SEBERG is a 24-year-old actress from Marshalltown, Iowa (population 22,500), who is currently courted and sought after by every New Wave movie director in France.

Seven years ago this petite, blonde, gray-eyed daughter of a small-town pharmacist triumphed in a widely trumpeted Hollywood Cinderella talent search.

From among 18,000 contestants, she was chosen by director Otto Preminger to play the title role in the film version of Saint Joan, by George Bernard Shaw.

After a tremendous build-up—par for all Preminger productions—Saint Joan turned out to be a disaster. The critics burned Jean Seberg at the stake.

The immediate reaction in film circles was to attribute the failure of Saint Joan to Jean Seberg and to write her off at 18 as a hopeless amateur. Otto Preminger, however, is a bulldozer of a man. Double chin on the back of his neck, he storms through life throwing his notions as if they were brickbats. "I refused to believe," he says, "that I was so wrong and the critics so right, that this girl was so completely devoid of talent."

To bolster his ego and convince the critics of their error, Preminger cast little Jean in a second film,* Bonjour Tristesse, *this time ably supported by veterans David Niven and Deborah Kerr. In Hollywood, jaded observers, aware that Preminger had just divorced his wife, intimated that the director's true motive was romance, that despite the disparity in age, "the beauty and the beast" had fallen in love.

Preminger and his protégée both denied the rumor, described their affiliation as platonic, then went to work on Bonjour Tristesse in France.

That film also laid a bomb, and again Jean was pungently panned, not as severely as the first time, but enough to discourage the possessor of even the stoutest heart and the stiffest upper lip.

Followed then what she describes as her "testing period."

"I could either face life," she recalls "or run away from it, race back to Marshalltown and try to block out my failure. Of course, I felt terrible. I wanted to run and hide from everyone. My self-confidence had been ravaged. I was a mass of insecurity, but I decided I wasn't going to quit. I was determined to give acting the good old college try.

"That was a bad time for me. Confidential magazine came out with a piece about me and Preminger entitled 'Svengali and the Druggist's Daughter.' It was horrible. My father saw one of the first copies in his own drugstore. He was so disturbed, he ran around the whole town buying up all the copies and then burning them. It was a bad, sad time."

At this point, possibly as an escape or compensatory mechanism, Jean Seberg began going steady with a tall, Harvard-educated French lawyer, François Moreuil, 24, a cousin of famed Hollywood director William Wyler. Young Moreuil had visions of becoming a producer and director in his own right. He talked Jean into getting out of her long-term contract with Preminger (which Columbia Pictures took over) and into starring in his first film, then nebulous. They would become a famous husband-and-wife team, he the producer-director and she the star.

In 1958 they were married in Marshalltown in the same Trinity Lutheran Church where Jean had once taught Sunday school. They settled down in Paris, and almost immediately the marriage began to sour—largely, according to friends, "because François wanted to Pygmalionize a girl who had a great will power, a strong streak of Swedish and Midwestern stubbornness and who frankly needed a much older man for a husband."

Jean and former husband François Moreuil. They were married in 1958, divorced two years later.

Under her Columbia contract Jean played in two films. But of these pictures she says, "They were only a few days' work. I did nothing for them, and they did nothing for me. I had learned discipline from Preminger. Now I learned mime from Étienne Decroux, who taught Marcel Marceau. I took French lessons, acting lessons, voice lessons. I cultivated the society in Paris of directors, writers, actors. I absorbed from everyone. But my marriage wasn't working out, and at 20 I felt I was a has-been both career-wise and marriage-wise."

In 1960 Jean divorced her husband in Iowa on the grounds of cruelty. "My only cruelty," François said at the time, "consisted of giving up my profession as a lawyer to help further my wife's career."

In truth, the turning point in Jean Seberg's life came earlier that same year when she was cast in Breathless, a French New Wave film, shot in four weeks on a shoestring budget of $90,000, co-starring Jean-Paul Belmondo. The actress played the part of a tramp, and won rave notices. From out of the woodwork, French producers then came in bevies to offer Jean Seberg parts in which she played the American girl generating New World naïveté in an environment of Old World corruption.

Early this year, when writer Irwin Shaw and director Bob Parrish were trying to cast their film In the French Style, they were told over and over again that the most celebrated and typically American young girl in Paris was Jean Seberg. They promptly signed her.

A few months ago, when director Robert Rossen was looking about for a young, sensitive actress to star in Lilith, the story of an exquisitely beautiful asylum inmate, he chose Jean Seberg. After working with her a few weeks, he told me:

"This girl is not a polished actress in the sense of technique. She is a fine instinctive actress of depth and power. She is extremely intelligent and takes direction beautifully. She looks like one of those girls who goes house-to-house selling Girl Scout cookies, but she's really a sophisticate, and that she owes to Romain Gary."

Romain Gary, 49, aviator, author-winner of the Prix Goncourt in France, a worldly, charming, erudite former diplomat—he was until a few years ago the French Consul in Los Angeles—is currently Jean Seberg's inseparable companion. Wherever Gary is, Jean Seberg is not far behind and vice-versa. Two years ago I was standing outside the Carleton Hotel in Hong Kong. I ran into Gary. Seberg was 20 yards away. Last month I was on location in Maryland with Seberg. Thirty miles away, in Washington, D.C., Gary was working on a new novel.

These two first met in Los Angeles in 1959. Jean was married at the time. Her husband, a proper Frenchman, called at the consulate and left his card. Three nights later, Gary invited them to dinner. Subsequently, when Jean was divorced and living in Paris, Gary called upon her again, and between them a strong friendship developed. Today it's burgeoned into more than that.

On the face of it, they seem blatantly mismated — a sophisticated European writer who knows the world as well as the mustache on his upper lip, and a young corn-fed actress from Iowa, eager, hungering for knowledge, experience, fame.

How can a man like you," I asked Gary recently, "go around with a young actress half your age? What do you two have in common? Isn't it dynamite for you? Isn't it Pygmalion and Galatea all over again?"

Gary smiled. "You make the same mistake," he said, "as so many others do. You think I am wise and she is naïve. I am knowledgeable and she is not. You are mistaken. This girl is absolutely fantastic. She reads omnivorously, everything—Tolstoy, Pushkin, Flaubert. And she retains what she reads. Education, culture—these are as necessary to her life as air. Do you know she has a degree signed by André Malraux personally? She went to the Louvre every day for 18 months, took a course in Roman and Gothic art. It's known as the 'Cours du Louvre.'

"Failure diverts most young people. Look what it has done to Jean. It has strengthened her, fortified her, made her more determined than ever. This girl has developed the art of interpreting failure in terms of experience and learning from that experience and turning the whole process into success. In the past few years she has become a mature woman.

"Because she comes from Iowa and now lives in Paris, many American reporters say she's an expatriate. Not true. Do you know that every few months, perhaps when things aren't going so well, you know what she does? She gets on a plane and flies back to Marshalltown where she has her roots. People there — maybe they're shocked at the kind of films she's made in France, but she is one of their own, and they are extremely kind to her. She comes back always a glowing gem of a girl, shining and bright and splendid, her roots watered and her personality growing. I do not know if she will ever develop into a great actress, but I tell you, my friend, this is no small wisp of an American girl living it up on the Left Bank. This Jean Seberg is a young woman, wise in the ways of the world, and every day getting wiser."

What does Jean Seberg think of Jean Seberg? What have five years of French living done to her way of life?

"I think first of all," she says, "that I am basically American. There are two reasons why I went to France. First, I married a Frenchman who lived there, and second, because after Saint Joan and Bonjour Tristesse, there was no work for me in Hollywood. No producer would touch me with a 10-foot pole. So I went over not only as a wife but as an actress looking for work. Now I've found it.

What I've picked up these last five years is no new philosophy, just sound knowledge about superficial things, a different way of setting the table, something about wines, something about art. They don't have very good ready-to-wear clothes in Paris so I buy mine at the couturiers.

"I love to act, but at some point I would like to settle down and have some children. It seems to me a very sad life to go on and on, just acting and to end up at age 50 without any children or husband. I think it's a great struggle to combine career and marriage and to do justice to both. It's an almost impossible thing. And some day, I guess, I will have to make the decision. But that problem hasn't arisen yet. So, for the time being, it's work for me, work I enjoy because it was preceded by failure. Now I've conquered that failure and maybe—and I say this hopefully—now at long last, I'm on the way up."

Romain Gary, French author, aviator, diplomat, is constant companion of actress Jean Seberg.

1961 Parade Scenic Highway, Maine's Interstate Route 95, zips across the rolling landscape between Augusta and Fairfield, Me.

PICK YOUR FAVORITE HIGHWAY

A Parade contest that can win you a prize

1962 Parade Scenic Highway, Interstate Route 81, near Scranton, Pa., is built around Keystone State's rugged outcrops of sandstone.

What kinds of roads will you drive this summer? Scenic, imaginative highways, swinging smoothly across attractive landscapes? Or beeline express routes, knifing harshly cross-country without view or vista?

More and more "motorists' highways"—highways that are a joy to look at, as well as drive upon—are being built today. California is considering plans for a whole statewide network of scenic highways. The federal government has discussed such a system nationwide. The American Association of State Highway Officials has put its weight behind "complete highways"—which means roads built with scenic considerations uppermost.

And today, to further encourage construction of roads designed for beauty and efficiency, PARADE announces its third annual Scenic Highway Contest—and invites you to get in on the nationwide drive for more enjoyable highways.

You may already have heard of the Scenic Highway Award. In its two years of existence it has been widely acclaimed.

For the new highway in America which best advances the principles of safe, beautiful highway design, PARADE awards a bronze plaque to the State Highway Commission. The engineer who designed the highway receives a citation in the form of a scroll. Parchment certificates go to other highways considered worthy of special mention.

And the motorist—or club or civic group—who nominates the winning entry receives a $500 savings bond.

In 1961, the first year of the award, Interstate Route 95 between Augusta and Fairfield, Maine, was judged the nation's finest new highway. Last year the award was won by Interstate Route 81, between Scranton and East Benton, Pennsylvania.

HERE'S HOW YOU ENTER

As you drive along this summer, why not look for candidates for the 1963 award? Here are standards for judging the nominations:

1 The new or rebuilt highway must be at least five miles long. It must have been opened to traffic after September 1, 1962, but before September 1, 1963.

2 It must be a highway for general use, not a special highway for sightseers only, such as the Skyline Drive.

3 It must "drive well," with gentle curves, easy grades and wide lanes, although it need not be a superhighway.

4 It must be well planned, with good use of land, minimum destruction of property and neighborhood.

5 It must look good, and be designed to take advantage of natural terrain and scenic beauty.

Officials of five prominent organizations connected with highways aid PARADE in sponsoring the contest and furnish judges. They are the American Automobile Association, the American Planning and Civic Association, the American Society of Landscape Architects, the Automotive Safety Foundation, and Engineering News-Record, the Bible of the construction industry. All have endorsed the principle that highways must be good-looking as well as fast-moving.

So nominate your favorite highway now. List name or route number, location, approximate length. Tell why you consider it worthy of the award. Send photographs if possible. (In case of duplicate nominations, the Board of Judges will decide the winner.) Clubs and civic groups as well as individuals are encouraged to enter. Send entries by August 31, 1963, to Parade Scenic Highway Contest, Box 1640, Grand Central Station, New York 17, New York. ■

Here are new ideas for home and family by PETER DRYDEN

Inflatable hat: Here's a plastic hat (above) that inflates to keep you cool—putting a layer of dead air-space insulation between you and the sun. It's 20 inches in diameter, has vinyl ties to keep it in place, folds up into its own carrying case. Green, blue, red or yellow. $2. M & M, Dept. PP, Box 16, Port Washington, L. I., N. Y.

Cool and fizzy: Handy way to carry cold drinks to beach, picnics, etc., is in a compact styrofoam container that insulates and keeps them cool all day without ice. Especially useful for cola, beer, other carbonated beverages that lose fizz in vacuum bottles. Just slip cans in 6 individual slots, replace cover. $1.49. Polar-Pac, Dept. PP, 129 Bay St., Glens Falls, N. Y.

Safe in the water: A new device can be a lifesaver when you swim, boat, water-ski. Little bigger than a cigarette pack and easily worn on belt or wrist without interfering with motion, it has a gas cartridge that, at the press of a button, balloons out a vinyl float that can support 200 lb. It's reusable; just deflate float, insert new cartridge. $4.95. Davis & McGill, Inc., Dept. PP, Saint Pauls, N. C.

Something new in a travel iron: This one is first to include spray feature of regular spray-steam-dry irons. It weighs 1¾ lb., has thermostatic control, works on 120-volt AC-DC, 230-volt AC, and has adapter plugs for world-wide use. $15.95. General Electric, Dept. PP, 1285 Boston, Bridgeport, Conn.

CANTALOUPE À LA MODE WITH BLUEBERRY SAUCE

- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup water
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 cup cultivated blueberries
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3 small cantaloupes
- 1 quart vanilla ice cream

Combine sugar, water, salt and cornstarch. Cook, stirring frequently, until mixture boils and is thickened. Add blueberries; heat to boiling; simmer 5 minutes. Stir in lemon peel and juice. Let sauce cool slightly. Cut cantaloupes into halves. Scoop out seeds. Spoon vanilla ice cream into cantaloupe halves; top with warm blueberry sauce; serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

ICED TEA BY THE PITCHERFUL

Bring 1 quart water to a boil in open saucepan. Remove from heat; immediately add ⅓ cup loose tea or 15 teabags.

Brew 5 minutes uncovered.

Stir and strain into pitcher holding another quart of cold water.

KITCHEN HINTS FOR PERFECT TEA

Use 50% more tea than for hot tea to allow for melting ice.

Measure tea accurately—1½ teaspoons of tea or 1½ teabags for each six ounces (¾ cup) of water.

Use fresh, cold water; bring to a full, rolling boil. Pour boiling water over tea or teabags.

Brew 3 to 5 minutes.

Strain brewed tea into pitcher; keep it at room temperature until ready to serve.

Don't refrigerate iced tea. Refrigeration may cause clouding.

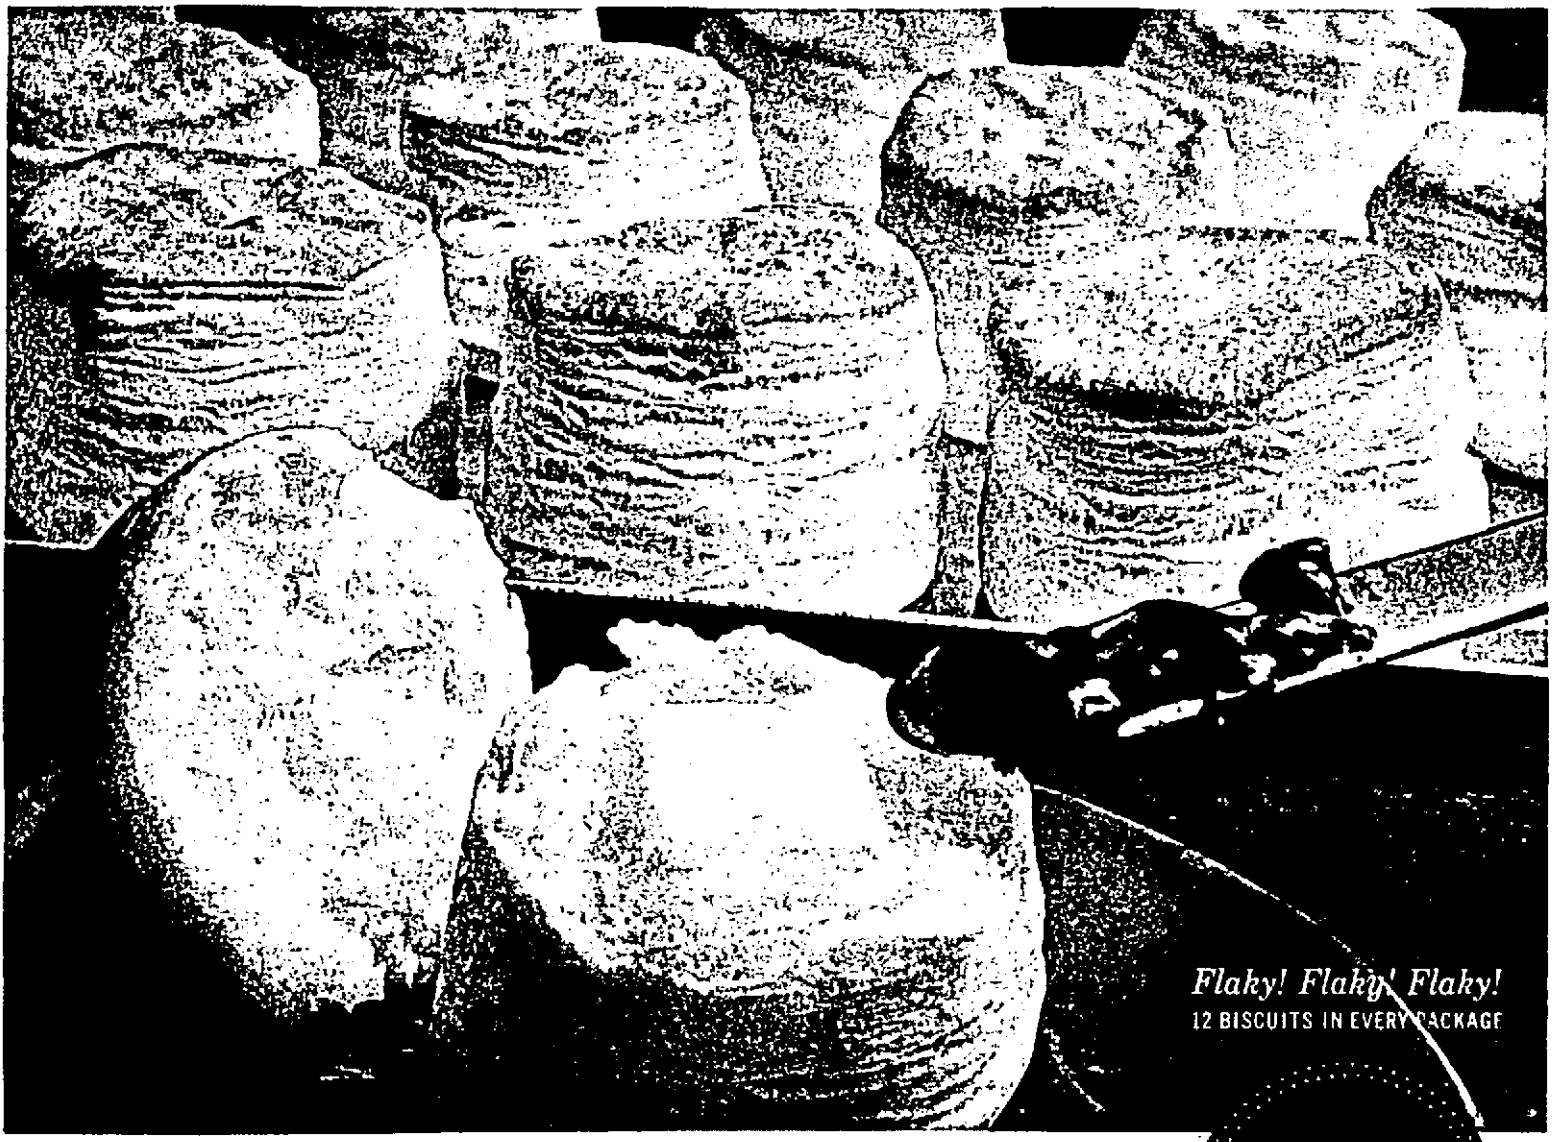

If tea does cloud, add a little boiling water to restore its amber-clear color.

Use the convenient instant soluble teas when you want a glass of iced tea in a hurry. Use cold tap water and follow directions on the jar.

the new revolution in Latin America

A RE-ARMED CHURCH BATTLES THE REDS

by ED KIESTER

"WE HAVE NOT TIME TO WASTE. We have not energy to waste. I know that we shall experience a few losses. But I have a great hope—no, I would say a great certitude—that we will win the battle. We will win the battle."

The man who said this, leaning forward urgently on a frail gilt chair in a Spanish colonial drawing room here, looked like anything but a warrior. Round-faced, jovial, with the appetite of a Maine lumberjack, Archbishop Rómolo Carboni, the apostolic delegate to Peru, gave off the warm, comforting glow of a man of peace.

But in fact Archbishop Carboni is a general in one of the most important battles in the world today. He is a key leader of a revamped Roman Catholic Church in what may be its showdown struggle with Communism.

All up and down Latin America, that battle rages today. In a 6,000-mile swing around this continent, I have seen it being fought out in the ghastly shack colonies of Lima, the parched backlands of Brazil, the banana jungles of Central America, the oxygen-starved altiplano of Bolivia. The stakes are high—200 million people. Desperate, hungry, illiterate, sick, they are easy prey for Communism. Yet 95 per cent call themselves Catholic, and the Church is doing battle for every last Christian soul.

To do so, I found, Latin Catholicism has turned its back on old, traditional ways. In the spirit of the late Pope John XXIII, Archbishop Carboni and a new generation of leaders are taking the Church in directions unheard of in the past. Organizing labor unions, political parties, even peasant revolutionary groups, the Church is building itself into the foremost champion of the poor on this continent. And voices continually cry for new action to beat the Reds on their own ground.

"Agitators! That's what the Church needs—more paid, professional agitators!" Father Renato Poblete, a brilliant Chilean Jesuit reformer, told me one night as we sat in a Santiago garden. "Agitators to infiltrate the student federations! Agitators to work in the labor movement. People who would be paid enough to be free of the necessity of earning a living. We have these people, trained and dedicated. All we need is the means to support them."

Archbishop of Rio, Dom Helder Camara, urges widespread social reform. He asks: "Was it selfishness that we Christians learned from Christ?"

Nuncio to Peru, Archbishop Romolo Carboni asks Americans to help in the struggle. His suggestions are donations, personnel and prayers.

"The Church must simplify itself," says Dom Helder Camara, auxiliary archbishop of Rio de Janeiro, known as the priest of the favela-dwellers. "It cannot deal with the true problems of humanity until it speaks the language of the poor. Great cathedrals and elaborate dress, the pomp of the Vatican, cannot be justified when two-thirds of the world lives in misery and underdevelopment. To speak to the poor, the Church must become poor itself."

To these men, drastic measures are called for because the hour for Latin America—and the Latin Church—is late. "Your people do not realize the state of emergency here," says Father Poblete. Yet all North Americans may be involved in the outcome. For many observers here feel that the Church is the only institution that can stand in the path of a Red takeover.

To most Americans, as to me, it must come as a distinct shock to discover the plight of the Latin-American Church, for they remember from history how the Cross swept over this continent in the days of the conquistadores and established itself as both rich and powerful. Yet, according to Archbishop Carboni, the Church has been in a state of decline for 150 years. Archbishop Carboni estimates that only 15 to 25 per cent of Latins are "good Catholics." Most authorities put the figure lower—at about 5 to 10 per cent.

One study shows that 95 per cent of Latins have been baptized, but fewer than 1 in 3 receive first communion; fewer than 4 in 10 marry in the Church; more than half die without receiving the last rites. Only 1 Latin man in 20 and 1 woman in 10 attend mass regularly.

One chief reason for this slipshod Catholicism, the Church states, is a shortage of clergy. One Peruvian parish in four—according to Archbishop Carboni—has no permanent priest. Officially Latin America has 36,000 priests. To provide minimum services, it needs 200,000 more.

The Church also is plagued by shortages of money (an average collection from seven Sunday masses in Priest among the poor, Father Leo Mahoney of Boston visits Indian children in Lima barriada. He has brought Peruvian slum-dwellers their first parochial school, soup kitchen and clinic.

one Santiago parish is $12), educational facilities (Peru had not one parochial school until a few years ago) and seminarians. It also suffers from a casual Latin approach to religion. American Maryknoll Father Vincent Mallon, secretary to Archbishop Carboni, describes a "good" Latin Catholic as a man who neglects his family, takes a mistress, indulges in sharp business practice—"but always takes part in religious processions, crosses himself when he passes a church. At age 45, he makes his peace with the Church and gets ready to die."

But many Catholic clergy now say that all these problems are subsidiary to the main problem—the poverty and backwardness of this continent. Says Archbishop Camara of Rio: "When we are talking with men who live without a house, without food, without clothes, without the minimum of education, without real work to occupy them, we need a miracle to be heard."

Drastic steps taken

In the face of Latin poverty Church leaders have felt justified in taking drastic steps. Under the guidance of the Pontifical Commission for Latin America, organized by Pope John in Rome, the continent's own regional Council of Bishops and with the aid of the North American Bishops' Committee for Latin America under Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, the Church has forged ahead on many fronts. It has put together stopgap relief measures, broad-scale educational projects, political innovations, social reforms. It has also taken a position of economic leadership and become what Father Poblete calls the "leading apostle of reform on this continent."

You can see the progress of this movement best in Chile. The Church has scored tremendous gains there in the past two years. Using Father Poblete's infiltration tactics, Catholics have captured control of formerly Red-led student federations and more than a third of the labor movement. A Catholic-sponsored Christian Democratic political party, left-of-center, emerged from recent elections as the nation's most powerful political force. Cenapo, a Catholic organization to promote grass-roots social action, has welded the slum-dwelling pobladores into a powerful Christian force.

The Church's real master strokes came last fall. First, the Church gave, absolutely without strings, all its existing lands to those working them. It also set up co-operatives, gave technical advice and furnished tools and capital to the new landowners.

A few weeks later, it dropped a bomb on the Chilean wealthy. A pastoral letter signed by the nation's 24 bishops was read from every pulpit in Chile, decrying the concentration of half the nation's wealth in the hands of 10 per cent of its people. In the spirit of Pope John's social encyclicals, the letter dressed down the rich for banking their wealth abroad and frittering it away on selfish pleasures. It called for land reform, tax reform and other revolutionary measures, and left Chile's rich—the long-time backbone of the Church—severely shaken.

Results have been less spectacular, but still substantial, in other countries. In northeast Brazil, known as Latin America's No. 1 trouble spot, a fiery young priest named Father Antonio Melo has stolen the Reds' thunder by organizing peasant leagues in opposition to theirs.

In Peru, the lead has been taken by American Maryknoll missionaries. Father Dan McLellan, working among Indian peasants around Lake Titicaca, a few years ago started a credit union movement which since has been called by the UN "the most significant self-help program in Latin America." Another Maryknoller, Father Robert Kearns, has organized a "hot lunch" program, which feeds 95,000 Peruvian schoolchildren two meals of U.S. surplus food a day and has increased school attendance 40 per cent.

In all countries, there is a new emphasis on teaching and schools. Peru has a network of "radio schools" in which classes will be taught by transistor radio in isolated communities throughout the country. Brazil has placed particular emphasis on basic education and educating rural community leaders. In several areas the Church is particularly trying to train laymen to alleviate the severe clergy shortage.

Meanwhile, hundreds of North Americans are pouring in here to help in the battle. The Papal Volunteers for Latin America—a kind of Catholic Peace Corps—already has sent 200 teachers, social workers, farm experts. Cardinal Cushing has organized the Society of St. James the Apostle to recruit experienced American priests for posts here. And, in line with Pope John's call for all religious orders to send 10 per cent of their personnel to Latin America, Archbishop Carboni ticked off for me 25 American religious orders represented in Peru.

However, many clergy told me that the onslaught of personnel and the offensive for reform alone will not defeat the Reds. The Church itself must change. Many agree with Archbishop Camara's cry for humility. Others suggest changing the Mass to the Spanish or Portuguese tongues; instituting an order of laymen empowered to teach the faith and perhaps even baptize and marry; even a change in priestly attire to signify the Church's "new look" to the world.

On the other hand, some changes have stirred virulent opposition. Some wealthy Catholics have even stopped donating to the Church. Padre Melo in northeast Brazil, Archbishop Camara, Father Poblete all have been condemned as Communists. Still another faction feels that the reformers are unwittingly doing the Communists' work.

A feeling of hope

Other clergy contend that, with the death of Pope John, the direction of the Latin Church may change. But most observers here say the trend is irreversible. Unless the Church is to be left behind as a historical anachronism, it must swim with the forces of change and try to influence them. No one minimizes the difficulty of the battle ahead. But everywhere among Catholics in Latin America there is a buoyancy, a feeling of action, a certainty that hope exists.

"We are gaining," Archbishop Carboni, in the nunciatura in Lima, told me, "gaining everywhere. I do not say we will not have setbacks. But thanks be to God the Church has tremendous resources. And I hope and pray that with these resources—with these methods, with these programs, with these new forces—the Church will reach its goal.

"This is the most important struggle in the Church's history. But I feel it can be won." ■

EDITOR'S NOTE: The comedy team of Lewis and Dane was formed two years ago as a result of a chance meeting in a New York rehearsal studio. Vince Dane, 28, of Cleveland, a former art teacher, was rehearsing for a part in a night-club act. Don Lewis, 30, of Macon, Georgia, fresh from a part in summer stock, was rehearsing for a New York play. The young men struck up a friendship and decided to form a comedy team. They went to Europe for a one-month break-in engagement and ended up touring for a year. In this country they've been seen in such night clubs as the Town Casino in Buffalo, Blinstrub's in Boston and the Playboy Club in Chicago. Herewith some of their jokes.

Our favorite jokes

by LEWIS AND DANE

One of the men from the photo lab at Cape Canaveral came rushing from the darkroom with the just-developed film of the latest moon probe.

"We finally have it!" he exclaimed. "These photographs will show to the world for the first time what the other side of the moon looks like!"

"Tell me what you see," said his assistant excitedly.

"Well," replied the first man, "there seems to be a great big sign."

"What does it say?" questioned the eager listener. "What does it say?"

"It says," came the answer, "this is your moon —please keep it clean."

A trumpet player was rehearsing late one night when there was a knock on his door. He opened it and found an enraged neighbor who asked: "Do you know there's a little old lady sick upstairs?"

"No," replied the musician, "but if you hum a few bars, I'll fake it."

Did you know that Teddy Roosevelt started "hip" talk? He went to Panama and said, "Dig that canal."

A man traveling through Arizona stopped by an Indian who was selling blankets and inquired: "How much for this red blanket?"

"Fifty dollars," was the answer.

"Fifty!" exclaimed the tourist. "I'll give you ten."

"Oh, no, brother," came the rejoiner. "No more deals like Manhattan!"

Johnny walked into the house with a black eye.

"Who gave you that black eye?" screamed his mother.

"Nobody," he replied. "I had to fight like heck for it."

A young man joined the paratroops and confessed to his instructor just before his first jump that he was badly frightened because he had runs of bad luck every so often. The instructor told him that there was nothing to worry about—all he had to do was fall out the door, the chute would open automatically, he would float down to earth, and there would be a car waiting to give him a ride back to a nice warm shower and a steak dinner.

Inspired and reassured, the young man jumped. After a few thousand feet, he noticed his chute didn't open and commented with disgust, "It'll be just my luck—the car won't be there to meet me, either!"

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

As Winston Churchill shuffled out of the House of Commons recently, two young members of Parliament stood by and watched him.

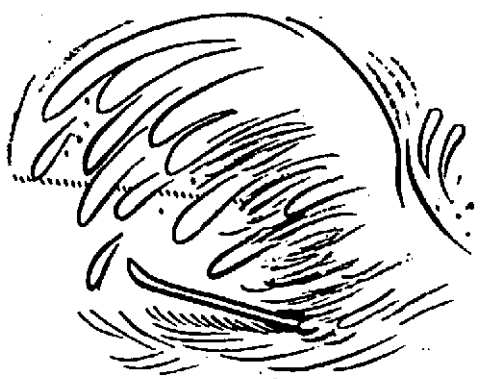

Said one: "They say he's not very steady on his feet."

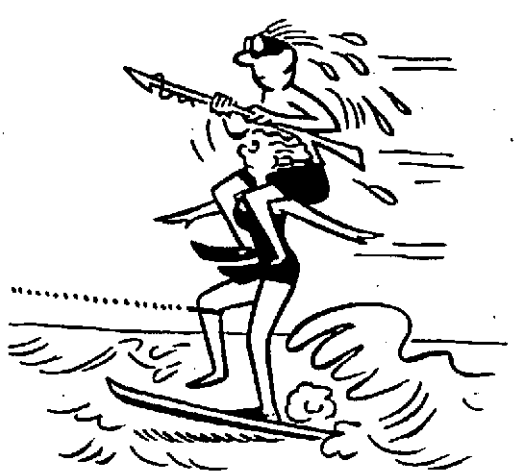

Whispered the other: "They say his eyesight is failing rapidly."

"And they say," growled Sir Winston as he passed, "that he's as deaf as a stone wall, too!"

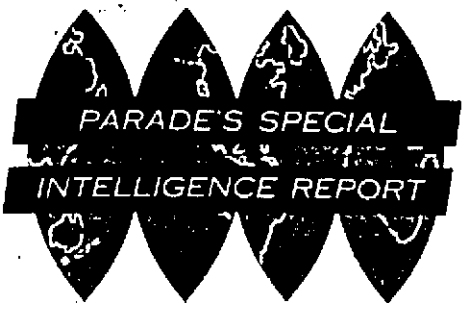

Record Breaker

NEGROES IN CITIES. Washington, D.C., is the only major American city with a Negro population majority: approximately 55%. Among the other 15 largest cities in the nation, New Orleans has a 37% Negro population. Then comes Baltimore with 35%, followed by Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland and St. Louis, each with approximately 30%.

ANGRY WIDOWS. According to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the average American wife is widowed at 59, has a remaining life expectancy of 20 years. Dr. Marion Langer, executive director of the American Orthopsychiatric Association and author of Learning to Live as a Widow, says that most widows blame their husbands for dying and leaving them in predicaments of frustration, inconvenience and loneliness. They become angry but repress their anger and therefore tend to lead lives of almost perennial resentment. "To live as a widow," Dr. Langer maintains, "is to learn to change."

PATCH-UP. If Khrushchev cannot come to an ideological agreement with the Chinese Reds, he will turn to the West with new offers of friendship. So predicts Lord Home, the British Foreign Secretary, who confided his opinion to a secret session of NATO ministers recently held in Ottawa.

SCANDAL IN JAPAN. There is despair in Japan over the future of democracy. Why? Because some of the people are so dishonest. In the recent nationwide local elections for mayors, governors and village assemblymen, more than 30,000 Japanese were arrested in 15,000 cases of election fraud. This is double the number of violations committed in the last similar elections of 1959. A typical case involved the incumbent governor of Tokyo, Ryotaro Azuma, whose supporters used 20,000 counterfeit election seals. Another gubernatorial candidate for metropolitan Tokyo was arrested for assuming the identity of a dead man.

WATER TEST. In the next two years the U.S. Public Health Service will check the drinking water in 3,000 U.S. communities. Purpose: to determine the amount of sodium in the water. There are more than 1,500,000 heart patients in this country who are supposed to consume less than half a gram of salt per day. Sodium deposits build up in their kidneys, preventing normal excretion. The increase in body fluids leads to a strain on the already weakened heart. Once the PHS learns which water systems contain too much sodium, it will advise heart patients in these areas to go on bottled water.

TROUBLE BACHELORS. Should girls marry confirmed bachelors? Only if the girl is mature and capable of giving more than she receives. That's the opinion of Dr. Stella Saslow, a veteran gynecologist of South Orange, N.J. "What the confirmed bachelor really wants," Dr. Saslow explains, "is the emotional support he is used to getting from his mother. When that support is withdrawn because his mother dies or remarries, he looks for it elsewhere. At this point he may get married, and as a husband he's going to be bad. He's been spoilt by his mother....To make a go of that marriage, the wife will have to be a real psychologist, because his relationship with her will probably be a neurotic one."

TITLE-HAPPY. There's a mania in this country for important-sounding executive titles. No one is a janitor any longer. He's an engineer of sanitation. No one is an usher, but rather an audience guide. The penchant for titles has even spread to dog catchers. There are no more of these. Instead there are canine administrators, supervisors of missing dogs, animal controllers and officers in charge of dog law enforcement.

FLUORINE. New York City is the only one of the 12 largest U.S. cities to bar fluoridated water from its municipal water supply. Mayor Robert Wagner believes, however, that his city council will soon vote to add fluorine to New York water and help prevent tooth decay.

COVER-UP FOR BELLY DANCERS. The Egyptian government may have abolished one of the leading tourist attractions in Cairo: the belly dancer. It has just issued a new list of rules for belly dancing, and the first rule says that "all dancers will have their legs and abdomens covered." Cairo guides say that tourists expect to see the type of belly dancers they've heard about, "not covered-up tummies."

POP GOSPEL. Latest musical fad to sweep the country is "pop gospel," a jazzed-up version of traditional Negro spirituals. Several recording companies are preparing P.G. albums.

EXCEPTION. The wives of Soviet statesmen are rarely seen in public and practically never heard. The only exception is Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev, a former schoolteacher who occasionally speaks out on books, children and peace.
